Britain To Evacuate All Oil Men In 3 Days-London

NEW YORK, Oct. 1. (AP)—The United Nations plunges into the bitter British-Iranian oil dispute today, with Britain apparently bowing in advance to Iran's order expelling Britons from the great Abadan refinery area. (Reuters News Agency said the Soviet Union is expected to oppose any discussion of the Anglo-Iranian oil dispute when the Security Council meets. The first item on any provisional agenda is the adoption of the agenda. Reuters quoted well-informed sources as saying the Soviet delegate is expected to make a procedural objection from the start.)

A London announcement said Britain plans to evacuate all her oil men from Abadan by Thursday, the deadline set by the nationalist Iranian government. Abadan dispatches said most of the oil men would leave by warship for Basra, Iraq, Wednesday, and the remaining few officials would go to Basra Thursday.

Iran made it clear that she is insisting upon the explusion in spite of the pending British complaint before the Security Council.

Not Under UN Control

Deputy Premier Hassein Fatemi said in Tehran that the Security Council had no power to recommend that Iran lift the expulsion order. Previously, Hussein Makki, of the Iranian National Oil Board, said if the Britons insisted on staying at the refinery, they would be "escorted off by police with the greatest respect and kindness."

Britain's foreign office indicated it regarded the withdrawal order as a temporary measure, saying the UN appeal was designed to "restore the position at Abadan."

US delegate Ernest A. Gross outlined American policy as "based on the hope that an agreement can be reached between the parties which will do justice to both."

While calm words were being spoken here, Iran's premier, Mohammed Mossadegh, attacked the "rulers of the world," who he said, "handcuff the weak and hasten to the assistance of the strong. They love liberty, but not for others. They recognize property right but only in order to usurp the rights of the weak."

Patriotic Front

Opposition deputies in Tehran, who have been boycotting sessions of Parliament to show their disapproval of Mossadegh's extremist policies, joined forces with him in a patriotic front. They said they acted, not because they had changed their position, but "to show the world Iranian national unity must be preserved whenever there is a dispute be-

EBBET'S FIELD, Brooklyn, Oct. 1 (AP).—Righthanders Ralph Branca (13-10) of Brooklyn and Jim Hearn (16-9) of New York were the opposing mound choices today as Dodgers and Giants squared off in the first game of their best-of-three game post-season playoff for the National League championship.

Hearn's season record against the Dodgers is 2-3. He has lost both his starts at Ebbets Field. In fact, the Giants have won only two of 11 here with Sal Maglie registering both triumphs. The Giants have beaten Branca four out of six, but have whipped him only once at Ebbets Field since 1945.

A near-capacity crowd of over 25,000 watched the bitter interborough rivals clash.

Blame Trenton For Upset Plan

TORONTO, Oct. 1 (CP)—Controller J. L. Shannon said that "the whims of some people" at the RCAF base of Trenton caused the change in the itinerary of Princess Elizabeth and the Duke of Edinburgh which will bring the Royal couple into Toronto by air instead of by train Oct. 13.

Under the original schedule, the Royal couple would have made brief appearances from the rear platform of their train at Port Hope, Cobourg and Oshawa, arriving at Toronto's Union Station at 5:30 pm EST. Under the revised itinerary they will fly from Trenton to Malton airport, 10 miles northwest of the city. Toronto has protested the change.

Con. Shannon said in an interview he had heard that the schedule was changed "because of some function involving the officers' mess at Trenton."

He said he plans to raise the matter at next Tuesday's Board of Control meeting.

Report King Has Another Good Night

LONDON, Oct. 1 (Reuters)—Another good night marked the end of the first week of the King's recovery from his lung operation last Sunday.

A bulletin posted today — the 12th since the operation—said:

"There has been a further improvement in the King's condition during the last 24 hours."

It was signed by the five-man team of doctors which is tending the monarch.

The five doctors, two of whom had again spent the night at the palace, examined the King this morning.

They included Dr. Clement Price-Thomas, the surgeon who carried out the actual operation.

Says China Friendship Guarantees Peace

MOSCOW, Oct. 1 (AP) — Generalissimo Stalin told Chinese leader Mao Tze-tung today that friendship between the Soviet Union and China guaranteees the peace and security of the Far East.

Stalin made the statement in a telegram to Mao on the occasion of the second anniversary of the proclamation of the Chinese People's Republic.

"I ask you, Comrade Chairman," he said, "to accept my friendly congratulations. I send to the great Chinese people, to the government of the Chinese People's Republic and to you personally hearty wishes for further successes in the building of a people's democratic China.

"May the great friendship of the Chinese People's Republic and the Soviet Union strengthen in the future, also as a firm guarantee of peace and security in the Far East."

Tougher Than At Alcatraz Convicted Nazis Discover

BERLIN, Oct. 1 (AP)—Seven former Nazi chieftains serving war-crimes terms in Spandau prison here are more heavily guarded than America's public enemies in Alcatraz.

Their food is plainer than that on "The Rock," toughest United States penitentiary. The guard ratio at Spandau is at least 10 times more than at the island fortress in San Francisco Bay.

This is the fifth anniversary of the day black-robed judges of the Allied War-Crimes Tribunal sentenced the seven to terms ranging from 10 years to life.

There was gaunt, hot-eyed Rudolf Hess, deputy to Hitler; the mincing blond Baldur Von Schirach, Nazi youth leader; aged diplomat Konstantin Von Neurath; stern Admirals Erich Raeder and Karl Doenitz; banker Walter Funk, and the brilliant Albert Speer, Nazi munitions chief.

How have the seven fared since they shuffled through the gates of the big red brick prison?

Informed sources say the men may chat as they work. At night they read books from the 400-volume prison library. The books are censored. They are permitted only one newspaper, a French religious publication translated into German.

The men are permitted visitors. Occasionally they hear a phonograph concert. Radios are banned.

Six attend Sunday chapel, conducted by a French Protestant chaplain. Hess, an atheist, stays in his cell.

Food seems a shade better than in German-run prisons. Those who need special food get it.

None is in actual ill health. The men get along fairly well together.

Hess is something of an enigma. Some believed him metally unsound after his weird antics at his trial. But people who should know say he is only eccentric.

Hess, Raeder and Funk were given life sentences. Von Shirach and Speer got 20 years each, Von Neurath 15 and Doenitz 10.

Boat Sinks; Pair Week Without Food

Finally Build Raft, Float To Safety; No Matches On Island

OWEN SOUND, Oct. 1. (CP) —Two men today told a story of shipwreck on Georgian Bay after their boat caught fire, of swimming a mile to land and living for a week without food or fire on a small island. They escaped by building a raft of logs and floating four miles to the mainland and safety.

The men, Arthur Thompson, 29, of Owen Sound and his brother-in-law, Edward Smith, 30, of Lansing, Ont., set out Saturday Sept. 22.

On a week's hunting trip by boaot to Collin's Inlet on the north shore of Georgian Bay. At noon that day their boat, the 26-foot cabin Bruises Glory, caught fire and burned.

The men swam a mile to Tiny Barrier Island, four miles from the west shore of Cape Croker which juts into Geogian Bay from Bruce Peninsula.

Had No Matches.

They were without matches. Each afternoon bitter cold forced them to huddle until morning in an Indian fish house on the Island.

Hundreds of ducks flew over but the men could only watch them. Their guns were at the bottom of Georgian Bay.

The once bountiful supply of chokecherries growing on the island dwindled. They watched frogs but decided not to eat them raw.

Monday they began to build a raft. They used fishnet and wood from the fish house but on their first attempt, the raft sank.

By Tuesday they had finished a raft six feet long by three feet wide and one deep. But bad weather set in. Gales roared over the tiny island and spray drenched them.

Finally, Saturday, winds blew in the right direction and they set out for Cape Crocker. On 2½ hours of paddling and floating they landed.

They walked three miles through bush before they found Fred Jones of Cape Croker who took them home and gave them their first meal in a week.

During the ordeal, Thompson suffered from burns on his right forearm and wrist, incurred in the boat fire.

The Glory, when it left here, pulled out from the same dock Thomas Fudge, 74, and John Komph, 29, both of Collingwood, sailed off in the Spray, and were not seen again.

7 Flee Flames As Hotel Razed

SUDBURY, Oct. 1 (CP). — Seven employees of the Whitefish Hotel fled to safety early Sunday when fire destroyed the three-storey structure 18 miles west of here. Loss was estimated at $100,000. There were no guests in the hotel at the time.

A large general store owned by Ontario Mines Minister Welland S. Gemmell was threatened by the flames, carried across the CNR line by a south wind, but rain fell before the building ignited. There are no fire-fighting facilities in the area.

Aroused by a fire alarm which had been recently installed, Mr. and Mrs. Tony Falzetta, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Falzetta and their son Frank Jr., 6, slid down a fire escape from the second floor. Three Italian immigrants and an elderly caretaker also fled down the fire escape.

Expect Alexander Welcome Princess

MONTREAL, Oct. 1 (CP). — Princess Elizabeth and the Duke of Edinburgh will be officially welcomed to Canada by the governor-general, Viscount Alexander, and Prime Minister St. Laurent at Montreal airport, Dorval, Oct. 8, it was announced today.

Their plane, will land at noon and immediately following the formal welcome the royal couple will entrain for Quebec City, where the Canadian tour opens Oct. 9.

THREE MEN WERE INJURED and the car they were riding it was demolished late Saturday night when the car was hit by a CPR freight train at the Monaghan Rd.-Romaine St. level crossing. Hunter's nose was cut, needing one stitch to close the wound.—(Parks Studio Photo).

Car Plunges Into Canal, Six Fatalities

CEDARS, Que., Oct. 1 (CP)—Farmer Alcide Marier's family was almost wiped out Sunday when he and four of his six children lost their lives when their car plunged into the Soulanges Canal near here. A neighbor, Antonin Dault, 60, also died in the accident.

The Marier children, who drowned were: Pierrette, 18, Germain, 17, Monique, 12, and Louise, 7.

It was feared at first that Mrs. Marier also was in the ill-fated car, but she stayed home with the other two children.

The victims were all on their way to church when the accident happened. Their car was just leaving a dirt road leading to the canal highway when it was sideswiped by another car. The impact caused Marier to lose control of the vehicle and it careened off the road, squeezed between a bridge and a steel-pipe fence and plunged into 19 feet of water.

Escape Injury

Arthur Sparks, of Galt, Ont., driver of the second auto, and his wife, escaped injury.

Bridge watchman Arthur Chartrand telephoned District Coroner Dr. A. B. Clement who called provincial police. Dr. Clement, a friend of Mariers and who delivered all their children, notified Mrs. Marier of the tragedy.

Mrs. Marier told police her husband and the four children and the neighbor had been on their way to early morning mass when the accident occurred. She had stayed home with two other children, aged 10 and 6.

Four hours after the plunge, when a towing truck dragged the car from the canal, all bodies were huddled together.

Dr. Clement said an inquest will be held today.

The tragedy brought to eight the number of persons who have lost their lives along the treacherous 14-mile canal roadway this year. Other victims were a transport driver and a motorist.

Third World War Threat Labor Party Prime Issue

SCARBOROUGH, Yorkshire, England, Oct. 1. (AP) — Prime Minister Attlee declared today that Britain under his Labor government has been a main bulwark of world peace. Speaking at the Labor party conference here, the prime minister struck out on what appears to be the Labor party's main election issue: the threat of a third world war.

"It is right that in our manifesto we should give first place to peace," he said.

He got his biggest round of applause from the 1,500 delegates when he said that the "people who are clamoring for what they call a strong foreign policy, the people who use that phrase, generally live in the past."

Attlee was directly attacking those Conservatives who have said recently that Britain's handling of its oil crisis in Iran was too weak.

Must Remove Causes

Attlee said that to bring about peace Britain must work to remove the causes of war.

"It is not our fault that the world is divided," he said. "We don't wish to see any great gulf between the East and West. We stand ready at any time to meet and deal with the people on the other side of the Iron Curtain."

On the home front, the prime minister declared, the socialists would push forward to restrict dividends and to put industry under public ownership whenever the party believes it is necessary.

Attlee was presenting his party's manifesto — Labour's answer to the Conservative manifesto issued last week by Winston Churchill. The Conservatives asked an end to socialist rule of England.

The four-point Labor manifesto put the main emphasis on peace.

The other three points are full employment and increased production, a cut in the cost of living, and a continued policy of soak-the-rich and reward the worker.

Program Approved

The 1,800-word platform was put together and unanimously approved by party leaders including Aneurin Bevan, the former Health Minister who split with Attlee last April.

Bevan bolted the cabinet in protest against the Labor government's £4,700,000,000 three-year defence program. He said it was too big and would cut into the welfare state.

The threat of victory by the Conservatives—now a 3-2 favorite —has healed the Bevan-Attlee feud at least for the campaign.

Referring to the split with Attlee, Bevan said:

"The argument which we were going to have has been replaced by a bigger argument and it must wait until the bigger argument is over.

"When I heard that Mr. Attlee had decided to have the election, I made up my mind to devote all my energy to destroying the Tory challenge."

Bevan added this comment on world peace:

"We must make it clear that if peace is to be preserved and the downtrodden peoples of the world helped, Labor's voice must be heard in the councils of the world."

US Navy Chief Sees No Possible Danger Of Russian Armies Being Able To Invade US

WASHINGTON, Oct. 1—(AP) —The chief of the United States Navy said today there is "no possibility whatsoever" of Russian armies invading the US, as long as America retains control of the seas.

On the other hand, Admiral W. M. Fechteler, chief of naval operations, said he believes Allied forces could invade and occupy strategic and important areas of Russia in the event of war.

Fechteler also said, in a copyrighted article in US News and World Report:

1. If war breaks out within the next 20 to 30 years, the US and its allies would win it.

2. Russia cannot seriously "jeopardize the existence of the US by air raids.

3. Russia's estimated 300 modern submarines are the greatest menace, but the US navy has made marked progress in anti-submarine warfare, and the balance is turning in favor of anti-submarine forces.

4. The navy plans to use atom bombs to destroy enemy submarine bases.

5. "In a number of years" the navy will have atomic-powered carriers, carrier-based atomic artillery, submarines, and atomic torpedoes, but the problem now is to prevent war with the equipment on hand.

6. The navy has anticipated use of Russian submarines in the Korean war and has an adequate anti-submarine force in the area.

Boat Upsets Two Drowned

NORTH BAY, Oct. 1 —(CP)— Two Welland men were drowned and a third swam to safety Sunday when their boat upset on Lape Nipissing near Meadowside.

Missing and presumed dead are Norman Lemon, 29-year-old father of two children, and Steve Bosky, 24.

Harry Horton, 34, battled the choppy waters for two hours and reached shore at Meadowside.

For a time, all three clung to the overturned craft. Then Horton, holding on to an empty gasoline can, struck out for shore a mile away.

Provincial police are dragging for the bodies of the other men.

Has Optimistic Report On Big Air Manoeuvre

FONTAINBLEAU, France, Oct. 1 (AP)—The biggest and most ambitious air manoeuvres ever carried out by member nations of the Atlantic Pact have just concluded on a note of qualified optimism from its director, Lt.-Gen. Lauris Norstad.

Gen. Norstad told reporters today that the three - day maneouvres which ended Sunday gave him "every confidence that at any given time, within the limits of the facilities available to us, this force can and will operate at a maximum efficiency, if necessary."

But the US air commander refused to commit himself on how well or effectively the eight-country air force which participated could stand up to the forces of Soviet Russia and her satellites.

One newspaperman recalled that Air Secretary Arthur Henderson of Britain said Saturday that Russia and her friends could launch a tactical air force from East Europe of 8,000 planes.

Two Employees Slugged When Thieves Interrupted During Holdup

Second Time In Two Years Mine Visited By Armed Thugs; Take Sheets of Gold-Impregnated Canvas

TIMMINS, Oct. 1. (CP) — Four hooded bandits today carted 300 pounds of gold precipitate, valued at between $35,000 and $40,000, from the Delnite Gold Mines. In their escape, they dropped two 90-pound bags of the material, valued at $18,000. One hour after the robbery, a road block thrown up around the area failed to uncover any trace of the men, police said. The bandits wore sugar bags, with slits to see through, over their heads.

They sprung a lock on a gate on the north side of the mine, entered the mill and bound the ball mill operator. Another mill worker was slugged when he interrupted the robbery.

The thieves opened a precipitation press on the main floor of the mill and pushed sheets of gold-impregnated canvas into potato sacks. They left by the same gate they entered. The robbery took 20 minutes.

On June 2, 1950, thieves stole a safe containing gold bars valued at $75,000 from the same mine.

The precipitates stolen today are gold in a concentrated form. The material has to be smeltered to get rid of impurities. The result of the smelting is impure bullion which is then shipped to the Ottawa mint for refining.

In their haste to lug the bags to their cars, the thieves dropped two. Each weighed 90 pounds.

These were discovered by police who arrived on the scene shortly after 2.30 a.m.

Millworker Les Armer, 50, sent out the alarm after he untied himself from bounds the bandit had put on him. Armer said that as he entered the room he saw his partner, Sydney Simmens, 26, lying bound and gagged on the floor, surrounded by three men wearing sugar bags over their heads with eye holes torn to see through.

"I thought it was all a joke until I saw one of the men with a gun in his hand," Armer said. "I was pushed through a door from behind and then hit on the head with a wrench."

Following the slugging, he was bound hand and foot, he told police. After they left, he worked one hand free and untied himself.

Jack Beattie, mine manager, said he thought the robbery was the work of men who knew the milling operation at Delnite.

"Some of them would have to know exactly what to do to open the press and get at the precipitates," he said.

Continue Search

TORONTO, Oct. 1 (CP).—The search for Bill Barilko, Maple Leaf hockey player, and Dr. Henry Hudson, Timmins dentist, will continue until they are found or proof of their fate is established, Lands Minister Scott said today. Lands department pilots are still searching the shores of James Bay in the area where Dr. Hudson's light plane disappeared in late August when the pair was returning from a fishing trip.

Crack Canadian Winter Troops Reach Korea

WITH THE COMMONWEALTH DIVISION IN KOREA, Oct. 1— (Reuters) — A Canadian crack winter-warfare battalion is on its way to join the Commonwealth Division in Korea.

It is the First Battalion Princess Patricia's Canadian Light Infantry, which took part in exercise Sweetbriar—the biggest joint Canada-United States winter manoeuvres held under battle conditions in the Yukon region of Alaska.

Every soldier in the battalion is a paratrooper trained to live and fight in the worst Arctic weather.

Most of the men trained at Fort Churchill, Man., and in the region of White Horse, Yukon Territory.

The first battalion will relieve the 2nd battalion of the Patricias which fought through most of the Korean campaign. It will return to Canada where many of its men will take paratroop training.

Lt.-Col. N. T. Wilson-Smith, of Winnipeg, Man., commands the 1st battalion.

In Ottawa, an Army spokesman said the new Canadian arrivals in Korea likely were only two companies of the Princess Patricia's First Battalion and not the whole battalion. The companies had left the coast two weeks ago. Others were to leave later so that the whole battalion eventually would replace the 2nd battalion.

Shaft Collapses 6 Men Trapped

WEETSLADE, Northumberland, England, Oct. 1 (AP)—Six coal miners were trapped 750 feet underground today by the collapse of a shaft wall at the Weetslade coal mine. One was brought out by rescue workers four hours later suffering from the effects of coal gas.

Late in the day the body of one of the missing men was brought to the surface.

Mine officials said 100 men were in the mine when the accident occurred. Those trapped were working 1¼ miles from the main shaft.

Begin Making List Of Bases US Wants To Keep In Japan

WASHINGTON, Oct. 1 (AP)— United States State and Defence Department officials shortly — perhaps this week — will begin working out the last of land, sea and air bases which the US will want to retain in Japan.

Officials said the job is complicated by the fact that so long as the Korean war continues the US will require more facilities than it will need if and when peace is restored to that area of the Far East.

The Japanese islands constiute a key position in the US Western Pacific island defence system against Asian Communist forces.

Immediately after the Japanese peace treaty was signed Sept. 8, the US signed with Japan a treaty authorizing American forces to remain in the Japanese islands following the occupation period. The occupation ends when the treaty takes effect, probably early next year.

Before that time, however, State Department officials feel that an agreement spelling out in detail base arrangements and the whole relationship between the American military and the Japanese government must be completed and agreed to by both sides.

At least two strong reasons are advanced for this timing. One is that this country is now in a better bargaining position with Japan than it will be after the peace treaty becomes effective; the other is that when the peace and security treaties go to the Senate for approval next January Senators will want assurance that adequate base provisions have been made.

While the US is under no compulsion to cut down its forces in Japan, the expectation of officials is that without the Korean war the facilities now required there could be somewhat reduced.

One informant said: "We don't want to ask for rights indefinitely which we really need only for the period during which we are running the Korean war from Tokyo."

Speculation is that at a minimum all three American armed services will want to retain indefinitely the main bases which they are using during the occupation.

US Army Prepared To Strike Hard If Talks Failure

EIGHTH ARMY HEADQUARTERS, Korea, Oct. 1. (AP)—The United States Eighth Army is "prepared to strike, and strike hard" in Korea if the Communists want all-out war instead of truce talks. That warning was issued tonight in Tokyo by Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway's public information office. It came as Gen. Omar N. Bradley, top US military leader, and Ridgway toured command posts on the eastern front where the United Nations' autumn offensive got underway last Tuesday.

On the other side of the war-torn peninsula, sunny skies brought the air war back to Korea. Twenty-seven F-86 Sabre jets clashed with about 40 red-nosed Communist MIG-15s in a series of dogfights that swirled for 25 minutes north of Sinanju.

The US Fifth Air Force said one of the Russian-made MIGs was destroyed and three were damaged. No Allied losses were reported.

Of truce negotiations, the Ridgway headquarters statement said "the whole issue of the resumption of talks is one that cannot be hedged much longer."

Won't Sit Idle

"Meanwhile, indications are that the Eighth Army is not planning to sit idly by while the Communists string out negotiations for another long period. A few days ago an autumn offensive was started. The Eighth Army commander, Gen. James A. Van Fleet, said 'whether this new effort will be limited; I am not at liberty to say.' But the fact remains that the UN command army is poised and prepared to strike and strike hard."

There was little action on the eastern front when Bradley visited that area.

Fighting was slowed by overnight rains and wind that tore down tents, flooded foxholes and chilled infantrymen.

Around "heartbreak ridge," fighting continued for two hill positions. There was no new report of heavy action on heartbreak itself.

On the west, the war quieted after an allied victory Sunday gave UN troops three hills west of Chorwon.

Southeast of Kumsong, where the allies saved an important ridge from a three-day Chinese counter-attack, there was an uneasy lull as probing patrols maintained contact.

tween our country and a foreign country."

Mossadegh did not mention flying to New York to argue Iran's case, but his deputy said he would if the council declares it has the power to judge the case.

Iran has contended the council has no jurisdiction to act in what the Iranians call an internal issue. They may get the Russians to back them up in this view, but the Soviet Union has no veto on such purely procedural matters. The main problem, for Britain, is getting seven affirmative votes from the 11 council members to put the question on the agenda.

British Case

Once the question is on the agenda, resolutions on the subject may be vetoed by any of the council's big five.

Sir Gladwyn Jebb, British chief delegate, flew from London Sunday night to ask the council to back a ruling by the international court of justice in the oil case, and to call on Iran to hold up the order expelling technicians from the Abadan oil base.

Several delegates said they did not have instructions for today's meeting, that they have not had an opportunity to study the case, and that they cannot be expected to deal with it quickly in the few hours left.

The international court recommended that the AIOC, valued at $1,400,000,000 and owned by British financiers, should continue operations until the dispute can be settled. Iran had nationalized the company's properties in that country.

Britain agreed but Iran rejected the recommendation, contending the court had no right to interfere in what the Iranians argue is an internal affair.

Reject Bylaw Schools Close

SALMON ARM, BC, Oct. 1—In a situation unparalleled in British Columbia history, ratepayers here voted 430 to 241 on Saturday against a bylaw which would provide money to keep municipal schools open.

As a result, there will be no classes for 400 students when the municipal elementary and high schools close Tuesday.

School District No. 20 of British Columbia comprises three areas, the City of Salmon Arm itself, the municipal area around it, and the rural area beyond that. Each area supplies the funds to operate its own schools. A central school board speaks for all three.

The bylaw would have authorized a tax levy of 11 mills to supply the $16,000 needed to keep the schools open.

Several months ago Salmon Arm School Board said its funds were exhausted, and that it needed $80,000, or rural, municipal and city schools would have to close by Sept. 30.

The provincial government offered to provide money to keep 500 rural students at school, and city council agreed to supply the funds to keep city schools open. But municipal council said it did not have the funds, and asked ratepayers to approve a special levy of 11 mills. Ratepayers turned down the proposal Saturday.

Say Body Solves 3-Year Mystery

TORONTO, Oct. 1 —(CP) — The Telegram says today in a newspaper story that the mysterious disappearance three years ago in Nova Scotia of an elderly Ontario-born couple has all but been solved by the finding of the decomposed body of a woman.

The story says that after nearly three years of investigation, the identification of a body found in the Stewiacke river near Halifax a few weeks ago is that of Mrs. William Brown, RCMP are convinced that Mr. and Mrs. Brown, former residents of the Toronto area, were victims of a suicide pact. Mr. Brown is still missing.

The couple, both in their early 70's, were born in Auburn and after residing in the Toronto area for some years, moved to Nova Scotia where Mr. Brown was employed as a salesman throughout the Maritimes.

On Dec. 18, 1948, the Browns' automobile was found near a bridge on the outskirts of Stewiacke. Three weeks later the RCMP was called in.

A son, William C. Brown of Toronto, long discounted the suicide theory, even though he received a parcel contining a watch presented to his father years before. He was to have had the watch in the event of his father's death. There was no explanation note in the parcel

The women's body was found 11 miles from the deserted car.

See No Increase In Cigar Price

MONTREAL, Oct. 1 (CP). — No immediate increase in the price of cigars and packaged tobacco is anticipated, spokesmen for three large manufacturers here said today.

Officials of Imperial Tobacco Company of Canada Ltd., MacDonald Tobacco Co. Inc., and Benson and Hedges (Canada) Ltd. said there will be no hike in cigar and packaged tobacco "for the moment." Imperial announced increased cigarette prices last week.

Cigarette shipments made today with the Imperial label will carry the new price tag. The spokesman said that many retailers still have stocks on hand which should be sold at the old prices.

MacDonald Tobacco and Benson and Hedges say their brands of cigarettes remain unchanged in price, but both admit they are "closely studying" the situation and expect to raise their products to the same level as the Imperial Company. This would mean all major brands will be increased from 40 to 42 cents for a package of 20.

Shell Oil Moves Tanks Out Of Peterborough

After October 15, the Shell Oil Co. of Canada, Ltd., will be using tank trucks to haul gasoline from the marine terminal at Cobourg to Peterborough, it was learned today.

For the last five years, the company has stored fuel in its 45,000 gallon storage tanks at Armour Road for distribution in this area. The change is in keeping with the policy of most major oil companies of closing smaller storage depots in favor of using tank trucks to transport fuel from larger storage centres.

Officials of the company emphasize that the change will not affect the service the company has been providing in Peterborough and district.

Gold Eases On Market After Rapid Climb

TORONTO, Oct. 1 (CP).—Gold eased today in early afternoon Stock Market dealings after a rapid climb. Reports Friday that the international monetary fund would remove restrictions on free sale produced an early flurry of buying.

All senior producers showed gains ranging from five cents to $1.50. McIntyre-Porcupine, Giant Yellowknife, Kerr Addisson and Sigma posted the best advances. Juniors recorded a wide list of gains from pennies to about 20 cents. Prospects benefitted noticeably by the enthusiasm and some holding companies picked up small gains.

Trading was active as heavy selective buying of base metals, western oils and golds formed a large part of the turnover. Industrials changed hands slowly. Volume for the first three hours was 2,819,000 shares.

Steels formed the strongest industrial section with four fractional gains to one decline. Papers and refining oils held firm, while utilities, foods, liquors, retail stores and miscellaneous industrials were mixed. Agricultures, constructions and manufacturing companies were unchanged, but banks dipped slightly.

Western oils climbed steadily. Calgary and Edmonton, Devon-Leduc, National Petroleum, Superior and Jupiter showed substantial increases. Pacific Petroleum and Charter Oil eased.

Base metals edged upward. Consolidated Smelters added $1.75, while International Nickel, Noranda, Quemont and Waite Amulet climbed fractions. Labrador and Pend Oreille weakened.

Stewart Place Torn Up 2 Mos., Being Paved

The spirit of impatience and protest of residents of Stewart Place is relaxing these days in mollification with the spreading of some kind of asphaltic material on their short stretch of road.

Apparently it is a penultimate step in the paving job on their street, which extends from Perry St. south around the east side of Park St. Baptist Church to Park St.

While property owners on some other streets have been objecting to paving along their frontages, mainly in opposition to the local improvement plan of financing, Stewart Place residents asked for it, as reported at the city hall.

At any rate they made no objection to inclusion in this season's paving program, but what did roil them was the long two months' delay between the first stage of breaking up the street surface and the present sign of getting on with the making of the new top and its base.

Occasional telephonic blasts were directed at Mayor Swanston in the idle interim presumably resulting in priority of action now that the work appears to be on the move again.

No runs, no hits, no errors, none left.

First Inning, Dodgers

Furillo went out on a high chopper to the mound.

Reese rammed a 2-0 pitch through the hole between third and short for a single, the first hit of the game.

Snider flied deep to Mays.

Reese was cut down on an attempted steal when Westrum made a perfect peg to Ed Stanky who made the tag.

No runs, one hit, no errors, none left.

Second Inning Giants.

Furillo camped under Irvin's towering fly in medium right. Reese scampered into short centre to get under Lockman's high pop.

Thomson raised a high foul to Cox.

No runs, no hits, no errors, none left

Second Inning—Dodgers

Robinson fouled off four consecutive pitches, then raised a routine fly to straight centre. Campanella chopped a slow grounder down the third base line and Bobby Thomson threw him out. Pafko hit a one-and-one high fast ball into the lower left-field stands for a homer to put Dodgers ahead 1-0. It was Pafko's 29th homer of the season, and it was the 21st hit by Dodgers off Giant pitching at Ebbets Field this season. Hodges popped to Thomson. One run, one hit, no errors, none left.

Third Inning—Giants

May walked on five pitches to become the first Giant base runner. Westrum popped to Hodges just inside the baseline between first and home. Hearn fouled off two attempted sacrifice bunts, then was charged with a strike-out when he bunted foul on his third sacrifice attempt. It was the first strikeout of the game. Stanky lined a single to left for the first Giant hit which sent Mays to second. Clem Labine, a righthander, got up to throw in the Dodge bullpen but sat down immediately when Campanella caught Dark's high foul behind home plate.

No runs, one hit, no errors, two left.

Third Inning—Dodgers

Cox flied to Irvin. Branca bounded out. Thomson gloved Furillo's scorching drive down the third base line. No runs, no hits, no errors, none left.

Fourth Inning—Giants

Snider raced to right-centre and made a nice running catch of Mueller's long smash. Irvin was hit on the left elbow by a pitched ball. Time was taken out while Giants trainer Doc Bowman examined the arm. Lockman sent Snider back for his long fly in straightaway centre. Thomson walloped a tremendous homer deep into lower leftfield stands scoring Irvin ahead of him to put the Giants in front 2-1. It was Thomson's 31st homer and his fourth at Ebbets Field. The hit extended his streak through 13 consecutive hitting games. Mays popped to Reese.

Two runs, one hit, no errors, none left.

Fourth Inning, Dodgers

Reese grounded to Dark who threw him out.

Snider smashed a single off Stanky's glove into right field.

Robinson got a single on a torrid hit and run shot through Lockman's legs into right field. Snider raced to third on the hit.

Campanella grounded into a double play, Dark to Stanky to Lockman.

No runs, two hits, no errors, one left.

Fifth Inning—Giants

Westrum went down swinging for his 95th strikeout. Hearn singled sharply. Dark raised a high fly to Pafko.

Fifth Inning—Dodgers

Pafko was safe at first when Dark fumbled his grounder for an eror. Righthander George Spencer started warming up in Giants' bullpen. Hodges went down swinging and Pafko was doubled up at second on a perfect throw from Westrum to Stanky who made the tag. It was Hearn's first strikeout. Cox, apparently fooled by a curve, reached out and slaped a single over Dark's head into centre. Branca looked at a third strike.

Young Farmhand Surrenders After Slaying

HARRISON'S CORNERS, Ont., Oct. 1—(CP)—Elias Meek, 22-year-old farmhand wanted for questioning in the slaying of Mrs. Alan Alguire, 29, surendered to police early Saturday.

Mrs. Alguire, mother of four children, was found stabbed to death Friday near an outhouse on the Alguire farm, 10 miles north of Cornwall.

An autopsy by Dr. William May, Kingston pathologist, showed that death was caused by several abdominal stab wounds. There was no evidence that the woman had been raped. A bruise, believed made by a blunt weapon, was found on the back of her head.

Found At Father's

Meek surrendered at his father's home, one mile west of the Alguire farm. The denim-clad youth was unarmed at the time, police said. He was taken to jail at Cornwall.

A shotgun and several rounds of ammunition were reported missing from the Alguire farm on Friday.

No-Corpse Murder Reopens On Appeal

WELLINGTON, Oct. 1 (Reuters).—New Zealand's famous no-corpse murder case—which ended with a murder conviction six weeks ago—reopened today on appeal.

George Cecil Horry, 44, opened his appeal against a life sentence ordered Aug. 15 for the nine-year-old murder of his bride. Her body was never found.

When sentenced, Horry murmured: "All I can say is what I stated at the beginning of the case, that is I am not guilty. Eileen went to America and to the best of my knowledge she is still there."

Horry's grounds of appeal centre on the contention that no body or part of a body had been found.

Peterborough A Rich Market

As our news columns noted last month, Peterborough residents are earning and spending more money than the average person in Canada. This information came from New York, and of course what New York knows about Peterborough cannot be controverted. It gives special point to the current Shop in Peterborough campaign.

* * *

According to the New York record compiled from a Sales Management survey of incomes and business in 1950, Peterborough's 10,400 families had net earnings of $40,295,000—a gain of $4,179,000,000 on the 1949 net income. By a process of arithmetical division, the 1950 net family income works out to an average of $3,875. This was considerably more than the average family income in the whole of Canada—$3,492. Therefore, Peterborough is a rich market to cultivate.

* * *

Many Peterborough families will be amazed to know that on the average their income was $3,875 last year. That is far higher than the average wage. It points to this remarkable fact, which is changing the face and pace of Canadian society: there are more fully-employed workers than there are families.

* * *

The day has gone when there were jobs for only the man of the house. Now there are jobs for almost anybody in the house big enough and old enough to work, wives, sons and daughters. In some Peterborough families there are as many as four wage-earners, bringing, in some instances, the total family income up to eight or ten thousand dollars. Since they are all living in one house and sharing a family table, there is inevitably quite a bit of free money around. And Peterborough people are spending their money.

* * *

Last year—again we quote the New York survey—Peterborough folk spent $3,420 a family. This is nearly a thousand dollars more than the spending of the average family across the country. The Canadian family average of spending last year was $2,495. The average in Ontario was $2,695. So Peterborough families are both bigger earners and bigger spenders than the average.

* * *

We have done a bit of arithmetical subtraction and find, however, that Peterborough families are not the biggest savers. In fact they are far below the average Canadian family in both the amount they save and the percentage of their income they save. Peterborough families saved an average of $455 last year; but the average Canadian family, earning less but spending less saved $997. So Peterborough families are spendthrifts!

* * *

But we do not believe all the statistics we read. When turned into coins, the statistical figures do not ring true.

The Split In The C.C.L.

The Canadian Congress of Labour blew up at its convention in Vancouver ten days ago. The meetings ended with three prominent members of its executive, Secretary-Treasurer Pat Conroy, C. H. Millard, head of the United Steelworkers, and Alex McCauslane, head of the Oil Workers' International Union, off the executive and on the sidelines.

The split results from a struggle for power and policies that has been going on behind the scenes for months. The knock which opened the fissure was a dispute over executive backing of Sam Baron, who was dropped as Canadian director of the Textile Workers' Union as a result of a fight on the executive of that union in the United States. Mr. Millard held that the C.C.L. should not take sides by supporting Mr. Baron. He failed to win his point and resigned as vice-president of the C.C.L. But he succeeded in getting two of his Steel Workers elected to the executive, one in Baron's place. Mr. Conroy resigned in a huff, and Mr. McCauslane resigned his seat as vice-president in sympathy with Conroy.

The dispute is a struggle for power between the Conroy faction and the Millard faction. The controversial position of Baron is only an issue of it. The Financial Post's industrial relations editor, who reported the convention, says that if the Conroy group wins, the C.C.L. will go along its present ways as a loose congress of international (C.I.O.), national and independent unions, with the balance of power being held by the two latter. If the Millard group wins, the whole organizational structure would be re-built on the pattern of the C.I.O. The post of Conroy—until his resignation the chief executive officer—would be reduced from policy-making to purely administrative work and the C.C.L. would be taken out of the organizational field entirely, leaving this to the unions.

Actually, the Millard union (Steelworkers), is already the largest in the C.C.L. and has been looking around for room to expand. Further, Mr. Millard, a C.C.F. member of the Ontario Legislature, has different views from Mr. Conroy on the political action policy of the C.C.L. and how it should be put into effect. The Millard position has gained strength for the moment, and the C.C.F. was again endorsed as the C.C.L. political arm. The Ontario C.C.F. will now have the active financial and organizational backing of three major C.I.O. unions: Steel; United Automobile Workers and Packinghouse.

The Millard policies and his dramatic resignation may have strengthened his own position, but they have weakened and confused the whole organization.

Missouri Lawyers Reject Special Oath

The St. Louis Post-Dispatch notes rather bitingly that when some group in the United States votes against special loyalty oath for its members nowadays, it is in the same category as when a man bites a dog—it's news. And that pleasing news was reported from the State of Missouri the other day.

A number of leaders of the American Bar Association have been agitating for wholesale application of a special loyalty oath for lawyers. They argue that practitioners of legal procedure should be above suspicion of disloyalty, and that the special oath would provide this assurance. Their demand has caused strife within the association, and those who oppose them contend that the extra oath is meaningless and needless.

The Board of Governors of the Missouri Bar decided to go on record as defying the leaders of the American Bar Association. They adopted the following resolution under the heading of Bill of Rights:

> Resolved, that since the lawyers of Missouri have taken an oath to support the Constitution in the United States of America and the State of Missouri, this board feels it unnecessary for Missouri lawyers to take an additional oath and that, therefore, the report be received and filed.

That should end, in Missouri, the attempt to have all lawyers swear allegiance all over again. It was a wise decision, and it is understandable that a number of United States newspapers have hailed it as a product of the clear thinking essential to checking the disloyalty hysteria apparently so prevalent in that country. For that matter, the decision could serve as an example to any group in any country in dealing with the demands or appeals of scaremongers.

What Should A Modern Cathedral Look Like?

In order to procure a design for the new cathedral at Coventry the Church of England has sponsored one of the most important architectural contests of the past fifty years, and the prize-winning design, by a Mr. Spence (we do not know his initials) is now on exhibition. We have seen none of the plans—only a drawing of the building as it will appear when it is finished. We should not dream, therefore, of expressing an opinion about it, except to say that the new cathedral looks rather heavy and close to the ground. But people who have seen the plans have expressed themselves eloquently about them; most of those who have done so appear not to like Mr. Spence's design. That is normal enough, for in architecture most people, even including professional architects, are traditionalists, and the new cathedral, with its "slewed" windows, its transepts crossing at the west rather than the east end, and a generous use of steel, is not traditional.

The problem confronting an architect who is asked to design a new cathedral for Coventry is a large one. He must build his new cathedral near the ruins of the old one in such a way that they will not swear at each other. He must provide a building which gives a visible expression to Christian faith without resorting to sham-Gothic and other insincerities which occur when new modes of building are used to achieve ancient effects. And he must express something of the spirit of his age.

This last is perhaps his most complex problem. The world's great cathedrals are in the main, inheritances from great ages of faith. The faith of the twentieth century is not as the faith of the fourteenth and fifteenth centuries; its emphasis is different, and it cannot be expressed by the same means. What should a cathedral look like if it is to be an expression of the faith of a twentieth-century Christian?

In the opinion of able judges, Mr. Spence has given the best answer to that question, but it will be long before the dispute about his answer dies down.

An expert gossip has to be well wound up before she can do her best running-down.

What a pity that permanent waves won't stay in the hair as long as they stay in the roads.

Musical Notes

by PETER PIPER

ONE of the most deplorable features of Canadian musical life, and one mentioned at length in Sir Ernest Macmillan's report presented to the Massey Commission, is the complete lack of any Canadian musical periodical. All attempts to fill this gap have up to the present failed. Sir Ernest attributes this largely to the fact that most of these publications had a local appeal. He suggests that this handicap can only be overcome by an organization capable of paying qualified correspondents in the leading centres for regular reports. He also recommends that such a publication be bilingual. It is his opinion that such a publication is a practical possibility, though it would entail considerable outlay.

* * *

IT is obvious that a Canadian musical periodical would not exactly be a goldmine for publishers. It could not be expected to have a great sale abroad, at any rate at the outset. Even in this country it would encounter stiff competition from the formidable array of American musical publications, which cater for almost every conceivable taste and maintain on the whole an extremely high standard. In this respect it would be like any other Canadian magazine. Nevertheless Sir Ernest's opinion is worthy of consideration. His organizing ability is well-known, and is apt to surprise those simple souls who imagine that all musicians are hopelessly impractical in the world of affairs, in spite of many examples to the contrary.

* * *

AS for Sir Ernest's suggestion that such a publication should be issued simultaneously in an English and French edition (like the Readers' Digest, an American publication which has the widest circulation of any periodical in the province of Quebec), I venture to doubt whether it would be wise to adopt this at the outset. It would however be perfectly practical to include in each issue French translations of some of the more important articles. Such a journal could also be adopted as the official journal for some of the national musical societies and organizations. At present the official journal of the Canadian College of Organists is the Diapason, an American publication. Presumably the Diapason finds it worth its while to include a page or so of information about Canadian organists; the pity is that it has to be done by a foreign publication. A Canadian musical periodical could act as a forum for many varied activities of this nature. A good deal of ink has been spilt on the subject of American influence in Canada. While it is agreed that a certain amount is not only necessary and inevitable but also desirable it is obvious that it is too great and too one-sided. Yet it would be illogical to blame Americans altogether for this state of affairs. Canadians have always been prone to rely on outside help. In the early days, when this vast country was inhabited by a handful of semi-illiterates there was no alternative, but there is much less excuse for it today. Unfortunately this habit of saying "let George do it" has become chronic, and this is perhaps truer in the musical life of the country than perhaps in anything else. Instead of initiating something ourselves we are apt to sit aside and wait until American enterprise has succeeded. Then we start moaning about American influence.

* * *

MY remarks above on the "Diapason" should not be construed as an indirect onslaught on that excellent periodical. It contains many articles of great interest to organists and others connected with church music. Recently Dr. Charles Peaker wrote a most amusing article which appeared in its pages. The subject was "Making the Organist Immune from Those Who Interrupt Him". Few people realize the difficult conditions under which the average church organist plays the ingoing and outgoing voluntaries. While he is performing a difficult passage he is besieged by various individuals asking him questions, announcing last-minute changes in the order of service, carrying on loud conversations in stentorian tones, and so on. All this is very different from the subdued hush of the recital, but the organist takes it all in a more or less good-humoured fashion. Dr. Peaker suggests wittily that such interruptions should form an integral part of examination routine. I suppose that most people know that Dr. Peaker was organist and choirmaster of Knox United Church in this city before going to Toronto, where he has made a name for himself. About a year ago he came back to give a recital in his old church. During the recital something went wrong with the organ, and the present and past incumbents of the console went behind the scenes—in Dr. Peaker's own words, to "peek and potter" with the delinquent instrument.

* * *

SCHNABEL, whose death during the summer I touched on last week, was distinguished chiefly for the intellectuality of his playing. It is true that sometimes his approach seemed too deliberate, as if to say, "this is my reading of this passage, and I am convinced that it is the right one". This lack of spontaneity at times gave a faint schoolmasterish flavour to his performance. He was above all a great stylist. There are plenty of other pianists with a more dazzling technique. Actually this lack of extreme virtuosity, in his playing was an advantage in a work such as Brahms' second Piano Concerto. I heard two recording of this, one with Horowitz made it sound too easy as he flipped over the octaves in the main theme of the finale: Schnabel gave a feeling of greater effort. It was as though Horowitz were taking a holiday from some of Liszt's gaudier pyrotechnics, while Schnabel was putting all he had into a supreme effort.

* * *

SCHNABEL was at his greatest in Beethoven. Fortunately there are many recordings of his playing of Beethoven, and they are models of the true style of Beethoven playing, with the slight reservation that here and there he might have allowed himself a freer rein. He was not content to be merely a pianist; he was a thorough musician. This is where so many pianists fall down. Having, shall we say, mastered the art of Tempo Rubato as employed by the Romantic School they must needs play a Beethoven sonata movement as though it were a Chopin Nocturne. Instead of following Beethowen's perfectly clear instructions they must needs alter completely his dynamic scheme. For instance, nearly every pianist playing the first two bars of the last movement of the "Moonlight" inserts a crescendo, completely ruining the effect of the sforzando chord, a typically Beethoven device. I have even seen an edition with the crescendo marked in by some well-meaning editor who should be given a job as a crossing-sweeper or a Finance Minister. Beethoven's markings should be followed implicity, and nothing except nuance (toujours la nuance) added.

HEAD-ON COURAGE

The Haughty Highlanders

By ALLISTAIR STEVEN in the Edinburgh Scotsman

"WHAT kind of people are the Highland lairds?" The German consort of George II asked this of the third Duke of Argyll, and the barbed answer struck back: "They are like German princes—very poor and very proud."

Burns seemed to agree with this when, on a visit to the Duke's own domain, he wrote of Inveraray, in a burst of irritation:

"There's nothing here but Highland pride,
And Highland scab and hunger."

Pride and poverty incline to be lumped together. The spirited have always difficulty in swallowing their pride—all the more so when hunger catches the throat. The Gael could be driven back; deprived perhaps of the best of his lands, but never the boast of his lineage.

The Norman noble, exalted over an alien people, might display individualist arrogance, but Highland pride derived deeper strength from the fact that the chieftain was head of a family all of whom were intimately concerned in preserving the repute and continuity of a common name.

* * *

LENGTH of pedigree, in which the whole clan shared, was of the utmost importance. Some anecdotes illustrating this are merely lightsome little tales, told with tongue in cheek, but they are straws that dance in a typical Highland breeze, nevertheless.

There was, for instance, that Highland family whose genealogical table had a marginal note, some way down, to say: "At this time the Flood took place", and it is well known that the MacLeans were not then mentioned amongst the Ark's human inhabitants for the good reason that they had a boat of their own.

From Speyside comes the free rendering of a Biblical text: "There were Grants in those days"; and a typically Scottish interminglecon is the old saying, "There is nothing older—unless the hills, the MacArthurs, and the devil".

There is also the story of the old Banffshire lady named Gordon being read to from the Bible about the glories of King Solomon's state, which included no fewer than 1,000 camels.

"Aye", said she, "an' dae ye tell me sae? A thoosan' Cam'ells! An aud clan they are, sure eneuch; but dinna ye see any mention o' the Gordons?"

* * *

FAR transcending all this, however, and surely the most amazing and sustained of all Biblical genealogies, was the substance of a book by Sir Thomas Urquhart, 17th laird of Cromarty, celebrated for his magnificent translation of Rabelais.

Sir Thomas, fervent Royalist, was made prisoner when fighting for King Charles at the Battle of Worcester. He turned his pent-up energies into writing a "Peculiar Promptuary of Time" for the enlightenment of Cromwell and the English Parliament. In it he traced the Urquhart family back, step by peculiar step, to "the red earth from which God framed Adam, surnamed the protoplast".

He soared above the Cromarty origin of Urquhart, and made his progenitor one, Ourquhartos—i.e., the fortunate or well-beloved one, who was fifth in descent from Noah, and who married the Queen of the Amazons.

Sir Thomas himself was shown to be the 143rd in direct line, 153rd in direct succession, from Adam, and, as he indicated, it would be lamentable if Cromwell were prematurely to cut off (in the person of the captive Sir Thomas), a family which "Satan's scythe had not been able to mow in the course of all former ages."

Urquhart eventually won his release, and died on the Continent—traditionally (and, it would seem, with fair likelihood), from an uncontrollable, fit of laughter on hearing that Charles II had been restored to the throne.

* * *

UNDOUBTEDLY, the highest-sounding titles are the unadorned, and, in Scotland, dignity has been gained by the plain use of the indefinite article or by the even greater simplification of dispensing entirely with trimmings to the name.

The old Chisholm boast was that there were only three real "The's" in the whole world—The Pope, The King, and The Chisholm; and Walter MacFarlan, 20th chief of that ilk and of Arrochar, who is famous for the valuable "Genealogical" and "Geographical Collections" which he made, was exceedingly punctilious that he should be addressed simply as "MacFarlan".

"With equal propriety", he argued "Mr may be applied to many, but I, and I only, am MacFarlan."

Sometimes, the more restricted became their estates, the more magniloquent the lairds became about what was left. The Macnabs were a forceful clan on Lochtayside for many years. Amongst their possessions they numbered (as they still do) that lovely island of Inchbhuie at Killin, with its dark pines and its gleaming moss kept bright by the spray of the Dochart. Here many generations of the clan are buried.

By the time the Macnabs' property had been so whittled down that they had little more than the graveyard to call their own, the last Perthshire laird was proposing to a lady who seemed somewhat slow in comprehending the honour that was being done to her.

It was with the more haughty a flourish then that he trumped his own suit. As his partner, he emphasized, the good lady could claim her rightful share in "the finest burial-ground in the Highlands". But this was a time when the grave had not its victory.

BURNING UP

Her husband being slightly indisposed, a young and inexperienced wife attempted to take his temperature, and in a state of great excitement, scribbled a note to the doctor.

"Dear doctor — Please come at once. My husband's temperature is 136."

The doctor replied: "Dear madam—The case is beyond skill. Send for the fire engine."

ALL IN GOOD TIME

A Scotsman travelling in Palestine learned of an addition to his family circle. The happy father immediately provided himself with some water from the Jordan to carry home for the christening, and returned to Scotland.

On the Sunday appointed for the ceremony, he presented himself at the church and sought out the beadle in order to hand over th precious water. He pulled the flask from his pocket, but the beadle held up a warning hand and came near to whisper: "No the noo, sir, no the noo! Maybe after the kirk's oot!"

How Time Flies

OCTOBER 1

1921 According to the assessor's rolls, Peterborough's population has decreased from 21,790 to 21,439 during the past year.

The city water has improved slightly in quality and the chlorine content has been reduced from 13 pounds in a million gallons to 12 pounds.

During the past month Peterborough has had 13 cases of scarlet fever and 12 cases of diphtheria.

1931 Assessor's figure gives Peterborough's population at 22,809, 502 more than the census report shows.

Board of Works decides that no employed man will be given relief work unless he has had six months residence here.

1941 Present population of Peterborough and its suburbs is approximately 30,000.

G. E. Collings, 87, one of the founders and a vice-president of the Dow Chemical Co., dies in Cleveland and is buried in Cobourg.

The British War Victims Fund returns now total $23,947.79; an appreciative letter is received for the tenth £500 sent from Peterborough to London August 29.

Bible Message

(From the Authorized Version)

Thou shalt not make thee any graven image, or any likeness of any thing that is in heaven above, or that is in the earth beneath, or that is in the waters beneath the earth: Thou shalt not bow down thyself unto them, nor serve them. (Deut. 5: 8, 9.)

* * *

Then Paul stood in the midst of Mars' hill, and said, Ye men of Athens, I perceive that in all things ye are too superstitious. For as I passed by, and beheld your devotions, I found an altar with this inscription. TO THE UNKNOWN GOD. Whom therefore ye ignorantly worship, him declare I unto you.

God that made the world and all things therein, seeing that he is Lord of heaven and earth, dwelleth not in temples made with hands; neither is worshipped with men's hands, as though he needed any thing, seeing he giveth to all life, and breath, and all things....

For in him we live, and move, and have our being; as certain also of your own poets have said, For we are also his offspring. Forasmuch then as we are the offspring of God, we ought not to think that the Godhead is like unto gold, or silver, or stone, graven by art and man's device. (Acts 17: 22-25, 28, 29.)

* * *

But I fear, lest by any means, as the serpent beguiled Eve through his subtility, so your minds should be corrupted from the simplicity that is in Christ. (II Cor. 11: 3.)

* * *

For though there be that are called gods, whether in heaven or in earth, (as there be gods many, and lords many,) but to us there is but one God, the Father, of whom are all things, and we in him. (I Cor. 8: 5, 6.)

Letter To The Editor

HOSPITAL ADVISER

Sir: Once again we find Oscar S. Matchett on the warpath, this time on hospital expenses.

Now I have learned that this Gentleman Matchett is retired and has nothing else to do but sit around the fireside this time of the year and write letters like this.

If Oscar S. Matchett is a man with so much knowledge to spare and could run things so efficiently to see the hospital pay, why don't he offer his services to the Board free of charge. I'm sure they would like to save that other $3,000.00 a year too.

I also would like to remind Oscar S. Matchett that the $70,000.00 which he talks about is not all paid yet into the hands of the proper authorities.

Thanking you for the space in your valuable paper.

GEORGE W. LINSDELL.

New Toronto Houses Obsolete

(Windsor Star)

Completed only recently, the Regent Park housing project in Toronto (which was a slum clearance scheme) already is adjudged obsolete, the Toronto Home Builders' Association is told. An authority criticizes the homes because the living rooms are too small for the number of bedrooms in each; the backyards often have to be shared, and the homes are not set up for individual maintenance.

Presumably architectural and other experts were consulted in the construction of this project. Which is another example of how experts often can make mistakes. What looks ideal in the blue-print stage so often reveals practical faults when completed.

MILDER

A tax assessor's official had to decide on which side of the United States-Canada border an old lady's newly purchased house lay. Surveyors finally announced that it was just inside the United States' border.

The old lady smiled. "I'm so glad to know that," she said. "I've always been told that winters in Canada are terribly severe."

"Caravan? The caravan came off hours ago."

Baby Band Holds Meeting In Omemee

OMEMEE, Oct. 1 — (ENS) — Twenty-one mothers with their 35 tots were entertained Thursday afternoon by the Trinity United WMS, on the occasion of the annual Baby Band meeting, presided over by superintendent Mrs. H. Deyell.

Mrs D. A. Scott, of Fenelon Falls, who is Baby Band secretary of Lindsay Presbyterial, was guest speaker. She was accompanied by Mrs. A. McGill.

The mothers and babies were welcomed by Mrs. H. Graham, WMS president. For the mothers she read a poem by Frances S. Lankford, "Prayer at a Nursery Window."

Mrs. Deyell introduced Mrs. Scott, who first addressed the children. She held the attention of the older tots with a fascinating story of "Little Sharon" who was five years in a mission hospital. That was what their pennies were used for, she told them: to help little boys and girls like Sharon. They were interested to hear of other Baby Bands visited by Mrs. Scott—1,170 little children in all, she said, and out of their gift boxes had come $270 for needy children.

To the mothers, she said she was sure each mother wanted her child to be the very best, but to accomplish that a mother must herself be a pattern for her child. She stressed the importance of what is said in the hearing of children.

"Speak well," she said, "of the Bible; speak well of your home; speak well of your neighbor; answer your children's questions thoughtfully; know of what nature a movie is before you take your children and supervise their reading."

Mrs. Scott said we should not speak of child delinquency, it was parent delinquency. Too much of mother's time, she said, was spent outside the home. She thought it was important to visit mothers with the care of small children, and it shouldn't be left to the Baby Band superintendent, but shared by other WMS members.

In a graduation exercise, those who received certificates of promotion to Mission Band were: Marie Mortson, Carol Hart, Stanley Nelson, Barbara Johnson, Hazel McGill, Faye Morrison, Glen Hyland, and the Armstrong twins, Carilyn and Marilyn. They were received by Mrs. S. D. Vaughan, the recently appointed Mission Band superintendent. Mrs. Vaughan announced that the first Mission Band meeting of the season would be held Tuesday, October 2, at 3:45—immediately after school — in the United Church basement and subsequently on the first Tuesday of each month.

Lunch was served.

The children's gift boxes turned in at the meeting contained a total of $12.15, to which was added a collection of $3.25.

Marmora Church WA Holds Autumn Meet

MARMORA, Oct. 1—(ENS)—September meeting of St. Paul's Women's Auxiliary was held on Thursday evening at the rectory. The president, Mrs. W. D. Lavender, presided over a good attendance of members.

The treasurer's report, given by Mrs. J. R. Reynolds, in absence of Mrs. W. M. Regan, showed finances to be in good condition.

Mrs. R. Frost, in giving the Dorcas report, mentioned the dispatch of the bale to All Saints' Indian residential school in Western Canada.

Attention was directed to the annual Hastings Deanery WA meeting at St. Mark's, Bonarlaw, on October 10.

The opening chapter of the new study book, "Looking South on Latin America," was read by Canon J. M. Brownlie.

Mrs. J. R. Reynolds offered her home for October meeting. The committee in charge served refreshments.

Bylaw Needed To Run Recreation Body

WARKWORTH, Oct. 1—(ENS)—A meeting was held in the town hall on Wednesday evening when Mr. Weir, of the Department of Education, was present to help clear the difficulties in regard to securing grants on the money expended for recreation by the recreation committee and the community centre board.

After business items were discussed, it was pointed out by Mr. Weir that the township council would have to draw up a new bylaw and have it passed at the next meeting of council. Also, there must be two members of the council on the recreation committee.

Cathedral Bells Remain Silent

LIVERPOOL—(CP)—The announcement that Princess Elizabeth and the Duke of Edinburgh will travel to Canada by air instead of by sea means that the bells of Liverpool cathedral will remain silent indefinitely.

The bells, high in the immense tower of the Cathedral, are the heaviest peal of bells in Britain. The tenor bell alone weighs 32 hundredweight, about a ton heavier that the tenor as St. Paul's Cathedral, London.

To bear the weight of the Liverpool bells a special frame was built by architect, Sir Giles Gilbert Scott, designer of the new House of Commons in London.

The bell frame of reinforced concrete, the belfry floor and construction work beneath it weigh more than 2,000 tons.

The bells were to have rung for the first time Sept. 25, date of the Royal couple's scheduled drive round the city before boarding ship for Canada. Elizabeth and Philip now are to travel by air.

Legion Takes Up Investigation Offer

TORONTO, Oct. 1 — (CP) — Ontario Command of the Canadian Legion Saturday decided to take up a veterans affairs department offer to a complete investigation of conditions at Sunnybrook hospital.

Maj.-Gen. E. L. M. Burns, deputy minister, offered the inquiry after Arthur Padbury, chairman of the Legion's provincial service bureau, claimed in a speech at St. Catharines that the treatment at the hospial is of the "sausage mill type". The charge was promptly denied.

The administrative committee said it welcomed Gen. Burns' offer and asked that the investigation start at once.

Minister Dies

CHICAGO, Oct. 1—(AP)—The Rev. Dr. S. C. Michelfedler, 62, executive secretary of the Lutheran World Federation and noted for his work in church relief and reconstruction in Europe during the last five years, died Sunday. Dr. Michelfelder was stricken with a heart attack last Wednesday.

Held In Fracas

HOLLYWOOD, Oct. 1 (AP)—Actor's agent M. Sidney Luft, friend of Judy Garland, was arrested early Sunday after a traffic accident and a fracas in which the actress was unofficially involved. 24 Fatalities Recorded In E. Canada At Weekend

By The Candian Press

Of the 24 persons who died violently in Eastern Canada during the weekend, 12 died at the result of three automobile accidents in Quebec.

In one Quebec accident, at Cedars, 41 miles west of Montreal —six persons were drowned, including five members of one family, when their automobile sideswiped another car and plunged into a canal.

A Canadian Press survey early today showed that 21 were killed in street and highway mishaps. One man died in a fire, one man was killed by the accidental discharge of a rifle and a third was crushed to death when a trailer fell on him in a garage.

Fourteen deaths were reported from Quebec, 10 from Ontario.

Drowned in the Soulanges Canal near Cedars, Que., were: Alcide Marier, 45, a farmer from nearby St. Fereol; his children, Pierrette, 18, Germain, 17, Monique, 12, and Louisa, 7; Antonin Dault, 60, a neighbor. The accident occurred Sunday morning; the occupants of the car were on their way to church.

Smash Into Tree

Two Roman Catholic priests and a 19-year-old Quebecer were killed when an automobile went off the road and smashed into a tree on the outskirts of Quebec City. Dead are Able Jules Roy, 55, pastor of Quebec's Sacre Coeur parish; Father March Lussier, Superior of the Order of St. Vincent De Paul in Quebec, and Jean-Marc Gingras, a passenger in the car.

Three persons were killed near Wakefield, Que., in a triple truck-car smash. They were four-year-old Roy McCooeye, of Ottawa, and Mr. and Mrs. Sylvio Lepage, of Eastview, Ont.

In Montreal, Mrs. M. Zwipes was killed in a collision and Deneri Vincent, 68, of St. Luc De Vincennes, Que., was killed near Shawinigan Falls, Que., when his automobile went out of control and turned over.

Marshal Burdge, 22, of Washington, NJ, was killed when a rifle discharged accidentally in his tent near Gananoque. Burdge was on his way to North Bay on a hunting trip with three companions.

In Toronto, Thomas Galloway, 54, was killed when a trailer on which he was working fell on him in a garage, and John Forsythe was burned to death when his Springbrook home was destroyed by fire.

Four-year-old Dorothy Kellestine, of Strathroy, was killed when she ran into the path of an auto which was backing into a street.

Killed in collisions were: John Allan Hughes, of Smiths Falls, near Oshawa, Ont.; and Mrs. Donna Bailey, 22, of Ancaster, Ont., just south of Hamilton's city limits.

Four pedestrians were killed when they were struck down by moving vehicles near their homes. They were: William J. Brooker, 47, of Lakeview, Ont.; William Jarratt, 81, of Toronto's suburban North York township; Mrs. Ida Veinot, 57, of London, Ont.; Henry Bundock, 76, of Ottawa.

EIGHT-YEAR-OLD JAMES PETROY lost the right side of his nose when a dog he was helping out of a home excavation snapped at him in the St. Louis, Mo., suburb of Overland. Plastic surgeons have promised to rebuild his nose as good as it was before. To brighten Jimmy's wait for it, the Overland Kiwanis Club gave him a new bicycle and visit him regularly to cheer the long hospital hours.

Red-Hunting Goes Formal May Still Be Startling

By CLARK BEACH.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 1 (AP)—Red-hunting on Capitol Hill has become as formal and dignified as an English fox hunt. Gone are the hoopla days of the Dies Committee, when movie stars and other celebrities were at a premium as witnesses.

The new mode is the creation of Senator Pat McCarran (Dem. Nev.), who is determined to make his Internal Security Sub-Committee as prim and proper as possible. The committee, nevertheless, is building up steam in its ponderous way and may presently produce some sensational results.

Nothing For Year

The House of Representatives Un-American Activities Committee, originally called after Representative Martin Dies (Dem. Tex.), its first chairman, has produced nothing startling or embarrassing to the Truman administration for more than a year.

Its research into Communism no longer concerns big names like Alger Hess, and it does not look much into charges of Communism in government. It delves into such subjects as Communism in various industries and areas.

The committee is still controlled by anti-administration Democrats and Republicans. McCarran, a Reno, Nev., lawyer, has been a fairly consistent critic of the administration.

Rules Laid Down

But no one will be able to accuse the McCarran committee of irresponsible scandalmongering if it sticks to the rules McCarran has laid down.

McCarran has decreed that anyone whose reputation seems threatened by being named in public hearings shall be permitted to testify in rebuttal. No witness is allowed to inject names not pertinent to the inquiry.

Public hearings are held only after prolonged investigation. No television or radio is permitted in the hearing room.

The committee issues no statements before or during the investigation, and no report or hearing is released until it has been reviewed by every member of the committee.

The phrase "don't care a rap" originated when a counterfeit coin known as a "rap" was current in Ireland in the 18th century.

Dodgers, Giants Deadlocked For Top Spot, Meet In First Playoff Tilt

By JACK HAND

BROOKLYN, Oct. 1. (AP)—The New York "miracle men" of '51 and the dead-game Brooklyn Dodgers charge into hand-to-hand combat for the National League pennant today in the opener of a best-of-three playoff series. The tie resulted Sunday under the most dramatic circumstances when Jackie Robinson's 14th-inning homer gave the Dodgers a 9-8 edge over the Phillies after the Giants had subdued Boston 3-2 behind Larry Jansen. All even at the end of the regular 154-game schedule, the Giants and Dodgers collide at Ebbets Field at 1:30 p.m. EST. And collide may be the proper word for this feud of bitter rivals. The series continues Tuesday at the Polo Grounds. If a third game is necessary, it will be played at the Polo Grounds Wednesday.

Barring rain, the World Series with New York Yankees will start Thursday at Yankee Stadium.

Jim Hearn (16-9) was manager Leo Durocher's choice to work for the comeback Giants who earned a tie by chopping down a 13½ game Dodger lead of Aug. 11 in a furious .841 stretch drive.

Brooklyn led the Giants 9-2 at Ebbets Field and 13-9 for the season.

Uses Branca

Chuck Dressen of the Brooks fresh out of pitchers after their desperate last stand, had Ralph Branca (13-10) for the opener. He pitched 1 1-3 innings Sunday in relief of Preacher Roe.

While the Dodgers and Giants continued their struggle, the American League champion Yankees scheduled daily workouts.

This was the second playoff in history of the National League. In 1946, St. Louis and Brooklyn fought to a dead heat and the Cards polished off the Dodgers in two straight.

Back in 1908, as an aftermath of the famous "Fred Merkle didn't touch second" controversy, Chicago Cubs beat the Giants in a post-season playoff of a tie game. But that wasn't any playoff series—only a replay of the disputed game that ended in a 1-1 tie.

Dressen feared the Dodgers might have to play without catcher Roy Campanella who pulled a muscle in his leg running out a triple at Philadelphia. But he thought Robinson, badly shaken by a game-saving catch, would be able to go.

Saves Game

Brooklyn still sang with talk of Robinson's deeds at Shibe Park. How he saved the game with that diving catch of a low liner by Eddit Waitkus with the bases full in the 12th. How he drove a Robin Roberts pitch deep into the upper tier in left field in the 14th. How the Dodgers overcame a 6-1 Phil lead, finally tied the score in the eighth and won a game they absolutely had to win.

Two were out in the 14th and it looked as if the Sunday curfew might halt the game without a decision when Robinson smashed his homer. If the game had been stopped by the Sunday law with the score tied, it would have been played over today.

Jansen's 22nd victory clinched the tie at Boston. Except for the first and ninth he held the Braves in check. In the nerve-wracking ninth, Boston clubbed him for three of its five hits, scored a run and had the winning run on base. Willard Marshall, a former Giant, lofted to Irvin for the last big out.

Split Twin Bill

In other National League games Sunday St. Louis Cardinals closed out the season by splitting a doubleheader with Chicago Cubs, losing the opener 7-6 but winning the second game 3-0. The nightcap was called after six innings because of darkness. Ralph Kiner blasted a grand-slam homer in the 11th inning to give Pittsburgh an 8-4 victory over Cincinnati.

The Yanks, behind Spec Shea and Johnny Sain, blanked Boston Red Sox 3-0. In other American League games Detroit Tigers beat Cleveland 2-1, St. Louis trounced Chicago 9-5 and Philadelphia and Washington divided a doubleheader, the Nats taking the second game, 4-3. Ned Garver posted his 20th victory, becoming the first 20-game winner for the Browns since 1938 and the first American League pitcher since 1924 to win 20 games with a last place club.

Imperials Whip Mustangs 22-18

LONDON, Ont., Oct. 1 (CP)—Sarnia Imperials had too much power for the University of Western Ontario Mustangs Saturday and came from behind for a 22-18 victory over the senior intercollegiate football champions in an exhibition game.

The Imps really fashioned their victory in the second quarter when they cut loose for 17 points which put them in front to stay. They added another five in the third quarter.

Eric McKeever led the Sarnia assault with two touchdowns while Corky Duchene and Jack Glendinning got one apiece. Johnny Chorostecki kicked two converts.

Gino Fracas led the Western scoring attack with 13 points on a touchdown, two field goals, a single and a convert. Murray Henderson got a major for Western's other five points.

The Mustangs lost their ace left half, Cam Church, in the first quarter when he was shaken on a tackle and didn't return to the game.

The Imperials, co-leaders of the Ontario Rugby Football Union, displayed a strong running attack directed by quarterback George Curtis, former Western star.

Three Westerners Signed By Hawks

NORTH BAY, Oct. 1 (CP). — Three top Western Canada hockey players have been signed with Chicago Black Hawks of the National Hockey League, it was announced as the Black Hawks prepared to move out of their pre-season training camp here.

They are Fred Hucul, 19 of Eston, Sask.; Sid Finney, 22, of Calgary; and Steve Witiuk, 22, of Winnipeg.

Hucul, with Moose Jaw Canucks last season, led all defence men in his league in scoring with 10 goals and 27 assists. Finney fired 44 goals and had 31 assists for Calgary Stampeders of the old Western Canada Major League. Witiuk, with Edmonton Flyers, had 23 goals and 22 assists.

Ernie Dickens, former regular defence man with Chicago, has been sent to Calgary Stampeders of the Pacific Coast League.

Montreal Leads L'il World Series

MONTREAL, Oct. 1 (CP). — The little world series between Montreal's International League Royals and Milwaukee's American Association Brewers is headed for Milwaukee Tuesday night.

Montreal leads the best-of-seven series 2-1.

Montreal took the opener 6-3 Wednesday while the second game, postponed twice due to bad weather finally went to the Brewers Saturday 4-3.

Sunday, George Shuba's second home run of the game in the 11th inning gave the Montrealers the edge in the series. The score was 5-3.

Billy Reed's round-tripper in the 10th with the bases empty put Milwaukee ahead 3-2 but pinch hitter Al Gionfriddo's double off Bert Thiel in the lower half sent Bob Morgan home to tie the score.

Virgil Jester, third Milwaukee pitcher, was the victim of Shuba's 11th inning blast. Bob Alexander, pitching the final inning for Montreal, was the victor.

Tiger-Cats Eat Humble Pie Bow To Rough Riders 20-18

By The Canadian Press.

The leaders of both the Big Four and the Western Interprovincial Football Unions ate hefty bites of humble pie Saturday.

In Edmonton, four touchdown passes by towering quarterback Glenn Dobbs sent the Saskatchewan Roughriders to a 25-18 victory over Edmonton Eskimos and cut the Eskimos' margin of leadership in the western league to four points.

The mighty Hamilton Tiger-Cats took a 20-18 beating from Ottawa Rough Riders and had their margin of leadership in the Big Four cut down to two points. It was their second loss in six games. Last Sunday in Montreal they lost to Alouettes 17-16.

The other Saturday game in the west jarred Calgary Stampeders' hopes of latching onto an interprovincial playoff berth, as the Calgarians lost to Winnipeg Blue Bombers 33-18 in Calgary.

A Toronto-Montreal game scheduled Sunday in Montreal was postponed to Oct. 21 when Montreal Royals, champions of the International Baseball League needed Delorimier Stadium for their little world series game with Milwaukee Brewers.

See-Saw Battle

The Ottawa-Hamilton game was a see-saw battle from start to finish with neither team holding a definite edge. But third-quarter touchdowns by halves Pete Karpuk and Benny Macdonnell, both converted by middle Bob Gain, gave Riders the game despite a Hamilton touchdown drive in the fourth.

Ottawa's other touchdown was scored by Howie Turner in the second frame. Halfbacks Hal Waggoner and Blake Taylor went over the line for Hamilton in the second quarter to give the Tigers a short-lived 12-6 lead, and quarterback Bernie Custis went over in the final period.

Tip Logan converted all three for Hamilton but Bob Gain made only two of his three convert tries. Ottawa's margin came on three rouges by Tom O'Malley, Bruce Cummings and Gain.

Scoring Honors

Quarterback Jack Jacobs and halves Tom Casey and Jim Spavital carried off the scoring honors in the Borbers' victory over Stampeders. Casey got three majors and Spavital another. The fifth was scored by end Neill Armstrong on a Jacobs pass.

Jacobs converted all five touches. End Ron Vaccher rouged Stamps' half Cedric Gyles following a Jacobs' kick. The other Winnipeg points came on a safety touch.

Royal Copeland, Roy Jensen and Phil Salata scored the Calgary TD's and Bob Shaw converted all three.

Teams of the Senior Intercollegiate Union lost out Saturday in two of three games with teams of the Ontario Rugby Football Union. In London, University of Western Ontario Mustangs lost 22-18 to Sarnia Imperials and Queens went down 25-24 to Toronto Balmy Beaches in Kingston. But University of Toronto Blues took a 14-6 victory over the ORFUs' new entry, McMaster University Marauders.

Don't Approve New Face-off

ST. CATHARINES, Oct 1 (CP) —Manager Conn Smythe of Toronto Maple Leafs has lined up with manager Frank Boucher of New York Rangers in opposition to the proposed new face-off circle for hockey rinks.

And Carl Voss, National Hockey League referee-in-chief, says he's against it, too. It has been tried out in pre-season exhibition games.

Clubs have been asked to vote on it immediately.

Smythe sees it this way:

"The new face-off test plan penalizes the goalies. It's like a penalty shot. When play is stopped in the end zone, the face-off is made directly in front of the goalie."

Hated Africa Bogart Says On Return

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD, Oct. 1—(AP)—Bongo, bongo, bongo.—Bogie doesn't like the Congo . . .

Humphrey Bogart, second to Fred Allen as a chronic complainer, is back from making a picture in Africa. Needless to say, he has few kind words for the dark continent.

"It's a crummy place," he said. He is content to leave the Congo to the natives.

"They can have it," he remarked. "I think it stinks." He added that his companions on the safari felt otherwise.

"Katie Hepburn thought it was wonderful," he said. "She's the kind who's interested in every place she visits. Betty (his wife, Lauren Bacall) thrived; she actually gained weight in the jungle, while I lost 10 pounds. As for John Huston, he acted like another Dr. Livingston. He assumes a natural role wherever he visits. In England, he was a rider on a fox hunt. In Africa, he was an elephant hunter."

Travel Troubles

The "African Queen" troupe reached the location by two plane hops, a railroad ride and then overland by truck. The train journey was the most picturesque.

"It was an ancient wood-burning engine," Bogart related. "The only trouble was that the rest of the train burned, too. Every once in a while, a piece of the car would catch fire and we would have to put it out."

The movie camp was hacked out of solid jungle and thatched huts were set up on the dirt floor. Water was carried in by native women and had to be boiled before use. Showers were improvised with barrels.

I asked Bogart about the animals. "They didn't give us much trouble," he replied. "But we were working on the water most of the time and there was always the danger of the crocodiles.

"We also saw some elephants and hippos, but our closest friends were the baboons. They would just sit there with their legs crossed and observe the antics of the humans."

The natives were also amazed by the movie makers. "They watched us build a whole village and then three days later burn it down for the picture," Bogart related. "Naturally they couldn't figure this out."

One thing didn't bother Bogart: The jungle bugs. "Everybody else was bitten, but the bugs didn't come near me," he said. "A wall of whisky kept them away. If they bit me, they died."

Band Of Welshmen Bar Army Trucks

TRAWSFYNYDD, Wales, Oct. 1—(Reuters)—A band of 100 protesting Welsh Nationalists linked arms in a human barrier across the entrance to an army training ground here Saturday protesting an army decision to set up a new 5,000-acre artillery range in Wales.

A column of army trucks were stalled before the Welshmen were persuaded to leave. But before they left they planted a flagpole bearing the red dragon flag of Wales.

Three Hurt As Car Crashes Train

Second Accident Within Week At Same Crossing

Three men were injured about midnight Saturday when their car crashed into the engine of a freight train at the Monaghan Rd.-Romaine St. CPR crossing.

Injured were:

Alfred Maio, 26, 358 Grady Ave., facial cuts, knee injuries; and a fractured left forearm.

Albert Maio (a brother), 23, of 40 George St., severe shock, broken ribs and knee injuries;

Ralph Hunter, 29, 358 Grady Ave., cut nose and knee injuries.

Second Accident

It was the second accident at that level crossing within a week. Last week a south end man was unhurt when his car and a train were in collision at that crossing There is no bell or light there; just the usual X-shaped railway crossing sign.

Street lights either side of the tracks provide fairly good lighting, but nearby residents claim that wher a night freight train is crossing, it is difficult to see the box-cars.

Albert Maio was driver of the 1950-model car which was demolished in the crash. The front end of the auto was smashed in, both windshields were broken and the steering wheel was badly damaged.

Heard Car

Train engineer A. Lamey of Toronto said he heard the car, then saw it coming toward the engine. He said it was coming fairly fast, being driven south on Monaghan Rd.

He said he thought the driver tried to swerve to the west to miss the engine, which was backing to the east at a slow speed. Lamey threw on the brakes and the train stopped in about 12 feet.

Constables C. J. McGillen and Louis Rodreque arrived on the scene, sent in a radio call for doctors and ambulances to police headquarters, and removed the injured men from the wrecked car. Constable Rodreque cut the back of one hand on broken glass as they brought the injured out.

Ambulances took the Maio brothers to Civic hospital, where they were treated by Dr. H. G. Carleton and Dr. J. T. Stewart. Hunter was taken to Civic in the police cruiser.

Hunter was released about 1 a.m. Sunday after receiving treatment (one stitch in his nose) as an out patient, and the two Maios spent the night in hospital. Neither is thought to be in serious condition.

Conductor of the train was Doug Brennan of Havelock. He was conductor on the train involved in the accident earlier in the week.

The listing for the statutory non-jury sittings of the county, scheduled to begin at 10:30 a.m. today, are blank. There are no people to take oaths of allegiance under the Canadian Citizenship Act, no actions entered for trial and no appeals from the local magistrate's convictions.

New Roman Catholic School Opened In Bridgenorth

A Very impressive ceremony of the official opening of the new two-roomed Catholic school at Bridgenorth was held Sunday afternoon. The school of The Holy Family, so named because of its unity with all other Catholic schools was very well attended when close to 150 persons were present at the special dedication service. His Excellency Bishop Gerald Berry of Peterborough officially opened the school and dedicated the building to the children by placing a solemn blessing on each room.

In his address, he said, "This school was built to help the children grow up to be good Christian citizens. I believe this is the first time a Bishop from Peterborough or any other city has ever been to Bridgenorth on an official mission and sincerely hope it will not be the last. Every child has the right to know and derive a degree of education and the way of living cannot be taught unless religion also is taught. Education and religion go hand in hand. Every teacher today is conscious that he is teaching the children in the responsibilities of the way of life and I hope that the children who will graduate from this school will go out into the world and be a credit to their parents and teachers in the understanding of their own community and the world."

Chairman of the Separate School board of Smith Township, Antony Seidel welcomed the many guests present and introduced the following speakers.

Provincial Member Speaks

Hon. Harold Scott, Minister of Lands and Forests for Ontario, said "educaion for our children is our way of keeping our democratic way of life that we are able to observe here in Canada."

Separate School Inspector J. C. Doyle of Peterborough extended sincere congratulations on the erection of the new school and said that the people of Bridgenorth and community might be proud of the educational facilities provided by the two new schools recently built. To provide a proper environment for the development of the child, the team work of the parents and the teachers is essential.

Monsignor P. P. Butler of St. Peter's parish, Peterborough, related how he had watched the progress of the building from the first shovelful to the last and congratulated the children on their colourful arrangements of pastel toned flowers arranged on the walls of the classrooms.

Father V. J. Gillogly of Ennismore parish said that religion is the main stem in the growing and bringing up of a child, that a child grows up in God and eventually must go back to God.

Congratulations were extended by Ray Harding on behalf of the school board of Bridgenorth public school and regrets were extended by Chairman Mr. Seidel on the absence of Reeve Ross Harrison of Smith township and the Rev. D. P. Morris of the United Church.

Miss Agnes Swift of Ennismore, teacher of the Holy Family School expressed her desire in being successful in teaching the children of the school for the coming year.

At the close of the service, the guests were asked to view the different rooms in their lovely modern fixtures and color toning. The large spacious ground surrounding the school will provide ample playground facilities.

Man Charged With Wounding In Party Fight

A domestic argument at a Hawley St. party Saturday night boiled over, involving the host and one of his guests, as well as a man and his wife.

In court today, John Clarke, 23, of 189 Hunter St., heard a charge of wounding read to him. His counsel, J. C. N. Currelly, reserved election. Magistrate W. R. Philp set bail at $3,000 and remanded Clarke to Thursday.

Injured in the scuffle at the home of Gerald Whatman, 668 Hawley St., were: Whatman, stab wound in right arm; Frank Allen, 675 Hawley St., stab wound in right thumb, and Mrs. Clarke, head injuries.

The argument is alleged to have started at the home of James Hawley, 679 Hawley St. From there the parties involved went to Whatman's home, where the argument, between Clarke and his wife, broke out afresh.

Later, Clarke is said to have taken a knife from his car and inflicted shallow wounds on Whatman and Allen. Mrs. Clarke was taken to Civic hospital, where her condition is said to be fair.

Police were called to the scene, but Clarke had disappeared by the time they arrived. He was picked up later and lodged in the cells, by Constable C. J. McGillen.

Librarian William Graff said today that three blocks of films are expected to arrive in Peterborough soon. Following this first receipt, the Peterborough council will receive one new block a month and will send one block on to another council.

The films include such subjects as music, travelogues, current events, science and agriculture. They have been purchased in England, Australia and the United States as well as from the National Film Board and commercial sources in this country.

Mercy Car Kills Farmer

Seriously injured Sunday afternoon when his car was struck in the rear by another car carrying a polio victim to Toronto, Ernest Ball, 60, RR 3, Port Hope, was taken to Port Hope Hospital where he died this morning.

A L'Amable boy, Dan Henthorey, was being taken to Toronto for polio treatment when the accident occurred, two miles west of welcome, on Highway 2.

Neither Henthorey nor the driver, Paul Thuillard, also of L'Amble, was injured, but the car was badly damaged and the boy was taken the rest of the way to Toronto by a passing motorist.

Police for some hours were unable to identify Ball. OPP Constable Vic Piper, Cobourg, is investigating.

Judge Smoke Awards Barry Seabrook $11,500 For House Expropriated By City

Barry Seabrook, whose property at 492 George St. was expropriated by the city as part of the new city hall site, has been given an arbitration award of $11,500 by Judge Sheldon L. Smoke.

The award is for $11,500 plus interest at four per cent from May 1, 1950, and costs of the arbitration. This figure is broken down as follows: $10,500 as an estimate of market value in December, 1948, when the expropriation bylaw was passed, and $1,500 as compensation for the compulsory taking of the property.

Mr. Seabrook asked for $21,150—$16,000 for the land and buildings, $1,650 or 10 per cent for the forced sale, and $3,000 in loss of rents.

11-Room House

The property included a lot 49 feet by 118 feet, a garage, and an 11-room brick house with two bathrooms. Mr. Seabrook had the house divided downstairs into two apartments, one with four rooms and the other two rooms. Both had separate entrances but there was a common bathroom. The second floor had five rooms and one bath. And the occupants had the same outside door as the occupant of the four-room apartment on the ground floor.

The house was 70 years old, set on stone foundations with a cellar under the rear part of the house. It was of solid brick construction with 14-inch walls.

Mr. Seabrook's award is subject to a mortgage in favor of the estate of Thomas Tindle, late of Smith township, amounting to $4,000, plus interest since January 1, plus a bonus of six months' interest.

No New Buildings

In his reasons for making the award, Judge Smoke said:

"Much was said in evidence about the business potential of the Seabrook property and about the possibility of the business part of the city expanding to the north. Events subsequent to the passing of the bylaw to expropriate . . . show that any expansion of the business district was to the south and west . . . There have been no new buildings erected on either side of George St., north of Brock St., notwithstanding that there is a vacant lot.

Judge Smoke said he found that on the evidence Seabrook was putting the existing property to its best use.

The Judge also pointed out that in February, 1948, Mr. Seabrook offered the property to the city for $16,000 but three months later, before getting a definite reply, he negotiated a sale to Robert Paris for $12,000. But Paris did not go through with it.

"Why was he (Seabrook) prepared to sell for that price when he had an offer to the city outstanding which would net him $4,000 more if the city accepted the offer?"

Judge Smoke also noted that the expropriation bylaw was not passed until the following December and it was Paris, not Seabrook, who found out there was a chance of the city expropriating the property.

Witnesses who gave evidence for Mr. Seabrook placed more emphasis on the future possibilities of the property than they should have done, Judge Smoke found.

Alex L. Elliott, KC, was counsel for Mr. Seabrook and his wife; W. B. Gordon appeared for the Tindle estate, and T. J. Carley, KC, represented the city.

FROST'S VICTIMS

Those zinnias are not so tough-fibred as they look. The frost last week took the life out of them. Just as regrettable is the loss of the marigolds. Motorcyclist Hurt In Crash

A motorcyclist suffered a broken left arm and left leg Sunday night when his motorcycle and a car collided on George St. at McDonnell St.

The cyclist, Jack McKee, 19, of 221 McGill St., was rushed to Civic Hospital by ambulance. Driver of the car, Campbell Rowatt, 400 Dublin St., suffered only a bruised knee.

McKee told police he was riding south on George St. when he saw a northbound car turn west on McDonnel St. Rowatt said he saw the motorcycle coming, and swung sharply to the left to avoid the accident.

McKee hit the car on the right front fender, was thrown in the air and landed on the left side of the hood. In landing, his feet broke the left windshield of Rowatts' car.

When Constables Andre Dalton and Louis Rodreque arrived, they found McKee jammed underneath the sun visor.

McKee's motorcycle was on fire, the fire department was called and put out the blaze. The motorcycle is a total loss. Grill of Rowatt's auto was wrecked and the right front corner of the car was extensively damaged.

Police say there were no skid marks from either car or motorcycle to indicate the drivers had applied their brakes.

Ernest Milburn, 77, Dies; Hit By Automobile On Highway 7 Near Home

Crossed Road To Collect Mail At Box Driver Of Car Blinded By Lights Of Oncoming Automobile

Ernest Reginald Milburn, 77, of Smith township, died at 8:30 a.m. today in Civic hospital of injuries received when he was hit by a car Saturday night near his home on Highway 7. He had suffered a fractured skull, broken left leg and possible internal injuries when a car driven by Wilbert Kelly, 24, 110 Murray St., hit him.

Kelly told police that about 8:15 Saturday night he was driving north on Hihgway 7 about half-a-mile north of the city when a southboud car's lights blinded him for a moment. Kelly said he slowed his car and when he could see clearly again, he saw a man standing in the middle of the east half of the road.

Swung Car

Kelly swung to the right to miss him, but the left front fender of the car caught Milburn, throwing him a few feet to the north. Kelly stopped immediately and telephoned police.

Milburn, who lives on the west side of the Chemong road, had been walking south on the hill to his home, after buying groceries. When he was opposite his home, he walked to the east side of the highway to pick up his mail.

It is thought he was just turning for home when he was hit. Groceries were scattered along the road for about 25 feet from the scene of the accident.

OPP Constable T. H. Armstrong investigated.

Mr. Milburn, a lifelong resident of Smith township, was a farmer, and was a son of the late Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Milburn. His wife, the former Margaret Cookson, died six years ago. Mr. Milburn was an adherent of the Anglican church, and at one time was a Mason.

He is survived by one son, Jack, on the Chemong road, a daughter, Mrs. Bruce E. Marshall (Jean), Montreal, and two brothers, Harry, on the Chemong road, and Walter of Sherbrooke St., Peterborough.

Funeral service will be Wednesday at the Comstock funeral home, and burial will be in Little Lake cemetery. Other arrangements have not yet been made.

Minister Proves Dietary Theory, Laughs At Pills

TORONTO—(CP)—The Rev. F. A. Robinson, former member of the social service department of the Presbyterian Church in Canada, says he has found a method of eating his troubles away.

Tkenty years ago he suffered from arthritis, psoriasis, deafness and duodenal ulcer. Then he discovered a health foundation in the United States, which introduced him to a special course in eating.

Having already undergone eight operations, listened to the advice of 21 specialists, had his tonsils and 10 teeth removed he felt he might as well give the dietary experts a chance. Now, at the age of 78, he is healthy and full of life.

The food theories he came to accept are not so much concerned with what a person eats as the combinations in which they are eaten. For instance, he says, starches do not combine well with each other. Neither do such protein foods as meat, fish, cheese, eggs, milk and nuts, and, too, proteins don't adjust well with starches. This last strikes a blow at the old meat and potato combination.

Natural Sweets

He recommends natural sweets, brown sugar, dates, figs maple syrup and raisins which, in his opinion, combine well with other foods but should not be taken in too large quantities because they are highly concentrated. The same applies to fats and oils.

All vegetables and sour fruits combine well but sweet fruits, such as dates and figs, should not be eaten with acid fruits, he says.

What does this sort of diet leave the health-minded individual?

Robinson quotes the breakfast he favors:

The juice of three oranges mixed with a pint of cereal cream. For extra pep, a raw egg or two, two or three times a week.

He skips lunch five times a week and when he eats it, he has a salad.

For dinner he has "solid food" something in the protein group, but often goes two or three days without meat, using nuts instead.

Every day he has a salad of uncooked vegetables of which he regards celery at the most valuable.

Find Building Controls Setting Record

By FORBES RHUDE
Canadian Press Business Editor

Industrial and engineering projects, with emphasis on oil, aluminum, base metals, pulp, and chemicals, kept Canadian construction contracts hitting record figures in September.

Total contracts in al lcategories, says MacLean Building Reports Ltd., were $185,294,500, a gain of $56,160,000 over September last year.

The gain in the total was made despite a continuing heavy drop in residential construction. Most of the gain was in Ontario, which had shown a drop in August.

Total contracts for the first nine months of the year reached $1,878,035,800, up $867,266,800 over the first nine months of last year.

September figures by categories, with changes from September, 1950, were:

Residential $29,979,000, down $26,300,000; commercial $44,269,200, up $1,300,000; industrial $52,059,900, up $40,700,000; engineering $58,986,400, up $40,400,000.

By Regions:

Maritimes $7,243,800, down $3,100; Quebec $43,222,500, up $5,945,400; Ontario $101,372,800, up $54,985,400; West $33,455,400, down $4,800,000.

Provincial and municipal financing in September total $65,866,329, compared with $1,368,618 in September, 1950, says Wood, Gundy and Co., Ltd. Total bond financing in the first nine months of the year, including corporation issue, was $711,616,416, compared with $1,613,365,967 in the first nine months last year. Government of Canada financing, of which there has been none this year to date, accounted for the higher 1950 figure.

Of the total provincial and municipal September financing, $55,416,000 was sold in New York and $10,450,329 in Canada. Of this category's total in the first nine months, $281,887,000 was sold in the United States and $166,569,416 in Canada.

Meter Ticks

A Wall Street Journal story says that in 1950, taxicab companies in United States moved 1,666,000,000 passengers (equivalent to about three-quarters of the world's population) in cabs which travelled 5,000,000,000 miles (roughly equal to 27 round trips to the sun). The bill was $848,000,000.

Meat Market Entered $125 In Beef Stolen

CAMPBELLFORD, Oct. 1. — (ENS) — Beef may retail at ninety-odd cents a pound, but one group of persons will find it costing them a lot more when Campbellford police catch up with them.

Thieves Friday night broke into the rear door of Kellaher's meat market on Bridge St., and walked off with a front and hind quarter of beef. The meat was valued at $125.00.

Chief Constable George H. Hardy is investigating, and says he expects to make an arrest shortly. An old model car was used to transport the loot.

A wire was damaged while the thieves were gaining entry, putting out the lights in the district. Business was carried on Saturday morning with the aid of candles.

"A hundred and twenty-five bucks—gee, they must have got close to 10 pounds of the stuff," said one citizen when he learned the value of the stolen meat.

Attlee Predicts Tyranny To End

SLAITHWAITE, Yorkshire, England, Oct. 1 — (Reuters) — Prime Minister Attlee in a campaign address for the national election Oct. 25, predicted Saturday Russian tyranny will eventually be overthrown by "forces of the human spirit" in Russia.

He told a Labor party rally that Russia would be more reasonable when she realized the strength of the Democracies.

Attlee attacked his political opponents, Winston Churchill's Conservatives, with the charge: voters will have to decide whether economic and social progress should stop or continue.

While Churchill at his country home near London prepared for a major speech in Liverpool Tuesday, Conservative executive member R. A. Butler spoke at Dunmow, Essex.

"We have lost the great spirit of Dunkirk during the past six years," he said. "Today even an Iranian Prime Minister in bed can insult us." He added: "We just sit back and do nothing."

Broader Appointments Urged For Senate

VANCOUVER, Oct. 1—(CP)—Senator J. G. Turgeon of Vancouver Saturday night advocated appointment to the senate of representatives of responsible community groups, regardless of politics.

He suggested appointments might be made from the business and manufacturing field, farming associations, labor unions, councils of women, consumers' organizations and from among those engaged in education or journalism.

Senator Turgeon made his suggestion during a panel discussion on "The Future of the Canadian Senate" broadcast by a Vancouver radio station.

He said some appointments of this nature would make the senate a more representative body.

However, since the senate was responsible for constitutional rights of provincial legislatures and parliament, "men and women with parliamentary experience must continue to be among those appointed."

Say Row Housing May Ease Shortage

TORONTO, Oct. 1 — (CP) — Row housing may solve the problem of the man who wants a house but can't raise the down payment, some Toronto architects and builders think.

A row of dwellings under one roof is economical to build and maintain. Builders say it is possible to sell row housing units for about $7,500 or $8,000, compared with $10,000 or more for a detached house. Best of all, the down payment can be as low as $1,000 or $1,500.

Norman H. McMurrich, chairman of the Toronto chapter of the Ontario Association of Architects, said in an interview.

"There is no sacrifice of privacy or any of the other amenities in a properly designed row house."

Ghosts Triumph 17-2 Over Battling Orfuns

Jake Edmiston's Galloping Ghosts handed Frank Gnup's Orfuns a 17-2 setback at Cobourg Saturday, in a regular senior B, ORFU, struggle before the season's largest crowd.

It was Ghosts' third triumph of the season without a loss and Orfuns' second defeat in three games to date.

Orfuns, oddly enough, outplayed Ghosts over the route, but the latter took full advantage of a blocked kick on Orfuns' 15 in the first half, to score a major, and when the visitors' front wall broke late in the final quarter, after a brilliant display for almost two quarters, Ken Medhurst ran the broken field 100 yards for a touchdown. Orfuns counted singles in the final quarter when Cooper was forced to rouge on Huntley's low attempted placement, and Chuck Paul hoofed to the deadline on third down from the home 30 at nine-minute mark.

Two Injured

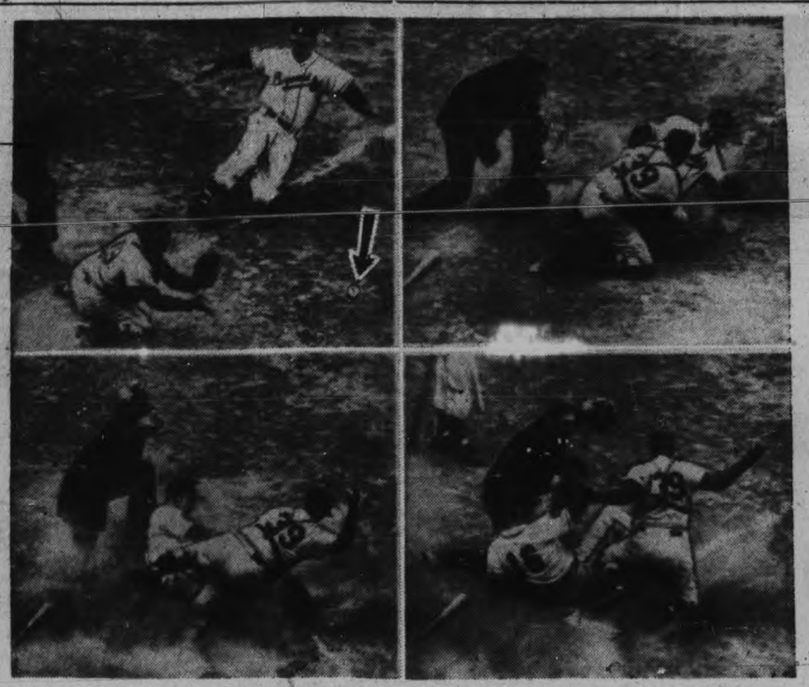
Peterborough were minus their star centre, Creighton Johnston, due to illness; also Jerry McGillis, out with a knee injury. Spook Graham gave a courageous display at snap for 60 minutes, despite a broken wrist; but he was far from his best.

Cobourg scored midway in the first quarter, following a series of close plays both ways and a few muffs by both teams. A kick forced Orfuns to their own 20 where a forward pass failed. Paul, who had kicked a 70-yard punt a few minutes earlier to take his team out of danger, was unable to handle the snap, and Bill Douglas grabbed the precious pigskin to romp over the line unmolested. Jones converted from placement; it was a tough break after a gallant start. Play was even for the remainder of the quarter.

Drove Down Field

Flesch, Campbell, Kane and Medhurst led a down-field drive in the second, Cobourg's best quarter, that culminated in a major score about midway in the frame when Joe Kane plunged over from the one-yard line, but Jones missed the uprights for the extra point this time.

Bob Cooper hoofed a single, late in the quarter, after an Orfun fumble gave Ghosts possession on the visitors' 45, and with time short the men of Edmiston played it safe. Both teams opened up an aerial attack and continued much passing in the third, but little success accompanied either team. Each completed two pass attempts while 19 went astray, 13 by Orfuns, either intercepted or knocked down.



Cobourg lost by far the more on penalties, nine miscues for offsides, illegal interference and holding as against four for Orfuns.

The final half saw a rejuvenated Orfun squad take the offensive to completely overshadow the homesters' best efforts. Led by Ron Hodson, Bill Huntley, Lally Lalonde, Spike Matthews, Gord Beatty, Don McGillis, Clive Naismith, and with the entire team plugging hard, the Gnupmen held play in the rival end for all but two minutes of play. Only desperate defence work held off the visitors from a major score. Cobourg earned their win, but the breaks played a big part too. Orfuns' next game is in Orillia Saturday.

Chicago Hopes To Beat Jinx, Make Playoffs

By BRITT JESSUP.

NORTH BAY, Oct. 1 (CP). — If old kid injury will give them a breather this season, Chicago Black Hawks hope to catch one of the four playoff spots in the six-team National Hockey League —something that has eluded them since the 1945-46 season.

"Our club is 25 per cent stronger this season," says manager-coach Ebbie Goodfellow, and president Bill Tobin echoes his remarks.

But the injury jinx has already hit the club which last season suffered 35 per cent of the injuries in the league.

Four regular defencemen — Clare Martin, Clare Raglan, Lee Fogolin and Bill Gadsby—went to the sidelines with injuries when the Hawks were in training here for the campaign they open on Thursday, Oct. 11, against the Canadiens at Montreal. Martin's injury—to his knee—was the most serious. He has been inactive almost since the first scrimmage. The others are expected to get back into harness shortly.

Goodfellow wasted no time in making use of the six players the Hawks purchased during the summer from Detroit Red Wings for $75,000. Martin and Raglan took up regular defence posts, George Gee and Jim McFadden went to centre ice jobs, Jimmy Peters was assigned a right-wing berth and Max McNab was aiming at a third-string centre spot when he suffered a pinched nerve in his hip and went to hospital.

Holds Up Line

Late arrival of veterans Doug Bentley and Roy Conacher made it impossible for Goodfellow to decide on his forward line combinations.

When the team left here, Goodfellow was still juggling and the Hawks signed three leading western Canada amateurs in an effort to add strength—Fred Hucul, 19, of Esten, Alta., Sid Finney of Calgary and Steve Witiuk of Winnipeg, both 22.

Veterans like Bill Mosienko, Pete Babando, Bep Guidolin and Jim Conacher are back and hustling to keep their jobs from promising youngsters with the Flyers.

Harry Lumley one of the best, is back in goal and looked sharp in practice. He should have better protection this season than last when the other five NHL teams scored 280 goals against the hapless Hawks. Black Jack Stewart and Gadsby, a pair of sturdy blueliners who missed much of last season with injuries, are back to help hold off the attackers.

Arrest 3 Doctors

BOSTON, Oct. 1 — (AP) — A wealthy Commonwealth Avenue woman and three Greater Boston doctors were arrested Sunday in connection with the operations of what police described as "the biggest abortion ring in a generation in New England." The quartet was booked as Mrs. Edna Grant, 51, widow of a Belmont doctor; Dr. Herman A. Schwartz, 51, and Dr. Louis A. Mendoza, 52, both of Brookline, and Dr. Frank Rosenowicz, 50, of Boston.

Hastings Evens Dixie Series

HASTINGS, Oct. 1 (ENS). — Hastings juniors revived Saturday night, after a severe defeat by Dixie in the first game of their OASA junior series in Hastings, to trim Dixie at home 10-7 in 11 innings to even the series.

The third and deciding game will be played in the Riverside Bowl tonight in Peterborough.

Dixie led the well - played, hard-fought game most of the way and Hastings were down two runs going into the top of the ninth. Suddenly they exploded with three runs to lead 7-6.

Dixie suddenly recovered and tied the score in the bottom of the ninth.

Hastings filled the bases in the 10th, but failed to score; then shut Dixie out in their half.

Full of Surprises

In the top of the 11th Stanfield on the mound for Dixie seemed to have everything under control when Macown and Oliver popped up for easy outs. But Kelly reached first on a single, then raced home on a triple by Spencer.

Morrow, who is recovering from a slight batting slump, then poled a homer to finish the rally. West retired Dixie in order.

West for Hastings and Stanfield for Dixie went the route, and while Stanfield tired towards the end, West seemed stronger. Both pitchers helped their causes as West recorded a three for six and Stanfield hit a homer in the fifth with one aboard. Holmes also hit a homer with one aboard for Hastings.

Lineups:

Hastings — Kelly 3b, Spencer cf, Morrow lf, Holmes 1b, West p, Stevenson rf, Macowan ss, Oliver c.

Dixie—Melchoir c, Stanfield p, Milne 2b, Rogers ss, Habkirk 1b, Gibt rf, Hillis cf, Lowndes lf, Sutherland 3b.

UEW Advances In Ontario Soccer Cup Play

Peterborough's UEW soccer team continued to wind its way down the Ontario Intermediate Cup play Saturday in Orillia.

After walloping Orillia in the first game of the home-and-home series a week ago 6-0, the UEW waltzed to a 3-1 victory in Orillia Saturday. This gave Peterborough the round 9-1.

UE won the toss and decided to play with the help of the strong wind at their backs. From the kickoff they pressed and the game was a replica of the first game: Orillia supplied the dash and UEW the polished football.

After several attacks, tested Orillia, Strong opened the Peterborough scoring on a pass from Wood. After that play was more midfield. UEW had several corner kicks but couldn't increase the lead by halftime.

Second half play had just began when UEW were given a free kick and Craig neatly slipped the ball through for Strong to score his second goal.

The strong wind spoiled many scoring threats for Peterborough but Orillia after several near misses, caught the Petes' defence flat-footed to make the score 2-1.

About 10 minutes to go, Andy Smith broke away on the left and after beating the fullback, put an oblique shot inside the far post. Play remained even after this scoring play.

UEW are now waiting notification of their next opponents.

Oshawa Wallops PCVS Juniors In 46-1 Rout

For the first in many seasons, an Oshawa grid team walloped their perennial rivals from the Liftlock City, when Oshawa Collegiate and Vocational Institute juniors defeated PCI 46-1 in Oshawa on Saturday afternoon in a junior COSSA tilt.

Oshawa's husky backfield uncorked an opening drive right after the kickoff but were halted at the Peterborough goal line by a fumble but Buckey Richards downed Hollingsworth behind the Garnet and Grey line for a safety touch and the first two points.

Another Peterborough fumble gave Oshawa possession only 25 yards out. Graham tried a field goal and when John Boorman, the receiver, dropped it, Johnny Graham, who had followed his own kick, well on the ball on the 9-yard line. Then Keith Sutherland and Bill Pascoe uncorked an end run that resulted in Oshawa's first touchdown.

Peterborough elected to try an aerial attack when their plungers were being stopped cold but this change of tactics produced no better results, Brodie intercepted one and making a gain after which Pascoe skirted the end of the line and ran 27 yards for another touchdown.

Oshawa made it 19-0 by the end of the quarter. Although they were even early in the second by line plays by Gary Kearns, OCVI rallied at their own 25 yard line to hold and Hollingsworth booted the ball into the end zone, where Al Zedic was downed for what proved to be the visitors lone point of the game.

Oshawa forged steadily ahead after that and added to their total in every quarter.

Branigan-Hayes Nuptials

HAVELOCK Oct. 1 (ENS)—Havelock United Church was setting for a lovely wedding Saturday afternoon when Lillian Geneva, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Hayes of Havelock pledged nuptial vows with Neil James Branigan, son of Mr. Edward Branigan of Belleville.

The Rev. R. G. Newman performed the ceremony under an arch of evergreens entwined with fall flowers which were also used for altar and window decorations. The wedding music was played by Mr. Donald Pollock. The soloist was Miss Gladys Langton of Peterborough who sang "I Love You Truly" prior to the ceremony and "Because" during the signing of the register.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a gown of white satin fashioned with a panel of French lace down front and back, long lace sleeves coming to a point over her hands. The bodice buttoned up the front to a satin Peter Pan collar. Her fingertip veil was of nylon net, trimmed across the bottom with small satin ornaments and caught to a coronet trimmed with seed pearls. She carried a cascade of red roses and white 'mums.

Miss Ethel Menzies was maid of honor, wearing a gown of pink sheer crepe over satin fashioned with a full skirt, shirred bodice with cape effect neckline. She wore matching mittens and her headdress was a wreath of pink artificial flowers. She carried a nosegay of pink 'mums. Miss Hazel Ellis was bridesmaid gowned in blue brocoded organdy over taffeta, designed with a vee neckline and scalloped collar which formed a cape sleeve, and a full skirt. She wore matching mittens and her headdress was a wreath of artificial flowers. She carried a nosegay of yellow 'mums.

Patricia Cotter of Baltimore, four year old cousin of the bride, was flower girl in yellow taffeta with a matching taffeta headdress in heart-shape design. She carried a nosegay of pink sweetheart roses.

Mr. Roy Branigan of Point Anne, Ontario, brother of the groom was groomsman.

Ushers were, Orvil Ellis and Donald Newton.

A reception was held in the Sunday school auditorium of the church where a buffet luncheon was served by the west group of the Women's Association. The bride's mother received in a grey taffeta gown with wine velvet accessories, with a corsage of white carnations. She was assisted by Mrs. George Brown of Brighton, aunt of the groom, who wore a wine gown, with navy accessories and corsage of pink carnations.

For a wedding trip to points east the bride wore, a navy suit, with matching hat, and accessories and a corsage of red roses. They will live in Belleville.

O'Donoghue-Fanning

The marriage was solemnized in Sacred Heart Church Saturday morning of Anne Rosina, daughter of Mr. and Mrs Leo J. Fanning to Gerald Michael, son of Mr. and Mrs. Daniel O'Donoghue.

The Rev. G. Sullivan performed the ceremony and said the nuptial mass. The altar was decorated with red and white gladioli and roses. The organ was played by Mr. Heribert Michel and Mrs. T. DeNoble sang "Ave Maria," "Paris Angelicus" and "On This Day."

The bride was given in marriage by her father and wore a gown of French rose-point silk brocade. Her fingertip veil of illusion was shirred on a scalloped band of brocade and she carried a cascade of white Queen's lace 'mums with an orchid and streamers of star-dust ribbon.

The maid of honor was Miss Pauline Fanning, sister of the bride, and bridesmaids were Miss Gertrude O'Donoghue, sister of the groom and Miss Margaret Fanning, sister of the bride. They all wore dresses of winter cherry silk velvet and halos of braided velvet and net. They carried muffs of white 'mums, trimmed with a corsage of orchid gladioli. The flower girl was Miss Sharon O'Donoghue, niece of the groom, and she wore a dress of snow-pink velvet and carried a ring of pink roses and white baby 'mums.

Groomsman was Mr. Robert O'Donoghue, brother of the groom and ushers were Mark O'Donoghue, brother of the groom and Neil Fanning, cousin of the bride.

A dinner was served in St. Joseph's auditorium and a reception was held after at the home of the bride's parents. Her mother received, wearing a dress of clarion faille with butternut accessories and a corsage of Talisman roses. She was assisted by the groom's mother who wore a navy dress with navy accessories and a corsage of Johanna Hill roses.

DOROTHY DIX

Husband More Important Than In-Law's Whims

DEAR MISS DIX: During World War II, my husband incurred a respiratory trouble that makes living in the north difficult for him. Following doctor's advice, he moved to Florida where he has a good job and is in much better health. I remained up north with my widowed mother. She refuses to leave all her friends here and go south with me, and doesn't want me to go either. She is very angry with my brother for saying I should be where my husband can earn a living to the best advantage. I can't bear to leave my friends, and especially my mother. My husband is a fine man and mother thinks he could make a go of it here if he really cared for me. What is your solution to this difficult problem?

Dorothy Dix

J. M.

ANSWER: The problem in itself is not difficult—it's just that you and your mother are making it so. Your place is with your husband, in common sense he should be where conditions are best for his health; ergo: you should be in Florida. Your mother should be sensible enough to go along with you; in fact, I should think she'd welcome a change of scenery and environment. Most women her age are complaining of boredom!

If your mother insists on staying in your home city, your course is clearly to leave her there and join your husband. His is the greater need of you, his welfare your greater obligation.

Young people are very adaptable and make friends easily. You'll have no trouble making a pleasant, new life for yourself and your husband. The fact that you're moving to another part of the country does not necessitate breaking all ties with your old friends; our modern means of communication and transportation will keep you together. Perhaps in a few years your husband's health will improve to the point where he can work up north again. Your mother's suggestion that he should return to the harsher climate even against doctor's orders is nothing but extreme selfishness and I must advise you to ignore it.

DEAR MISS DIX: For fifteen years I have been goin with a married man with whom I am deeply in love. His wife will not give him his freedom. I am 41 and feel I can't go on waiting for her to change her mind. I have opportunities to go out with single men. Should I accept them or continue waiting?

MARY

❖ ❖ ❖

ANSWER: Life may begin at 41, but apparently common sense doesn't! You've already wasted fifteen years of your life, and apparently enjoy your martyrdom. But be sure of one thing! If your lover's wife should decide to give him a divorce, you won't be her successor. Fifteen years of your sort of devotion has convinced him that you lack character, brains, backbone, and every other attribute a man looks for in a wife. If you have an available single suitor around, better grab him!

❖ ❖ ❖

DEAR MISS DIX: Would it be all right for me to send a birthday or get-well card to a boy I know, but have never dated? I am 14. SIS

❖ ❖ ❖

ANSWER: Cordial greeting cards for any occasion are never amiss. It is perfectly in order to send one to a boy, even though you have never gone out with him.

Women Workers Pass Up London

LONDON — (CP)—More and more of Britain's £3-a-week women office workers are staying close to home.

Instead of flocking to take jobs in the City and West End they prefer to work in factories, small offices and shops near their homes.

"The situation is noticeably worse than last year," said Mrs. Rosalind Pyke, who runs an employment agency in London's Bermondsey district.

"The City and West End have only 10 per cent of the juniors they need, compared with 20 per cent last year."

Reasons given for this migration of youngsters to jobs in the provinces are increased fares, discomfort of rush-hour travel and the high cost of restaurant meals.

At a starting salary of £3, £3 15s. if they can type, the girls find it cheaper to work where they can cycle to and from work and go home for lunch.

Writers Study Prices Of Clothing

By MURIEL NARRAWAY

LONDON—(CP)—A controversial theme for most fashion writers in Britain these autumn days is whether a woman can buy a presentable outfit for £10.

Since the Labor government issued a women's pamphlet saying it could be done, articles in London's daily newspapers and in most women's magazines have been weighing the pros and cons.

The verdict? It can be done, but . . . and in that "but" lies the story. You can dress cheaply if you are satisfied with the stereotyped mass-produced article that are sold by the hundred.

You can find short swing jackets around £5, straight skirts from £2 10s. upwards, suits at seven guineas, dresses around £3 and accessories costing upwards of 15s. But these prices do not include that "something special" that makes you different from the crowd.

One fashion writer, Gwen Robyns of The Evening News, went looking for ready-to-wear cocktail dresses of the type favored by the bigger-income office group—the boss' private secretary, the head cashier and so on. She found prices were crushing.

They ranged from £30 to £60 for off-the-peg numbers—lovely full-skirted dresses with embroidered strapless bodices and tiny jackets or boleros. These are the dresses most women sigh for, but are priced well beyond the means of the highest-paid office worker.

Said a buyer from one London department store "if a customer pays 25 guineas for a cocktail dress she expects the cocktails as well."

For ordinary day wear, most women of the "upper-office set" find they must begin where the Labor government left off. A suit or coat of the "right type" ranges from £10 to £20 while an office dress costs from £4 to £7. Accessory changes alone—one of the mainstays of a well-planned wardrobe based on a few good pieces—are in themselves expensive. Just a pretty chiffon hankie for pocket decoration combined with matching suede belt means an outlay of about £1.

High prices and tight purse strings have resulted in a sales resistence that worried Britain's shopkeepers. Some have started price-cutting campaigns that have nothing in common with the usual seasonal sales. One company with 19 shops in London and the provinces slashed prices to below cost. For instance, a coat formerly costing £8 now sells at £6.

For the moment, however, only multiple stores and a few private firms are reducing prices. Most women have their fingers crossed hoping department stores will soon follow suit with high-quality merchandise.

MARY MOORE SAYS:

Preparing Fall Vegetables For Freezing In Your Homes

Those fortunate girls who have deep freezers in their own homes were promised more methods for preparing fall vegetables for freezing by me.

The time has come to prepare and freeze squash, broccoli, green limas. I will include also the method for Brussels sprouts, for it will be plentiful soon.

All the vegetables that are included today are well adapted to freezing. Commercial freezing companies consider them good products for freezing.

Broccoli—Preparation for Freezing

Italian green sprouting or Green Calabreeze are the recommended varieties. Select dark green young compact heads. There should be no sign of spreading or yellowing or flowering. Use only the heads and tender portions of stalks. Trim off woody outside skin of some of the stalks and use only inner stalk if desired. Cut through stalks so that pieces of head are not more than one inch across. Wash carefully to be sure little gren grubs are washed out.

(All vegetables require blanching).

Blanch the broccoli by placing in wire basket or tying loosely in double cheesecloth bag, and immersing in vigorously boiling water to cover. Blanch not more than 1 lb. at a time. Blanch broccoli 2 or 3 minutes. Cool by plunging in cold or ice water. Drain. Pack in 1 pint waxed containers to within ½ inch of top. Pour over 2 per cent brine—made by dissolving 1 tablespoon (non-freerunning non-iodized) salt in 5 measuring cups cold water, leaving ½-inch headspace. Cover and freeze.

Squash (or pumpkin) Preparation for Freezing

Use Hubbard, Acorn, Golden Delicious or any deep yellow type. Use only well matured cegetables. Cut or break apart, remove seeds and pithy portion. Cut in small pieces and steam 30 minutes. Squash and pumpkin do not require blanching since they have had this long precooking Cool quickly and remove rind. Mash or push through sieve and pack dry, leaving ½ inch headspace. Cover and freeze at once.

Gren Limas — Preparation for Freezing

Use only fresh picked limas and shell out. Blanch 2 minutes (See directions for blanching under Broccoli). Cool quickly by plunging into cold or ice water. Drain and pack dry. No brine. Leave ½ inch headspace, cover and freeze at once.

Brussels Sprouts—Preparation for Freezing

Select compact head of deep green color, that are not wilted, and that are fresh. Trim off yellow and marked leaves. Wash very well, making sure all grubs are flooded from between leaves. Blanch 3 minutes. Cool quickly by plunging into cold or ice water. Pack dry or in 2 per cent brine. (See under broccoli for brine). Leave ½ inch headspace, cover and freeze at once.

Manufacturers find that the vegetables that are adaptable to most successful freezing are: asparagus, beans—three kinds — yellow green and limas, peas, spinach, whole kernel corn, and squash. Corn on the cob tends to develop off-flavors—but nonetheless is a great treat during the winter. Vegetables commonly served raw and which contain a lot of water such as celery, tomatoes, lettuce, cucumbers are never frozen. All root vegetables keep without freezing if stored properly. Write to me if you would like other freezing information.

—Ever remembered by her family.

THOMPSON —In loving memory of a dear mother, Mrs. Mary Thompson who passed away, October 1, 1950.
It's only a wonderful journey
From the old world to the new,
Where golden gates have opened wide
To let our loved one through
And there with just the same glad smile
And the heart we cherished so
Our mother awaits until we meet.
In the land where loved ones go.
—Ever remembered by daughter, Esther and son-in-law Harold and family.

Urges Catholics Fight Communism

VATICAN CITY, Oct. 1—(AP)—The Pope called upon Roman Catholics Sunday to close ranks and fight against mounting communist assaults for the survival of civilization. The threats of a "definite and fatal war hover like a black cloud over humanity," he said.

In messages broadcast to National Eucharistic Congresses in France and Switzerland, and to the "Eucharistic Days" of Madagasgar, the Pope referred to the impending threats of a world war and to the communist menace.

In his speech to Roman Catholics in Nimes, France, celebrating their 15th National Eucharistic Congress, the Pope said, "there are no longer problems limited to the interests and the destiny of one or two nations, but universal problems, opposing one against the other formidable coalitions whose clash could cause the most disastrous consequences."

In a second broadcast, the Pope warned Swiss Catholics at their Eucharistic Congress at the Abbey of Einsidln, that should communism win it would impose upon humanity an "anti-Christian and anti-human rule," worse than the persecutions of the Roman Emperors in the early centuries of christianity.

Without naming communism directly, the Pope clearly referred to its persecution and to its cruelty in both speeches.

Will Ask WMS For Extra $10,000 To Train Workers

REGINA, Oct. 1 (CP).—Members of the Women's Missionary Society of the Presbyterian Church in Canada will be asked to make more personal sacrifices to provide an extra $10,000 in 1951-52.

Mrs. G. R. Pye Saturday laid before the Dominion Council of the society, holding its annual meeting here, a budget calling for $210,000.

"It is a great privilege to be a member of the WMS," she said, "but it just as great a responsibility for each member.

"We are being asked to do what seems impossible today but if Christ is with us nothing that we attempt to do in His name is impossible."

The council meeting, which opened Sept. 25, ended last night. Mrs. Arthur W. Pae of Toronto was re-elected president.

Miss Laura K. Pelton, overseas executive secretary, described a new method of providing missionary workers for overseas.

"Instead of sending Canadians abroad, young people are being brought to Canada and given training in theology, medicine and pedagogy," she said.

Five missionaries now were being trained in this way by the WMS. She mentioned specifically Rev. Wenchi Kim who will return to Japan in November after two years in the Dominion.

Miss Pelton said there is great need for modern mechanical equipment for overseas missions. Two motor vehicles had been sent to India for use as travelling clinics. This had enabled the church to provide medical treatment for many thousands of jungle-dwellers.

But many of these primitive people still were under the influence of witch doctors. To serve them adequately, at least three more traveling clinics were needed.

There also was need of visual education equipment including projectors, screens and sound equipment.

One missionary, Mary Sherrick of Weyburn, Sask., who is working in India, reported need for farm equipment. She was training the people in better farm practices.

Miss Pelton said another missionary, Margaret Kennedy of Montreal, had done much to teach Indian women spinning, weaving sewing, better health practices and cooking.

More than 100 delegates attended the council meeting, the first held in Regina.

Students Slacking

LONDON, Oct. 1—(Reuters) — Medical students are slacking off in their studnes because so many new cures have been discovered, Sir Henry Cohen, professor of medicine at Liverpool University, said today. "Students are restless with the irksome details of bacteriology when they learn that aureomycin will cure most bacterial infections," he wrote in "The Practitioner."

Civilization To Blame For Toothaches

The next time a jabbing toothache sends you rushing to the nearest telephone to make an appointment with your dentist, it may be some consolation to blame your molar misery on civilization.

Civilization gets blamed for many of the ills of society these days and although the Peterborough and District Dental Public Health Committee is not advocating a movement back to nature, it points out in a statement issued today that "tooth decay is one of the hall-marks of civilized societies."

This is Dental Health Week and the local committee is doing its part to focus public attention on the importance of regular examinations and care of the teeth.

According to the statement, the days of the cave-man were "caries free." Caries is the dental term for tooth decay and "as long as man lived simply and spent his time hunting, fishing and tending his small crop of cereals," he didn't have to worry about tooth decay.

Of course, it was a good thing primitive man didn't have any toothaches because there were no dentists then and it would have been quite a job drilling out a tooth with a stone chisel.

Follows Civilization

However, if a map were prepared to show the parts of the world where "caries" is most common, it would shaw that "the occurrence of the disease is closely related to the domestic development and in particular to the degree of civilization of the various communities."

The statement goes on to say that historical records show that tooth decay first made its appearance as "a disease of the nobility and the rich. As the centuries rolled by, domestic civilization spread. More and more people began to enjoy easier living habits, more leisure and luxury and more prepared foods."

In the wake of this progress came tooth decay and today, it is common in all countries and recognized as one of the commonest of the human diseases.

Pt. Hope Priest Leaves Parish

PORT HOPE, Oct. 1—Rev. J. J. Guiry, pastor of St. Mary's church for the last 23 years, was presented with a purse and parting address of respect and gratitude by the members of the parish Sunday afternoon.

The presentation was made by John Horgan and Kenneth McMahon following the reading of the parishioners' address by the Rev. Edward Sherry, S.J., Toronto.

It read in part: "You came to us in the summer of your life, and now in the fall of the year and in the fruitful autumn of your days, not through any wish of ours but by your own volition, you have requested our beloved bishop to relieve you of the cares and burdens of the parish."

Father Guiry thanked the congregation for their kindness and thought in remembering him on his going. In his final word he reminded them of their duty as Christians to peresvere in God's way of life. He is being transferred to a hospital chaplaincy at Parry Sound.

The clergy present included: Most Rev. Gerald Berry, D.D.; Rt. Rev. P. P. Butler, the Rev. John Coughlan, the Rev. Gerard Maher, the Rev. Stephen Coffey, the Rev. Jos. Collins, the Rev. F. K. Malane.

Miss Found prepared and cooked a full course dinner each day demonstrating the proper methods of preparing Swiss steak, fish and roast pork.

Assistants were: Mrs. Clarence Mann, Mrs. Everett Cockburn and WI president Mrs. Henry Sharpe.

Not Meeting Goals

WASHINGTON, Oct. 1—(AP)—Europe is failing to meet military production goals, Defence Mobilizer Charles E. Wilson said Sunday night, and it "must divert substantially more" of its resources to defence. Wilson's third quarterly report to President Truman on the status of the worldwide mobilization of the free world against the threat of Communism stated that Europe, even with US aid, has fallen behind schedule.

Not Thought Being Queen Elizabeth's Early Years Had

By ARTHUR J. MATHERS,
NEA Special Correspondent

LONDON—(NEA)—Before she was 10, Elizabeth, daughter of the self-effacing Duke of York and his lovely Scottish bride, was caught up in the chain of events which was to envelop her for the rest of her life.

While Philip was progressing through the various schools that finally led him to the Royal Naval College at Dartmouth, England, the golden-haired infant princess was going gently and joyously through the least conventional childhood of anyone destined to ascend a great throne.

Her father still felt that "he ran no risk"—as he put it— of succeeding to the Crown. Elizabeth and her sister Margaret were following a simple daily routine of lessons in the nursery of their house in Piccadilly.

If Elizabeth has inherited her firm character, strong sense of duty and very strong will from her father, it was from her mother she has been given the conscientious, contemplative side of her nature. She has always had an instinctive knowledge for the needs of others and is easily moved by injustice or unhappiness.

Her love and understanding of animals show in her ability to handle horses. Today, in her specially designed riding uniform as Colonel-in-Chief of the Grenadier Guards, she invariably steals the show at the annual ceremonial "Trooping of the Color," a traditional full-dress parade which attracts visitors to London from all parts of the globe.

Two years ago, her famous charger, "Winston", was maddened by summer fly stings. He gave a full scale rodeo performance at the climax of the "marchpast." The King was "at the-Salute" on his dais, but neither he nor the mounted Guards officers moved an inch. It was a well deserved tribute to a magnificent horsewoman.

Within seconds, and with little more than a whispered word, Elizabeth had her rolling-eyed charger back in position. From an American captain wearing the shoulder patches of the First Cavalry Division, there came a tribute as American and sincere as the Declaration of Independence:

"Now I've seen it," he said. "She looks like a Queen; she acts like a Queen, but, brother, she rides like an angel. I'd be proud to courtsey to a gal like that anytime I'm asked."

Nobody would be less likely to ask for such a gesture than Elizabeth.

POLO PRINCE: Philip's a horseman as well as a sailor. Here he rides in a polo match.

Possibly this could be because "manners" were an important part of her early childhood training and lapses in politeness were among the few misdemeanors which called forth real punishment—administered when necessary, albeit with a light hand—by her papa.

Elizabeth and Margaret shared toys and they had far fewer than most children of their age. The three tons of gifts for Elizabeth and her sister which her parents brought back from the people of Australia were all distributed among the hospitalized and crippled children of England. Nevertheless, each donor of a gift received a hand-written "thank-you" note.

On her first visit to the Circus—she was five—Elizabeth burst into frightened tears when a grotesquely made-up clown was brought into the royal box. Afterwards she sent the clown a message: "Please tell the ugly man that I did truly like him—it was just that I was frightened."

About the time Elizabeth was nine, her beloved Grannie (Queen) Mary, instinctively aware that the long and arduous reign of her husband, George V, was drawing to its close, set a new importance upon the child's education.

The eldest and favorite son, Edward, although he spent many hours playing boisterous games with Elizabeth and Margaret, still gave no sign of settling down.

Gradually the grieving, great-hearted, but iron-disciplined Queen Mary set a new curriculum for Elizabeth and gently guided the Princess into the new and vastly wider learning required of her.

But apart from the introduction of a Scots governess into the household Elizabeth's education remained for several more years in the capable hands of her mother and grandmother. The Princess captured the bubbling sense-of-fun typical of her mother and the savoured, rich appreciation of humor of her grandmother.

Then George V—to whom Elizabeth always referred as "The King" —died.For the first time, as a tiny, tragic figure at the funeral ceremonies, she realized the finality of death.

There followed the accusation and abdication of her uncle, and the terrific period of strain through which her parents passed before the Duke of York finally made the momentous decision.

It meant acceptance of a life—for himself, his wife and for the young Elizabeth—which spelled only self-discipline and service.

On her 11th birthday, Elizabeth was living at Buckinham Palace — always called "Buck House" by the King and his brothers.

By 1939, above the glittering state apartments, the informality of a happy home had been firmly established in the great brownstone and granite palace, despite the clouds of war which had been gathering menacingly over Europe.

Tomorrow: Philip follows Elizabeth in a dory.

Give Iranians Delay Of 10 Days

UN Council Ignores British Attack In Hot Oil Debate

UNITED NATIONS, NY, Oct. 2. (AP)—Iran appeared today to have out-manoeuvred Britain by getting the United Nations Security Council to agree to a 10-day postponement of the Anglo-Iranian oil debate.

While Britain's Sir Gladwyn Jebb delivered a blistering attack Monday on Iran and called for urgent action to protect Britain's stake in the rich Iranian oil industry, Ambassador Ali Gholi Ardalan, Iran's permanent UN delegate, sat quietly at the council's big horseshoe-shaped table in the Flushing Meadow meeting hall.

Then he announced he had no power to take part in the debate and said his government would need 10 days to get a high-ranking representative here from Tehran to present its case. Jebb protested, but there was no way of getting around the delay. It is traditional in the UN that a government must have time to get its chosen representative to New York.

There still was no answer to the question whether Iran's aged Prime Minister Mohammed Mossadegh, will come to New York to make a personal appeal to the council. Some delegates understand Ardalan to mean that the high representative he referred to was Mossadegh. But he was careful to note that he had not said Mossadegh was coming.

Must Leave Country

In Tehran, Deputy Premier Hossein Fatemi said Monday night that if Iran finally decides to send a delegation, Mossadegh will head it. He reiterated that Iran still insists that the last of 350 British technicians leave the refinery centre of Abadan by Thursday morning.

Meanwhile, Jebb informed the council of Britain's decision to pull British personnel out tomorrow because of "intolerable conditions of life."

"This fact does not detract in the slightest from the urgency of the situation," Jebb said, "the council ought to indicate to the Iranian government that it should not proceed in the arbitrary man-

Trade Benefits To Czechs Cancelled By US

WASHINGTON, Oct. 2—(AP)—President Truman today ordered all American trade concessions to Communist Czechoslovakia cancelled effective Nov. 1.

The action follows a Congressional directive that all American trade benefits to Communist areas be wiped out.

Such trade concessions already have been suspended for Bulgaria, Romania and 13 other Red-dominated areas throughout the world.

Notice that trade benefits will be cancelled also has been given to Russia, Poland and Hungary.

Strong Feeling

There has been particularly strong sentiment in Congress for using trade sanctions against Czechoslovakia in view of the country's imprisonment of Associated Press correspondent William Oatis. Oatis was sentenced on spy charges described by the State Department as trumped-up.

President Truman's action today is expected to reduce by a substantial amount Czech exports to the United States.

In 1950 these amounted to some $26,485,000. The United States sent $10,119,000 in goods to Czechoslovakia during that year.

Wildcat Strike May Close Ford

WINDSOR, Oct. 2 (CP)—Complete stoppage of production was threatened at the sprawling plants of the Ford Motor Company of Canada today as office workers continued to picket the factory following their wildcat strike Monday night.

Firing of one man and demotion of two others are reported to have started the walkout of some 50 men Monday night and refusal of some 800 members of local 240 United Automobile Workers (CIO) to report for work this morning.

Company sources indicated today that the strike was a complete surprise and that no notice of the intention to strike was given when company officials left negotiations Monday, they said they expected the situation would be resolved through grievance procedure.

The strikers made no attempt to stop production workers whose shift started in plant one at 7.30 a.m. The picket line was pulled back from the gate at that time and moved back just before 8 a.m. when office workers were due.

The strike, union spokesmen say, has nothing to do with negotiations for a new contract which have been going on since June and are awaiting conciliation procedure. The men work under a day-to-day extension of the old contract while the new one is being negotiated. The union says the company has violated seniority provisions of the day-to-day contract.

Hunters Get Choice Of Weapons For Sport

SEOUL, Korea, Oct. 2—(AP)—The Korean hunting season now is open until March 31, and the Seoul area command has issued elaborate instructions for soldier sportsmen.

The rules restrict hunters to shotguns, prohibit hunting at night, warn of mines, and forbid anyone to hunt alone.

They conclude with this passage, however:

"The memorandum above applies only to hunting south of the present front. There has been no official change in the open season on Communists beyond, or even on the south side of the front.

"Weapons permitted include small arms, machine guns, broken grenades, sabre jets, flame throwers, sticks, stones, broken bottles, napalam eight-inch howitzers, or almost anything you can think of."

Rescue Teams Tunnel To Reach Workers

NEWCASTLE, Northumberland, England, Oct. 2—(Reuters)—Rescue teams continued tunnelling today through roof falls, dense gas and water to reach four workers trapped since Monday morning deep down in a coal mine near here.

The body of a fifth man caught with them by a fall of stone in an old stream was recovered early today.

The men are 750 feet below the surface and more than a mile from the bottom of the shaft of the Weelslade coal mine. They had been recovering machinery from a disused seam when the fall occurred.

Quebec Court Rejects Ruest's Conviction Appeal

QUEBEC, Oct. 2 (CP)—Quebec court of appeals today rejected Genereux Ruest's appeal against his conviction of murder in connection with the time-bomb destruction of an airliner two years ago.

The court of five judges was divided 3-2 in its decision and Irenee Simard, counsel for the 54-year-old cripple, announced immediately he will take the case to the Supreme Court of Canada.

This will mean postponement of Ruest's hanging now set for Nov. 16.

Quebec's highest court heard the Ruest case last spring and reserved its decision until today.

During its autumn term, which opened Monday, the court will hear an appeal by Ruest's sister, Mrs. Arthur Pitre, also under death sentence in connection with the airplane crash that cost 23 lives.

J. Albert Guay, 32-year-old Quebec jeweller, was hanged Jan. 12 as the master-mind of the love-triangle and insurance - money plot. Mrs. Guay, the jeweller's wife, died in the wreckage of the plane with $10,000 travel insurance on her life. Guay's love of a waitress was another motive in the case.

Ruest went on trial as the man who made Guay's time-bomb and was convicted of murder last Dec. 13. Mrs. Pitre admitted delivering a parcel containing the time-bomb to the plane, convicted of murder March 16, she is scheduled to be hanged Nov. 16.

Destroyer Hits Big Freighter

PLYMOUTH, England, Oct. 2 (CP)—One Royal Navy seaman was killed and five shipmates vanished overboard in a collision between a Royal Navy destroyer and an Italian freighter Monday night 12 miles off the Devon coast.

The crash occurred shortly before midnight while the destroyer Grenville, acting as an air training target ship, was taking part in exercises in the Channel.

The Italian vessel is the Alceo, a 6,997-ton freighter.

The Alceo, her bows damaged, limped into Plymouth this morning. The destroyer reported its starboard engine knocked out and said it took some water but it reached port under its own steam at noon.

Trio Posing As University Students Slug, Rob 2 Women In College District House

TORONTO, Oct. 2—(CP). — Three well-dressed men who posed as students seeking tutoring in mathematics Monday night robbed two women, one a lecturer at the University of Toronto, of $7 and a diamond ring.

The thugs entered a university district home owned by Miss Mary Waddell, mathematics lecturer at the university, threw her to the floor and bound her ankles and wrists.

Two of them went upstairs to the quarters of Mrs. Martha Gale, a roomer, whom they robbed of $7 and a diamond rink. They dragged her downstairs where she was left bound and lying on the floor with Miss Waddell.

Miss Maddell hobbled over to a window and, rustling the curtains, attracted a passer-by.

Miss Waddell, who fractured her elbow when she was knocked down, told the police that a man had telephoned inquiring about mathematics lessons earlier in the evening. She told him to come around to the house.

Ten minutes later the doorbell rang, and when she answered it, the three men walked in.

Bevan Wins Big Victory In Labor Party Steps Nearer Leadership

SCARBOROUGH, Yorkshire, England, Oct. 2. (Reuters)—Aneurin Bevan, Socialist rebel who has challenged the scale of Britain's rearmament program, today won a major victory against the Attlee administration and took a stride towards leadership of the Labor party.

Local Labor parties, entitled to elect seven members to the national executive, put the fiery, 53-year-old Welshman and two of his lieutenants at the top of their poll.

The Bevanites also ousted one of the government's main figures in the arms drive, Defence Minister Emanuel Shinwell, from the 27-member executive.

Shinwell was defeated by a woman—red-haired Barbara Castle, 39, one of Bevan's staunchest supporters. Last year she was elected in the women's section of the executive.

But this time she switched her candidature to the local parties section, where the adverse vote of the trade unions—loyal to Prime Minister Attlee—could not touch her.

Topped Poll

Bevan himself topped the local Labor Party poll for the sixth year running with a record 858,000 votes.

The poll, taken secretly Monday night at the party's annual convention, placed Tom Driberg, another Bevanite, third and the fourth member of the rebel group, Ian Mikardo, sixth.

There were cheers from many of the 2,000 delegates when the names of the succesful Bevanites were read out.

Silence fell when it was announced that the other three places had gone to the government "old guard"—Foreign Secretary Herbert Morrison, Colonial Secretary James Griffiths, and Hugh Dalton, minister for Town and Country Planning. Dalton just scraped in to seventh and last place in this section of the executive.

Voting was Bevan, 858,000; Castle, 676,000; Driberg, 646,000; Griffiths, 597,000; Morrison, 595,000; Mikardo, 561,000; Dalton, 545,000.

All the Bevanites increased their votes over last year.

The vote showed that a great battle over arms policy is almost certain in the party after the Oct. 25 national election. Bevan has declared a truce only for the election period.

But standing between him and party leadership is the massive trade union movement, hostile to the Bevanites and loyal to the Attlee regime. The trade unions showed this loyalty today by choosing Attlee supporters for the 12 places they have on the executive.

Tito Gives Up Claim To Trieste

ROME, Oct. 2. (AP)—Milan's usually-reliable weekly "Europeo" says today that Marshal Tito has agreed to give up his claims to Trieste in return for United States military aid against Russian attack.

This version says that Yugoslavia's strong man told President Truman's representative, W. Averell Harriman, he would give the US full use of Yugoslav land, sea and air bases in the event of war.

Both Yugoslavia and Italy would permit the US and Britain to continue the use of Trieste as a troop base.

Europeo describes its report as the first revelation of the conversations held Aug. 26 at Belgrade between Tito and Harriman.

The weekly says Italian Premier Alcide de Gasperi, who returned this week from Washington, probably will meet with Tito next week to discuss final accord.

US Pilots Down 2 Red Jets In Air Melee

US EIGHTH ARMY HEADQUARTERS, Korea, Oct. 2 (AP)—United States jet pilots shot down two Communist jets today—numbers 101 and 102 they have claimed in history's first jet warfare.

About 130 planes were involved in two air battles erupting Tuesday over Northwest Korea for the second successive day.

The Fifth Air Force said no American planes were lost.

On the ground, fierce Chinese resistance stalled an Allied attack for the third successive day on a narrow ridge near Chormon on the western front.

A reinforced Communist battalion stopped every attack with grenades and intense fire. Mortars and artillery shells fell on the Allies almost continuously.

Hammer At Ridges

A haze of smoke from Allied explosives shrouded the Red-held section of the ridge line. United Nations artillery, tanks and aircraft hammered at Chinese ridges almost continuously.

In the eastern mountains, Allied troops cleared Red remnants off hills newly won by UN attacks.

(Reuter's News Agency reported that the first icy blast of the Korean winter today hit US troops.

(Men climbed into winter kits as temperatures on the rugged plateaus plunged to near zero, Reuter's said.

Tuesday's biggest jet battle broke out in clearing weather between 36 F-86 Sabre jets and about 45 Russian type MIG-15s.

One kill was reported by the United States' top ace still in combat, Col. Francis S. Gabreski It was his third jet. He was credited with 31 German planes during the Second World War.

Deer Loses Bout With Angry Blonde

DENVER, Oct. 2. (AP)—A belligerent deer engaged a six-foot blonde in combat—and the 200-pound buck deer came out second best.

The blonde, Maxine Bloomquist, who works in the state banking commission office, reported her injuries as bruises on the thigh and arm. The deer had its ear twisted and lost the top of one antler.

The animal approached as Maxine and her mother were fishing near Estes Park last weekend. Maxine said the deer lowered its head but retreated when she cried "Shoo."

"I turned my back and just then — whammo! He attacked from the rear.

"I reached up and grabbed him by the antlers. I broke the tip off one. When I got to my feet, I twisted his ear and he jerked away and ran off a little distance."

Maxine saw a chance to dash to her car. The deer wandered off.

2 Neighbors Investigate, See Couple

Wilson Ave. Pair Just Celebrated 51st Anniversary

A 73-year-old Peterborough woman is dead and her husband is lying unconscious in Civic hospital from coal gas fumes that leaked from their furnace after they went to bed Sunday night.

Neighbors, fearing that something was wrong, entered the elderly couple's home at 142 Wilson Ave. shortly before 7 p.m. Monday and found them still in bed. George Glass, 70 a veteran harness maker employed by the Great West Saddlery Co., was unconscious and his invalid wife was dead.

Coroner Dr Herbert Young said death was caused by coal gas asphyxiation. An inquest is unlikely.

Celebrated Anniversary

An ironical touch to the tragedy is that the couple retired for the night after their closest friends, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Rehill, had helped them celebrate their 51st wedding anniversary.

Mr. Rehill said the Glasses went to bed about 9 o'clock Sunday. And there was no indication of goal gas when the visitors left.

The first person to sense that something was wrong was Mrs. Helen LaPointe who lives next door. Mrs. LaPointe is accustomed to seeing the blind go up in the Glass kitchen sometime between 5:30 and 6 a.m. At that time Mr. Glass makes a cup of tea for his wife who has been bedridden for about six months with an injured hip.

"I thought something was wrong when I didn't see that blind go up," said Mrs. LaPointe. "You could usually set your watch by it."

When the milk was still outside the Glass home at noon, and there was no sign of anybody stirring inside, Mrs. LaPointe sent her 13-year-old daughter Jacqueline over to investigate. Jacqueline got no response but they took no further action, not wishing to intrude.

Jacqueline went over again, later in the afternoon.

Shortly before 7 p.m. Mrs. LaPointe decided something had to be done. With another neighbor,

Princess Starts Tour Sunday

LONDON, Oct. 2 (AP)—Princess Elizabeth and the Duke of Edinburgh will leave by air at 12:30 a.m. Monday, British Summer Time (6:30 p.m. Sunday, EST) for their tour of Canada, it was announced officially today.

The trip, postponed because of the King's illness, will be made in a Stratocruiser of the British Overseas Airways corporation.

The post-midnight departure means that most of the 3,400-mile flight can be made by daylight. It was considered likely it will be made non-stop from London to Montreal if weather permits.

The rincess and the Duke will begin their Canadian tour Oct. 9 at Quebec.

Reds Draft New Invitation To W. Germany For Election

By TOM REEDY

BERLIN, Oct. 2 —(AP)—East Germany is preparing a new "wide open" invitation to the Bonn Republic for national elections, it was learned today.

Prime Minister Otto Grotewohl is writing a speech for delivery this week-end which, it is reported, will indicate how much the Soviet zone will concede in order to bring about unity talks.

Informed quarters said the prime minister may deliver his proposal before a special parliament session Sunday or Monday.

The Russian zone will celebrate the second anniversary of the founding of its "German Democratic Republic" on Saturday and Sunday.

The 14-point program of Konrad Adenauer, West German chancellor, for all-German talks and elections has been castigated in the East Berlin press but significantly none of the top Eastern officials has condemned it.

Top points of West Germany's conditions for unity talks are: international supervision of any elections, dissolution of all zonal borders for three months prior to the voting, and amnesty for all political prisoners in the Soviet zone.

Friends of Grotewohl said the Eastern strategy, dictated by the Russians, may concede the idea of international supervision as long as it is not handled by the United Nations.

Amnesty of prisoners is a concession foreign observers regard as highly possible.

Opening of the borders for free campaigning is regarded as the touchiest point, least likely to be accepted by the Russian zone.

Fire Whitby Police Ratepayers Say Something Hidden

WHITBY, Oct. 2. (CP)—Whitby's three-man police commission was "hiding something" in its dismissal Monday night of the five-man police force, Harold Wickett, president of the Whitby Ratepayers' Association, charged today. He said he will try to have the case reopened. Today the Ontario Provincial Police detachment, previously stationed at nearby Ajax, moved into the vacant police station and took over the job of policing the town as requested by the police commission.

Mayor J. W. Elliott said policing of the community by Provincial Police will be only temporary.

Whitby is 25 miles east of Toronto with a population of 7,000.

The council decision to dissolve the town police department headed by Chief Ronald Love apparently put an end to months of bickering, during which various charges of malfeasance were directed against the department.

The decision was reached at a meeting Monday of the board of police commissioners, which was set up six months ago in an effort to straighten out police department affairs. A board statement said abolition of the department was decided upon as a result of conditions which existed in the police force prior to formation of the commission.

Not Properly Policed

A commission statement said attempts to settle the issues had failed. It also said the town had not been properly policed for a year.

Chief Love and Sgt. M. C. Banks appeared at the commission meeting with neatly-typed resignations. But three constables —Robert Crozier, Bruce Killens and George Dunbar—refused to tender resignations, although council had voted to pay members of the abolished force a month's salary in lieu of notice.

Crozier indicated that some action will be taken against the board's decision after the three men talk with their lawyer.

Chief Love and Sgt. Banks, whose resignations will become effective today conducted police business Monday night at the Whitby police station.

The chief tried to take a camera away from a newspaper photographer who snapped his picture as he entered his automobile. He shouted at another news photographer:

McDonald's Brother Freed On Appeal

VICTORIA, BC, Oct. 2 (CP)—The conviction of Alex McDonald, sentenced to 14 years in prison for a $5,000 Vancouver bank robbery, was quashed Monday by the British Columbia Court of Appeal.

McDonald, 32-year-old brother of the notorious eastern criminal, Mickey McDonald, was one of three men arrested following the robbery of a branch of the Bank of Montreal here last March 28.

He charged during his trial in Vancouver that he had been "persecuted" and was "a victim of circumstances."

In a unanimous judgment, the Court of Appeals found that there was not sufficient evidence to support a verdict of guilty.

Dodgers Lead Giants 3-0 In 5th Inning

DODGERS	200 01
GIANTS	000 0

POLO GROUNDS, New York, Oct. 2—(AP)—Roy Campanella, hard-hitting Brooklyn catcher, was benched in a last-minute switch today as Dodgers and New York Giants clashed in the second game of their best-of-three play-off series for the National League pennant.

Giants, needing only one more triumph to insure entry in the world series, following Monday's 3-1 win banked their hopes on righthander Sheldon Jones (6-10). Dodgers countered with rookie Clem Labine, recalled from St. Paul of the American Association in July. The young righthander has a 4-1 record.

Lineups:

Brooklyn—Furillo, rf; Reese, ss; Snider, cf; Robinson, 2b; Pafko, lf; Hodges, 1b; Cox, 3b; Walker, c; Labine, p.

New York—Stanky 2b; Dark, ss; Mueller, rf; Irvin, lf; Lockman, 1b; Thomson, 3b; Mays, cf; Westrum, c; Jones, p.

Umpires—Goetz (plate); Jorda (1b); Conlan (2b); Stewart (3b).

First Inning Dodgers

Furillo fouled off Jones' first pitch. Furillo flied to Mueller in short right. Reese rapped a single to left. Snider went down swinging. Robinson lined a homer that barely cleared the lower left field wall, scoring Reese ahead of him and putting the Dodgers ahead 2-0. Pafko flied to Mueller in right centre.

Two runs, two hits, no errors, none left.

Report King Still Improving

LONDON, Oct. 2 (Reuters).—The King had another good night and his general condition is satisfactory, today's official bulletin from Buckingham Palace said.

The bulletin, 13th since the King's lung operation nine days ago, was as usual signed by the five doctors who have been attending him.

It said:

"The King has had a good night and his general condition this morning is satisfactory."

Doctors again spent Monday night at the palace.

It was announced this morning that they intend for the time being to issue only one bulletin a day.

No complications have occurred in the first critical days since the operation. Fears that haemorrhage or an air leakage from the bronchial tube might follow, have so far proved unfounded.

Police Questioning Workers At Mine

TIMMINS, Oct. 2. (CP)—Members of the Ontario Provincial Police "gold squad" today questioned mine workers and former employees at the Delnite Mine, robbed Monday of $40,000 in gold precipitates.

In the robbery four masked men tied and gagged two watchmen and escaped with an estimated 300 pounds of precipitates — gold in its final stage before being smelted into bullion — from the mine in Deloro township, southeast of here.

Police, meanwhile, made an examination of the mine area and took casts of footprints and tire marks left near the scene of the robbery.

Cheap Dollar Here To Stay Economist Says

CHICAGO, Oct. 2 (AP).—No one now living will ever see the American dollar again buy what it did in 1940, a Texas economist told US bankers Monday.

Arthur A. Smith, vice-president of the First National Bank in Dallas, said in an address at the American Bankers' Association convention that "we have gone quite a distance down inflation road, but we can go much further—and likely will."

One reason, he said, is that "Uncle Sam himself is the world's largest debtor." He noted that debtors always want to pay their debts in cheap dollars.

He questioned whether the federal debt can be managed, let alone paid off, with anything except cheap dollars. Further, he said, deflation means liquidation, defaulted debts, bank failures, business bankruptcy, unemployment and all such undesirable conditions that make depression.

Wrong Cure

He pointed out that the most impotent devices for the government to use are money and credit and that "we are using the money device for our economic ills like some people use stimulants for their physical ills. Greatest danger is that the underlying real causes of the trouble will not be corrected, and we shall continue the doping until it is too late to stop taking it."

Smith laid the responsibility for the present inflation on lack of courageous leadership. "Apparently," he said, "the planners who would stabilize the nation's economy on a permanent prosperous level and bring security for the masses failed to observe the instability generated by their own plans."

Court Dismisses Driving Charge

A charge of careless driving against Wellington Hennessy, 40, of Nepheline Mines, was dismissed today by Magistrate W. R. Philp.

Hennessy, represented by W. C. Grant, pleaded not guilty.

Hennessy told court he was driving north on Highway 28 the night of September 29 and saw a car on the east side of the road facing north. When he was about two car lengths away, said the accused, the car pulled out in front of him. "I applied my brakes and swung to the left," said Hennessy.

The right side of Hennessy's auto was damaged and the left front fender of the other was dented.

Magistrate Philp found there was no evidence of negligence on Hennessy's part.

Work Feverishly To Save Boat

NEW ORLEANS, Oct. 2 (AP).—A nine-man crew worked desperately today to keep the leaky 92-foot motor vessel Kerry Mac afloat in the storm-tossed Gulf of Mexico.

A coast guard cutter and planes searched for the disabled propellerless Kerry Mac but poor visibility and rough seas hampered rescue efforts.

A weather bureau advisory said that squalls from the tropical storm will lash most of the Florida gulf coast today.

A three-man crew from another motor vessel, The Gypsy, was removed Monday night by the freighter Tuptin Lykes. The Gypsy's steering gear snapped.

The Kerry Mac and the abandoned Gypsy were reported about 40 miles apart, both about 85 to 90 miles south of Mobile, Ala.

The coast guard cutter Blackthorn reported the Kerry Mac radioed that it was shipping water badly, but its pumps were able to keep the vessel afloat.

Decision Held In Liquor Court

Judgment was reserved today in a charge of keeping liquor for sale against Ralph Trotter of Apsley. Trotter was charged after July 25, when four OPP officers kept watch on his house during the evening.

Constable Russell Pollard testified that a number of cars came and went from the Trotter house and that there was much loud talk, laughing, and the sound of glasses and bottles being rattled.

He said that later he entered the house, and asked if he could buy a beer, but Trotter told him there was none. He asked if he could buy a mickey, and Trotter said he had only two and wouldn't sell him one.

A search of the house yielded six pints of beer, a part bottle of rum, and a number of empty beer, wine, and whisky bottles.

Visiting Friends

Defence counsel W. J. Arthur Fair, KC, argued there was no evidence of keeping liquor for sale. He suggested that the people who went to Trotter's house were only friends dropping in for "a shot" before they went to the street dance.

The magistrate reserved judgment for a week.

An association member said on Monday night:

"There was a lack of co-operation among the officers and a lot of internal jealousy with a lot of tale-telling going on. The town was not being properly policed as a result."

handed stab of Dark's sizzling grounder inside the third-base line and Hodges came up with a fine scoop of the low throw. Mueller was safe when Hodges allowed his slow roller to trickle through his legs for an error. Irvin bounced to Reese forcing Mueller at second.

Hodges lashed a single into left field.

Cox bunted and was safe when Jones threw high to Stanky who was covering first. Hodges went to third on the wild throw and Cox was credited with a sacrifice.

Walker bounced to Lockman who fired the ball home and Hodges was caught in a rundown between third and home. Westrum threw to Thomson who ran down and tagged Hodges. Cox reached third on the play while Walker remained at first.

Labine attempted a squeeze play with Cox but bunted the ball foul.

Labine struck out.

Furillo tapped meekly back to the box and was an easy out.

No runs, one hit, one error, two left.

Second Inning Giants

Labine fielded Lockman's roller inside first-base line and threw him out.

Thomson lined a double off the left field wall.

Mays out-legged a slow roller to Shortstop Reese for an infield single. Thomson moved to third.

Westrum raised a high pop to Cox on the infield grass.

Jones rolled to Reese who threw to Robinson forcing Mays at second.

No runs, two hits, no errors, two left.

Third Inning, Dodgers

Stanky came in fast for Reese's tricky bounder and threw him out at first.

Snider walked on four pitches.

Mueller made a fine pickup of Robinson's line single to right forcing Snider to hold up at second. Mueller almost caught Snider at second but his throw got past Dark and had to be recovered by Thomson who backed up the play.

That was all for Jones who was replaced by Spencer.

Spencer, with a 10-4 season record, holds one victory and no defeats against the Dodgers.

Pafko swung at Spencer's first pitch and raised an infield pop to Dark as second base umpire Jock O'Conlan called the infield fly rule which is an automatic out with runners on first and second with less than two out.

Spencer fielded Hodges' roller but his throw to first hit the runner and Hodges was safe on the error. Snider reached third on the play and when he attempted to score he was called out at the plate on a quick recovery and throw by Lockman to Westrum. The Dodgers, led by Dressen, protested vigorously, but plate umpire Larry Goetz, naturally, stuck to his decision.

No runs, one hit, one error, two left.

Third Inning Giants

Reese fumbled Stanky's grounder and Eddie was safe on error. Reese raced into the hole and made a finestop and pickup of Dark's grounder behind third to force Stanky at second with an off-balance throw to Robinson. Mueller dropped a single in short right-centre to send Dark to third. Irvin raised a high pop to Robinson behind second base and the runners held their bases. The sun had gone under the clouds and a threat of rain was in the air. Lockman walked on a full count to load the bases. It was the first walk off Labine. The count went to three and two on Thomson. The last two pitches were called balls and Labine complained over both calls. Thomson then swung and missed on a sharp-breaking curve ball that snapped at least a foot away from him.

No runs, one hit, one error, three left.

Fourth Inning Dodgers

Cox bounced out, Thomson to Lockman. Walker rammed a single past Lockman into right field. Labine fouled to Stanky. Lockman made a leaping catch of Furillo's whistling line drive.

Fourth Inning Giants

Reese fielded Mays' grounder and threw him out at first.

Westrum lined right into the hands of Cox.

Spencer lined a sharp single into right but Furillo fielded the ball cleanly and almost caught the pitcher with a rifle-like throw to Hodges. Spencer was forced to slide to beat the throw.

Stanky slashed a single over Cox's head, Spencer stopping at second.

Dark lined a blue darter right into the hands of Cox for the third out.

No runs, no hits, no errors, two left.

Fifth Inning, Dodgers

Irvin gathered in Reese's fly.

Robinson slashed a single into centre field scoring Snider.

It was the third straight hit for Robinson and his third run batted in.

Pafko grounded into a double play. Thomson to Stanky to Lockman.

One run, two hits, no errors, none left.

Feet Unsteady, Man Unable To Drive—Court

Where the degree of consumption of liquor is such that a man is unsteady on his feet, it may be assumed that his driving would be impaired by alcohol, Magistrate W. R. Philp ruled today.

He was giving judgment in the case of Frederick Pluard of Harvey township, charged with driving while his ability was impaired by alcohol. Pluard was convicted and fined $50 and costs.

Lakefield police chief Garnet Samis and OPP Constable Jack McKendry affirmed that about three-quarters of an hour after an accident in which Pluard's car was involved, the accused was unsteady on his feet.

Drank Two Pints

Pluard testified that he had had only two pints of beer on September 28, the day of the accident. He drank the beer at his aunt's Harvey township home before lunch, and the accident happened about 4 p.m.

Pluard was at first charged with drunk driving, but Crown Attorney John Bradshaw, KC, asked the charge be reduced.

The charge arose out of an accident on Highway 28 north of Lakefield, in which Pluard's auto sideswiped a car driven by a Lakefield woman, doing slight damage.

A passenger in the sideswiped car, Mrs. Edith Frost of Lakefield, testified that after the vehicles touched, she took the other car's license number, and saw it weaving on the road, although it was not being driven fast.

Offa Staples, 70 Honored On Birthday

BETHANY, Oct. 2 — (ENS) — The neighbors, relatives and friends of Offa Staples, R.R. 2 Bethany joined in celebrating his 70th birthday and presented him with a smoker's stand and pressure cooker Friday evening. An address was read by Percy Preston, expressing the good wishes of this community to one who has been "A good neighbor and friend to all".

Mr. Staples has lived here all his life, farming on the homestead of his father, George Staples, and his grandfather Thomas Staples.

In younger years he was quite a popular athlete, a member of the football team and the baseball team. He is also prominent in fraternal orders; held all the offices in turn in the Loyal Orange Lodge local 1022 and a former member of the Bethany Band.

Despite his years he is remarkably active and with the aid of a tractor works all the land on his 200 acre farm. He took off a heavy crop this summer and is now busy ploughing every day for next year's sowing.

The evening was pleasantly spent in playing euchre. Harry Peirce of Lindsay acted as chairman for a brief program.

Sam Endicott, Ralph Preston, Archie Wilson and Lawrence Staples also expressed their good wishes in brief speeches. Mrs. Herb. Neals played the piano while the group joined in singing some old songs.

A highlight of the lunch served by the ladies of the district was the serving of a huge birthday cake, topped with candles, baked by some of the neighbors.

The party was held at the home of his brother, Thomas Staples and there were more than 80 present, many former neighbors from Lindsay, Cavan, Peterborough, Bailieboro and Pontypool in attendance.

Mr. Staples expressed his appreciation of the gift and the thoughtfulness of those who had arranged the celebration, saying that "It was easy to be a good neighbor in such a friendly community."

Action Dismissed

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Oct. 2 (AP)—The $200,000 libel action of entertainers Paul Draper and Larry Adler against a Greenwich housewife who called them Communist sympathizers was dismissed in federal court here Monday. McCullough after the original hearing in May, 1950, resulted in a "hung jury."

LONDON, Oct. 2 (Reuters) — Advance security arrangements in Canada for the Royal tour by Princess Elizabeth and the Duke of Edinburgh are being made by the RCMP, The Daily Telegraph reports today. Fire In Gold Mine

TIMMINS, Oct. 2—(CP)—Five hundred miners were brought to the surface Monday when a fire at the 4,000-foot level of the McIntyre gold mine spread smoke and lethal chlorine gas throughout the underground levels. The blaze occurred at a charging station. The mine is located at Schumacher, a mile east of Timmins. No one was injured.

Ratepayers Ask Fire Protection

CAMPBELLFORD, Oct. 2 — (ENS) — Tenders for garbage collection in Campbellford were opened at the Monday evening meeting of the Campbellford town council. Only three tenders were received, one from R. E. Wood for $2800, another from Charles Ruttan for $2400 and a third from Charles McCoy, who is at on a sub-contract, for $2650.

After considering the three tenders, council decided to accept the tender of Mr. McCoy at $2650. The job he is now doing has been found to be quite satisfactory, and council decided to retain him.

Jack Meier of Seymour township addressed the council, asking if some arrangement could be made whereby he would be assured of fire protection if he paid the town for this service.

Mr. Meier said that a recent newspaper story regarding a fire a short distance from the town to which the truck was not allowed to go, has the ratepayers of the township worried and they are bringing pressure to bear on the Seymour council to do something about fire protection. There will be a meeting of the Seymour council this evening and it is expected a large delegation of Seymour ratepayers will be on hand to urge the council once more to do something in the way of providing fire protection.

A suggestion that a committee from the Campbellford council also attend this meeting was made but in view of the fact the town council has sent delegations to try to iron out the problem on numerous occasions, and has met with no success, the matter was not definitely decided on, but left up to the chairman of the fire, water and light committee to use his own discretion in the matter.

A report from the road and bridge committee showed the town is still waiting for the black-top to re-surface some of the streets. A number of sidewalks have been constructed and some repaired, and the chairman received the permission of council to go ahead with the construction of a couple of catch basins that are needed in the town. A bull-dozing job was also authorized. This will entail grading and ditching a couple of roadways on hills in the town. Recent heavy rains have filled the ditches on these streets, and the roads are in poor repair.

Harry Townsend, assessor, reported an assessment increase of $28,545 this year over 1950.

Councillor MacMillan suggested that a letter be written to Dr. Fred G. Robertson (Lib.-North) asking that a temporary unemployment insurance office be established in Campbellford to assist in handling the requirements of persons at present unemployed in the town. Recent figures show about 300 persons are at present unemployed, due mostly to the slowing down at the woollen mill. Applicants for insurance in the town must now travel to Peterborough, and many of these persons cannot afford to do this.

After passing the pay sheet, council adjourned.

Langton of Peterborough was the soloist. In the evening the Young People's choir of 41 voices led the service of song, with two anthems, "Holy is the Lord" and "Open the Gates of the Temple." Miss Shirley Bennett and Mr. Paul Newman sang a tenor and alto duet, "Jesus, Lover of My Soul." The choir entered the church in processional singing their theme hymn, "Raise Our Banner." Mr. Newman delivered a sermon on "Building on a Sure Foundation," particularly stressing the importance of making sure of good foundation in the daily building of our lives before the storms came.

Fear Of Famine Most Serious Threat Today

CAMPBELLFORD, Oct. 2 — (ENS)—A well known speaker, and a popular member addressed his fellow Rotarians at the Monday noon luncheon here. Rev. John McKibbin told the club of some of his reflections as a "Waste paper collector". Rev. McKibbin explained that at his former parish at Oshawa, the church members put on a drive to collect old newspapers to raise funds for the church. This waste paper was sold at $16. a ton, and Mr. McKibbin assisted in collecting the paper.

The speaker dwelt at some length on the subject of waste as it occurs in our everyday life. "We in Canada" he said, "take too much for granted." Sir John Boyd Orr, chief administrator of the F.A.O. in the U.N. said recently that the most serious threat to civilization during the next half century lies, not in the threat of atom or hydrogen bombs, but in the risk of famine. He explained that soil erosion and increasing population figures will eventually lead to famine, if something is not done to prevent such widespread waste of our soil. More than one million square miles have been added to the desert areas of the world during the past 30 years, due to soil erosion. Too much is being taken out of the soil and not enough being put back in. "There is no justification for such widespread wastefulness" said the speaker. He likened this widespread waste to the waste in our everyday living. The small bundles of newspapers that the speaker assisted in collecting were of little or no actual value by themselves, but when gathered together into one large pile, they assumed a large potential value. This is similar to the time and energy we waste each day. "If we were to take each few minutes we waste, add them up over the period of a year, then realize what we could have done with that time, the results would amaze us", he said.

Rotarian Archie Meyers thanked the speaker, and referred to his address as 'a marvel of wit and a much greater' marvel of wisdom.'

Accused Objects To Paying Crown's $13 Fee

After being found guilty of a charge of creating a disturbance in a Lindsay restaurant, a 50-year-old Toronto salesman objected to paying the $13 fee claimed by Crown Attorney Jordan. The fees were part of the costs assessed by Magistrate E. A. Gee when the case was tried in Lindsay Police Court on Monday.

The manager of the restaurant told the court that the accused and two others had been eating in his cafe Friday night. He said he had stopped a disturbance which had arisen. Then, the accused came up to the counter and objected to the way the manager had handled the situation, and according to the restaurant manager, the accused said he did not intend to pay for his meal.

$18.50 Costs

Magistrate Gee found the accused guilty and placed him on suspended sentence for one year. He was also ordered to pay costs amounting to $18.50. When the accused learned the crown attorney's fee amounted to $13.00, he objected strongly and remarked that he wished he could make money that easy.

However, after arguing the point, he paid.

Cigarettes, Morality and Taxation

A rumour reaches us that smuggling of cigarettes into this country from the U.S.A. has been unusually prevalent during recent months and that special steps may be taken to stop it. Nobody need search very far for an explanation of the smuggling; American cigarettes are cheap compared with those purchased in Canada. And we share with H. L. MacPherson of the Windsor Star a hope that no question of morality will be dragged into this business of cigarette smuggling. If that is done the Government will be compelled to examine the morality of its own tax on cigarettes, and that tax does not readily lend itself to defence on moral grounds. Cigarette smugglers are breaking the law, but it can scarcely be argued that they are guilty of any offence against the state save that of depriving it of taxes to which no clear right exists.

* * *

We have repeatedly said in these columns that there must be a moral basis for taxation, or else taxes are brought into disrepute. Taxes are necessary to provide revenue for the state, but they must be applied with decency and discretion and, so far as possible, the citizen must be aware of the fact every time he pays a tax. When certain commodities are made to bear an undue weight of taxation an injustice is done to the makers of those commodities, and to the consumers of them. This appears to us to be the case in the matter of cigarettes, for a package of twenty costs forty cents or more, of which twenty-five cents is tax.

* * *

When does a tax become immorally great? We are not sufficiently adept as a moralist or an economist to make a rule in such a matter, but we feel safe in saying that any tax which exceeds one hundred per cent. of the selling price of a commodity is immoral and unjust. For a government even to double the price of a commodity to the consumer is hard dealing, though there are cases in which such an action might be defended. But when a tax goes beyond one hundred per cent. it is simply extortion, applied with a recklessness which would have astonished such master-extortioners as King John and King Charles II.

* * *

Cigarettes are a luxury; that is to say, life could be sustained without them. But hundreds of thousands of common articles are luxuries; salt and pepper, tea and coffee, soap, ink, blotting paper, carpets, window curtains, upholstered furniture—these things are also luxuries, in the sense that we could manage without them—but they do not bear 150 per cent. taxes. But cigarettes are heavily taxed because there still lingers a notion that cigarette-smoking is, in some mysterious way, a more reprehensible indulgence than putting sugar in tea and coffee, and because it is thought that few people will complain about a heavy tax on a purchase which comes to less than half-a-dollar each time it is made.

* * *

No wrong is done which does not beget some other wrong; no government brings one law into contempt without weakening, in some measure, the whole fabric of the law. And a government which imposes taxes without regard for the decency and justice of those taxes creates among the people a cynical attitude toward taxes of all kinds. Nobody likes taxes, but we know that we must pay them in order that the government may carry on its work. But when we feel that the government is gouging the taxpayers in certain respects to raise revenue—revenue which piles up in unheard-of surpluses—respect for the government's fiscal policies is seriously weakened.

* * *

Fifty years ago cigarettes were called "coffin-nails"; they may prove to be nails in the coffin of the present government.

Co-operative Premiers

In the special session of the Ontario Legislature last week the Conservative Premier Frost gave a pretty demonstration of his faculty of getting along with people despite their politics. He invited the Liberal Premier Angus L. Macdonald of Nova Scotia to address the Legislature, and Premier Macdonald did so from the Conservative side of the House. The co-operative nature of Premier Frost is equally well shown by the friendly relations he maintains with the Liberal Prime Minister St. Laurent. Seldom have Queen's Park and Capital Hill got on as smoothly and effectively. Needless to say, Prime Minister St. Laurent himself has had much to do with this agreeable state of affairs, despite a temperament entirely different from Premier Frost's.

The London Free Press has listened to this harmony and recalled the discords of other premiers in other years:

> One of the encouraging features of Canadian public life in recent years has been the way that Hon. Louis St. Laurent and Mr. Frost have worked together, and harmoniously, to reach agreements between the provinces and the federal government for the benefit of all. For many years these conferences have broken up in disagreement. Personalities probably had a good deal to do with it. Rt. Hon. Mackenzie King and Hon. Mitchell Hepburn were at outs and it seemed impossible for them to reach any agreement. Hon. George Drew and Mr. King likewise were unable to work in unity.

We do not expect—nor indeed would it be entirely desirable—that the Frost-St. Laurent harmony should go on to a grand celestial Amen. There is no Lost Chord in politics; it never existed and never will. But while the intermediate harmony lasts it is rather sweet, and good for this Confederation of Canada.

B.B.C. Accent On Princely Tour

When plans were being laid to broadcast events and descriptions of the tour of Princess Elizabeth and Prince Philip, the C.B.C. expected to cover it, for Canadians and for Britons at home, relaying it to the United Kingdom through B.B.C. channels. British Broadcasting Corporation commentators were expected to stay at home; Canadian voices and eyes would do the job for Britain. The B.B.C. has decided that it and the British listeners will be better served by their own men. So, to the pique of some C.B.C. officials, B.B.C. commentators are to travel with the princely pair; as will C.B.C. men.

One reason given for the revision of Canadian plans is that Britons may be confused by the Canadian announcers' voices; they might not understand what is being said in the Canadian accent. They might be perplexed by the Canadian idiom. But the matter is not primarily a question of accents at all; it is a question of interpretation. Nor is it a question of prestige; there should be no feeling that Canadian commentators are inferior merely because the B.B.C. wants to send its own men.

Radio commentators on the princely visit are more than accents; they are the eyes and ears of the people to whom they are broadcasting. When a distinguished Canadian visits England, Canadian listeners like to know about it through Canadian eyes and voices; not English. So the British properly want to hear how the royal tour is going and to get verbal descriptions and interpretations from their own point of view. That is taken by a B.B.C. man, not a C.B.C. The two naturally see differently. The Canadian commentator might hardly notice—because the sights and sounds may be so familiar to him—some things which occur on the tour which a B.B.C. commentator would consider important, unusual and extremely interesting to Britons at home.

So let the B.B.C. have its own men on the tour for the British audiences, and let the C.B.C. have theirs for Canadian. However, a little interchange to give the British a Canadian taste of the dish and our own listeners a garnish of the British view of the trip would be instructive and stimulating to both sets of national listeners.

A Canadian Press "First"

Yesterday the French-language newspapers which are members of Canadian Press, the co-operative news-gathering agency, received their regional national and world news in French instead of English, for the first time. Previously French papers in this country have worked under the disadvantage of requiring translations of all the news which came to them by CP wire. Now, because of an agreement made between English and French members of CP, they will receive all news in the language in which they publish.

Commenting upon this development, Herve Major, the President of CP, said: "No achievement of such great importance could have been possible without the consent of the general membership of the Canadian Press. Not only the French press of Canada but also, I think, the whole population of French descent should remain conscious of the fact that it has been through the understanding of the English language press that CP has become a bilingual news service, a fact unique in the newspaper world."

That last phrase deserves some reflection. Canada has instituted the first bilingual news service in the world. This is a fact in which The Examiner, as a member of CP takes pride.

NOTE AND COMMENT

One of the obvious advantages of a good education is that it permits you to worry about a wider range of problems.

The walking blind carry white canes. Couldn't we persuade the driving blind to hang a white flag on their engines?

A California prophet predicts the end of the world on December 15. Still, we suggest that you do your Christmas shopping early, all the same.

Russia and The Italian Peace Treaty

By W. N. EWER

THE Russians are, of course, already declaring that the three-power proposals about the Italian Peace Treaty are a prelude to breaking the treaty and violating international law. They are nothing of the sort. They are an attempt to deal with the always difficult problem of revising a treaty in the light of changed circumstances.

The fundamental thesis—that a treaty remains in force until revised or abrogated by consent— is untouched. It is laid down in the London Treaty of 1871, of which the occasion was the Russian violation of the Treaty of Paris of 1856. It runs thus: "it is an essential principle of the law of nations that no power can liberate itself from the engagements of a treaty nor modify the stipulations thereof unless with the consent of the contracting powers by means of an amicable arrangement".

AT the same time it is universally recognized that changing circumstances can render the treaty out of date even before the expiration of its agreed term of duration. As Bismarck put it "treaties are mortal". And it is recognized that there is an equitable claim to revision by negotiation, which it would be both wrong and impolitic for either party to deny. Britain, for example, has expressed its readiness to negotiate a revision of the Anglo-Egyptian Treaty of 1936, though that treaty itself lays down that it shall not be revised before 1956.

But special difficulty arises or can arise in the case of multilateral treaties concluded by a number of signatories. It can be argued that, in strict law, any change in such treaties must need the consent of every single signatory; that any one party to such a treaty can prevent any revision of it, even though desired by all others and even though the motives of refusal may have nothing to do with the merits of the case, but might be a desire to extort concessions in other fields as the price of assent.

THIS is the difficulty in this case of the Italian Peace Treaty of 1946. Five years have passed since it was signed. They have been five years of stable democratic government and of peaceful international co-operation on her part. Her claim to ask for a revision, for the removal of clauses and provisions applicable rather to her Fascist past than to her democratic future, is a strong one. It is made stronger by the signing of the Japanese Treaty. Italy can make a justifiable claim that she (an allied co-belligerent at the close of the war) is entitled to at least as favourable treatment as Japan.

Most of the signatories of the treaty, with the exception of the Soviet Union and its associates, are willing to agree to the revisions which Italy appear to desire. It would indeed be grotesque if they were debarred from doing so by a new species of Soviet veto. More so since the Soviet Union has connived at and encouraged flagrant breaches of the Bulgarian, Hungarian and Roumanian peace treaties by these countries, without even an attempt to secure revision by consent.

* * *

IT seems important to note what these changes are which the Italian government desires and to which Britain, France and the U.S.A. are willing to agree. The first concerns the preamble and therefore would have no operative effect. It is merely a matter of agreeing to regard as null and void some references to Italy's Fascist period which the present Italian government rather resents having still formally recorded.

The second is of a somewhat similar nature. There are "political clauses" which, for example, lay down that no Italian is to be prosecuted or molested for having supported the Allied cause during the war. These, too, the Italian government regards as not only superfluous but as insulting.

* * *

THE third is, of course, an important one. It is the removal of all restrictions on the strength of the Italian armed forces, which are contained in the "military clauses". That is a question of very real substance. But it should be noted that the treaty does not envisage these military clauses remaining permanently in force. Article 46 provides that they can be 'modified in whole or in part' by the Security Council after Italy has become a member of the United Nations. And there is little question that they would already have been so modified but for the Soviet veto which has been used to prevent Italy's admission. So that, in effect, what is now proposed carried out the intention of the treaty itself.

The action of the three governments, then, is based on these considerations. First, that there is a very strong case for revision. Second, that in the most important matter such revision was envisaged in the treaty. Third, that Soviet obstruction prevents the orthodox method of revision from functioning and therefore, that, in order that justice shall be done, other methods must be employed.

* * *

WHAT will the Russians do now? Their protests will no doubt be more vigorous and their refusal to co-operate can be taken for granted.

But if they formally allege a breach of treaty, their procedure is laid down in Article 87. They can refer the "dispute" to the four —American, British, French and Russian— Ambassadors in Rome. If the four Ambassadors cannot resolve it, there should be a commission of three, one appointed by each party, the third either by agreement or by the secretary general of the United Nations. And the decision of the majority is binding.

Power Of Women

(Ottawa Journal)

The Ladies' Home Journal runs a famous advertisement captioned "Never Underestimate the Power of a Woman."

That the advertisement's advice is sound would seem to be borne out by some figures which the head of a great insurance house gave in New York recently. Thus:

Women in the U.S. constitute about 45 per cent. of the stockholders who own all American corporations.

Women own 65 per cent of all accounts held in mutual savings banks.

Women hold title to 40 per cent. of the 30,000,000 homes in the U.S.

Women pay 80 per cent of all U.S. inheritance taxes and 40 per cent. of all property taxes.

Women directly control the spending of 80 per cent. of the U.S. national income.

SEVERELY REMANDED

Clerk of the Court: "Excuse me, madam—you can only remand him."

Woman Magistrate (to prisoner): "Very well, then. You are severely remanded."

King And Royal Duke:

The Abdication Story

BY THOMAS JONES, C.H.

(Ed. Note: Thomas Jones, Companion of Honour, Doctor of Laws, a distinguished political economist, was formerly secretary of the British Cabinet and has an intimate knowledge of State affairs. In this article, occasioned by the publication this week in England of "A King's Story"—the Memoirs of H.R.H. the Duke of Windsor—Mr. Jones reviews the Abdication with the detachment that fifteen years since the event permit, and a special insight which his scholarship and experience give.)

ON no institution does the British genius for compromise shine more brightly than on the Throne, where we behold the Sovereign who is the Servant of All exercising the minimum of power and the maximum of influence, the sublimated embodiment of the nation's long history, the guardian of the constitution, the ideal repository of moral values and social standards, towards whom his subjects, in the words of Speaker Fitzroy, "feel something warmer than allegiance and profounder than loyalty."

The British people have decided to be ruled and to be free. They have, as a leading psychologist once put it, decomposed the idea of government into a symbolic and sacrosanct ruler, the King, and a functional and vulnerable ruler, the Prime Minister. With the rise of the Labour Party there were frequent attacks on royalty, but these evaporated when it was found that George V was politically impartial and cordially correct towards his Labour Ministers. When the Webbs came to design "A Constitution for the Socialist Commonwealth of Great Britain," they proposed no change and confessed that no one had been able to suggest any practicable way in which the British Empire could either do without a titular head or obtain one by popular election.

This stable situation was largely the achievement of the Prince Consort and of a Queen of remarkable character, who ruled the country for sixty years, was served by ten Prime Ministers in twenty Administrations and, while commanding the punctilious discharge of court ceremonial, succeeded in kindling the mystic devotion of the people to the occupant of the throne.

In earlier reigns the Heirs Apparent had the choice of remaining nonentities or of becoming centres of disaffection. Lord Hervey showed in his "Memoirs" that "every Prince of Wales in the eighteenth century quarrelled with his father, except George III, who, having no father, quarrelled with his grandfather." Queen Victoria kept the Prince of Wales in leading strings, and it was only in his fifty-first year that he was allowed to see copies of the Prime Minister's reports on Cabinet meetings.

The Prince of Wales who succeeded his father, George V, in 1936 had felt the full weight of parental authority; he occupied the throne for ten months and renounced it as he could not carry on "without the help and support of the woman I love." To his proposed marriage with Mrs. Wallis Simpson objections on the ground of her antecedents were raised in this country and throughout the Commonwealth. King Edward abdicated and became Duke of Windsor; he married Mrs. Simpson and retired into private life.

Such, baldly, is the story in the "Memoirs" now before us. It is very well told. It reads like a Famous Trial. It is the case for the defence, and interest is sustained from the first page to the last. The wisdom of publication is arguable; even with the suppressions of fact, which were perhaps inevitable, the hero emerges as rather a pathetic figure, in keeping with the anxious unhappy records of the camera.

* * *

EDWARD VIII was a man of forty-one on becoming King. He had deservedly enjoyed immense popularity accumulated through twenty-five years of public ceremonial. The question which agitated his Ministers was: would he settle down to the sober discharge of his new and more exacting duties? Between the ages of twenty-five and thirty-one he had visited over forty foreign countries and completed his restless education as Ambassador of the Empire. At home he had faithfully performed innumerable decorative functions and, between the wars, had shown his interest in ex-Service men and the unemployed.

It was known, however, to his Ministers and is frankly acknowledged in this book, that the Prince of Wales had his own views on the behaviour appropriate to a modern monarch. They were not those of his father, whose life was a masterpiece of well-ordered conduct. The training of the Prince had been austere: he had little chance of meeting women unchaperoned.

Oxford failed to make him studious: there is little evidence that he ever read a book. He preferred people to papers in red boxes. But he showed dash and courage in the hunting field: he risked his neck in steeplechases. He was a keen golfer and enjoyed flying. He grew to young manhood in the dissipated twenties, "a spendthrift and footloose time" when the Jazz Age was in flower, when "the oldest sins were committed in the newest ways."

He visited the United States. "America meant to me a country in which nothing was impossible. And the scale of hospitality purveyed on Long Island did nothing to disabuse me of this conception." Long Island is not America, but readers of "The Great Gatsby" will know what this fabulous extravagance and vulgarity meant. "I liked to try everything once." "If I worked hard I played hard." "There were London seasons when the West End was an almost continuous ball from midnight until dawn." "My father could not understand why I was not more like him."

The Throne, with its routine duties, repelled rather than attracted the Heir. He deplored his status in the First World War: "Oh, not to be a Prince." The immense, forbidding bulk of Buckingham Palace loomed up. "Did I really belong in there at all? Certainly not alone." He told his friends that he had no wish to be King and that it was preferable that the Duke of York should succeed George V. If he were to become King it must be "in terms of my own philosophy." He lost more than his heart to Mrs. Simpson. He shunted the Private Secretary who warned his infatuated chief of the peril he was in. It was to Lord Beaverbrook he turned for counsel and showed, in the crisis, that the creation of a King's Party would not be unwelcome.

THE Prince's early interest had been in married women. It was so again and now in 1936 the woman concerned was involved, and not for the first time, in divorce proceedings while both her previous husbands were still living. The Prince had met Mr. and Mrs. Simpson at a fox-hunting week-end in 1931 and in the following years the friendship slowly unfolded. This fact was well known in America, where a yachting trip shared by a party which included the Prince and Mrs. Simpson had been widely reported and illustrated. It was scarcely known in this country, where the Press had agreed to keep silent.

Mrs. Simpson's name appeared in the Court Circular on May 27, 1936, with that of her husband, after dining with the King and the Prime Minister, and again on July 6. We are not told when Mr. Simpson decided to put himself in the wrong and so render himself liable to be divorced. After the divorce he remarried; he is reported to have refused all financial offers to write his story.

On October 12, Baldwin returned from a holiday and was confronted by his secretaries with a vast volume of correspondence from British and American citizens in the United States expressing uneasiness at what was appearing in the American Press. He decided to approach the King, as counsellor and friend, to tell him of the danger confronting the Throne and the country.

At the interview on October 20 Baldwin tendered no formal advice but stressed the unique character of the British monarchy and the respect for it which had grown up in the last three generations. They met again on November 16, and Baldwin (who, comments the Duke, might have been the Gallup Poll incarnate) made plain that in his view a marriage which involved Mrs. Simpson becoming Queen would not receive the support of the country. The King said in effect: "She is the only woman in the world; I cannot live without her."

On December 2 the silence of the British Press was unexpectedly ended by a report of a remarkable address by the Bishop of Bradford on the need for a full appreciation by the King, Fidei Defensor, of the religious significance of the approaching Coronation. The importance of this was stressed in a leader by Arthur Mann, in the "Yorkshire Post," and salient passages from it were circulated by the Press Association before its publication and read by the editor of "The Times." He got into touch with other London editors but they decided to say nothing editorially, and only two or three provincial editors followed the lead of the "Yorkshire Post." An intense emotional release of comment followed, and "The Times" was flooded with letters of which this was typical: "In the War.... thousands of men gave up the women they loved at once and much more than the King is asked to—some gave everything."

The device of a morganatic marriage was given short shrift by the Cabinet, still shorter by the Dominions, and was not pressed by the King. There was at no time any constitutional issue between the King and his Ministers or between the King and Parliament. In his great speech in the House of Commons on December 10—"it was like history speaking," wrote John Garvin—Baldwin demonstrated that the King acted "freely, voluntarily and spontaneously, in his own time and in his own way." He renounced his throne for a woman. The man revolted against the monarch.

* * *

THE two men who had thus clashed were morally opposed. Baldwin's "wholly respectable mind," as the Duke calls it—his religious outlook, as I should prefer to phrase it—was allied to the deep puritanical strain which is a characteristic of this country, however belied by its conduct. His interpretation of the wishes of the people was truer than the King's, whose ill-mannered and contemptuous references to his Prime Minister and to Archbishop Lang disfigure the "Memoirs." Even Baldwin's modest motor car does not escape ridicule. When Baldwin left Downing Street for Fort Belvedere on December 8 to hold "deep speech" with his Sovereign he observed to his secretaries: "He must wrestle with himself now in a way he has never done before, and if he will let me I will help him. We may even have to see the night through together." But he found the King ready to complete the Act of Abdication.

From October onwards Baldwin's handling of the crisis was faultless. As was said at the time: "Nothing could have been wiser, braver or kinder than his language and his attitude." The issue was simple. The King wanted "to marry as other men do," "on my own terms." The Prime Minister answered from the pages of another tragedy:—

> His will is not his own;
> For he himself is subject to his birth:
> He may not, as unvalu'd persons do,
> Carve for himself; for on his choice depends
> The safety and the health of the whole State.

In the shadows, while these grave events had been moving to a climax, stood the King's mother, his brothers and sister. They had seen little of him in the past two years, and had been against the marriage. The departing King recognized the qualities and virtues of the brother destined to succeed him, a foresight abundantly confirmed and a fulfilment for which the whole Commonwealth is today profoundly grateful.

Bible Message

(From the Authorized Version)

And the Lord said, I have surely seen the affliction of my people which are in Egypt and have heard their cry by reason of their taskmasters; for I know their sorrows.... Come now therefore, and I will send thee unto Pharoah, that thou mayest bring forth my people the children of Israel out of Egypt.

And Moses said unto God, Who am I, that I should go unto Pharoah, and that I should bring forth the children of Israel out of Egypt? And he said, Certainly I will be with thee; and this shall be a token unto thee, that I have sent thee: When thou hast brought forth the people out of Egypt, ye shall serve God upon this mountain. (Ex. 3: 7, 10-12.)

* * *

And Moses said unto the Lord, O my Lord, I am not eloquent, neither heretofore, nor since thou hast spoken unto thy servant: but I am slow of speech, and of a slow tongue. And the Lord said unto him, Who hath made man's mouth?....

Now therefore go, and I will be with thy mouth, and teach thee what thou shalt say. (Ex. 4: 10, 11, 12.)

* * *

Blessed is the man that walketh not in the counsel of the ungodly, nor standeth in the way of sinners, nor sitteth in the seat of the scornful. But his delight is in the law of the Lord; and in his law doth he meditate day and night. And he shall be like a tree planted by the rivers of water, that bringeth forth his fruit in his season; his leaf also shall not wither; and whatsoever he doeth shall prosper. (Ps. 1: 1-3.)

PLENTY OF NOTHIN'

In Hungary a commissar asked a peasant how the new potato-crop-production plan was coming. "Under our glorious leader, Stalin," answered the peasant, "our potato crop has been miraculous. If we were to put all our potatoes in a pile they would make a mountain reaching to the feet of God."

"But you know there isn't any God," said the commissar.

"There aren't any potatoes either," replied the peasant.

Suggest Russia Planning To Ease Tension

PARIS, Oct. 2 — (AP) — Two prominent Paris independent newspapers Monday featured stories indicating that Russia is planning steps to ease the tension between East and West.

The stories in neither paper cited exact sources.

L'Aurore published an article saying that sources in Stockholm and London had disclosed:

1. Russia will agree to conditions insisted upon by the West for holding free elections in all Germany.

2. Russia may propose a Big-Four conference in Berlin late this month.

3. It may ask the Koreans and Chinese to accept an armistice on the present front and would undertake mediation there.

4. In case of such agreements, the United States should be disposed to favor agreements between Communist China and Japan and entry of China into the United Nations.

France-Soir said sources close to the Russian embassy indicated Russia might propose a world economic conference in Moscow sometime this winter, and would suggest cultural and economic exchanges between the United States and Russia, including an exchange of 1,000 students.

Describes Story Of Drownings

NORTH BAY, Oct. 2—(CP)—Harry Horton, 34, part owner of a tool and die company in Welland, wept openly as he told how two of his employees lost their lives Sunday when a small plywood boat overturned in Lake Nipissing.

Norman Lemon, 29, and Steve Brosky, 24, both of Welland, were drowned after clinging to the boat while Horton saved himself by swimming to a five-gallon gas can floating nearby. Horton clung to the can for two hours until finally carried near the shore by the current. Exhausted, he let go the can.

"I finally gave up and I knew I was done for," he said. "I went under water, then my feet touched the bottom. The water was just up to my mouth. I waded ashore and fell down there."

Two Indians brought him to the shack and left to search for Lemon and Brosky but the lake was obscured by fog and rain.

The boat was found floating offshore early Monday.

Free Gold Market Plan Poses Problem For Ottawa

OTTAWA, Oct. 2—(CP)—Official Ottawa is weaving through a period of uncertainty as a decision nears on a free market for Canadian gold. The cabinet's decision may come Wednesday.

Even those who are convinced that the free market would bring more income to Canada's gold-mining area feel regret.

For the free market—selling gold in bulk through unofficial channels—strikes a blow at the world's principal force for economic stabilization—the 49-country international monetary fund.

Ever since it began operations in 1946, the fund has fought for restricted sales of gold at the fixed price of $35 a fine ounce in United States funds and warned its member that free-market sales at fluctuating prices may bring chaos in its wake.

The free market, as seen by some officials here, is a reflection of a country's financial strength; it is developed by the urge of hoarders to grasp a tangible form of security when the country's currency becomes depreciated and its purchasing power dwindles.

Fosters Smuggling

So great is the demand for gold in some European and far eastern countries that it fosters smuggling when a country tries to prevent imports.

The price and demand for gold seems to grow as supplies move eastward from Europe into Asia. It brings the best price in the far east where countries have experienced difficulty maintaining stabilized rates of exchange.

In Paris last April, bar gold brought $47 (US) per ounce and in Bombay, $65. Officials estimate that about one-half of last year's total production of more than $800,000,000 worth of gold went into free market sales and into hoarders' vaults.

Meets Obligation

Canada, living up to her international obligations, has refrained from making wide use of the free market, though through a federal licensing system, small quantities were exported for industrial purposes.

The bulk of Canada's gold either goes to the United States or remains in Canada to build up official dollar and gold reserves.

The export licensing system, set up in 1932, may become the government's method of control if and when it decides to establish a free market.

But Canada still persisted, along with other countries, in urging the fund to relax its views on free-market sales. It was felt that if South Africa—the world's top gold producer—could sell gold to the free market, other countries should be able to.

The government, in deciding to what extent a free market should be established for Canadian gold, likely will be governed by the fund's economic views and allow only a portion of Canadian production to be sold outside of official channels.

Hold Conference On Seaway, Hopes Rising

By JOHN LEBLANC

OTTAWA, Oct. 2 (CP)—Prime Minister St. Laurent and two of his key ministers conferred for almost an hour on the St. Lawrence Seaway Monday with chairman R. H. Saunders of the Ontario Hydro Commission, which would handle the $200,000,000 Canadian power phase of the huge project.

The Prime Minister had just returned from Washington, where on Friday he obtained President Truman's agreement to sanction a Canadian-built power-navigation development if a joint Canada-United States scheme could not be launched soon.

Mr. St. Laurent brought the Hydro chairman up to date on seaway moves, and at the end of the meeting Mr. Saunders said he is "very much encouraged" over the outlook for the $700,000,000 undertaking.

"There are still great difficulties to be met," he told a reporter, "but I am satisfied we are on the right road and that in the not-too-distant future we will see a start on the scheme."

No Definite Date

He said he did not get any idea from the Prime Minister as to when a start on the job actually might be made. He was confident, though, it would be "as quickly as possible."

With them at the meeting in the Prime Minister's office were Transport Minister Chevrier, whose department would have charge of the seaway from the federal end, and External Affairs Minister Pearson.

Earlier, the Prime Minister told reporters meeting him on his return that he and President Truman had not agreed on any deadline for joint Canada-US action. The agreement had been that, barring "early" Congressional action, the President would give the go-ahead to Canada.

Charge Paper In Contempt

ST. CATHARINES, Oct. 2 (CP)—Magistrate H. D. Hallett said in court Monday that he will consider whether The St. Catharines Standard should be held in contempt of court over a story about an attempted holdup of an Imperial Bank of Canada branch at nearby St. David's last month.

He replied to John King, lawyer for Earl Gilson, of Niagara Falls. Gilson is charged, together with George Dalbold and Boyd Englehard, of Niagara Falls, with the attempted holdup.

The lawyer argued that in a newspaper story the day after the holdup, his client's name had been used in such a way as to create an impression he was linked with the crime, although he had not been tried in court.

Gilson Monday elected trial by higher court and was remanded. P. H. Sullivan, Acting Crown Attorney, suggested cash bail of $10,000.

Dalbold and Englehard were remanded to Oct. 9 without being asked to plead.

Girl 11 Charged With Abduction

TORONTO, Oct. 2—(CP)—An 11-year-old Toronto girl Monday night was charged with the abduction of 22-month-old Virginia Rongette from a carriage in front of the infant's home in Central Toronto.

Police say the girl picked the baby out of the carriage late Monday and carried her home. She told her mother she had found the infant in the hallway of their apartment building. The mother believed the girl's story until she heard a news broadcast that mentioned the baby's disappearance.

The mother telephoned the radio station and police went to her home and picked up the baby.

The girl was lodged overnight in the children's shelter. Police said they learned her two-month-old sister died recently and they believed the death might have prompted her action.

The Modern Marvel of Laminated Wood!

ENGINEERED TIMBERS

You can be as eloquent as you like about laminated wood, and you won't do justice to its strength, resilience, beauty and endurance. Take a Douglas fir, for example, grown in B.C. It's one of the strongest of all woods—straight-grained, tough, exceptionally durable. Here at Timber Structures, the kiln-dried timber is cut into perfect sections by precision milling, then "welded" together under pressure with adhesives—glues that provide an everlasting bond that's stronger than the wood itself!

The result is one of the finest of permanent structural materials known to man. Yet, for all its tremendous strength—its ability to stand stress and strain—it can be engineered into whatever shape you require. And it won't check, twist, shrink or warp.

From prefabricated barges to factories . . . from warehouses to stores, churches, auditoriums and aircraft hangars . . . the laminated wood structures of Timber Structures of Canada Limited are underlining the industrial progress of all Canada. TIMBERMEN EVEN MANN CUP SERIES WITH 13-4 WIN IN FOURTH GAME

Back In Their Old Stride Petes Make Combines Play Hard Checking Game

By C. J. PERDUE, Examiner Sports Editor

VANCOUVER, Oct. 2.—Returning to championship form at the Forum here Monday night, the Petes trimmed Vancouver Combines 13-4 before some 2,500 lacrosse fans. It evened the Mann Cup series at two wins each, and starts a new best-of-three series, as it were, for the Dominion cup. Remaining games will probably be played at Kerrisdale arena, home floor all season for the Combines. The home team yelled loud last night at playing on a board floor over the Forum ice, and they held up the game 20 minutes before finally deciding to play as the crowd stamped impatiently and jeered them. As New Westminster also has ice in now, it appears as if the CBA latest move in this touring road show will be to finish it up at Kerrisdale, a Vancouver suburb.

Loosers Sulked

While the floor did sweat some and made for some slippery going, it was the same for one team as the other. The Petes were back in form and gave the Vancouverites a fancy trouncing, and the losers sulked throughout. The winners drew 12 penalties to nine for Combines and still looked much better, scoring several goals when a man short. There was lots of slashing throughout the tilt.

Don Crowe's happy warriors were back in their old stride and they made their rivals play the Peterborough pace. They slowed it right down, checked hard and kept possession most of the time. Moon Wootton was good when he had to be but he had first class protection and not too much to do.

Combines were shooting from well out most of the distance, or getting a mighty rough ride when they tried to break through.

Took Four To One Lead

Scotty McPhail saw action as a replacement for Jerry Fitzgerald, and he turned in a sterling effort, they all did, not a weakling showing on the victors' lineup this time. They struck fast and built up a 4-1 lead in the first frame, making it 6-1 at the half and being in front 9-2 going into the last stanza. They led all the way and were never pushed to any extent.

Denny Peterson and Bob Thorpe shone with three goals each to lead the Timbermen. Arn Dugan slapped in a pair, as singles were counted by Slater, Nit O'Hearn, Merv McKenzie, Curly Mason and Don McPhail. McKenzie clicked on two assists, singles going to Peterson, Powless, O'Hearn, Slater, McPhail, Wipper and Dugan.

The Vancouver tallies were racked up by Elmer Buchanan—who replaced an injured Ken Webb, Jimmy Anderson, Roy Cavallin and helmeted Gogie Stewart. The latter and Ernie Smith each had an assist. Veteran goalie Walt Lee wasn't quite as hot this game as previously, but he made many neat saves as the Petes put on the pressure in every quarter.

Man Short, Thorpe Scores

McPhail drew an early slashing penalty, but Bob Thorpe scored while he was off on a neat pass from Dugan, slipping his check to go right in. Stewart got it right back as he raced in fast in shifty style from the side to give Moon no chance. Later, McPhail put the Petes up again from Wipper when he stepped out of the sin bin and took Harry's long pass in the clear to go in and make no mistake. O'Hearn was gated for slashing and again Thorpe scored from McPhail with a backhander on the run after they had stalled for a spell. Swanson got it then for slashing and Mason whistled a hot one home on Slater's forward pass. Thorpe drew a short penalty when the Petes had too many on the floor in a change, but they dominated play the rest of the heat.

Thorpe drew a cheap penalty in the second for a so-called trip and McKenzie scored while he was off, tearing up the floor and blazing a hot, low one as he rounded defence into the mesh. Mason went over for slashing and Peterson fought his way through some hard checking to smash an angle drive into a net corner. Later McKay cut down Powless and drew a major penalty. Slater hit the post but they ragged the ball well to stave off further scoring. McKay was no sooner back than he was chased again for charging into the boards. The Petes didn't cash in on it.

McPhail was waved over in the third for a slight case of tripping and Thorpe proved the opportunist once more to backhand Dugan's pass in. Sakich and Powless were chased for roughing and Mason followed for charging as play roughened up somewhat. O'Hearn took McKenzie's forward pass and batted it in, but Anderson got that back on the run in close with a pass from Smith. All were back and the pace stepped up a lot until Peterson and Swanson roughed it up to draw the finger. Thorpe came close with McPhail's pass and then Peterson got through on a quick break with McKenzie's lob to cuff the apple into the oven and make it 9-2.

Dugan doodled in fast to blaze home a fast side shot to open the fourth frame, after taking O'Hearn's shot pass. Cavallin rolled right back to shake a check and bounce one by Wootton. Peterson went over for slashing and Hanson followed seconds later for a similar sin. Peterson got back in time to snatch a forward pass from Powless and go in close with a screaming low bullet that the goalie never saw. E. Buchanan served a six-second penalty for too many on the floor in a change, but he came on to score their last marker in neat combination inside with Stewart. Vitarelli was thumbed off for slashing and then Hanson for charging the goalie. Dugan hit the empty Vancouver net as the goalie was sucked out of the crease. Slater wound it up near the end in close with a pass from Peterson. Seconds before the final gong, Cavallin and Crowe roughed it up in a near fight to draw minor penalties.

SPORTS SHOW WINDOW

By CEC. PERDUE, Sports Editor

VANCOUVER, Oct. 2.—That was a mighty tough break for Jerry Fitzgerald. He came a long way to play one game and then go under the knife in an appendicitis operation. He complained of stomach cramps upon arrival by plane, but turned in a solid game Friday. Went to the hospital for a check Saturday and was told at first that he'd be OK for Monday's game. Then he took a sudden attack and the operation was ordered Sunday night. He's in room 551, St. Paul's Hospital, Vancouver, if anyone wishes to write or wire him. The boys call to see him daily and report he is coming along well. But it was a tough blow for Jerry and for the Petes.

* * * * * *

Permission was immediately sought and obtained by the club to use Don (Scotty) McPhail as a replacement for Fitz. Mimico's high scorer, whose bad knee is OK again. He motored out with some OLA officials for the series, and was a mournful man that first week. Hung around with the players, took in their practices and hoped to get a chance to play with the Petes. Some of the team though McPhail might draw too many penalties, but Merv McKenzie pointed out: "Heck, he was high scorer in the OLA this year, wasn't he?" It was the same Merv who had injured McPhail's knee in the Hamilton-Mimico series. And Don earlier in the season had banged up Wipper and Thorpe. Sports make strange bedfellows, eh?

* * * * * *

More folks with connections back home drop around to see the boys here. Gus Mastrianno was one. A Doreen Smith (now married) was another. And Jack Roach and his wife, formerly Rhoda Deannard. Ed Panter, Tommy Flynn of Norwood, Bill Mowat, son of the former school inspector, too. Dootch Vitarelli visited Joe Rochetta's sister, who is stationed in Vancouver. Ken Kingston and Harry Tudhope have been looking up a lot of people. Quite a few nationalities go into the melting pot which makes up this sprawling coastal city. And, as Ross Powless chants cheerfully: "There'll always be an Indian". He made sure of that by taking out $20,000 plane insurance coming West.

* * * * * *

The Petes were happy warriors last night and they earned their 13-4 win handily. Of course, the Combines—as cryingest a club as we've seen in years—had their alibis all ready in advance. Didn't want to play on a sweaty floor over the ice. Sulked like babes but finally came out and took a sound trimming. So now they'll play no more on this floor—they want their own Kerrisdale arena where they played all season. And it looks like there for the rest of the road show Wednesday, Friday and next Monday. If it goes the limit. Well, the Petes can take 'em there, too, if they play up to form, as they did last night. Champs don't take their arenas around with them.

* * * * * *

The Timbermen were hustling Monday p.m., doing no beefing at mates' mistakes, slapping their buddies on the backs when they came on or off the floor—in fact, playing their old winning style. They'll be hard to beat tomorrow, if they don't have a relapse. It's a new best-of-three series, and they've got an excellent chance of taking it. But they've got to give it all they have each game, and they fully realize that. The loss of Fitz is a bad one, and Nit O'Hearn may be gone ere the next game, but they've got a good replacement in Scotty McPhail, and Mick Magee and Joe Whitnell are available as spares when needed. Yes, we have confidence in them to grab the Mann Cup.

* * * * * *

Combines use the alibi that the floor wasn't to their suiting and that they didn't play up to form as a consequence. Well, if a club is that spoiled and pampered, we don't think the spirit is there. True, some of the Petes sulked last week because their coach told 'em off in army style, but they've got over that now and are hustling for him. This is no time for sulking, this is playoff time with the chips right on the line. You either have the cards or you don't. We liked the way the Timbermen slowed the pace down and made the Combines play it their way last night. They checked them hard but not in dirty fashion, and drew several cheap penalties, yet they looked better even when short-handed. Bob Thorpe played an inspiring game when the team was shy one or two players.

* * * * * *

The next game is probably the big one for both sides, and it will likely be a hot one. We like the Petes' chances if they all shoot the works. If they win it, they should be home free—but then one never knows in sports. Peterson and McKenzie came up with a good Monday chore, and so did Dugan, O'Hearn and Thorpe. Slater in spots, too, and Wootton when he was called upon. But they all fought hard and looked considerably superior in every quarter. They still don't like Folka's refereeing, but they didn't beef too much. The crowd possibly 2,500, didn't have too much to say, either. Don Crowe said afterward, "We should wind it up this week if we keep up this pace".

Syracuse Coach Cracks Whip

LINDSAY, Oct. 2.—Despite two wins in three games during their Quebec tour, coach Fran Beiver was far from satisfied with the AHL Syracuse club's showing, and started cracking the whip in practices on arrival back here.

"The boys didn't have the zip they should have had," said the coach as he directed the 21 pros through a tough two-hour session Monday afternoon.

The emphasis was on everything during the practice as the players shook off the effects of the 1,000-mile bus trip and three games in 72 hours. Mid-ice combinations in the trio of exhibition games was bad, so for 20 minutes the teams went through a passing drill between the blue lines. The forwards sharpened up their shooting eyes by peppering goalies Gord Bell and Jim Strahan and then finished off with an 80-minute scrimmage.

Another two-hour drill is slated for Tuesday morning prior to leaving at noon for Stratford, where Syracuse meets Cleveland. Beiver will cut down to a squad of 16, including two netminders, four defencemen, three lines and an extra forward for the 300-mile trip.

Hastings Jrs. Win 11-7, Move Into Final

A recipe for any softball team to follow is: mix timely hitting with the opposition's errors. Hastings juniors followed those directions Monday night at Riverside Bowl and moved into the Ontario softball Junior "C" final championship series.

In the final game of the best-of-three semi-finals, Hastings whipped Dixie 11-7 before 200 howling fans, mostly from Hastings.

Ontario junior "C" champions two years ago, Hastings dropped the first game in Hastings, 8-7, and then edged Dixie in Dixie Saturday 10-7 in 11 innings. Monday's victory moves Hastings into the junior finals against either Beamsville or Aldershot, tonight or Wednesday night.

Dick West for Hastings and Jim Stanfield for Dixie went the route in all three games. But no Monday night Stanfield's support both at the plate and especially on the field, failed him.

Good Backing

Meanwhile West started weak and finished stronger, receiving brilliant backing on the field by the whole team. In the ninth inning Dixie pressed the nervous Hastings nine but Wade made the last two batters pop up.

Both West and Stanfield helped their causes with home runs. West rapped a long-hit well over the short right field fence in the second. Stanfield bettered West's effort with two homers, one into left in the first and the other over the right field fence in the ninth.

For several seconds in the fifth inning Hastings' fans thought they had lost Paul Stevenson, the right fielder. He was hit on the back of the neck when stealing second, but stayed in the game.

In that same fifth tempers rose. Charlie Macoun slid into third for Hastings and was tagged extra hard by Ron Sutherland. Both threatened with fists but their mates separated the pair.

Stanfield's homer in the first inning drew first blood as he sent home Ed Melchior, the catcher, who had walked. But Hastings rallied in the second as George Holmes led off with a single to centre, followed by West's homer to right.

Dixie cashed in on West's wildness in the third, coupled with an error and singles by Jack Rogers and Tom Gibb for two runs to go up 4-2.

Hastings in their half doomed Dixie. Boyd Kelly singled, Ernest Spencer got aboard on an error and Jim Morrow walked to fill the bases. George Holmes then tripled to centre, later scoring on an out.

In the terrible fifth Hastings again added, this time on four Dixie errors. West, first up, circled on two errors in right field. Then two more errors and a fielder's choice sent two more runs across to total nine for Hastings.

Three more errors and a hit in the seventh inning gave Hastings a couple of runs to end their scoring.

Stanfield revived Dixie temporarily by opening with a homer. Frank Milne and Jack Rogers followed with doubles, and both scored later on an infield error.

Lineups:

Hastings—Kelly, 3b; Spencer, cf; Morrow, lf; Holmes, 1b; West, p; Wilson, 2b; Stevenson, rf; Macoun, ss; Oliver, c.

Dixie—Melchior, c; Stanfield, p; Milne, 2b; Rogers, ss; Habkirk, 1b; Lowndes, lf; Gibb, rf; Hillis, cf; Sutherland, 3b.

LAWN BOWLING

By HERB MARTIN

It was such a fine day that we strolled up to the bowling green—Monday afternoon—just to have, as it were, one last fond look. The greens are being prepared for the winter and we understand they will be closed this coming Saturady night. The advice to the lady bowlers is to play off any remaining games this week.

And just as a farewell gesture the ladies are holding a pot-luck supper on Wednesday, Oct. 3 at 6.30 p.m. in the club house. The committee is hoping to see every member present.

Playing down at Kingston, last week, our ladies did very well—Mrs. H. Beatty and Mrs. H. Wilson second for 3 wins; Mrs. W. Hepburn and Mrs. L. Bearne high for 2 wins. Over at Lindsay R. Downey and C. Williamson came in second for 3 wins.

All members are requested to keep Monday Oct. 15 open—it's our annual meeting and banquet.

Sign Red Doran As Belleville Coach

BELLEVILLE, Oct. 2 (CP).—Red Doran of the Cleveland Barons hockey club has been signed as playing coach of the Ontario Hockey Association Senior "B" Belleville Redmen for the 1951-52 season.

Doran who turned out at the Cleveland club's autumn training sessions, arrived here Sunday to take over his new duties.

JACK HARRIS, St. George's golf club, tied Morley Finlay, Brantford, with a gross 81 at the Kawartha Monday in the annual Ontario Greenskeepers Association tournament. Harris was awarded the championship and the Alex McClumpha trophy on match play. Greenskeepers Tournament Ends In Nine-Above-Par Tie

The Ontario Greenkeepers' Association annual tournament ended Monday in a tie at the Kawartha Golf and Country Club.

On stroke play Jack Harris, St. Georges Club, and Morley Finlay, Brantford, both carded an 81 in the annual 18 holes of golf for greenkeepers and their assistants.

The championship and Alex McClumpha trophy were presented to Harris when the judges ruled, after the two golfers decided not to play further, the St. George's golfer won on match play.

But Finlay was awarded the net honors although Harris, with a handicap of 10, had the low net with a 71. Finlay's handicap of nine gave him a net score of 72.

George Butler, Scarboro, also carded a net 72, under the handicap system used, receiving 14 strokes. His gross score was 86, 40 and 46. Those who registered nets of 73 were: Rusty Peppin, Weston; Joe Roberts, Oshawa, and Bill MacIntosh, Kawartha Club, Peterborough.

Completing the course earlier than most of the others, both Harris and Finlay left the officials' stand thinking that someone would better their nine-above-par scores.

But their nearest rival was Oshawa's Joe Roberts who had a 43 and 41 for a gross of 84. Eighty-five gross scores were made by Alf Burchell, London; Ken Nixon, Long Branch.

The annual day opened first with a buffet luncheon in the Kawartha club diningroom, followed by the play. After the tournament William Nash, a member of the Kawartha greens committee, and a chemist at the Canada Packers, spoke chiefly on the history of the Kawartha club.

Giants Now In Driver's Seat After Whipping Brooklyn 3-1 In 1st Tilt

By JOE REICHLER

NEW YORK, Oct. 2. (AP)—Today could be the day when New York's miracle Giants climax the most sensational surge in National League history by wininng the pennant. For the first time this year, following Monday's clean-cut 3-1 Ebbets Field victory over Brooklyn in the first of the best-of-three game playoff, the Giants find themselves entrenched solidly in the driver's seat. Professional odds-makers, who only six weeks ago were offering 50-to-1 odds against the Giants' chances, have established Leo Durocher's darlings a prohibitive 2-to-5 favorite to drub the Dodgers again for the right to meet the Yankees in an all-New York World Series.

Charlie Dressen's weary Dodgers trudge into the Polo Grounds this afternoon, trailing the Giants for the first time since the opening week of the campaign. Monday's loss dropped them a full game behind the Giants, who trailed them by 13½ games August 11. Since then the Giants have won 38 of 45, including their last eight in a row, while the Brooks have won only 26 of 50.

Dodgers Underdogs

Brooklyn definitely is the underdog as Dressen digs deep into his riddled mound corps for a rested pitcher. Unless he changes his mind, Dressen's hesitant choice lies between Carl Erskine (16-12) and Clem Labine (4-1), both young, inexperienced right-handers.

Durocher also is undecided whom to start in the second game. It was to be either Sal Maglie (23-6) or Sheldon Jones (6-10), he said. Durocher, however, is in a much better position to gamble then Dressen.. He can take a chance on Jones and have a well-rested Maglie ready for Wednesday's rubber game should the Giants lose today. If Jones wins, he can open the World Series with Maglie.

"If the Giants should beat us for the flag," Dressen said, "and our chances certainly appear none too bright at the moment, you can trace back our defeat to the victory in Philadelphia Sunday.

"That game left me with a riddled pitching staff and a crippled catcher. Roy Campanella, who hurt his leg in the fourth inning Sunday, is the backbone of our club. You saw him out there. He can't run. If he were all right, there's no telling what might have happened."

Dressen said he was undecided whether he would substitute Al (Rube) Walker for the hard-socking backstop.

"If he should win today," Charlie added, "it will be Newcombe Wednesday and Roe to open the World Series Thursday.

No Gloating

Durocher, whose masterminding during the last six weeks has been an important feature of the Giants' brilliant climb, was careful not to make any gloating remarks. As he has done from the start, Leo gave all the credit to his players.

Jim Hearn, the big raw-boned righthander, pitched probably his best game, certainly the most important, of his career. Five hits were all he allowed as he struck out five and walked only two in outduelling Ralph Branca.

A second-inning home run by Andy Pafko averted the Dodger shutout. In only one inning —the fourth — did the Brooks get as many as two runners on the basepaths. That was when Duke Snider and Jackie Robinson smashed back-to-back singles with only one out. Then, with runners on first and third, Hearn induced the limping Campanella to roll into a double play.

What further trouble Hearn encountered during the afternoon was efficiently eradicated by the tight Giant defence, which reeled off four double plays.

Bobby Thomson, the hottest hitter on the club during the surge, provided the big blow. The converted third baseman walloped a tremendous fourth-inning homer with a mate aboard to erase Brooklyn's 1-0 lead. It was Bobby's 31st four-bagger and his fourth at Ebbets' Field.

Monte Irvin, the team's most consistent run producer, also chimed in with a homer, his 24th and his fifth off Branca.

Have Coast-to-Coast Baseball Telecast

NEW YORK, Oct. 2 (AP). — The Columbia Broadcasting System put on the first coast-to-coast baseball telecast Monday and beat the National Broadcasting Company to the punch.

CBS said its TV network carried the opening game of the Brooklyn Dodgers-New York Giants playoff series to 42 stations outside New York City. It estimated the telecast was seen by 11,000,000 persons in all—7,500,000 outside New York City.

The National Broadcasting Company's telecasts of the world series, starting Thursday from Yankee Stadium, originally were scheduled to be the first major league baseball to be carried west of the Rockies by TV.

At last word, it still was uncertain whether there would be network telecasts of today's Giants-Dodgers playoff game from the Polo Grounds—or the third game, if one is required.

All three playoff games will be broadcast by the Mutual Broadcasting Company.

Sell Series Tickets

NEW YORK, Oct. 2 (AP). — New York Giants announced on Monday 18,000 reserve seat strips for the world series will go on sale today. The seats will be sold in stripe for the three games at the Polo Grounds and will cost $18.

Musial Wins 5th Batting Crown

NEW YORK, Oct. 2 (AP). — Although the official averages have not been released, Stan Musial, 30-year-old St. Louis Cardinals' slugger, has won his fifth National League batting crown.

Musial finished the regular season Sunday with a .355 average. The playoff games between Dodgers and New York Giants count in the averages, but no one can catch Stan. Jackie Robinson of the Dodgers is closest in third place with a .335 mark after Sunday's game. But he can't pick up 20 points. Richie Ashburn of the Philadelphia Phillies is second with .344.

Only two other players, Honus Wagner and Rogers Hornsby have won more National League batting tities than Musial. Wagner won eight crowns and Hornsby seven.

Led League

Musial led the league in 1943 with a .347 average, 1946 with a .365 mark, 1948 with a healthy .376 and last year with a .346 figure.

Rounding out the top 10 as of Sunday are Roy Campanella, Brooklyn, .327, Monte Irvin, New York, .313; Johnny Wyrostek, Cincinnati, .311; Ralph Kiner, Pittsburgh, .309; Al Dark, New York, .306; Carl Furillo, Brooklyn, .301 and Johnny Metkovich, Pittsburgh, .294.

Musial pounded out 205 hits including 30 home runs, 12 triples and 30 doubles. He scored 124 runs and batted in 108. It marked the eighth straight season that Musial has scored 100 or more runs, a National League record.

Kiner finished the season on Sunday leading in runs scored and home runs. Kiner nosed out Musial, 125-124 in runs scored and had 42 homers to his credit to 39 for Gil Hodges of Brooklyn.

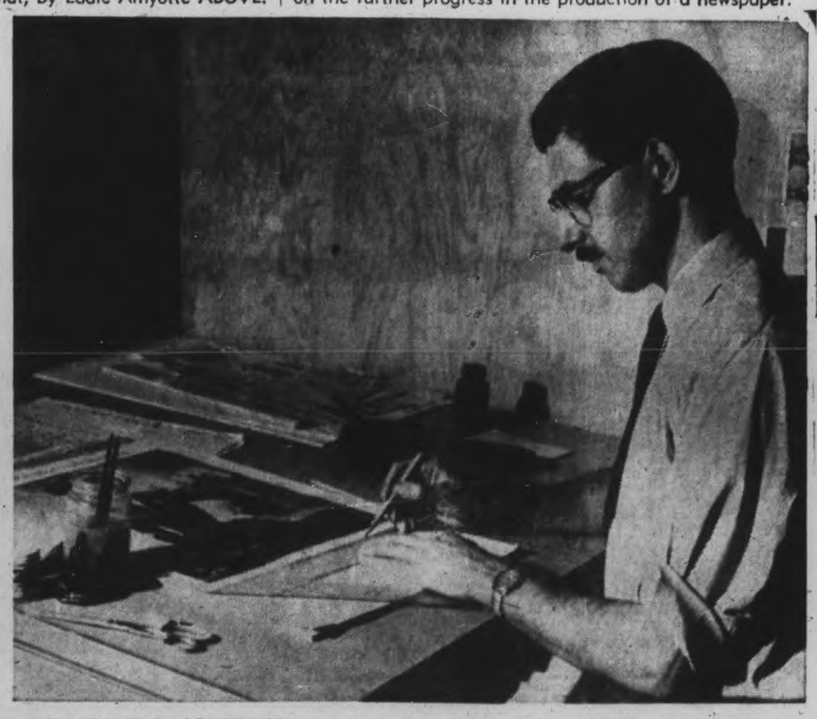
The Examiner Family at Work Producing Your Paper

THE PROOFREADING JOB on a newspaper is one of the most exacting. While the proofreader gets the blame for all the mistakes, or at least most of them, he often is blameless; in the rush someone else has slipped. Ronald Taylor, LEFT, and George Booth are seen above in the proofreading department of The Examiner.

THE NEWS DESK is the centre of activity in the editorial office. It is here that all the news is collected before being sent to the composing room to be set into type by the linotype machines. G. Wilson Craw, managing editor, here discusses with Dave White, reporter, LEFT, and Robert Hatton, city editor, further coverage of a story which has just been turned in. Jim English, district editor, RIGHT, edits some of the district correspondence, while Don. Grant in the forefront answers a telephone call.

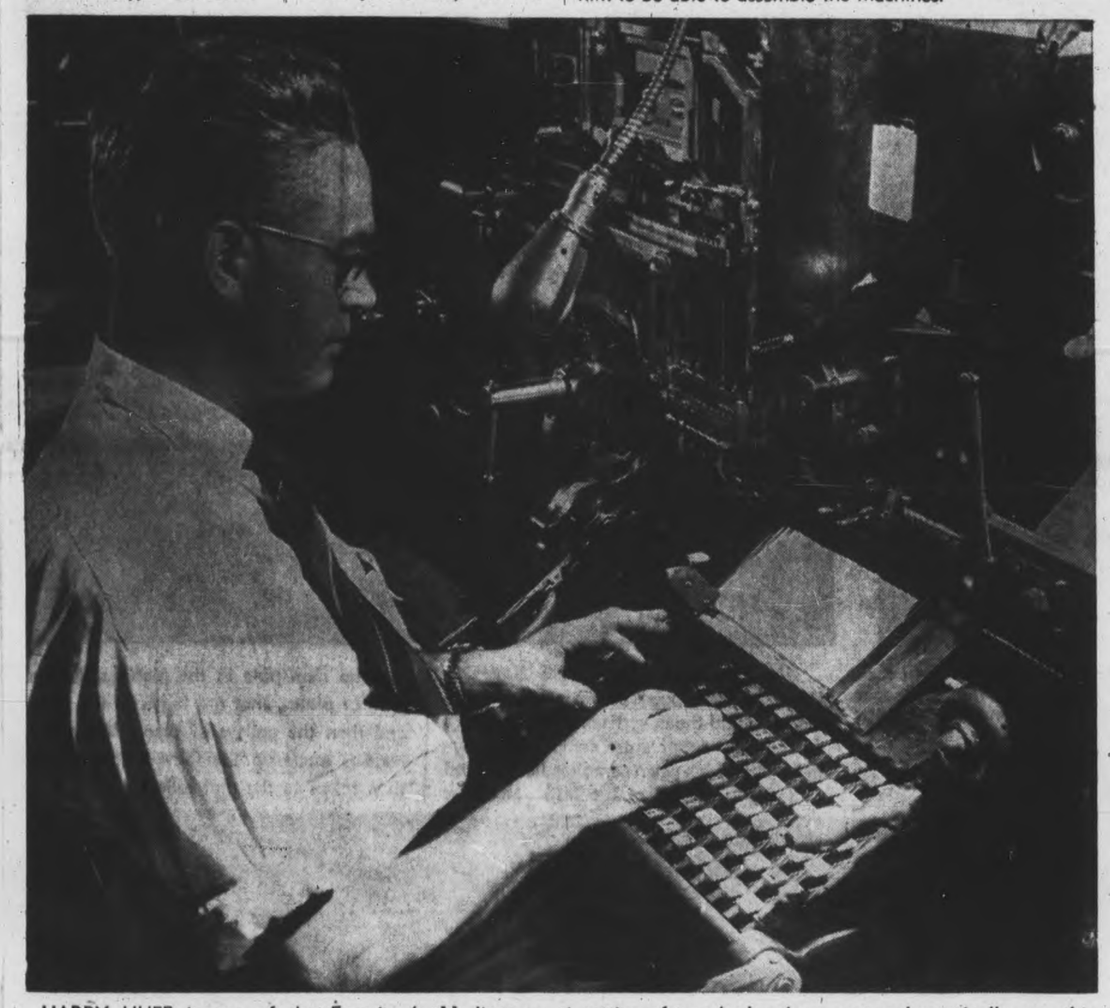
MAURICE DUNKLEY, veteran employee of the composing room, who is now in his 39th year with The Examiner, completes making up a page of type. When the galleys of type are proofread and corrected they are assembled to be placed in the various page forms. Here Mr. Dunkley has put the eight columns of type in the form and is making certain that there are no black rules showing up, no lines upside down and the columns are properly spaced before going to the mat roller.



ALBERT STANLEY, another veteran employee of The Examiner, who is now in his 44th year as a member of the staff, is the operator of the new Fairchild Engraver, the machine which makes the pictures which appear in the newspaper. When the photographer has taken his picture and has developed and printed it, he gives the picture to Mr. Stanley, who turns out the plastic engraving, commonly known as a "cut." This machine, one of the latest inventions in the newspaper field, was installed early in the summer by The Examiner.

WHEN MR. DUNKLEY completed making up the page of type, it was taken to the large machine in the composing room called a moulding or mat roller. Here it is covered with a very thick paper, or mat, by Eddie Amyotte ABOVE. It was then put through the roller where the impression of every letter, character and figure is imprinted on the mat. The page of type has then served its purpose and is ditched or thrown away and the type re-melted. The mat carries on the further progress in the production of a newspaper.

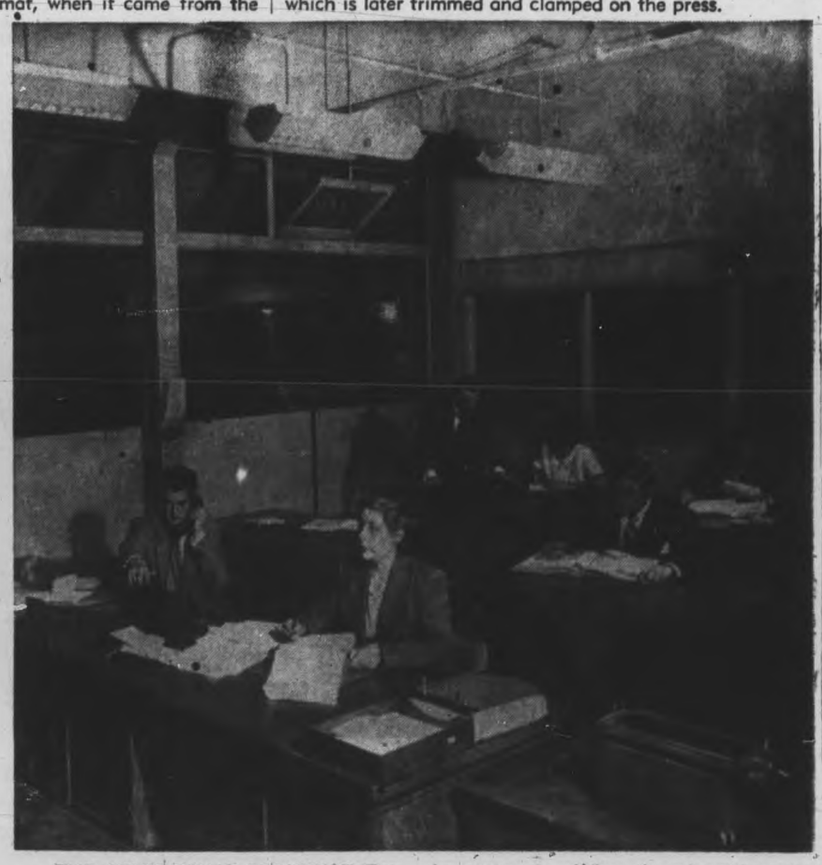
WHEN EDDIE AMYOTTE completed rolling the mat, it was then sent to the stereotyping department where Jim Jodrell, ABOVE, placed it in a drier in order to remove the moisture content and harden the impression. When dried, the mat is placed in the casting box. The box is closed and hot metal is pumped from the stereotyper's pot, which holds several tons of fluid metal, into the box. The temperature drops rapidly, the metal solidifies and every letter, figure and character which was found on the mat is now imprinted on the metal plate or casting. The casting, which is semi-circular in form, similar to those in the pile to Jodrell's left, is run through the trimmer, while still quite hot, and cut to the proper size. It is then put through a water cooler. The plate is now hard and ready to be clamped to the cylinder of the newspaper press.



WHEN THE ADVERTISER wants a special layout for his advertisement, or the city editor needs a drawing, etching or retouching job done on a picture, they call in George Cobb. Mr. Cobb makes layouts for the advertisers so that the merchandise they are offering is disitinctively and attractively displayed in The Examiner advertisement. He also is a great help in retouching pictures, which would not ordinarily reproduce in the newspaper; and, too, when the city editor wants to illustrate a story with a drawing he also looks to George Cobb.

ROBERT BAKER started as an apprentice in the composing room of the Examiner 31 years ago and today he is the linotype mechanic. It is his job to keep the linotype machines operating. There are 36,000 parts on the average linotype machine in the Examiner, but several larger ones have many more. Mr. Baker's duties require him to be able to assemble the machines.

JERRY ARMSTRONG is the junior apprentice in the Examiner's composing room. It is his duty to pull proofs of the type when set by the linotype operators. He gives the proofs and copy to the proofreaders, and when these are read he takes them to the operators who set the corrections; after that he corrects the type which is then ready to go to the make-up men who place the type in page forms.



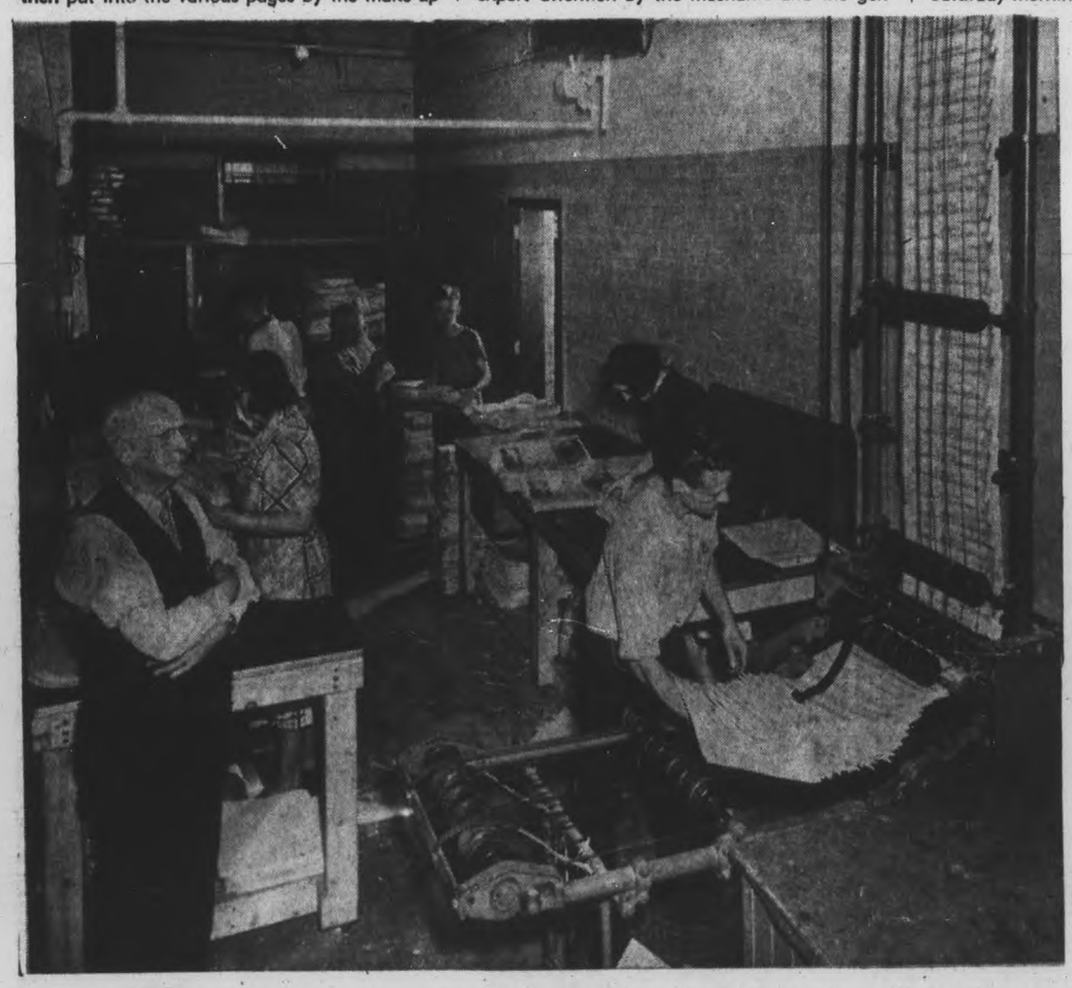
HARRY HUFF is one of the Examiner's 11 linotype operators. These operators turn out daily the type equivalent to eight columns in the newspaper. The days of the setting of type by hand are past and practically everything that appears in your daily newspaper is set by the linotype machines.

JACK McEWAN, a member of the stereotyping and press department, is seen above taking a plate from the stereotype casting box. The page mat, when it came from the drier, was placed in the casting box and hot metal from the stereotype pot was pumped into the box to form the plate, which is later trimmed and clamped on the press.

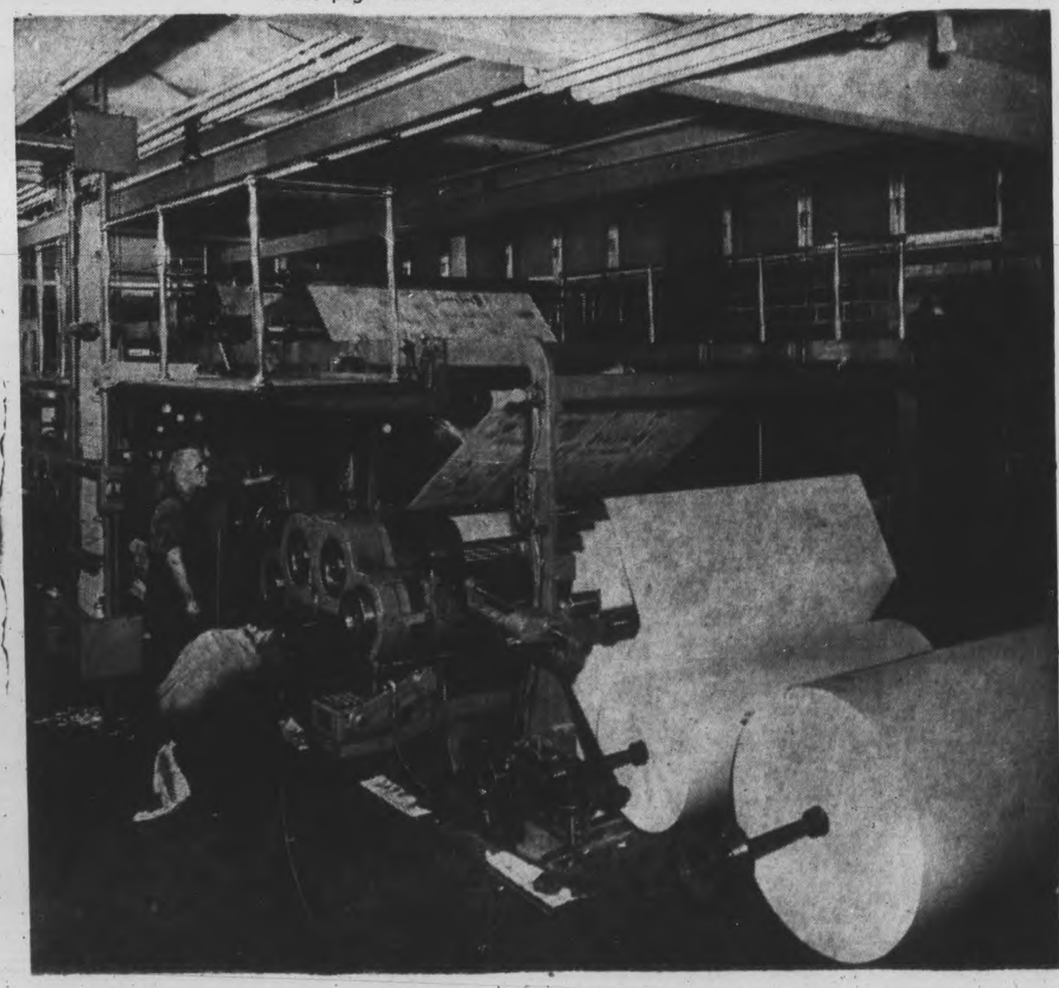
JOHN McPHEE is the man who operates the Elrod or strip casting machine. This machine, recently purchased by the Examiner makes the materials used by the make-up men and the printers who compose the advertisements. It makes the column rules, leads and slugs, all of which are used once and are then remelted, thus making for a cleaner and better looking newspaper.

THE ADVERTISING DEPARTMENT is where the advertisements which appear in the Examiner are written, all displays and layouts made. When the advertising men finish their work their copy goes to the composing room to be produced into advertisements.

THE BUSINESS OFFICE on the ground floor is completely modern with the latest business equipment. No crowding here, and the young ladies work in surroundings that are clean, well-ventilated and comfortable.



IN THE EDITORIAL DEPARTMENT the news is written by the reporters and edited by the various editors. In the picture above is the section of the department where the news is written. On the Examiner the staff consists of six reporters, a photographer, a sports editor, and a society editor. Then to complete the news organization is the city editor and the telegraph editor. Three senior editors preside over all.



THE COMPOSING ROOM is where the newspaper is produced. It is here, the copy written by reporters, editors and advertising men, is set into type. The type is then composed into advertisements or placed into news columns and then put into the various pages by the make-up men. The Examiner's composing room is one of the finest among provincial dailies. It is well lighted, ventilated and laid out to produce a newspaper in the most efficient manner. The linotype machines are continually being given expert attention by the mechanic and the general result of all this care is a good, clean face type which when it appears in the newspaper is easily read and not a strain on the eyes. Each operator works 40 hours a week, starting at 7.00 in the morning to 3.10 in the afternoon on Monday through to Friday and 11.20 on Saturday morning.

THE MAILING ROOM is where the newspapers are received from the press and are tied into bundles for the various sections of the city and district or wrapped and placed in mail bags to go to the post office. In the mailing room, ABOVE, can be seen the newspapers coming in from the press by conveyor belt at the rate of 30,000 an hour. Here many of the newspaper boys get their papers while the rest are delivered by a fleet of trucks to the distribution points. Other trucks and buses carry the papers to Norwood, Havelock, Hastings, Marmora, Millbrook, Lakefield, Omemee, Lindsay, Bancroft and Bridgenorth. Twice a day this room goes into operation—in the morning at 11.00 o'clock when the Noon Edition is being run off and again in the afternoon at 3.20 when the press starts for the Home Edition.

THIS NEWSPAPER PRESS is capable of printing 48 pages and was installed late in 1950. Installing a new press usually takes six to eight weeks and at the same time a newspaper must be produced. They are bulky machines and seldom is sufficient space to be found for the new press. Hence a new building has to be erected first. This is just what happened at The Examiner. More than a year ago a special building was erected to the rear of the radio station and then the new press was installed. All the time the new press was being installed the other one was operating in its old location. Finally when the press was operating the old one was dismantled and the room changed over to house the advertising department.

IUE Certified To Bargain At Westclox

Union Will Start Negotiations For 640 Workers

The Ontario Labor Relations Board has certified Local 570, International Union of Electrical, Radio and Machine Workers (CIO-CCL) as the bargaining agent for some 640 production workers at the Western Clock Co.

John G. Morton, IUE Canadian director, said: "We felt confident that we would receive certification at Westclox. And we expect to start contract negotiations with the company immediately."

Neither the company nor the union requested a hearing so the OLRB certified Local 270, declaring that they were satisfied the union had more than 55 per cent of the eligible membership signed up.

First To Succeed

The IUE is the first international union to succeed in organizing the Westclox plant.

Mr. Morton said the union will now have an election of officers. The members will also elect a negotiating committee before they start contract talks with the company.

Organizational work began the second week in June and the application was made a month later.

J. M. Flannery, OLRB examiner presided as the UE filed 375 cards of paid-up members. He determined the size of the bargaining unit and examined the evidence.

Neither the company nor the union asked for a hearing as they were entitled to do and the OLRB gave automatic certification.

Although Eastwood Construction Company's tender for the new city hall was accepted at $643,062, the valuation of the building for insurance is recommended at $750,000 by T. C. Ephgrave in a report to the Council Monday night. This sum would include architect's fees, and would also allow for the increase in constructional costs since the contract was let in 1950. Doubt was expressed in discussion that a firm bid could be obtained today in the difficulties of steel supply.

Mr. Ephgrave recommended no co-insurance on the new building; that the policies be on a three-year basis which should give a reduction in the premium. It is his opinion that an insurance company would arrange for annual payment of one-third of the premium, thereby distributing it over three years.

CGE To Build New Plant Near Weston

WESTON, Oct. 2.—Canadian General Electric Co. Ltd., will build a $12,000,000 plant on a 140-acre site which the company has purchased two miles north of Weston,- company officials announced Monday night.

Construction of the plant which will employ 1,200 workers will start immediately, said Kirk Corkery, vice-president of the company. It will be in operation by 1953, manufacturing power transformers, high voltage bushings and instrument transformers for use on transmissions of municipal utilities.

The company paid $190,000 for the site which will provide ample space for employee recreation facilities and parking lots.

Only eight acres of the site will be occupied by buildings, leaving plenty of room for future expansion.

Some of the personnel from the Lansdowne Ave. plant in Toronto will be transferred to the new plant, but Mr. Corkery said that the present level of employment there will be continued. The Lansdowne Ave. plant turns out synthetic resins, foundry products and distribution transformers.

Postmortem Ordered In Traffic Death

COBOURG, Oct. 2 — (ENS)— Crown Attorney Harry Deyman yesterday directed that a postmortem be held in connection with the death in Port Hope hospital Monday morning of 60-year-old Ernest Ball of RR No. 3, Port Hope.

Sunday afternoon a car driven by Ball was in collision with a west-bound automobile driven by Paul Thuilland of L'Amble. Thuilland was taking 13-year-old Dan Tenthorey of L'Amble to Toronto for polio treatment. After the accident the polio patent was transferred to another car and taken on to Toronto. Ball was badly injured in the accident, and died at 11:30 am Monday.

City Council Last Meeting In Old Hall

No Tears, No Sighs Old City Hall Served Many Years

Without a gesture of ceremony, city council adjourned Monday night for the last time in the chamber that has been Peterborough's civic forum for years beyond present memory.

Not that it was an occasion for sentimental rhetoric of farewell. It was just another meeting, and one of the lightest of the year, coming to an accustomed end.

Mayor Max J. Swanston was conscious of it, as becoming the president of the council. Possibly, the moment of finality as to place may have escaped most of the members, or they all may have been aware of it.

"I expect that this will be our last meeting," His Worship said, briefly and as plain matter of fact as he proceeded to mention several other topics which ordinarily are reserved to immediate precedence of adjournment of any meeting.

Reporting information he had received from Ald. Herbert Young, MD, just prior to the opening of the session, Mayor Swanston said he regretted that he had to impart the news that Ald. Harold T. Rehill was prevented from attending by the death of an aunt by asphyxiation, and that his uncle, too, was in serious condition.

From that sympathetic reference, His Worship passed on to another topic, and when it was disposed of, the council's concluding business was at end. Only the motion for adjournment remained.

View Rings

The members of the council passed out to the Mayor's office to look over some rings which Ald. Herbert Young as chairman of the reception committee, with its members, has been considering as suitable gifts for athletic teams winning championships of at least provincial rating.

City Clerk Outram and City Engineer Chalmers tarried a few minutes in conversation with the press, and then descended the stairs to their offices. On the way Mr. Outram turned off the lights of the council chamber.

Such was the ultimate recessional from the old high-ceilinged room where scores of councils have carried on the municipal business of Peterborough down through the years. Their responsibility in the main was the spending of the taxpayers' money according to annual schedules of appropriation.

True, the amount increased steadily from year to year, but after all the essential responsibility was largely unchanging in its relativity to the conception of civic needs and to the ability of the people to pay and to approve the annual budgets.

So, City Clerk Outram extinguished the light in the old room of municipal memories, and left its simple antique architecture to the darkness.

Presumably, the next meeting of the council will be in the new city hall.

The casual note of departure last night some how suggested the line from Milton: "Tomorrow to fresh woods and pastures new."

Ammonia Fumes Escape Break

A cloud of ammonia fumes caused the Silverwood's plant, Aylmer St., to be evacuated temporarily Monday afternoon.

A young mechanic started up one of the trucks that was having its refrigeration system recharged and the metal piping, supplying ammonia, was ripped from the garage wall. Rubber hose pipe connects the truck's refrigeration system with the metal ammonia pipes.

Bob Rogers, 19, a local mechanic didn't know the hose was coupled to the freezing system and when he moved the truck he broke the piping. Clouds of ammonia fumes for a few minutes obscured visibility in the yard.

Firemen were called and they used oxygen masks to get at the source of the leak. At first it was thought a workman was trapped in the garage and overcome by the fumes. But apart from causing a few employees to have smarting eyes the gas did no harm.

YMCA Opens Campaign For Members

Since the YMCA was founded by George Williams in London, England, in 1844 it has "over the years been a pioneering organization, flexible, adapting its program to conditions in the service of youth," John Halcrow of London (Ontario) told 60 YMCA membership campaign workers at their dinner Monday evening at the YMCA to open the campaign.

The Peterborough YMCA has an enrolment, in its senior division of 650; the campaign objective is to secure renewals and new memberships to bring the total to 800.

Mr. Halcrow is general secretary of the joint YMCA-YWCA of London and gave, in the words of W. A. Richardson, who thanked the speaker, the most vivid, appealing and succinct address he had ever heard on such an occasion in his many years' connection with Peterborough YMCA work.

Mr. Halcrow sketched the background of the YMCA from its founding by the London dry-goods apprentice (who later was knighted for his youth work), through the establishment of Y's in Montreal and Boston in 1851 (the centenary of the YMCA in North America is being celebrated this year), down to the present century. He illustrated how the 'Y' had pioneered and adapted itself to the changing conditions and needs of society; in the "roaring '20's," the "hungry '30's," the "warring '40's." And now it is facing the "changing 50's."

Period of Transition

He described the present decade as a period of transition. "There is no other country in this world which offers to young men the future that Canada offers. And there is no other country in which youth so greatly needs the services and opportunities which the YMCA offers to prepare for this future." Youth today needs the "stabilizing influence" of the YMCA.

Mr. Halcrow urged his audience not to consider the membership campaign a "selling job." More important than 'bigger and better' is that a young fellow be brought into association with the YMCA.

The YMCA membership campaign is under the general chairmanship of Stanley G. Payne, who presided at the dinner. Campaign majors are C. S. Cummer, Paul Irwin and J. E. Girven. Each has five team captains under whom campaign workers are enlisted. The campaign extends from October 1 to October 15.

At the head table were: G. A. Gillespie, president of the Peterborough YMCA Board of Directors in 1910 and for many years thereafter; Harley Weir, former president of the Kinsmen's Club; Sydney Black, president of the Rotary Club, and a campaign team captain; Gordon Hancock, president of the Kiwanis Club; G. W. Craw, managing editor of The Examiner; G. H. Roper, retired general secretary of the Peterborough YMCA; Alex L. Elliott, KC, present president of the Peterborough YMCA Board, and W. A. Richardson.

September Hotter Colder, Wetter

September, 1951, was hotter, colder and wetter in Peterborough than September, 1950.

On the 13th, the thermometer reached a sweltering 82. Summer attire was redonned only to be packed away again when a cold wave with a low of 32 on September 30 hit the city.

The average temperature, 57.75, for the month was higher than last year with the average for September, 1950, tabulated at 56.45.

The rainfall was 1.6 inches during September of this year as compared to .96 inches last year.

Collegiate Students Prefer Aches To Pains In Council

Cornered by the Aches and Pains, the PCVS students favored the Aches throughout when the annual election for the collegiate's student council was conducted Monday at PCVS. This is the first time in the past few years that one party has dominated the election by winning all the positions. Usually one of the two parties manages to place at least one member on the executive.

Heading the student body this year will be: William Frisken, president; Mamie Frost, vice-president; Arthur Low, secretary; Marlene Setwart, treasurer.

Monday's vote ended week-long campaigns by the rival parties, the Aches and the Pains. Candidates for treasurer, the Aches' Marlene Stewart, and the Pains' Elaine Smith, presented more platforms for the parties at the senior assembly Monday before the presidency candidates, William Frisken and Terry Brown summed up their campaigns.

In 35 Minutes

Immediately following the final speeches, the student body began to vote. The PCVS vote is probably the fastest in Peterborough county, the 760 eligible voters from Grade X to Grade XIII completing the voting in less than 35 minutes.

As usual the students, direct from the classes, filed to the collegiate office when they were given the ballots. The vote was taken in the school library and counted late Monday night.

The results were announced today on the main bulletin board.

Ballots are considered "like gold bricks" during the vote and the students attempt to have a perfect count. On Monday only 10 in the 760 handed in were discarded for various reasons.

Cheerleaders

The main planks of the Ache party were: to build the school spirit by having mixed cheerleaders group, by having a band at school games, sending buses to out-of-town games, and by holding dances after home games; a teachers' talent show in the assemblies; square dancing during the noon hours.

The defeated candidates, Terry Brown, Beryl Rusaw, Bob Hutchinson and Elaine Smith, will be standing committee chairmen over such groups as the At Home and the social functions committees.

Slug Manager Theatre Robbed

After slugging the manager of the Lindsay drive-in theatre two thugs Monday night scooped up $400 and made good their escape in the departing theatre crowd.

The theatre is two miles east of Lindsay on the Downeyville road.

The manager, Gordon Thomas, was unable to give provincial police a good description of the men and didn't know whether they escaped on foot or by car.

He said he was sitting in his office shortly after 10 p.m. as patrons were leaving from the first show. He was counting the day's receipts and put the money in a canvas bag.

Suddenly two men walked in the office door directly in front of him. One of them ripped the telephone from the wall and then smashed Thomas in the mouth with his fist. Thomas said his glasses were knocked off and he was temporarily stunned.

The men then picked up the money and left, just as quickly as they entered. Most of it was in bills.

Thomas said he was unable to see where they went. And he didn't know how they got away—though presumably they did so by car. He ran to the ticket office a short distance away and phoned provincial police in Lindsay.

Cpl. W. G. Milton and Constable S. W. Judson investigated.

Mayor Lauds Ian F. McRae

City council closed business Monday night on Mayor Swanston's personal reference to Ian F. McRae, works manager in Peterborough of Canadian General Electric Company, whose advancement in its executive will likely require his transfer of residence from this city.

"There is one thing I would like to mention before we adjourn," His Worship said.

Changes affecting management in Peterborough have been rumored for some time.

"We have been hearing that Mr. McRae may have to move from Peterborough," Mayor Swanston said. "We will all want to congratulate him on his progress in the company, but at the same time we are going to be sorry to see him go. For many years he has been most helpful to the council in anything the city had in mind, and we will all want him to know how much his interest and help have been appreciated. I think our congratulations and appreciation should be expressed to him in a letter."

"How about a dinner?" Ald E. C. Braund suggested.

Mayor Swanston commented that it was altogether likely the citizens themselves would wish to arrange a complimentary dinner.

"We are all conscious of the great contribution Mr. McRae has made to the life of our city," said Ald John A. Dewart.

A motion by Aldermen Dewart and Braund authorized the drafting of a letter to Mr. McRae expressing the sentiments of the city council as representing the citizens of Peterborough.

Jaycees Need 25,000 Salesmen

"We need 25,000 young men who can go out and sell Canada to Canadians," said Phil Farmer, National President of the Junior Chamber of Commerce addressing the Peterborough Jaycees on Monday night. It was Bosses Night for the Peterborough membership.

Mr. Farmer said that the present program being conducted on a dominion-wide scale would provide the training and leadership to ready the Jaycees for their work at the community level. Speaking of the Junior Chamber movement, he said, "It is the most dynamic force for good in the world today."

Les Groombridge, Peterborough president, was formally installed by Mr. Farmer. It was the first time in the history of the Peterborough unit that a national president had attended their meeting.

Mr. Farmer was introduced by Gerry Grady, past president, and Frank Booth extended a vote of thanks. Mr. Farmer was presented with an inscribed Peterborough paddle by vice-president Bernie Morin.

Tony Burns and Frank Booth led two entertainment periods.

Examiner's Columns Record Daily History Of World, Community You Live In

At The End Of Each Day A New Start Is Made On The Production Of Completely New Edition Of Examiner

By JIM ENGLISH

There's a thump on your doorstep and The Examiner is there for another night. That thump, that regular delivery of the paper, is the newspaper's final gesture of that day to you, the subscriber. Since you last read the paper, a lot has happened. Look at this Monday's paper for an example. FOUR MASKED BANDITS ROB MINE OF $40,000 IN GOLD. That was in Timmins. GIANTS LEADING DODGERS 2-1 IN FIFTH INNING. That, of course, was in New York.

On the other side of the world CRACK CANADIAN WINTER TROOPS REACH KOREA. It's another sad reminder that the little war in a once little-known country is still claiming lives, while the US ARMY PREPARED TO STRIKE HARD IF TALKS FAILURE.

Out in British Columbia ratepayers of a tiny BC town voted against a money bylaw that would have provided funds to keep their schools open. Near Ottawa, a young farmhand surrendered to police, who sought him in connection with the slaying of the wife of the man he worked for.

The election imminent in the United Kingdom claims the attention of many, and the baby band of Trinity United Church in Omemee was well attended.

In and around the city, a man was killed when he was hit by a car, three more were hurt when their car hit a train on Monaghan Rd., and the PCVS senior football team whipped Trinity College School 29-0.

By advertisement, the Ontario Department of Public Welfare offered Ontario citizens between 65 and 69 years, old age assistance of $40 a month, and in the comics Steve Canyon was confined to quarters and Major Hoople shaved off his moustache.

Tonight's paper is different. There is a new report on the state of the King's health, more news from Iran where Britain and Iran are nearly at swords points after the nationalization of the huge Abadan oil fields.

Perhaps the four bandits who stole the gold will be in jail when this is read, Bill Barilko and his dentist companion may be found in another section of Ontario's northland, and certainly, there is some new news, both bad and good, tonight.

A sale may be offering meat at low prices, somebody has lost a purse or wallet and has a classified advertisement in the Examiner to ask whoever found it to return it. Steve Canyon may be back in his colonel's good graces, and Pogo may solve one of the world's difficult problems in his natural born manner.

Every day, from a thousand sources, many new ads, stories, comics, opinions are printed in the Examiner. From the Far East will come news of Korea, Iran, China and India, from the Examiner's own staff of reporters there will come news of the city and district. George St. merchants will announce new sales, new products on the market. It will be a new day and a new newspaper.

Funnelling these things to the reader is the job of the well-equipped and capable staff. It is their job to see that the newspaper reaches you and gives you the right prices, the correct names, and latest news.

Day Starts at 3 a.m.

For the newspaper, the day starts in the newsroom at 3 a.m. Then an automatic switch cuts in the teletype that brings news from as far as the other side of the world, and as near as Toronto, Oshawa and Belleville.

At 6 a.m., the telegraph editor comes in, earliest of the staff. Her job is to handle news that comes over the teletype and to see that corrections, additions to stories, and "new leads" (new developments in stories that she has handled before) find their way into the right stories and onto the right pages.

Between 7 and 8.30 a.m. almost all of the staff has arrived at the Examiner. From then until the newspaper is delivered to homes, offices, and newstands, the efforts of more than 200 people are directed to the production of the Examiner.

In the newsroom, a staff of 11—the managing editor, city editor telegraph editor, social editor, sports editor and seven reporters—collect, write, edit and dispose of the news of the world and the immediate district.

Each morning each reporter checks with the city editor for his assignments for that day, and for any new developments that may affect his beat—police, fire, city hall, etc. Given those, he goes out on the street, talks to the people along his beat and finds out what news there is in the city.

Blast Attlee For Giving Ground On Iran

LONDON, Oct. 2 (Reuters)—Conservative newspapers today attacked the Labor government for giving ground in the Anglo-Iranian oil dispute without a show of strength.

"If we had shown our strength in Iran four months ago, the trouble there now would have been over," said The Daily Mail in an editorial.

But a situation might yet arise where force would be needed, The Mail predicted.

"If Russia were to walk into the place we have vacated in Iran, it is not impossible that war would break out on a world scale . . ."

Attlee Wrong Man

The Mail said it was "terrifying" to have a man like Prime Minister Attlee heading Britain's government because he "still does not realize that foreign policy must be created so that a country may survive."

The Daily Telegraph said "it is the blackest page of the whole history of British diplomacy."

In an editorial headed "Persia —The Price of Weakness," the tabloid Daily Graphic said:

"From start to finish, the government has bungled and blundered in the handling of a dangerous situation . . . and inflicted injury on all the free nations—by its folly and weakness."

Butter Production Showing Increase

TORONTO, Oct. 2—(CP)—The Ontario Department of Agriculture Monday reported an increase in butter production and higher fruit yields than had been expected in most areas.

In August this year, 7,818,000 pounds of butter were produced in Ontario, compared with 7,416,900 in the same month last year. However, holdings of creamery butter throughout Canada on Sept. 1 this year were down to 55,001,000 pounds from 68,124,000 pounds on Sept. 1, 1950.

Both Eastern and Western Ontario reported an increase in the yield of apples, pears, plums, grapes and peaches.

Cheddar cheese production during August was down 4.1 per cent from a year ago.

SEAWAY PRESS CONFERENCE—Washington correspondents for United States and Canadian newspapers question Prime Minister St. Laurent following the latter's talks with President Truman on Canada's proposal to go ahead alone with development of parts of the $700,000,000 St. Lawrence-Great Lakes seaway and power scheme. Back in Canada Mr. St. Laurent said Monday seaway legislation will be introduced at the fall session of Parliament if that is necessary to expedite the big project.

Have New Bill To Push Seaway

WASHINGTON, Oct. 2 (AP)—Rep. John A. Blatnik (Dem., Minn.) introduced a new bill Monday to authorize construction of the St. Lawrence seaway and power project.

Asserting the long-considered project is essential to national security, Blatnik said his proposal attempts to meet objections raised heretofore to Congressional approval.

The House of Representatives Public Works Committee pigeonholed the seaway plan last summer. Canada, in the meantime, came up with a proposal to build the project alone unless Congress soon provides for a joint development.

Legislation to authorize the project also is pending before the Senate Foreign Relations Committee. Senator Alexander Wiley (Rep., Wis.) had hoped to get action in that group yesterday, but a crowded committee calendar kept him from raising the issue.

He said, however, he intends to try at a later meeting.

Mission Band Holds First Fall Meeting

MILLBROOK, Oct. 2—(ENS)—St. Andrew's Mission Band held their first meeting of the season in the Sunday Schoolroom on Thursday afternoon. Before the meeting opened, the children played the French game, "Prince of Paris." Janet Hobbs, the president, was in the chair, and the minutes were read and the roll called by the secretary Helen Ingham.

Judy Hobbs, the treasurer, reported $10 had been sent to headquarters in June, and that a small balance was left in the treasury.

The candles on the worship centre were lighted by Lenore Ouellette. The scripture lesson, taken from Luke, of the "Good Samaritan" was told in story form by Mrs. Arnold Fallis. Mrs. Bert Gardiner introduced the new study book, "The Twins Make Friends."

A treat was supplied by Mrs. Gardiner, and Dorothy Dawson gave out the World Friends magazines.

Mrs. M. E. Hobbs attended the Fisher-Jardine wedding in Montreal on Saturday and went on to visit her brothers, R. A. Clark, and A. M. Clark, Edmundston, NB.

Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Cruikshank, Peterborough, were recent guests of Mr. and Mrs. Arnold Fallis.

George Ingham left for Toronto on Friday to enter the first year of the music course of the University of Toronto.

Cut Expenses

BOURNEMOUTH, England—(CP)—Health Minister Hilary Marquand said here that by minor economies hospitals could save enough money for hundreds of new beds. He mentioned dripping taps, lights left burning and gas burners "heating the air and not the kettle."

BOYLE'S DAY — Democratic National Chairman William Boyle, Jr., testifies before the Senate subcommittee inquiring into his relations with the RFC and the American Lithofold Corp. He termed charges against him "unfounded, distorted and false."

Tribute Paid Rev. D. Howson

The Rev. J. Donald L. Howson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Howson, Aylmer St. and a minister of the Presbyterian Church recently resigned his charge of St. Andrew's, Fredericton, to join the armed forces as a chaplain. He is at present waiting in Halifax to go to Japan where he will be the chaplain in a large military hospital conducted by the United Nations armed forces.

On leaving Fredericton the Gleaner newspaper paid tribute to his services. The Gleaner said: "There will be genuine regret at the forthcoming departure of the Rev. J. Donald L. Howson who has been minister of Sr. Andrew's Presbyterian Church since before the war, except for a period in which he served as chaplain with the Royal Canadian Navy.

"During the years Mr. Howson has been located in Fredericton his influence as an able preacher and a gentleman of deep understanding has been widely felt in the community. Under his leadership the church which was his special charge has grown and prospered.

"Mr. Howson came to Fredericton first as a young man to provide spiritual leadership to a very important segment of the city's population. He has done his job thoroughly and well.

"And in so doing he has earned the confidence and respect of everyone.

"His broad sympathies and great interest in all affairs relative to the welfare, not only of his own congregation, but of the citizens generally were widely recognized.

"Mr. Howson is leaving St. Andrew's and the city of Fredericton to join the armed services as a chaplain once more, this time in the army.

"He will leave with the very best wishes of all members of the community."

St. George's Guild Holds Card Party

APSLEY, Oct. 2—(ENS)—The Ladies Guild of St. George's Anglican Church held their first card party of the season in the parish hall.

Six tables were played. Prize winners were: ladies, first, Mrs. Jas. A. Downing; gentleman's first, Mrs. M. C. Tucker (playing gentleman's place). At the conclusion of the games lunch was served by members of the Guild.

Jaycees Force For Progress —Dom. President

"The Canadian home front, as exemplified by its communities, is the potential source of our greatest strength or our greatest weakness."

This statement was made by Phil Framer, national president of the Junior Chamber of Commerce, at the Rotary luncheon meeting Monday. Mr. Framer is district manager of the English Electric Co., Winnipeg.

In his address, the speaker outlined the work and aims of the Jaycees and called for cooperation between this organization and service clubs to defend and promote democracy in Canada.

"The Jaycees hope eventually to instil a much greater interest in civic affairs in the general public," Mr. Framer continued, "with the ever-increasing controls and growth of machinery on the national provincial scale, cities and towns provide the last bulwarks of healthy democracy. In apathy, we face the greatest danger of losing many of our freedoms."

35 Years Old

The Junior Chamber of Commerce was organized 35 years ago, the president said. It is not a service club, a social club nor a fraternity and is non-sectarian. The only pre-requisite for membership is an interest in bettering oneself, one's community and country.

The organization has four aims; 1, to train young men for leadership in civic affairs. 2, the bettering of communities; 3, promotion of vigorous Canadian patriotism; 4, promotion of fellowship and understanding nationally and internationally.

This year the Jaycees have set a three point program: 1, to provide for all members an effective speaking course; 2, promotion of good civic government; 3, civic betterment.

Potent Force

"Our organization is a potent force for peace and freedom throughout the world," the speaker concluded. "But we need the help of organizations such as Rotary clubs. Let us all join hands and go forward to find a better Canada."

The speaker was introduced by Gordon McGavin and thanked by Ed Weir.

The following visiting Rotarians and guests were introduced by the Rev. Ivan C. Morgan of Murray St. Baptist Church: Gordon Clark, Havana, Cuba; Don Antonio and Carmen Gerry, both of Toronto; Bob Outram, Wilson Gemmel, Jerry Grady, H. H. Phillips, Keith Boyes, Fred Overend, W. J. McCann, P. D. Scollard, Les Groombridge, Capt. Douglas Sharp, all of Peterborough; Giff Beaton, Whitby; Jasper Humphrey, Montreal; Karl Monk, Sarnia; Harold Jobbitt, Bradford, Pa., A. M. Cadman, Pittsburgh, Pa.

ONCE A HOME—This pile of rubble, once the home of James McQuire and his family, is all that's left after a tornado ripped through Cambria, Wis. Mrs. McQuire was killed when the tornado struck and blew the house 300 feet from its foundation. Similar storms raged in other parts of the mid-west.

Japanese Publishers Oppose Press Control

NAGOYA, Japan, Oct. 2 (AP)—The Japan Editors and Publishers Association Monday adopted a resolution opposing any efforts at government control of the press.

The government has been considering asking parliament to enact the Allied News Code into law. The association contends the code would be too strict for peacetime, and conceivably could be used to impose censorship.

The code requires that news be written factually, without editorial comment. It prohibits distortion by omission of pertinent facts or details and bars colorings of news to conform to any propaganda line.

Legal Reward

SWANSEA, Wales — (CP)—Councillors here failed to find a legal means of presenting the retiring mayor with a medal. They were told that while some boroughs award medals, the practice might arouse public opinion.

Securities Act Under Fire

TORONTO, Oct. 2 — (CP) — Thomas Sutton, Toronto organizer of a group known as the American Stockholders' Association, Monday criticized the Ontario Securities Act when he appeared before the Ontario Legislature's Crime Committee.

He told the committee, which Monday resumed its hearings into fraudulent stocks operations after a month's adjournment, that the act was "unreasonable . . . the opinion exists in some circles that it may not constitute good law."

Sutton, who said his organization has some 600 to 700 members in 10 states and nine provinces, called for a revision of regulations governing mining stocks "that stultify prospectors and companies."

"The act itself is fostering criminal tendencies," he said.

Mr. Sutton contended that the Securities Act, especially since it was strengthened in 1945, has retarded new mining development by discouraging the small dealer's operation under the guise of protecting the public. He said cancellation of a licence often meant loss to stockholders, because a project the broker concerned had been promoting generally was dropped.

See Canadiens As Improved Hocky Club

MONTREAL, Oct. 2—(CP)—Montreal Canadiens, bolstered fore and aft, appear on paper to be an improved club over that of last season which finished third in the National Hockey League and went on to the Stanley Cup final, bowing out in five overtime games with Toronto Maple Leafs.

Just how far the improvement will go is contingent upon several things.

Coach Dick Irvin has said if his sophomores come through as expected, the club might very well be going for the works by the end of the season.

Practically all the veterans are back and new, tried strength has been added to the forward line in off-season deals.

The only veteran to retire is Glen Harmon, a defenceman, who has left the big time because of business reasons. He plans to play with Montreal Royals of the Quebec Senior Hockey League.

Two Good Replacements

There are at least two good replacements. One is Ross Lowe, obtained last season from Boston Bruins. He is a young, driving player with a hard shot. The other is Ivan Irwin, rugged Toronto boy who last season played with Cincinnati Mohawks.

Tom Johnson and Jim McPherson, who made good in their first big-time hockey last season, are back. So is the veteran Butch Bouchard, along with Doug Harvey who can be one of the best defencemen in the league.

Back in goal is Gerry McNeil, who came up last year on the retirement of Bill Durnan and wound up the season in brilliant fashion in the playoffs.

The forward lines offer many experimental possibilities for coach Irvin, and he has been trying various combinations.

Promising Trio

One of the most promising trios is made up of veteran Ken Mosdell at centre, flanked by Gerry (Doc) Couture and Dick Gamble.

Couture, an experienced right-winger who hails from Saskatoon, came to Canadiens in an off-season deal with Detroit Red Wings. Gamble, a Moncton, NB, boy is a goal-scoring left-winger who came up from Quebec Aces of the QSHL.

Whether last year's "first line" remains intact is yet to be seen. Elmer Lach has been going well at his centre slot and Maurice (Rocket) Richard should be as good as ever at firing goals from right wing.

Bert Olmstead, who came to Canadiens last December from Detroit's farm system, is the left-winger who helped get Richard started on a scoring spree last season.

Veteran Bill Reay, young Paul Masnick and Johnny McCormack are centre men who can fit in with any line.

Masnick, from Regina, was farmed out last season but recalled for the playoffs. McCormack, purchased recently from Toronto Maple Leafs, is expected to add a lot of strength up front. He may possibly be teamed up with Floyd Curry and Calum MacKay.

Bernie (Boom Boom) Geoffrion, a sophomore forward who packed a terrific shot, should be an improved player.

Special Playoff For Tri-County

LINDSAY, Oct. 2.—President Roy Scott announced Monday that Stouffville Red Sox and Sutton Green Sox will meet in an extra best-of-three game series to decide the Tri-County Baseball League championship.

Both clubs won eight out of 10 games in the round robin series, Sutton losing to Stouffville and Sonya Braves and the Red Sox dropping games to Lindsay Walkwoods and the Green Sox.

The series opens in Stouffville today with the second game in Sutton Friday. Tony Mark, Port Perry, has been named umpire-in-chief to work along with Lew Murphy of Stouffville and Jim McKelvey, Sutton, on bases. Champions in 1950, Stouffville will probably send former Leaf Earl Cook against Sutton's ace, George Holborn, who has hurled 12 hitless innings during the past two games. The series will be minus two sluggers in hockey player Bob Hassard of Pittsburgh and Ron Rowe of Vancouver.

Settle Squabble Over Hockey Team

NEW YORK, Oct. 2 (AP). — The squabble over what organization will select the hockey team to represent the United States in the 1952 Olympics was resolved Monday at a meeting of the US Olympic committee.

A special group, composed of four members of the once-banned Amateur Hockey Association and four more friendly with the Amateur Athletic Union, was appointed to select the team.

During the last Olympics, both the AAU and the AHA sent teams with the former getting the final recognition because it was backed by the Ligue International Hockey Sur Glace. This is the controlling hockey body authorized by the International Olympic Committee.

Here And There In Sports

By The Canadian Press

Possibility of a Canadian senior hockey team making a trip to Japan within the next month was disclosed at Vancouver Monday by Doug. Grimston, president of the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association.

Grimston said the association had received a letter from its Japanese counterpart requesting the visit of a class A team with 15 team-members inclusive of officials. The exhibition series would be underwritten by the Japanese Skating Union.

Grimston said Canada would probably send the Trail Smoke Eaters, winners of the western Canada intermediate championship last year, "if they meet our standards."

The players must be "ambassadors as well as players," he said.

One jockey was suspended for five days and four others were fined $50 each Monday by Long Branch racing stewards for infractions during Friday's racing meet.

Leonard Pong received his suspension for failing properly to control his mount. Jockeys Art Remillard, Roy Otis, Tony Licata and John Craigmyle were fined for failing properly to control their mounts from the gate in Friday's 5½ furlong race.

At Columbus, O., the Ohio State Racing Commission Monday wound up its hearings into charges that tails of horses were tied to starting gates at Ohio running races.

Trainer Frank Duke of Los Angeles was suspended until Dec. 1 for an attack on an assistant starter at Hamilton race track Labor Day. Duke claimed the starter tied the tail of Duke's horse to the starting gate.

The commission did rule directly on the tail-tying claim. It also postponed a decision in the case of George T. Becknell of Emory, Tex., who claimed the tail of his odds-on favorite, Detroit Tiger, was tied to the Hamilton starting gate Aug. 22. Becknell, like Duke, was suspended indefinitely by Hamilton track stewards after making the charge.

At New York, the International Boxing Club announced Monday that the 10-round heavyweight fight between Joe Louis and Rocky Marciano scheduled for the Polo Grounds, Oct. 11, has been shifted to Madison Square Garden Friday Oct. 26. A spokesman explained that the IBC couldn't take the risk of a possible world series game delaying preparations to get the Polo Grounds in readiness.

At Springfield, owner Eddie Shore Monday announced the appointment of Bill Dill as coach of Springfield Indians in the reorganized Eastern Hockey League. Dill was once a defenceman with New York Rangers.

Hornets Not Slated For Much Leaf Help

NIAGARA FALLS, Ont., Oct. 2 (CP).—Pittsburgh Hornets of the American Hockey League are not likely to receive much help from their recent parent club, Toronto Maple Leafs of the National Hockey League.

Coach King Clancy didn't seem worried Monday night although reports from nearby St. Catharines, where the Leafs have their training camp, had it that the only likely discards to Hornets would be defencemen Frankie Mathers and Tim Horton, Hornets of last season.

Clancy said he thought his team "would make out all right."

New Toronto Blanks Cobourg

COBOURG, Oct. 2.—A big New Toronto junior club, outstanding for uniform size of its members, proved too good for Cobourg Legion juniors in the first game of the OASA finals here over the weekend and took a 5-0 verdict back to the Queen City with them. The second game of the two-game series goes in New Toronto Saturday.

Played under lights, the tilt was touched by early fall breezes sweeping in off Lake Ontario and fielding was difficult. Nine errors were made, Cobourg leading with seven costly ones.

Richardson, a rangy right-hander on the New Toronto mound struck out 16 of the locals and held them to five blows, two by Chub McIvor, who had a double and single. Richardson fanned the side in the first, second and fourth. Jack Irvine, the losing hurler, was touched for nine hits, Heator and Beaucha leading with two singles each.

Report White Sox Have Player Deal

CHICAGO, Oct. 2 (AP). —The Sun-Times said today it "learned exclusively" that the Chicago White Sox have closed a $300,000, eight-player deal with the St. Louis Browns.

The Sun-Times said the players coming to the Sox are catcher Sherman Lollar, pitcher Al Widmar and infielder Tommy Upton. Outfielder Ray Coleman, who came to the Sox midway in the past season, supposedly on waivers, also is included in the deal, the Sun-Times said.

The paper said that in exchange the Sox will turn over Jim Rivera the Seattle outfielder whom the Sun-Times said it had learned had been purchased by the Sox for $67,500; infielder Joe Demaestri; catcher Gus Niarhos, and pitcher Dick Littlefield who spent the 1951 season with Memphis of the Southern Association.

Work At Top Speed On Blast Furnaces

PORTLAND, Ore., Oct. 2 (AP) —The United States Pacific Northwest aluminum industry was working at top speed today putting back into operation the blast furnaces used in production of aluminum.

The supply of electric power—cut off two weeks ago because of lack of water to turn generators in Pacific Northwest power dams—was restored Monday night.

Rains, which began last weekend, had filled power dam reservoirs and excess water even was flowing over the spillways of Grand Coulee dam — source of much of the region's power supply.

At Tacoma, Wash., J. G. Gumz, of the Defence Electric Power Administration, announced that there probably would be no power brownout for at least two weeks. Earlier plans called for a brownout to begin today.

Junior, Veteran In Cobourg Golf Final

COBOURG, Ont., Oct. 2. — A junior, who came close to winning the Ontario title this summer, and a veteran, will match strokes Sunday at the Cobourg's Club for the club championship.

Harry Deyman will meet youthful Billy Bowen in a morning and afternoon round for the title which Bowen lost last year to Bill McIvor.

Bowen moved through his competitors with ease while Deyman had trouble with at least two opponents on his way to the final.

The 36-hole match will close the competitive season at the club.

WINDSOR, Oct. 2—(CP)—Five engineers, who Monday walked off their jobs in the power house of Metropolitan Hospital, returned to work late Monday night at the request of their union president. The engineers, all members of Local 944, International Union of Operating Engineers, walked out in protest against non-payment of a cost-of-living bonus which they said they should receive under an agreement reached last July.

Won't Change Clothes While Winning—Leo

By WILL GRIMSLEY.

NEW YORK, Oct. 2 (AP). — Leo Durocher is about to lose two of his famous honors—that of being the talkingest and that of being the best-dressed man in baseball.

The normally loquacious Giants manager no longer qualified for the title, "The Lip." Try to get him to discuss the miraculous New York comeback that has carried the Giants to within one game of the world series and he shrugs you off with:

"Talk to the boys on the team. They're the ones who did it. They're wonderful. They're marvelous."

Superstition has cut in on Durocher's usual sartorial splendor. He has worn the same suit—a gray checkered affair—for a week and brags: "I'm wearing the same socks, shirt and underwear, too."

He says he won't change until after the world series. Meanwhile no washing for Laraine.

As if manager Charlie Dressen isn't having enough miseries with a team that's blown a 13½-game lead in two months, an anonymous Georgian is about to run the Brooklyn skipper crazy.

"Every day he sends me something in the mail," Dressen said. "One day it was a loaf of bread, Monday a bar of soap, today a book on kittens. What can he send next?"

The 30,707 fans who witnessed the first New York-Brooklyn playoff game at Ebbets Field on Monday were treated to a strange sight. They saw the Dodgers' Duke Snider, one of the best centre fielders in baseball, make six fine catches and then muff an easy fly ball for a two-base error in the eighth.

"That's the first fly ball I've ever dropped in the majors," Snider said.

Brooklyn pitcher Ralph Branca doesn't know why the Giants' Monte Irvin is so fond of his offerings. Of the 10 home runs Branca has given up to the New Yorkers all year, five have been hit by the Giants' Negro left-fielder—one of them helping win Monday's game.

"He hit a high curve this time," said the 25-year-old Brooklyn righthander. "But he does all right with almost anything I give him."

The Giants are observing a number of superstitions during this winning surge. Since the comeback drive started in August only one man, infielder Hank Schenz, has been allowed to pitch batting practice. Durocher makes a certain sports writer bring his typewriter over to the New York dugout before every game. They refuse to have their uniforms cleaned.

The American League champions, the Yankees, attended the first playoff game in a body after holding a morning workout. Johnny Neun and Bill Skiff were official scouts, taking notes on both teams.

Colborne Wallops Napanee 10-1

COLBORNE, Oct. 2.—Unleashing a 12-hit attack, Colborne defeated Napanee, 10-1, Monday night in the third and deciding game of an OBA Intermediate C first-round series.

Carl Higginbottom pitched a neat four-hitter to earn the victory. He also got two Colborne hits, as did Charlie Hall, Irvin Post, Charlie Rowsome and Neil Black.

Remember When—

By The Canadian Press

One of the biggest player deals in National Hockey League history was announced 17 years ago today when Montreal Canadiens sent their great centre Howie Morenz to Chicago with goalkeeper Lorne Chabot and defenceman Marty Burke, in exchange for defencemen Lionel Conacher and Roger Jenkins and right-winger Leroy Goldsworthy. Morenz returned to Canadiens in the 1936-37 season and died March 7, 1937.

Metras Likes Underdog Role

By BOB GAGE.

LONDON, Oct. 2 (CP). — Johnny Metras, a scrapper all his life, likes the underdog role the experts have assigned his University of Western Ontario Mustangs for the senior intercollegiate football campaign.

It's a familiar spot for the keen-eyed coach. In each of the last two seasons his Mustangs came from behind to carry off the college title, each time upsetting a favored McGill University squad.

Never a fellow to make predictions, Metras will say only that his team will be in the thick of the fight all the way. It opens the schedule next Saturday in London against the Golden Gaels from Queen's University at Kingston.

The loss of key backfield stars through graduation took Western out of the favorite slot. Gone are familiar names like Bob and Don McFarlane, Doug Gray, Blake Taylor and George Arnott. Bill Ford is missing from the wingline.

Only Two Newcomers

The loss of these and other players hurt. But the Mustangs are expected to start off with only one or two newcomers. The depth Metras built up in his 11 years as coach and five as assistant is paying off.

He has a solid experienced corps of linemen headed by captain Reg Ort, 200-pound snap. Big Jerry Fewster, another 200-pounder, moves up from the second team to replace Ford at middle wing. Other linemen include Bob McMonagle, Jack Thompson, Jack Wyatt, Milt Cork, Jack Fowler and Stan McIntee.

The squad, well-stocked with outside wings, has Doug McNichol, Bob Turner and Don Beatty back from the 1950 team. Ted Roman, 220-pound six-foot-four freshman from Kirkland Lake, is a newcomer.

Metras has switched to a single-wing formation from the intricate T because he feels the change will provide a more potent attacking force with his present material. He has three candidates for the vital left-half spot in the single-wing attack — veterans Murray Henderson and Jimmy Carroll and sophomore Cam Church, a triple-threat back who looks the best of the lot.

Top Candidate

Syl O'Hara from Sudbury is top candidate for right half. Gino Fracas, who transferred to Western from Windsor's Assumption College, is another leading prospect for flying wing.

If the young and inexperienced backs develop behind the stout front line, Metras might add more lustre to the intercollegiate's top coaching record.

In the first four years of his work as coach—1940 to 1944—the intercollegiate union was suspended because of the war, but he kept going with exhibition games, won 10, lost six and tied one. The Mustangs since have won five of six intercollegiate titles with 34 victories, 12 losses and two ties. They missed the championship only in 1948 when University of Toronto Blues won out in a post-schedule playoff.

Metras, a United States product, played his football with the University of Detroit Titans. But he has been in Canada since 1930, playing with Toronto St. Michael's College in the Ontario Rugby Football Union until he came to Western in 1935 as assistant to Bill Storen, another Detroit product, who coached St. Michael's.

Votes Against Change

GUELPH, Oct. 2 (CP). — Frank Boucher, general manager of New York Rangers of the National Hockey League said Monday night that Rangers would vote against a proposed NHL ruling which would put the face-off circle in front of the goal, instead of in the corners. He said he didn't think the innovation proposed by NHL president Clarence Campbell, would be accepted by the league since "it is my understanding that any major change in the rules must have the unnanimous approval of the rules committee."

Has One Arm Boy Star In Football

VANCOUVER (CP)—Denny Veitch of Vancouver fell off a moving freight car 15 years ago and subsequently lost his arm. Today he is one of the star players on the Vancouver Meralomas of the big four junior rugby league here.

That's not all, either. At the age of 20, he has been an all-star player in the Vancouver High School American Football league, has played basketball, second division English rugby and soccer, and has even dabbled in tennis.

On a night in June, 1936, Veitch, then five years old, and five pals were indulging in their favorite tricks, hopping on moving freight trains and riding a few blocks.

Fell On Track

As Veitch jumped on one car someone called out to him. He turned and lost his grip, falling on the track. When he returned from hospital he was minus one arm.

Three years after that he first started "fooling around" with sports, he said. When he was 12 he was playing with the Sunday school soccer league in Vancouver.

Since then he has been going up fast in sport circles. In 1949 he received his biggest thrill when he was named all-star first string centre in the inter-high school set-up.

He is treated by his fellow team members as just another player—but a good one.

Predict Election

TORONTO, Oct. 2 (CP) — A Toronto paper said Monday in a newspage story that Ontario elections will be held Thursday, Nov. 22. The newspaper attributed the prediction to "high Progressive-Conservative circles."

Maxine Brackenridge Weds

The marriage of Miss Harriette Maxine Brackenridge to Mr. Noel Claridge Hunter of Toronto was solemnized Saturday afternoon at two o'clock by the Rev. B. S. Morwood. She is the daughter of Mrs. Brackenridge of Peterborough and the late Gordon Brackenridge and the groom is son of Mrs. Hunter of Toronto and the late Rev. J. N. Hunter.

Standards of pastel gladioli banked with ferns formed the lovely setting at the church. Mr. Walter Morrow played the wedding music and Miss Lettice Drope of Harwood sang during the signing of the register, "The voice that breathed O'er Eden."

The bride was given in marriage by her brother-in-law Mr. Owen Sundeen of Stamford Centre. Her gown was of cinnamon net over dusty rose taffeta and it was made with a bouffant skirt and the bodice topped with a lace jacket which had a high collar and long sleeves. Her hair hat was made of matching color Chantilly lace and she carried a cascade of Johanna Hill roses with ivy and stephanotis.

Miss May Lindsay was her bridesmaid, gowned in a pale green lace and net fashioned in the same style as the bride's dress. She wore a half hat of matching lace and carried a bouquet of talisman roses. Melanie Sundeen, the bride's niece, was her flower girl. She wore a floor length dress of dusty rose taffeta and a lace cape and mittens to match and a half hat of lace. She carried a basket made of nile green satin and filled with carnations and baby 'mums.

Mr. Eric Hunter flew from Calgary, Alta., to be at the wedding and attend his brother as groomsman. The ushers were Robert Stewart and John Brackenridge.

The reception was held in the YWCA Green Room. Mrs. Brackenridge received in a gown of deep purple crepe and matching hat and wore a corsage of bary orchids. The groom's mother was gowned in intermission silk crepe and lace and wore a hat of black velvet and a corsage of red rosebuds.

Mr. and Mrs. Hunter left later on a short honeymoon trip. The bride was wearing a dark green silk suit with velvet trim, dark brown hat and accessories and carrying an apricot wool coat. Her corsage was of gardenias.

They will live at 139 Harvie Ave., Toronto.

Lucille Robinson Marries Evans Hatherly

Mark St. United Church was decorated with pink and white gladioli as setting Saturday for the wedding at three o'clock of Lucille Violet, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Robinson of Maynooth, to Evans Irwin Hatherly, son of Mr. and Mrs. Irwin Hatherly of Millbrook. The Rev. B. S. Morwood performed the ceremony.

The bride was gowned in white Chantilly lace and net over satin. The off-the-shoulder neckline had a yoke of net outlined in seed pearls. Panels of the lace over the hips concealed small hoops which added a graceful charm to the net skirt which fell into short train. Her fingertip veil was caught in a bandeau of tiny seed pearls with orange blossoms and she carried a bouquet of red roses and white baby 'mums.

She was given in marriage by her father and attended by her sister, Miss Marie Robinson. Her frock was of mauve taffeta with short sleeved jacket worn over a shirred bodice and had a full gathered overskirt of net, appliqued with the taffeta. The underskirt concealed small hoops over the hips. She wore short net mittens and a small halo of braided net with shoulder veil, and she carried a cascade of white gladioli tied with green and yellow ribbon.

Mr. David Hatherly was his brother's groomsman. Ushers were the bride's brother Iner Robinson and the groom's cousin, Frank Stewart.

During the signing of the register Mrs. Max Pomeroy sang "O Promise Me."

Overstrict Parents Cause Of Much Serious Trouble

DEAR MISS DIX: I am 16 years old, and a senior in high school. My mother and father are very strict about dating; my mother won't let me bring any boys into the house and refuses even to meet them. I want her to know who my friends are but if she won't let them come to the house I am going to meet them outside. I hate to do it but I feel I shouldn't be deprived of all the fun the other boys and girls are having. I go with nice young people from school and church, and I'm sure mother could find no fault with them if she could only meet them. I don't expect to go out every night in the week; once every two weeks would satisfy me. L.W.

ANSWER: Mothers who fail so completely to understand the need of a teen-age daughter for friends and some social life of her own are sowing the seeds for disobedience and deceit. These results, of course, are not condonable, since every teen-ager is under parental control, being legally and morally bound to render obedience no matter how rigid the rules. However, we are dealing with humn nature—not ideals—and youngsters with a yen for the society of their contemporaries are following their natural bent and should not be denied.

The wise parent welcomes her daughter's friends into the house; she can then sort the wheat from the chaff, point out to her child the bad points of the companions she doesn't like and encourage the boys and girls who meet her high standards.

Teen-Agers Choose Wisely

It is amazing what excellent discrimination most teen-agers show in their choice of friends. They want to bring their pals home to mom and dad; they are proud to have them all meet each other. Nothing gives a teen-age youngster greater pride and security than to have her parents welcome young guests with the same courtesy they extend to older people. This is the basis of a sound, happy home and the nucleus for the child's happy future and ultimate marriage.

The girl who feels she must lie to her mother about dates and meet her friends at street corners is not going to have the same high standards realized. Her companions will be the not-so-choice boys and girls who are not welcomed into their friends' homes and must themselves seek clandestine dating.

At no age does a child need an understanding parent as much as during adolescence. It is a difficult time for both parent and youngster; its successful handling will cement family ties.

✧ ✧ ✧

DEAR MISS DIX: I have been going with a boy for over a year and it seems that a neighboring family persists in trying to get him away from me. I can see no reason for their actions. We both realize what they are trying to do but still they continue, by petty means, to try to break us up. V. M. B.

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: You are certainly vague about what this family actually is doing, and just how you think they're trying to cause trouble between you and your boy friend. I think you're making a dramatic situation out of nothing. Perhaps you're lending too ready an ear to idle gossip? Unless you have definite facts on which you base your attitude that these people are interfering in your love life, forget the whole problem.

✧ ✧ ✧

DEAR MISS DIX: I am a girl 11 years old. Self-consciousness about my height causes me to sit and walk with a stoop. My friends all tell me to stand straight and be proud of my height. Are they right? MARGIE

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: Your friends are absolutely right, Margie! Height in a woman can be a mark of distinction when well carried; you can learn now to walk erect with poise and grace. Many models are chosen for their height, and there is at least one night club in New York that makes a point of hiring only tall girls. Your attempts to conceal your height by stooping will make you round-shouldered and graceless.

What's Right?

You start to make some broad statement that you realize may brand you as being prejudiced in the matter.

WRONG: Begin by saying: "I don't think I am any more prejudiced than the next person—but—"

RIGHT: Beware of making statements that make you feel uncomfortable enough that you have to start apologizing for them before you make them.

Hope Maintains Whirlwind List of Activities

By BOB THOMAS

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 2—(AP)—How does he do it?

That's the question people ask when they see Bob Hope in action. He maintains a whirlwind schedule at an age when many men are cutting down on strenuous activities. To find out how he does it, I observed him at close range on one of his many junkets.

Hope had been enlisted for an event 400 miles away, and was in the middle of a picture and starting his air show.

Playing such a date involves more than the purchase of a plane ticket. First, the production schedule of "Son Of Paleface" had to be arranged so he could be absent for a day.

Came the date of the appearance and Hope worked all day on the picture. (The day and night before had been spent in preparing and performing his air show at a navy base.) After the last shot, Hope hustled to the airport, where he boarded the plane for San Francisco. He caught a little sleep on the flight up.

He arrived refreshed and gave an interview on the drive to the city. At the hotel, he huddled with convention officials to freshen his material with local gags.

Strictly Business

He also conferred with the orchestra leader and pianist and with his fellow performers. Monica Lewis and Tony Martin. When his cue came, Hope strode into the banquet room as assured as if it were his own living room. Then he gave out with a rapid fire series of gags, such as:

"Have you heard the new West Point song—'Praise The Lord and Pass the Information'?"

"I was playing golf the other day and I broke 70. That's all the clubs I had with me."

"I don't know how I'm doing at Paramount, but lately my producer's slaps on the back are getting lower."

The government has told Bing Crosby, "we'll give you Fort Knox if you'll give us what you've got hidden away'."

Edmonton Actress London Success

EDMONTON — (CP) — Dianne Foster, Edmonton's gift to the theatre and radio world, has won further successes on the British stage. Her progress was recounted here by Prof. and Mrs. E. H. Gowan, of Edmonton, who had lunch with Dianne and her husband during a holiday trip in England.

Dianne will play the role of Bianca in "Othello" with Orson Welles in the title role, and the young Australian, Peter Finch, playing Iago. She left the cast of "The Hollaw" and began rehearsing Othello at the end of September.

The play is being presented by Sir Laurence Olivier at the St. James Theatre in London this autumn.

Mrs. Gowan, herself a playwright and author, noted that almost 80 women had read the part of Bianca in try-outs before Orson Welles heard Dianne do it to a great wave of approval.

"I'm proud of Dianne," Mrs. Gowan concluded, "but I'm not a bit surprised."

Young Scot Girls Love Swiss Camp

LONDON — (CP) — Sixteen Scottish girls standing on a railway platform in London's Euston station found an unusual reason for tears. They didn't want to go home.

The girls were on their way back to Scotland after a four-month stay in Switzerland for cure and convalescence. Their holiday was sponsored and paid for by the Canadian Red Cross Society. A Swiss organization provided them with a complete national costume, including rucksack.

Mrs. Wylie Rennie, British Red Cross worker, found most of the girls in tears over leaving Switzerland. But Catherine Cormack, 9, said: "I'm glad to be going home."

MARY MOORE SAYS:

Reducing Can Be Serious

To reveal to you the plight that some reducers find themselves in, even after consulting their doctor, I am giving you excerpts from a letter from a perturbed wife:

"Dear Miss Moore: In the past I have used and enjoyed your recipes very much but this is something different. I would be grateful if you would help with a reducing diet for my husband. The doctor has given him reducing pills and says he must lose from 230 down to 185 or 190. We own a garage and he does all his own mechanical work . . . each meal I count his calories. These usually run 1,200 per day. Is that too many or too few? . . . may he have fruit before retiring? He is up at 7 a.m .and we retire about 11 or 12:30. Last night he had a tall glass of buttermilk.

"Today's Menu: Breakfast — 4 slices dry rye toast, 2 soft boiled eggs, 1 peach, 1 cup clear tea. Dinner—2 slices lean pork tenderloin steamed in pressure cookeh; ½ small potato (no butter), ½ cup chopped beets (vinegar but no butter), 2 slices unbuttered rye bread, 2 slices tomato, 1 serving tapioca pudding (made from skimmed milk), 1 cup tea (no sugar or milk). Supper—¼-inch slice canned spiced beef, 1 tomato, 6 slices cucumber, 1-inch square piece Canadian cheese, 2 slices whole wheat bread (no butter), 1 peach, 2 oatmeal cookies, 1 tall glass buttermilk.

"He does not drink alcoholic beverages or smoke. He is a great water drinker. Is that fattening? Please tell me if anything is missing or is it too much. The doctor tells me if I want to prolong his life I must see that he loses weight . . . that is why I am so anxious for your help. He has lost 6 pounds (in 3 days). I assure you I will be ever so grateful.—Mrs. B. J."

Since I was perturbed too after reading that letter I telephoned one of my medical doctor friends and asked him his opinion. He said (and I quote): "His doctor will stop the reducing pills quickly. Tell him to eat a steak every day and cut out desserts all but fresh fruit."

Now when I had finished that letter "I thought 'more meat, more fruit' too."

Mrs. B. J.'s husband, with the work he is doing, will lose weight if he has 2,000 calories per day, but these must be sustantially protein.

The Breakfast Menu was perfect except that he should have 2½-slices 100% whole wheat bread with added wheat germ with ½ pat butter instead of the rye, plus 2 more peaches (or any fresh fruit except bananas; if banana he should have 1 large one). He could have whole milk in his tea.

The Dinner was good too, as long as he ate the skin on his potato. (Since he may have 1 pat butter per day he may have his other ½ pat on a baked small potato for each dinner). For this dinner he should have had a large whole tomato and 2 or 3 leaves of lettuce, and an orange and a peach or a pear for dessert, instead of tapioca.

The Supper was nearly right, but he should have had more salad things like celery, carrot, lettuce, cabbage and more fruit and no cookie. When he craves cookies and puddings give him fruit. He could have three pieces per meal, and as many as 3 bananas per day.

He could continue to have his buttermilk before retiring plus a pear and a peach or apple. He should have 8 glasses water per day but none at meals. He should have more sleep.

My medical doctor friend said that if he is not ill from some other cause he will be safe from fatigue if he has a thick steak every day. His milk consumption must be kept up to at least 1 pint skim or buttermilk per day. Just see that the total does not mount above 2,000 calories. I have sent one of the calorie charts to Mrs. B. J.

Clothes For Mothers-To-Be Bring Young Texan Fortune

By DOROTHY ROE

NEW YORK, Oct. 2 (AP)—Half the people in the world are women, and most of them sooner or later have babies.

Starting with this well-authenticated premise, Elsie Frankfurt, a young Texan, built up a business which has just won for her an unique honor.

Elsie has been elected the first woman member of the Young Presidents' Organization, one of the most exclusive clubs in America. Each member must be president of a firm doing an annual gross business of $1,000,000 and all are under 39 years of age.

Elsie, 33, is president of a Dallas maternity dress firm with an annual gross of $2,000,000.

She and her two sisters started their business in 1938.

Edna was expecting her first baby, and Elsie couldn't stand the way her sister looked.

250,000 Copies

So she designed a skirt, now known as the window-pane skirt, which has sold 250,000 copies to date. Edna wore the skirt, her pregnant friends saw, admired and demanded one like it, so the girls rented a store, hired three seamstresses and set themselves up in business on a total capital of $500. Says Elsie:

"We just made the one pattern in all kinds of fabrics and colors, and after six months we had $3,000."

The girls didn't borrow any money, and carried on in an independent manner completely our of character for well-bred Southern girls.

With their profits they bought 10 machines and during the first year did a business of $100,000.

Asked how they hired salesmen to work up a national distribution, Elsie said:

"Oh, another of our friends was pregnant, so she wore the dress to New York and sold it to all the big buying offices."

Today, in addition to their manufacturing firm, the sisters have eight retail stores.

High School Girls See Fancy Desks

TORONTO—(CP)—A desk on wheels complete with shelves for snack-bar and radio—that's what the modern teen-ager may find in her room one of these days.

The piece was among items at a recent showing of furniture in a Toronto department store.

The desk on wheels was the main piece of furniture in a room designed for the high school miss.

The exhibit stressed that colors in rooms should suit the personality of their occupants. For the girl who is blonde there was a room with red maple furniture and evergreen walls.

A sophisticated background of Chinese modern furniture with touches of blue and yellow in drapes and walls was the setting for the dark-haired girl.

New Swiss Discovery
for Eczema, Boils, Psoriasis, Leg Ulcers

The discovery of one of the main causes of skin diseases is bringing new health and happiness to thousands of people. Science has established that the lack of highly unsaturated fatty acids in nutrition reduces the natural resistance of the body and leads to skin disease.

After 10 years of research a Swiss Chemist, Dr. W. Schmitz, succeeded in extracting from pure vegetable oils highly unsaturated fatty acids in a hitherto unattained purity of 99% and therefore named F "99". Only in this purity can it be so readily absorbed into the blood stream. F "99" is not a synthetic drug but a concentrate of natural and nutritive substances and is absolutely harmless. In severe cases medical advice should always be taken.

Illustrated F "99" Booklet Containing all the interesting facts concerning F "99" can be obtained free of charge from any Druggist. Diva Laboratories, Dept. P.O. Box 116, Victoria, B.C.

RENOUF—In loving memory of my dear husband, Edward Renouf, who passed away Oct. 2, 1948.
Time may heal the broken-hearted,
Years may make the wound less sore,
But it cannot fill the longing

Who shall say the grief is lessened,
Though the smile may hide the tears,
Memories keep the wound still open,
Despite the passing of the years.
—Ever remembered by his wife.

RENOUF—In loving memory of my father and grandfather, Edward Renouf, who passed away Oct. 2, 1948.

Animals, Chickens Fed Better Than Most Humans

"We feed our animals and chickens a lot better than we do human beings," declared James Wharry in an address to the fifth annual Dental Public Health dinner held in the Empress Hotel Monday night.

Research has developed balanced diets for pigs, cows and chickens to the point where "nothing is left to chance—they are raised more scientifically than children," the vice-president of the Quaker Oats Co. told the gathering which marked the opening of Dental Health Week.

"You have to go a step further than telling people what to eat and what not to eat," he continued. "The mere fact of telling doesn't mean people are going to do what they are told to do. They have to be told why they should not eat certain foods and what will happen if they do in such a way they will remember."

Referring to the "synthetic enrichment of flour with iron and the "B" complex vitamins, which has been developed during the last 10 years in the United States" Mr. Wharry said that leading nutrition experts and medical authorities credited this development with raising the general health level of the people.

Still Arguing

'Today, Canadian flour being exported to England and Jamaica is being enriched but in Canada we are still arguing whether or not we should increase the vitamin and mineral content of flour" he continued. "According to a recent survey, 40 per cent of Canadians were nutritionally well fed. Another 40 per cent were on the borderline, while 20 per cent were definitely undernourished—in this country of plenty, the bread basket of the world, which produces millions of bushels of wheat every year."

Blaming most digestive disorders on "a lack of understanding between the mouth and the stomach," Mr. Wharry said that "changing eating habits is a slow process—you have to keep at it. That is why this group has such a big job to do."

Several prominent dentists from out of town were in attendance and Dr. Ralph Honey who was chairman for the program called on each of them for a few brief remarks. Dr. Russell Butler of Toronto, chairman of the Dental Public Health Committee of the Ontario Dental Association, said he had recently attended a convention of dental organizations from all across Canada, in Ottawa and that "this Peterborough group alone is doing more work on dental health education than is being done in many provinces."

Setting Pattern

Another compliment came from Dr. Hugh R. McLaren, Assistant Chief of the Dental Health Division, Department of National Health and Welfare, Ottawa, who said, "Your group is setting a pattern that may be unfolding slowly but Peterborough has the distinction of having lead the way."

Dr. W. K. Prendergast, Toronto, president of the Ontario Dental Association; R. R. Stewart, Otonabee Township, county representative on the Peterborough and District Dental Health Committee and Warden Peter Pearson also complimented the committee on the important work it is doing in promoting interest in the care of the teeth.

The guest speaker Mr. Wharry was introduced by Dr. J. J. Craig and thanked by Dr. S. J. Graham.

Examiner's Columns

Back to the newsroom, he writes his story, and turns it in to the city desk. There, the city editor reads it carefully for errors mis-spelled names, and the possibility of libel. He writes a head for it, marks the section of the paper it is to go in, and puts it in the OUT box.

On the main floor of the Examiner building the display advertising department creates advertisements to the orders of the advertiser. These ads will vary in size from a full page to a one-column wide ad about an inch deep.

On layout sheets ruled into columns and the same size as one page of the Examiner, they design advertisements to attract the readers' eyes. The men that work on display advertising have their beats much as reporters do.

Each day they visit the merchants whose advertising they handle. Perhaps an advertiser wants only one ad a week, perhaps three, perhaps one a day. He will tell the advertising salesman what he wants in the ad, roughly how he wants it to look, and what size he wants it.

His beat covered, the salesman returns to the office, lays out an advertisement to the requirements of the advertiser and, with an order attached, sends it to the composing room, where it will be set, for the most part by machine, but sometimes partly by hand.

Ad layouts go to "ad alley" in the "chapel," as the composing room is known at times. Experienced compositors set the ads in the type requested by the advertising salesman, and in the size ordered. Proofs of each advertisement are pulled and double-checked for errors in price, and in spelling.

Besides the advertisements laid out in the Examiner, matrices of ads for nationally sold products come into the office by mail. These are cast and take their places in the Examiner beside the local ads.

Classified advertising comes to the Examiner mostly by telephone. Girls on the classified desk take down the advertiser's requests on order forms and send the orders to the composing room. The Examiner's want ad section is one of the best for a newspaper of its size in Canada.

Classified advertising copy is sent to the classified bank in the composing room after being set into type. Then it takes its place in the two or three pages toward the back of the paper that are set aside for want ads.

In the main office the business side of the Examiner is carried on. There, a staff of clerks keep track of the newspaper's business with an orderly accounting system.

Making Cuts

Down in the Examiner's basement is the engaving room, which holds a Fairchild engraving machine. To this room come the news photographs to be made into "cuts" of the size ordered by the city editor.

On one roller of the engraver, the photograph is set and held smooth. An electric eye activated by a beam of light passes over it and registers its impulses in a heated needle which cuts shades of grey, and white and black into a plastic sheet held on a second roller.

When the cut is finished, it is trimmed, backed with an adhesive paper and taken to the press room, where pressmen stick it into place on the proper plate.

The engraver is one of the most recent developments in engaving for newspapers. It is designed both for speed and economy. On it, a one-column engraving can be made in six minutes. Zinc-plate engraving, the method used by most Canadian papers, is slower and more costly.

While all these operations have been going on, the paper has moved close to the deadline. Orders from the advertising departments, stories from the newsroom have been edited, checked and re-checked. Much of the news and advertising copy is now in the composing room, the melting pot of the newspaper.

In the Examiner is one of the finest composing rooms among Ontario's small city dailies. Superintendent of the mechanical part of the Examiner is J. H. McCauley who says the paper's mechanical plant is "as good as any of its size in the country, and superior to a lot of them."

A long, narrow room, the Examiner's composing room or backshop acts as a funnel for all the type that must go in the daily paper. At one end the linotypes pour out slug after slug of hot type, and as a galley (metal tray) is filled, it is set on the bank.

The "devil," a printer's apprentice, takes the galleys of type and on a small proof press pulls proofs and hands them to the proof-readers, who check the set type against the original copy for errors. They make their corrections, the lines containing errors are reset, and the corrected galleys go to the separate banks.

Some "display" advertisements —those ads larger than one column—are set by hand, because of the various sizes and kinds of type asked for by the advertising department. The large headline on each front page is also hand-set.

From the banks, on which the galleys of type are laid, type is taken and set in the chases, the forms that hold the type into the shape of a page and which, when full, are tightened so that a page is locked up. The chases, rectangular frames of steel, are placed, for layout purposes, on waist-high trucks known as "turtles."

When a page is filled with type, the turtle is pushed to the roller, where matrices are rolled of each page.

Matrices are made of heavy asbestos paper, which will take and hold an impression of the type held in the chase when sufficient pressure is applied by the roller. Once rolled, the matrices —mats, for short—are inspected, then dropped down a metal chute to the press room.

In the press room the mats are roasted by an electric heater into a semi-circular shape, set in a casting machine, and a valve releases hot type metal which flows against the mat and makes a semi-circular plate.

The plate is cooled and trimmed and the page number is painted on it with black paint. Then it goes to the press, where it has its place on one of the cylinders of the Examiner's new press.

Press Ready To Start

By 3.20 p.m. each day—earlier on Saturdays—the complement of plates for the day's paper is cast and each plate is in its place on the press.

Cautiousuly, the pressmen jog the press over a few times to see that all plates are on the right-side up. When everything is ready —the rolls of newsprint in their places on thick steel spindles at both ends of the press, the plates locked solidly on the cylinders—the press starts to roll.

The paper slips over the steel rollers, between the impression cylinders and the plate cylinders with ever-increasing speed, and at the centre of the press, the papers start to roll out. Pressmen make a final check on the plates. Everything is in its proper place.

Record Crowd Attends Verulam Fair

Excellent fall fair weather brought record crowds to Verulam Fair on Friday and Saturday last week.

An estimated 5,000 jammed into the fair grounds on Saturday afternoon when Albert Bottum, 91-year-old honorary president of the fair welcomed the crowd and officially opened the 1951 fair.

The Hon. Leslie M. Frost, Premier of Ontario, addressed the crowd and expressed his pleasure at being able to attend the fair and see the fine exhibits and renew acquaintances with old friends.

Peterborough's CGE pipe band provided skirling Scottish music for the parade which started from the Market Square, shortly after 1 p.m. Saturday.

Led by a provincial police cruiser, followed by a car carrying officials of the fair, the parade continued to the fair grounds where the grandstand crowd was treated to a performance of marching and music by the pipe band.

Parade, Floats

Floats and cars decorated with flowers, grain and leaves, decorated tricycles and bicycles and old time buggy outfits, the drivers decked out in costumes of half a century ago added to the color of the parade.

In keeping with the tradition of country fairs, the shining harness and fancy horse-drawn carriages were outstanding features of the parade, especially the four-horse teams of Vince Baker of Stouffville, Alvin Mark of Cameron and N. G. Wilson of Lindsay.

The public school children of the township and village schools also marched in the parade.

Saddle races, pony races and judging of the different classes of light and heavy horses vied for spectator interest with the amateur vocal and fiddlers' contest during the Saturday afternoon program.

Baseball Tournament

On Friday, the first day of the fair, a baseball tournament with teams from Cameron, Bethany, Little Britain, Fenelon Falls and Bobcaygeon competing was among the opening day events. Cameron won first prize.

Friday was also the achievement day for the boys' and girls' calf club and there were many fine showings of dairy and beef breeds. The Regional Hereford Show, another of the Friday events attracted entries from stables in Dunsford, Cobourg, Manilla, Peterborough, Fenelon Falls, Balsam, Lindsay, Bobcaygeon and Indian River.

J. C. O'Connell Buried

Funeral service for the late James Cecil O'Connell were held this morning from the Kaye funeral home, to St. Peter's Cathedral at 9 a.m.

Requiem mass was said by the Rev. K. Malane.

Graveside prayers at St. Peter's cemetery were offered by the Rev. F. Marrocco and the Rev. J. Weiss.

The pall-bearers were: Leonard O'Connor, William Witzell, Cameron Bennett, Gordon Brook, Ray Frally and Elwood Hendren.

The Fast button is pushed and the press starts to whine. At top speed, this new Examiner press, installed this year, can turn out 35,000 copies of the newspaper in an hour. But usually, the speed is held down to about 30,000 an hour.

From the press, steel spring cables lift the hundreds of Examiners above the press room floor, and carry them to the circulation department. There, circulation workers, some of them part-time help, count bundles of papers, each of which will go to a newstand or a carrier boy or to one of the Examiner's paper boxes on the main streets of Peterborough.

Then you walk up in a newsagent, pay him five cents, and the labor of 200 people is yours. Or there is a thump at your door and the carrier boy has delivered another Examiner. There'll be a new paper out tomorrow.

Japanese Works To Regain Shipping Place

By H. E. PRINGSHEIM

TOKYO (Reuters)—Japan lost nearly 9,000,000 tons of shipping in the war and now works hard to win back something like her former place on the world's sea lanes.

Anticipating the peace treaty, the American-directed occupation loosened former controls on Japanese ship operation. The "Maru" ships are operating their first major post-war scheduled services to North America, Siam, Pakistan and India.

Permission to resume regular berth services came on June 12 of this year. Occupation authorities, announcing approval of Japan's re-entry into this service, said the step was prompted by the recent performance of the Japanese shipping industry by Japanese government measures which ensured "fair practices" and prohibition of "false billing, weighing, tallying, and invoicing of cargo to obtain a lower freight rate." The goal is for the country's fleet eventually to carry up to 50 per cent of her export and import trade in her own vessels.

Before the war, Japan carried up to 60 per cent of her foreign trade. Now her shipping experts estimate that Japanese vessels carry 40 per cent of the country's foreign trade at best.

Lags Far Behind

Mobilization of maximum tonnage would include the completion of the post-war ship construction program; remodelling of wartime standard ships; salvaging of sunken vessels; purchase of second-hand ships from abroad, and chartering of foreign vessels.

At the end of March, 1951, Japan had little more than 1,500,000 gross tons, including both coastal and seagoing vessels. This was considered enough to carry little more than 22.5 per cent of Japan's 1951 foreign trade volume estimated at 22.6 million metric tons.

At present, Japan is authorized for these monthly sailings on these international shipping routes: four to North America, one to South America, for to Okinawa, two to India and Pakistan, and three to Bangkok, (Siam). In addition, the Japanese have applied for permission to open regular shipping lines to the Philippines, Indonesia, Hong Kong, Formosa, Korea, the Marianas, the Bonins, and Australia.

Four Japanese lines participate in the reopened North American run, each with one monthly sailing.

Move To Combat Daily Stabbings In Johannesburg

JOHANNESBURG (CP)—Authorities here are considering methods for combating the alarming increase in crimes in the Johannesburg gold reef area.

Criminal acts of violence were responsible for 2,544 deaths in the Union of South Africa last year. These included murder, culpable homicide, infanticide, faction fighting and public violence.

An average of more than one person a day was stabbed to death in the reef area last year, in addition to the "usual" toll through shooting and assault.

"The incidence of serious crime in the Union has increased by 280 per cent between 1941 and 1950," a police official stated.

A startling fact is that African women, as well as African men, are making increasing use of knives to settle their petty differences, to commit robberies, and to make a show of force.

Knives Banned

A few years ago legislation was introduced to curb this type of lawlessness. Knives with fixed blades, daggers, and pocket knives with blades over a certain length were declared dangerous weapons, and banned.

Ever since then the police have kept a special look-out for such weapons—but the number of crimes involving the use of the knife has increased remarkably since 1941.

Discuss Penalties

The main subject of discussion at the conference will be the question of penalties for crimes of violence.

Flourishing African shebeens (illegal drinking dens), and the "Tsotsi," "Russian," and other gangs have played a big part in the increasing number of stabbing cases.

In so far as "Tsotsi" and "Russian" gangs are concerned, many of their victims and eyewitnesses of attacks will not come forward for fear of reprisals.

"In the circumstances, our efforts with regard to arrests are very good. We will continue to the best of our ability to bring the criminals to book," said a police official.

An unfortunate aspect, however, is that the number of policemen per population has been dropping since 1948.

A PERFECT FIT it was indeed when Mrs. Gertrude Ridgard, of Montreal turned from the street to enter her driveway—and ended up like this instead. Mrs. Ridgard explained she wheeled her car between the trees to avoid crashing into a taxi.

Toot! Toot!

MONTREAL (CP).—A speaker at the Notre Dame Community Council, discussing the train whistle nuisance, said some residents of the district suspect that some of the "unnecessary tooting" may simply be signals such as one train engineer telling a pal down the line that he won $10 in the poker game the night before. He said they communicated by a sort of Morse code.

Railway System Disgusts Briton

LONDON — (CP):— A railway clerk set out one Saturday to take his wife and two children on a 50-mile journey to the seaside. They never did get there.

So the clerk wrote an indignant letter to his member of Parliament, saying he was "thoroughly disgusted" with the British railway system.

The Saturday outing to Hunstanton, Norfolk, should have taken only 2½ hours. Instead the family blundered into one misfortune after another, including misinformation, switched trains, delayed trains and platform misunderstandings. After seven hours in trains and on the platforms, they gave up and went home.

Harmar Nicholls, Conservative member for Peterborough, Northants, forwarded the complaint to railway authorities with a wry comment that more people are travelling by bus these days. Nicholls said he may raise the matter in Parliament when it reassembles in November.

In Search of Utopia

MELBOURNE, Australia (Reuters)—Taxes, living costs and noisy street-cars among other things are proving too much for John Greenston, 57. The stained-glass artisan is recruiting men and women to aid in establishing a co-operative village settlement, probably in New Guinea or the Torres Islands, north of Queensland.

Renounce Bequest Because Of Quarrel

LONDON, Ont., Oct. 2 (CP).—A startled Supreme Court judge Monday prepared to allow a London woman to renounce her share of her mother's $8,900 estate.

She is Mrs. Ethel P. Walden of Sterling Street, said to have refused to have accepted her portion because of a long-past quarrel with her mother, Mrs. Mary Ann Burridge, who died December 11, 1949, in this city.

Mrs. Walden was given a week to execute a "disclaimer" making the surrender of her share official. It will go back into the estate, to be shared by other beneficiaries.

Man Falls On Fork Punctures, Loses Eye

PICTON, Oct. 2 — Arthur Vance, 54-year-old farmer, had his right eye punctured by a pitchfork Monday.

An employee at the Harold Herrington dairy farm, near Picton, he was working with a manure spreader when he slipped and fell forward on to a fork tine. Later, at hospital, doctors removed the injured eye.

London Writer Dies At 82

LONDON—(CP)—Herbert Casson, well-known British efficiency expert who started his working life at 12 in a Canadian trading post, has died here aged 82.

Born in Selkirk, Ont., Casson worked in trading posts, then went to Toronto and later became a feature writer for United States publications. He came to Britain in 1914 at the invitation of the late Lord Northcliffe, famous newspaper publisher, and a year later started his own one-man magazine, Efficiency.

For 36 years Casson wrote every word of each monthly issue. He wrote 147 books, largely on business-efficiency problems, which have been translated into 22 languages.

As a young man Casson counted among his friends such outstanding men as Mark Twain, the author, and the financiers Andrew Carnegie and J. P. Morgan.

Held In Sex Case

MIAMI, Fla., Oct. 2 (AP) — Three teen-age boys and two men were charged with sex offences Monday as officers investigated reports of a "sex club" with 75 or more members in northwest Miami. Constable W. M. Hudson said two 17-year-old boys were charged with statutory rape and another boy, 18, with contributing to the delinquency of a minor. Emerson L. Owens, 33, and James Altman, 22, have been charged with statutory rape.

$100,000 Plant Fire

TORONTO, Oct. 2 (CP)—Fire Monday destroyed the plant of the Strongcrete Builders Supplies, Ltd., in suburban Clarkson. Loss was placed by the company at $100,000. Origin of the blaze was not known, immediately.

Bread Price Up

OTTAWA, Oct. 2 (CP)—Sliced bread went up one cent a loaf here Monday, from 17 to 18 cents. Bakers said the increase was due to the cost of slicing. Unsliced bread remained unchanged at 16 cents.

Missionaries Build Boat

MOOSONEE (CP)—The hardy Roman Catholic missionaries who serve the Indians of James Bay and Hudson Bay have just completed a major engineering job.

A year and a half ago three lay brothers of the Oblate order began construction of a 59-foot, 35-ton powerboat in a shed beside the frame Palace of Bishop Henri Belleau.

Recently they completed it. Then, using a tractor and a system of blocks and tackles, they dragged it half a mile down the "main street" of Moosonee and along the bank of the Moose river to its launching point at the Ontaric Northland Railway's dock.

Launching of vessel, christened the Notre Dame De L'Eperance (Our Lady of Hope), returns the seagoing fleet of the Oblate missionaries to its full complement of three ships.

It was the second ship that members of the order have built themselves.

UK Ballet Arrives

Gladiolus Expert

HALIFAX (CP). — Freddie Walsh, 22-year-old son of Deputy Agriculture Minister Waldo Walsh, is a gladiolus expert in his own right. The youth, who grows thousands of glads on his own farm in Kings County, said, "As far as growing conditions are concerned there is no doubt that they are as good right here in Nova Scotia as anywhere in Canada."

Ready For Winter

MONTREAL (CP).—Employees of the city roads department have been busy overhauling the hundreds of machines used to battle wintry conditions in Montreal. The city owns 33 big blowers and loaders, 118 tractors of various types equipped with plows, 46 street flushers that can be converted to snow clearance and many trucks and jeeps.

Federation Growing

ROYAL ATHLETE—Before his days at the Naval College, Philip was more notable for athletic skill than scholarship. Here he's fixing his spikes before a high jump contest in 1935.

Elizabeth Has Vast Store Of Information On Subjects

By ARTHUR J. MATHERS
NEA Special Correspondent

London—In August, 1939, a year of great personal significance for Princess Elizabeth, she sailed with her parents and sister on the Royal Yacht for an official visit to the Royal Naval College at Dartmouth, England.

"Captain's Doggie" at the college was a blond naval cadet named Philip, who had to entertain Elizabeth and Margaret as part of his orderly duties while the King carried out inspection.

Obviously impressed with the tall young man who she had met several times at the Lord Mountbatten house, Elizabeth proceeded to feed him a royal luncheon such as only a hungry young seaman could tackle.

Her instinct was accurate. When the visit was over and the King and his party set sail again, Philip rowed his dory so far out into the Channel in the wake of the royal yacht that he finally had to be ordered back.

Elizabeth was 13 when World War II broke out and for the next five years, the young Princess gave herself to the task of fitting herself to take her place and responsibilities beside her father.

With the aid of highly qualified tutors, she had achieved in her 16th year a standard expected only of university students, not only in formal subjects, but such extra-curricular studies as economic and constitutional history and agricultural theory.

Before her 16th birthday Elizabeth had an honors degree rating in her knowledge of Murray's "History of the United States." Her essays on French history were written in French and corrected with severe precision by two tuors—for both French and history.

A contemporary has observed: "The result of all this hard work is exactly what was intended (and demanded by the Queen Mother). Elizabeth had an amazing store of information about every conceivable subject which might become part of official or diplomatic discussions."

Most of this really important work had been done at Windsor Castle, where both Princesses spent the greater part of the war years.

Senior advisors to the King—and many personal friends, too—had been urging him to send Elizabeth and Margaret to either the United States or a Commonwealth country. But the King refused with the cogent argument: "We all face a common dperil."

By then, Elizabeth had paid a penalty for her intensive study. She had temporarily lost her easy charm and became shy and diffident just at a time when it became important for her to take on a more adult social life.

Young Guards officers, stationed at Windsor Barracks, were invited to tea and occasionally to supper. But at 17, Elizabeth was inclined to scare them off. Only a few very close friends knew how she fought to cover her shyness with a natural and returning graciousness.

One young and eligible Guardsman who danced with her at a small formal party sighed: "She dances beautifully and is very sweet. But what does one talk about to a Princess."

It was just at this difficult period of Elizabeth's young womanhood that Prince Philip reappeared at Windsor.

He had progressed through various schools where he had become more notable for athletic skill than for book-learning. Long holidays abroad had made him self-reliant, broad-minded and familiar with European affairs.

When Philip entered Royal Naval College, he was inspired by the seagoing achievements of his uncle, Lord Mountbatten, for whom he has deep affection. Against stiff competition, he won the two top awards for seamanship and leadership.

At 19, he had won the King's Dirk—equivalent to the Sword of Honor at Annapolis—and began active service as a midshipman aboard battleships in the Mediterranean.

Philip was on promotion leave when he again met Elizabeth, and the romance began in earnest.

Tomorrow: "People Will Say We're In Love."

LATER THERE WAS A ROWBOAT—Here's how Princess Elizabeth looked (centre) at 13 when she set sail on the Royal Yacht to visit the Naval College, where she fed Philip lunch and he pursued the yacht in a dory. That's Prince Margaret at right.

Teachers, Pupils Parade Through Bancroft

BANCROFT, Oct. 2 (ENS)—A street parade, an extensive advertising campaign, a larger display by the forestry clubs and the general peppy spirit displayed by pupils and staff were the highlights of Achievement Day at North Hastings High School on Friday. Besides the regular high school pupils and many students from the senior grades of the neighboring public schools approximately 475 adults visited the building during the afternoon.

Led by a student motorcycle escort and two mounted marshals, the entire student and teaching body in parade formation twice circled the main streets of the village to advertise and publicize the affair. Every form had its float or theme. Among them were seen a minstrel show, a wedding procession, a jam-packed antiquated car depicting 'Cheaper by the Dozen', clowns, decorated automombiles, trucks and tractors and throngs of miscellaneous marchers.

The exhibits were displayed on the floor, stage and walls of the large gymnasium. At the front of the room was a border of local hardwood, softwood and coniferous trees, arranged by the forestry clubs. In the center could be seen exhibits of shop work and geological samples of the rocks of North Hastings.

Included in the displays that represented the achievements of the pupils during 1950-51 were: garden vegetables, grains, dairy and poultry products, canned fruits, home cooking, sewing, samples of art work in various mediums, collections of plants, weeds and woods, and a photographic display. Back of the building were the cages with chickens, ducks, geese, rabbits and pigeons.

In one of the nearby classrooms D. G. Wylie, BSEF, Conservation Lecturer of the Ontario branch of the Canadian Forestry Association showed coloured sound films. The Department of Lands and Forests was represented by Don Scott of Napanee, the assistant zone forester, who distributed pamphlets and answered questions regarding the exhibits of woods, leaves and buds.

Intermittent rains and a touch of snow were responsible for the cancellation of the sports program that had been arranged by Jack Stuckey, physical training instructor. In charge of the day was a large committee headed by Curtiss Burlanyette and Joyce Brown, representing the student body, Principal W. R. Robinson and staff.

Mrs. G. Stackhouse Heads Bible Society

NORWOOD, Oct. 2—(ENS)—The annual meeting of the Norwood branch of the Upper Canada Bible Society was held in the Baptist church Thursday evening.

The president, Mrs. Roy Nevins, presided and stressed the importance of this great work and urged the people to increase their givings.

The secretary-treasurer, Mrs. Horace Brown, reported $267.57 had been sent to the head office last year.

Rev. Keyes of Toronto, was the special preacher. He outlined the jubilee campaign which has been launched to prepare for the celebration in 1954 of the 150th anniversary of the founding of the British and Foreign Bible Society. The objectives of this campaign stress the raising in Canada of a jubilee fund of $320,000. "We must awaken the people of this age to the power of the Bible, to strengthen the moral and spiritual fibre of humanity," he said.

Rev. Keyes, also showed the film, "The Frontiersman," depicting the life of the colporteurs in western Canada.

Mr. Gordon Stackhouse was elected president and the secretary-treasurer, Mrs. Horace Brown, was re-elected. Mrs. Orville Clements presided at the piano for the singing of the hymns. Thanks to the executive and the canvassers and the many contributors was expressed by both Rev. Keyes and Rev. R. D. Duncanson. Rev. H. K. Wright closed the meeting with prayer.

Non-Profit Opera Gets Big Results On Shoestring

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—Bargain opera, professionally performed, is presented on a shoestring in Philadelphia.

The Co-Opera Company, in its third season, provides high-class musical theatre with neither high-salaried stars for mink-and-diamond audiences. At the same time it trains new singers and dancers. You can almost say it was done for nothing. Certanly a gross expenditure of $3,000 for one seasons' work isn't extravagant.

Co-Opera is non-profit all the way. It produced a number of major productions this year—Puccini's "Tosca," "Gianni Schicchi," and "Il Tabarro," Gian-Carlo Menotti's "The Telephone," and "Prospice," an original ballet, opera writen by Romeo Cascarino, Co-Opera's musical director.

Co-Opera is the only complete workshop in the Philadelphia area and, as far as its members know, it's the only unsubsidized group in the United States.

Use Ticket Money

Operating money, obtained from membership and ticket sales, is turned into costumes, stage settings, materials. Sometimes a member of the audience, impressed, makes a donation—like the lunberyard owner who donated the wood for one of the shows.

Singers, musicians, carpenters, electricians, stage hands all work for nothing. Their only idea is to put on a good show and promote young talent.

The founding purpose of Co-Opera, still rigidly followed, is to give Philadelphia area singers (and dancers, too) an opportunity to be heard and seen in both opera and recital.

Singers are chosen by an audition committee. The only requirement is hard work and regular attendance at rehearsals. In exchange they receive coaching, musical and stage direction and the chance to perform at a public performance.

Opera Without Stars

There is no star system. Cascarino, a member of the Faculty of the Granoff School of Music, tries to fill each part with the proper voice.

Co-Opera was organized by Frank Tonick, now its general manager, and two young singers, Joan Carroll and Howard Grossman.

The first company had 20 singers and two staff officials. Today the organization is three times that size. It has a complete administrative staff.

It's two-score singers come from everywhere, work everywhere. There is a mechanical engineer, a fuller brush salesman, a teacher, a fashion designer, waitress, stenographer, stationery supply salesman, chemist, and an ex-pro football player.

Sam Rudofker, business manager of the group who manufactures formal wear men's clothes "in my spare time," says Co-Opera emphasizes the dramatic value of an opera.

"We believe that opera presented as lyric theatre with good acting, lighting, costuming will be as attractive to the public as lighter musical shows," Rudofker says.

"Most of the operas we present are seldom given in Philadelphia. We try to supplement rather than compete with the standard repertoire of the major opera companies."

Fine Furnishings To Mark Royal Train During Tour

OTTAWA (CP)—Thousands of Canadians in every province will catch at least a glimpse of the Royal train during the tour by Princess Elizabeth and the Duke of Edinburgh, but few will see its luxurious interior.

Outside, the train looks much the same as any Canadian train. It will not be a uniform color, like the blue and silver Royal train of 1939 when the King and Queen were here. However, the interior has been specially fitted for the Royal guests and the official party accompanying them.

The royal train consists of a steam locomotive and 10 cars, including two baggage cars, using government and Canadian National Railways and Canadian Pacific Railway equipment. A total of 23 different engines of both main railways will take turns at hauling the train, depending on which tracks it is travelling on.

The two baggage cars include an auxiliary electric generator for use when the train is standing still, and living quarters for the dining-room crew.

To Be At Rear

The two cars normally used by the Governor-General will be used by the Princess and her husband and their immediate staff, located at the rear of the train.

Other members of the Royal household, representatives of the Canadian government, the inter-departmental committee in charge of the tour and a platoon of RCMP men will occupy the rest of the train.

Colorful Fittings

Princess Elizabeth's suite in the rear car consists of a bedroom, dressing room and bathroom. The bed and dressing rooms are painted shell pink damask coverings and drapes of dusk pink taffeta. Clothes-hangers and the linen bag are covered to match the damask.

Prince Philip's bedroom is painted cream. A light brown carpet covers the floor and drapes and coverings are of blue and white glazed chintz.

The sitting room in the rear car is panelled in curly birch with an ivory ceiling and an overall carpet of light brown. The furniture is covered with green damask blending with the taffeta drapes.

Sitting and dining rooms in the second car have surf green walls and ceilings, with green furniture coverings and drapes. In the dining room, which seats 12 persons, a case containing an atlas of maps is installed.

The third car, the Canadian government car, has lounge, dining room and passageway panelled in walnut with cream ceilings and a green carpet.

There are several radio receiving sets aboard the train, and two cars have facilities for telephone service to be linked up when the train is stationary.

Ask To Abandon One-Time Popular Railroad

BROCKVILLE—(CP)—A railroad that brought thousands of United States and Canadian dollars into the Rideau Lakes country for more than half a century may soon cease to exist.

The Canadian National Railways has applied to the board of transport commissioners to abandon the line, connecting this city with Westport, 40 miles west of here.

Modern roads and faster means of travel have caused a loss of some $70,000 annually to the CNR.

At one time, thousands of passengers weekly rode the train during vacation months. Last year, the company received only $169 in passenger revenue.

The locomotive, hauling several freight cars and a shabby wooden coach, makes the round trip to Westport each Thursday. Four other days of the week is goes to Napanee by way of Forfar which is about 10 miles from Westport.

End Of Dream

The men who built the line intended it to connect Brockville with Sault Ste. Marie to transport timber to the US border. But funds ran out when the line reached Westport and that was the end of the road and the dream.

The line was sold under foreclosure in 1903 and a new charter granted. But the second company defaulted its bond interest in 1911 and the line was sold to the Canadian Northern, subsequently absorbed by the CNR.

Conductor C. A. Moore remembers the days when the train made four trips a day loaded with fishermen and vacationers.

Recently, on what may have been the last summer's excursion the line will ever run, a group of Brockville beauties—dressed in costumes of the 1888 era—brought a twinge of nostalgia to station agents in the six communities along the line.

Councillor's Homework

KINGSTON, Ont.—Being the only woman in a city council of 21 aldermen requires "careful homework," says Marion Earl, Kingston's only woman council member. She says she does careful research because "I refuse to make myself conspicuous by asking unnecesary questions."

CHIEF GOOSE EGG—Allie (Chief) Reynolds kisses the ball in the Yankee Stadium dressing room after stopping the Boston Red Sox, 8-0, for his second no-hitter of the season. The win mathematically clinched at least a pennant tie for the Bronx Bombers. Reynolds stopped the Cleveland Indians without a hit earlier in the year.

Canadian Gets Broadway Role

TORONTO, Oct. 2 — (CP) — Don Harron, Toronto stage and radio actor in London, England, has landed a part in a Broadway play by turning down a British movie role.

He will fly from London to New York Wednesday to take one of the four roles in the United States premiere of Christopher Fry's latest play, "A Sleep of Prisoners."

He replaces a British star, Denholm Elliott, who will stay in England to take the part in a picture, "The Sound Barrier," that Harrow turned down on grounds that his Canadian accent might not be suitable.

The Fry play was written for performances in churches, not regular theatres, and Harron will make his Broadway debut in St. James' Church. Later the play will tour other US and Canadian churches.

"A Sleep of Prisoners" deals with four prisoners-of-war who are interned in a church. Each man has a dream, involving Biblical characters.

Great Artillery Barrage Sets UN Front Ablaze

FOLLOWING FAMILY TRADITION — When the Argyll and Sutherland Highlanders of Hamilton were in Scotland recently, they visited Birkhall and were allowed a two-hour visit with Princess Elizabeth and Princess Margaret. Prince Charles was in trigued by the busby, the band's full-dress regalia. When he found it too heavy he reluctantly gave it up for the less ornate Glengarry which he is shown wearing here. With him as he gazes proudly around are Piper Robert McNeill of Hamilton and Princess Margaret Rose. Prince Charles' mother is Colonel-in-Chief of the regiment. This photo is an informal one taken by one of the visiting pipers.

Too Optimistic On Security

WASHINGTON, Oct. 3. (AP)—The chairman of the United States Atomic Energy Commission has put a flat "no" to theories that an immediate big-scale switch to atomic weapons might avert another war and halve 1952 military costs. But Gordon Dean did say the US now has tactical atomic weapons, and made a cautious disclosure that new atomic weapons are being produced. Dean testified last week behind the closed doors of a House of Representatives appropriations subcommittee. The testimony was made available to a reporter today. Dean was asked by Representative Albert Thomas (Dem. Tex.) about recent statements that an extra $6,000,000,000 given to the AEC now might avert a war and save up to half the 1952 military budget.

The answer, Dean replied, is a "flat no."

He said the extra money could not be translated immediately into more atomic weapons because of the time factor involved in producing them.

Thomas then asked Dean if he knew of any new supplies of raw materials by which atomic bombs could be produced by the thousands.

"I hate to go into figures," Dean answered. "I would rather not talk of numbers."

Not Cheap Security

Thomas then wanted to know about a prediction made in a Senate speech Sept. 18 by Senator Brien McMahon (Dem.-Conn.) that if, as McMahon urged, the US "mass-produced" atomic weapons the cost of an atomic bomb would "become less than the cost of a single tank."

McMahon called for an all-out atomic weapons production, saying that if $6,000,000,000 a year were spent on atomic energy instead of the $800,000,000 spent last year, savings at some future time might reach $40,000,000,000 a year.

While the cost of an atomic bomb probably can be and is being brought down, Dean said, it

Burma Bans All Americans From Red China Borders

RANGOON, Oct. 3. (AP)—Burma has banned Americans from entering Burmese territory adjoining Communist China without special permission. The ban includes United States diplomatic representatives in Rangoon, educators, and technicians and specialists of the economic co-operation administration.

It applies especially to the Kashin state of Myitkyina in the north and the Shan state of Kengtung, which hooks onto Red China.

Burmese sources say Burmese troops have begun military operations in Kengtung against Chinese Nationalist troops reported to be in retreat from Yunnan. These Nationalist soldiers launched a limited offensive nearly four months ago.

Informed sources say Burma is convinced the US is aiding the Nationalist drive in China and fears the presence of Americans along the heaving frontier will give Chinese Reds an excuse to invade Burma.

The government observes strict neutrality in the Nationalist-Communist affair.

Nothing Done

Burma last night sought American diplomatic help for eviction of Nationalist soldiers from Burmese territory. Competent Burmese sources said nothing so far has been done.

Wildcat Strike Still Unsettled

WINDSOR, Oct. 3 (CP)—Ford office workers, on strike since Monday evening, are ready to meet management as soon as possible to work out a settlement of their dispute, M. H. Featherston, chairman of Local 240 UAW (CIO), Ford unit negotiating committee, said today.

He denied a statement by Rhys M. Sale, company president, that the union struck before the company had time to answer its grievance. The answer, the union spokesman said, was an emphatic "No." He said it was made to the negotiating committee at 3 p.m. Monday by W. H. Clark, Ford of Canada director of industrial relations.

The union spokesman also denied newspaper reports that only about 50 pickets had turned back the office workers Tuesday morning. "By actual count, there were

Say Egyptian Price Troops Out Of Suez

CAIRO, Oct. 3 (AP).—The influential newspaper Al Ahram said today Egypt will demand withdrawal of British troops from the Suez canal area and annexation of the Sudan as her price for joining a western-sponsored Middle East defence system.

The newspaper quoted government circles as stating any Egyptian participation in the North Atlantic Treaty organization's extended command would be conditional upon a "full realization" of Egypt's national aims. NATO at its recent Ottawa conference decided to set up a Middle East command.

For a decade or more Egypt has demanded that British troops get out of the canal area and has called for unity with Sudan under the Egyptian crown.

4 New York Residents See Fantastic Flying Ball

HOGANSBURG, N.Y., Oct. 3—(AP)—Four Northern New York residents claimed Tuesday to have seen a fantastic flying ball, powered by a motor-driven propellor, land near St. Regis and Hogansburg, then take off and vanish in the air over Massena.

They described the ball as a dark brown rubber or plastic sphere about four feet in diameter, with no appendages other than a propellor and a two-foot brass shaft. They said it bore no markings.

Alex LaFrance, 20, Peter Phillips, 40, and Francis Arquette, 16, told police they saw it land in a field near this Canadian border Indian reservation, bounce about three times and stop. They said the sphere took off with a humming noise at about 25 miles an hour.

Mrs. Angus Cook, 26, a housewife, told a reporter that she heard a sound like a motor and saw the ball about 400 feet up in the sky. She said it landed about 200 yards from her home.

Checks with the United States weather bureau and the civil aeronautics authority appeared to dispel the possibility that the object could have been a weather balloon.

James Mason, chief communicator at the Massena Airport, CAA Station, said the wind velocity at the time was three miles an hour, hardly strong enough to whip a balloon into the air from the ground.

In Ottawa, A. D. McLean, controller of Canadian Civil Aviation, said: "I don't know of any Canadian machine that corresponds to that description."

"Fantastic is all I can say."

Tell US Drop Dairy Curb Or Retaliation

Likely To Withdraw Tariff Concessions If Americans Refuse

OTTAWA, Oct. 3. (CP)—Canada and 11 other countries will retaliate against the United States if it does not repeal restrictions on dairy imports, James Sinclair said Tuesday. The parliamentary assistant to Finance Minister Abbott said in an interview that the US has about a month in which to eliminate the restrictions which, Canada charges, violates the terms of the General Agreement of Tariffs and Trade.

If the restrictions are not dropped, then Canada and 11 other countries, including the United Kingdom, are prepared to withdraw some tariff concessions to the US, probably in the agricultural field, Mr. Sinclair said.

The Liberal member for the Vancouver riding of Coast-Capilano returned Saturday from the Geneva meeting of the contracting parties of GATT. The meeting of representatives of the 37 member countries is still in session. It is expected to run another month.

Ask Immediate Action

Mr. Sinclair said Holland wanted an immediate complaint filed against the US so that retaliatory action could be taken at once.

Canada urged a more cautionary attitude and suggested a postponement to the end of the session so that the US might be given some time in which to put legislative machinery into force to remove the restrictions. They were imposed as a result of a rider clause attached by Congress to the US government's main defence production and price control bill.

The rider requires the US Agricultural Department to impose quotas on fats, oils, cheese and other dairy products during the period in which the US government is controlling prices.

President Truman has already asked Congress to repeal it on the ground that it is unncessary and contrary to US government policy on reciprocal trade agreements.

Churchill Lashes Iranian Policy

LIVERPOOL, England, Oct. 3 (CP)—Winston Churchill, warming up his campaign for the Oct. 25 general election, Tuesday night attacked the Labor government for handling the Iranian oil crisis "clumsily and tardily."

Speaking at a Conservative rally, the wartime Prime Minister said Labor leader Clement Attlee had broken his promise not to evacuate the Abadan oil fields without first consulting parliament.

"I do not remember any case where public men have broken their word so abruptly," he said.

Churchill recalled for a period of "steady, stable administration by a broadly-based government" content to "serve the nation's interest rather than give party satisfaction."

He called for a "tolerant, non-partisan, non-doctrinaire system of policy for a considerable time."

His words were immediately interpreted by some sources as a guarded call for a return to the wartime coalition governmnt. Some termed his speech a clear indication that he wants to head a cabinet of Conservatives, Socialists and Liberals.

But Sir David Maxwell Fyfe, top Tory strategist, denied there was any plan to an all-out coalition.

BULLETIN

BERLIN — (AP) — A wild stone-throwing riot on the border separating the Russian and French sectors of Berlin broke out tonight. West Berlin police called up heavy reinforcements to combat a crowd of Communists estimated at about 5,000. According to preliminary reports, a gang of Communists invaded the French sector to stir up agitation in the same area which has been torn by disturbances in the past several weeks.

Tough On Women

TORONTO, Oct. 3. (CP)—Several Toronto women may have to shop all over again for something to wear to meet the Princess. Thieves broke into the Billye Vincent Shop in uptown Toronto early today and made off with several thousand dollars worth of garments, many of which were being fixed over for the visit of Princess Elizabeth Oct. 12-13. Said Mrs. Vincent: "I can't think about it without getting almost hysterical." The biggest loss "as far as I'm concerned" was the rack of dresses brought in for alteration by customers who needed them for the Princess' receptions.

Roval Couple To Have Sea Trip Home

LONDON, Oct. 3 (AP)—Princess Elizabeth and the Duke of Edinburgh, who will fly to Montreal Monday, will return from their Canadian tour by ship Nov. 17, it was announced today.

The journey back will be made in the Canadian Pacific Railway steamship Empress of Scotland, which will dock at Liverpool. The revised schedule appeared to allow time for the Princess and Duke to keep all the engagements arranged in Canada and Washington.

The decision to return by ship was also taken as an indication of lessening anxiety over the condition of the King, whose serious lung operation caused postponement of the departure from England.

The return voyage will start from Bay Bulls, near St. John's Newfoundland, Nov. 12.

The announcement coincided with today's bulletin from Buckingham Palace saying that the King is making steady progress.

Change In Ship

Elizabeth and Philip will fly from London airport in a four-engined stratocruiser of the British Overseas Airways Corporation on Monday, taking off at 12:30 a.m. local time (6.30 p.m. EST Sunday).

The week's delay is responsible for the change in the ship, originally scheduled to be the Empress of France.

Canopus, the stratocruiser which will take the couple to Canada, was taken out of normal service Tuesday and conversion of the main passenger cabin into a lounge-dining room began. Another section of the plane is being made into a bedroom. Royal blue and dove grey will be the color scheme.

The airliner, a veteran of 200 Atlantic crossings, will also be fitted with new engines. Every part is being checked.

The return by sea means that Elizabeth and Philip will miss Prince Charles' birthday. He will be three Nov. 14.

Cabinet Studies Throne Speech

OTTAWA, Oct. 3 (CP).—The Federal cabinet met today in one of its last sessions before the two big events of the week—the Royal tour and the opening of parliament.

Both subjects were believed to be before today's meeting, with most of the emphasis on preparations for the parliamentary opening. The tour arrangements all have been completed except for minor details.

It was expected the cabinet would approve the draft of the speech from the throne, to be read at the opening of the fall session next Tuesday. It will outline the government's fall legislative program.

The formal address closing the current session, in recess since June, already has been approved.

It also was thought likely that Prime Minister St. Laurent will report to the cabinet on his flight to Washington last week to discuss the St. Lawrence seaway with President Truman. The council is expected to consider the possibility of bringing seaway legislation before the fall session.

280 Oil Men Leave Iran On Cruiser

Iranians Win Round In UK Dispute, British 'Humiliated'

ABADAN, Iran, Oct. 3. (CP)—The British cruiser Mauritius, with 280 ousted employees of the nationalized Anglo-Iranian Oil Company, today sailed for Basra, Iraq.

Removal of the last British technical employees from the huge Abadan refinery left the Iranians in full possession of the rich Iranian oil industry.

After the 40-mile journey up the Shatt-El-Arab River, the men will leave by air for home.

They were summarily ordered out of the country by Premier Mohammed Mossadegh's government.

A single refinery smokestack in a forest of about 70 was smoking as the men left behind the multi-million-dollar holding built up over 50 years.

End of Phase

Their evacuation marked an end to the first phase of the Anglo-Iranian dispute which flared up when Iran decided last April to nationalize the Anglo-Iranian Oil Company.

The Mauritius was accompanied by five AIOC tugs. The battle-class destroyer armada was to follow the cruiser to Basra.

Earlier, a British airliner left with 17 nurses, 22 staff employees and Vera Flavell, owner of an Abadan guest house.

The evacuation followed last-minute disagreements between the oil men and the British Cabinet over the style of departure.

Scheduled plans to take the Mauritius alongside the Abadan jetties fell through when the Iranians objected. The technicians asked to be taken out by air, but the British government told them to leave by launch.

Red Attaches Claim Too Much Supervision

STOCKHOLM, Oct. 3 (Reuters)—The military attaches of Russia, Communist China, Poland and Czechoslovakia walked out of the Swedish army manoeuvres today charging they had been "too rigorously supervised."

Sweden's Socialist government had invited all military attaches against the advice of the defence staff, which wanted to ban all foreign spectators because new weapons are being tried out during the monoeuvres.

Western attaches watched the manoeuvres this afternoon and made no complaints of undue supervision.

Suspicion against eastern countries has become acute in Sweden since a naval petty officer confessed last week to giving up naval secrets to an official employed in the Soviet naval attache's office.

The Russian official was expelled from Sweden.

Buying Value Of Dollar Drops Faster Than In US

OTTAWA, Oct. 3 (CP) — The purchasing value of the Canadian dollars appears to be dropping further and faster than its United States equivalent.

Based on the cost-of-living trends in both countries, figures show that in the space of a year, the Canadian dollar declined 6.4 cents—the American dollar only 3.8.

Since the pre-war period of 1935-39, the purchasing value of the Canadian dollar declined 47.1 cents—the American dollar 46.1.

Government statisticians emphasize the difficulties of trying to compare the purchasing power of the two currencies. They estimate nevertheless that on the basis of latest cost-of-living trends, the purchasing value of the Canadian dollar would be 52.9 cents—the American, 57.7.

Their estimates are related to the rate of climb of the cost-of-living indexes in the two countries. In Canada, the index, based on the 1935-39 prices equalling 100, climbed 20.4 points from 168.5 to a peak 188.9 on Aug. 1.

The US index, also based on 1935-39 equalling 100, showed greater stability, increasing only 12.1 points from 173.4 to 185.5 on Aug. 15.

The Bureau of Statistics likely will issue its cost-of-living survey for August on Thursday. In it will appear the bureau's quarterly survey on rents.

Main attention likely will be focussed on food, for food prices, in a continuous gallop, have provided the main impetus for the sharp rise in the prices barometer.

In the last 12 months, the food sub-index jumped 34.7 points to a record 251.4 points from 216.7 a year ago. All other sub-groups have climbed to peaks, too, but the food group carries the greatest weight. It counts for 31 per cent of the total index.

The rent group, counting for 19 per cent, has climber 4.9 points from 134.9 to 139.8. Clothing, counting 12 per cent, jumped 23.7 points from 180.9 to 204.6; home furnishings, counting nine per cent, increased 30.1 points to 199.0 from 168.9; and fuel and lighting, counting six per cent, climbed 9.8 points to 148.2 from 138.4.

Hint Allied Activity Possible Prelude To Big Red Attack

US EIGHTH ARMY HEADQUARTERS, Korea, Oct. 3. (AP)—A thunderous United Nations artillery barrage roared along the western front today while planes tried to break up the biggest Communist supply effort since the last Red offensive. Red troops who held Allied infantrymen without gains Tuesday pressed two battalion-sized probing attacks of their own today. (A "partial blackout," frequently a sign of an impending offensive by either the Reds or Allies, was clamped on news from fronts Wednesday.

(The tightened censorship was announced by Tokyo headquarters of Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway, Supreme UN Commander. There was no explanation.

(The partial blackout of news was imposed until further notice.

(While there were indications of a possible impending Red offensive, a broad UN drive could not be ruled out. The news blackout recalled a Red Chinese broadcast Saturday asserting the Allies were preparing to make simultaneous amphibious landings on both coasts of North Korea. The Allied Command has not commented on this broadcast.)

Significant

The Far East air forces noted that pilots spotted 4,355 Red trucks on the highways Tuesday night—"the greatest number in a single night since . . . the Communists' last abortive offensive" in mid-May.

Warships and night-raiding planes concentrated on breaking up this near-record volume of supplies. An Air Force communique said Red trucks "suffered very heavy losses."

The Allied artillery barrage on the western front was one of the heaviest of the Korean war.

Gunfire reached to within 12 miles of Kaesong, site of disrupted truce talks which the Reds broke off 42 days ago.

Shells hit the Reds in ridges running northeast from Korangpo—12 miles east of Kaesong just south of the 38th Parallel and 28 miles northwest of Seoul.

Censorship prevented correspondents from pinpointing the full extent of the artillery fire.

Halted Attacks

The barrage opened up Tuesday night after a day in which the Documents Stolen 3 Germans Arrested

BONN, Germany, Oct. 3 (Reuters).—Police have detained certain employees of Chancellor Konrad Adenauer's office while thefts of secret documents are being investigated.

Press reports said three persons were involved. The reports said copies of the documents had been sold to members of opposition parties, and that the US and French intelligence services have been told of their contents.

One of the arrested employees, a duplicating-machine operator, was said to have run off extra copies of cabinet-meeting agendas and offered them for sale.

Giants 000 00

POLO GROUNDS, New York, Oct. 3—(AP)—Righthanded aces Don Newcombe (20-9) of Brooklyn and Sal Maglie (23-6) of New York were opposing pitchers today as Dodgers and Giants clashed in the rubber contest of the three-game playoff for the National League pennant.

A crowd of some 32,000 kept down by the heavy skies and the threat of rain, was on hand.

Canadians Use British Rifle

By DOUGLAS HOWE.

OTTAWA, Oct. 3 (CP).—The 27th Brigade is expected to swap its American .300 calibre Garand rifles for the .303 British-type Lee-Enfield for its movement to Europe next month.

The army, it is understood, has been basing its plans on the assumption that the brigade would take all US type small arms—including the Garand—to Germany even though it will serve there under the overall command of the British Army of the Rhine.

The 27th's sub-units have been training primarily with US arms but have had some experience with the .303 and other British-type weapons. Its infantry battalions now are equipped with the Garand.

Defence Minister Claxton is believed to have given the direction that the Lee-Enfield should be substituted for the Garand and arrangements are expected to be made accordingly although they have not yet started.

Eminent Surgeon Dr. E. D. Busby Dies

LONDON, Ont., Oct. 3 (CP)—An eminent Canadian surgeon and an outstanding London personality, Dr. Eldon Durward Busby, 57, died today at his home.

He had been ill with a lung ailment for six months. In May, he underwent an operation in Ann Arbor, Mich., and returned to London in August to resume his practice.

Dr Busby became famous in the field of Urological surgery. In addition to his practice, he was professor of Urological surgery at University of Western Ontario Medical School and Victoria hospital, and consultant in surgery at Westminster hospital and Beck Memorial Sanatorium.

Dr. Busby performed his last operation Friday.

Born in Southampton, Dr. Busby spent his early years in the Yukon, where his father was an official with the Canada Customs.

Name 2 To Cabinet Say Election Likely In November

TORONTO, Oct. 3. (CP)—Possibility of a November general election in Ontario was strengthened Tuesday as Premier Frost announced two cabinet appointments. The premier said he was taking Dr. W. J. Dunlop into the Cabinet as Minister of Education, and Fletcher S. Thomas as Minister of Public Works. At the same time, high Progressive Conservative party sources said the Premier would probably announce the date of a general election after Thursday's Cabinet meeting.

Likelihood is that he will chose a date in the week beginning Monday, Nov. 19. Most frequently mentioned of late has been Nov. 22—a Thursday.

A general election would give Dr. Dunlop, former director of extension for the University of Toronto, an opportunity to seek a seat in the Legislature. He may contest the Toronto Eglington constituency, currently represented by former Attorney-General Leslie Blackwell, who does not intend to run again.

Mr. Thomas will again contest the constituency of Elgin which he has represented since 1945.

Personal Endorsation

For Mr. Frost a general election would be an appeal for personal endorsation as Premier. George Drew, now Progressive Conservative leader at Ottawa, was Premier when the Conservatives won election at the last Ontario vote in June, 1948. Mr. Frost was named as his successor at a party convention in 1949.

In making the appointments, the Premier is strengthening his cabinet at two vital points, another fact which might herald an election.

Before Mr. Dunlop entered the cabinet, Attorney-General Porter doubled as Minister of Education. Now Mr. Porter will be able to give his full time to the Attorney-General's portfolio.

Appointment of Mr. Thomas relieves George Doucett of one of his two portfolios. He remains as Minister of Highways.

The Premier also announced a shuffle in the treasury board, a body created under the Audit Act and which passes on all financial undertakings of the government.

Thomas Burke, 79 Wins Home Award

Thomas Burke, 103 Parkhill Road, has been awarded by the Horticultural Society its Joseph E. Bell trophy for an outstanding display in home beautification.

W. C. Wilks, secretary of the society, sends the following comment with the announcement: "The grounds of Mr. Burke's home are an example of neatness and horticultural skill. Flower beds are free of disease and weeds. A border of evergreens demonstrates what can be accomplished by intelligent effort. Each specimen shrub stands out to perfection. Lawns are neatly trimmed and in exceptionally good condition.

When you realize that the winner this year is in his 80th year, something of the work he accomplished can best be judged by seeing this attractive exhibit.

As the route of the Scenic Drive is 17 miles, it will be appreciated that awarding the trophy is a major concern, requiring hours of patient inspecting and selection, weeding out those home surroundings to arrive at what the committee singles out as best.

Many beautiful homes lining the entire 17 miles in the city made competition keen. Many of the new home owners give promise of decided improvement next year.

The Board of Education trophy is again awarded to Queen Mary Public School."

First Inning—Dodgers

Maglie's first pitch to Furillo was a slow curve that broke outside for a called ball. Furillo was caught looking at a third strike a fast ball that nipped the outside corner. Reese walked on a three-and-one pitch. Snider walked on four pitches. Robinson lined a single past Thomson into left field scoring Reese and sending Snider to second. Manager Leo Durocher went out to talk with his pitcher. Pafko sent a dribbler down the third-base line to Thomson who stepped on third forcing Snider, but his throw was to late to double up Pafko. Robinson moved to second on the force-out. Hodges fouled to Thomson.

One run, one hit, no errors, two left.

First Inning—Giants

No runs, no hits, no errors, none left.

Second Inning—Dodgers

Cox tapped a bouncer back to Maglie who threw him out. Walker went down swinging. Newcombe popped to Thomson.

No runs, no hits, no errors, none left.

Second Inning—Giants

Reese went to his right for Irvin's hard grounder and threw to Hodges for the out. Lockman singled for Giants' first hit. Thomson singled sharply into left field sending Lockman to second. Thomson, running with his head down, didn't realize that Lockman had stopped at second and headed for that bag only to find Lockman occupying it. He retraced his steps back to first but was an easy out. Pafko made a nice running catch of Mays' long drive.

No runs, two hits, no errors, one left.

Third Inning—Dodgers

It was so dark that the lights had to be turned on as Dodgers came to bat. Maglie fielded Furillo's tap and threw him out. Reese fouled to Lockman. Snider struck out.

No runs, no hits, no errors, none left.

Third Inning—Giants

Westrum walked on a full count. It was Westrum's 100th walk of the season. Maglie, attempting to bunt, missed a pitch, fouled off another, then bunted to Newcombe who threw to Reese to force Westrum at second. Westrum came in hard to send Reese sprawling but he held onto the ball. Cox made a brilliant stop of Stanky's one-bounce smash and started a double play, the third baseman to Robinson to Hodges.

No runs, no hits, no errors, none left.

Fourth Inning, Dodgers

Stanky fielded Robinson's hopper and made an accurate off-balance throw to Lockman to nip the runner.

Pafko struck out swinging.

Hodges hit one on the ground to Thomson who threw him out easily.

No runs, no hits, no errors, none left.

Fourth Inning—Giants

Dark popped to Robinson. Hodges made a leaping catch of Mueller's liner. Irvin bounded out.

No runs, no hits, no errors, none left.

Fifth Inning—Dodgers

Cox bunted and beat it out for a hit. Maglie's hurried throw bounced by Lockman but Stanky recovered it in time to hold Cox at first. Walker struck out. It was Maglie's fifth strikeout. Lockman made a fine pickup of Newcombe's chopper and threw to Dark to force Cox at second. Irvin made a running catch of Furillo's pop behind short.

No runs, one hit, no errors, none left.

Fifth Inning—Giants

Reese made a gloved-hand stop of Lockman's one-bounce smash and threw him out. Thomson shot a double inside the third base line, reaching second ahead of Pafko's throw. Newcombe, who hasn't fanned a man up to this point, appears to be throwing nothing but fast balls now. Carl Erskine, another righthander, joined righthander Ralph Branca in the Dodger bullpen. Mays went down swinging at fast third strike. Manager Dressen went out to confer with Newcombe. It was Newcombe's fourth assignment on the mount in eight days. Westrum was given an intentional pass. Reese gobbled up Maglie's bounder and threw him out.

No runs, one hit, no errors, two left.

Farm Income Up $385 Million During 6 Months

OTTAWA, Oct. 3 — (CP). — Canadian farmers reaped a record $1,245,700,000 in cash during the first six months of 1951, the Bureau of Statistics reported on Tuesday.

Part of the income climb resulted from a special $65,000,000 Federal payment to Canadian wheat farmers to clean up a controversial four-year Anglo-Canadian wheat deal.

The half-year cash income was $358,581,000 higher than the $887,119,000 in the first six months of 1950, and a jump of $160,200,00 from the previous high of $1,085,500,000 in 1949.

Besides final wheat-pool payments, factors which attributed to the record were heavier marketings of grain and all-time high prices for Canadian livestock.

In addition, Federal aid to the drought-stricken farmers totalled $9,300,000, down from last year's $13,500,000.

All provinces, with the exception of Newfoundland, which was not included in the report, shared in the higher cash income. Ontario led with $392,926,000, up form $333,444,000 in 1950, but the biggest climbs were on the Prairies.

Cash income to farmers in Saskatchewan jumped to $248,627,000 from $112,294,000; in Manitoba to $108,633,000 from $52,674,000, and in Alberta to $203,978,000 from $137,428,000.

Other provincial estimates with the corresponding six months total in 1950 in brackets: British Columbia $42,049,000 ($37,227,000), Prince Edward Island $13,084,000 ($11,796,000), Nova Scotia $22,186,000 ($17,997,000), New Brunswick $22,192,000 ($20,945,000), Quebec $192,018,000 ($163,319,000).

Congress Considers New Seaway Plan

WASHINGTON, Oct. 3 (AP)—The House of Representatives public works committee, which last August pigeon-holed all bills then pending to authorize the St. Lawrence seaway and power project, resumes consideration of a new measure Thursday.

At that time, Chairman Charles A. Buckley (Dem. NY) told a reporter, proponents of the long-disputed legislation will be allowed two hours to testify in its behalf.

The newest bill followed swiftly in the wake of a White House conference between President Truman and Prime Minister St. Laurent of Canada.

Brakes Fail, Car 3 Bikes, Pole Tangle

Three bicycles, a car and a hydro pole were damaged Tuesday at 5 p.m. when the car's brakes failed to respond. Driver of the car was Isolino Gagliardi, 541 Donegal St.

Gagliardi was driving east on Albert St. and near Park St., when he applied his brakes for a line of traffic ahead of him. The brakes failed, and Gagliardi swung right to miss the car ahead.

When he turned right, Gagliardi hit the hydro pole, and the rear wheels of three bicycles. Bicycle riders were James Rogers, 486 Rose Ave., Bert Davis, 716 Park St. S., and Robert Orr, 282 McFarlane Ave. Davis and Gagliardi received slight bruises.

Constable Ed Niziol investigated.

Walter Steer, 429 Arndon Ave., driving behind the second car, followed it and got the licence number. The car is registered in the name of A. G. Stock, RR 8, Peterborough.

Joiner had been driving north on Park St. when the other car, westbound on Lansdowne, turned south on Park and hit the left rear fender of Joiner's car.

RARE SPECIMEN VANISHES

The reporters of the Examiner find that at this time of year readers bring in the strangest array of bugs and so forth. We have identified most of them through the years — praying mantis, luna moths, strange looking cocoons, spiders of all sizes. But taxi driver Bob Woodgate had us stumped this morning. His contribution to our bug department was out of this world. An insect about three inches long with the legs of a grasshopper and the body and feelers of a small lobster. It waved its long whip antennas in a friendly fashion, didn't jump, squeak or nuthin', until it hopped from the second window of the editorial room to the street below and what it was we'll never know.

French Retreat Before Rebels

SAIGON, Indo-China, Oct. 3—(CP)—French army headquarters announced tonight the evacuation of Binhlu as Communist-led Vietminh troops smashed to within 30 miles of Laichau, capital of that federation, in their first fall offensive.

The army communique said that French forces were compelled to evacuate another unidentified outpost nine miles northeast of Nghialo, as 12 Vietminh battalions stabbed into the remote northwest corner of Indo-China.

Vietminh troops were breaking out of the Red River Valley westwards towards the region 150 miles northwest of Manoi.

Headquarters said the rebel force has invaded the Thai country of northwest Tonkin, and that two sprawling columns had reached ridges defending Laichau.

The Thai district of Indo-China is south of China's Yunnan Province. Laichau is 32 miles south of the Chinese border.

377 pickets on the line at 7.30 Tuesday morning," he commented. "We have six four-hour shifts operating."

The wildcat strike threatens to halt production within a few days.

Members of Local 240, United Auto Workers (CCL) maintained a token picket line at entrances to the main office building on Sandwich Street through the night but made no attempt to stop hourly-rated employees from entering.

Although auto workers belonging to Local 200 of the big union are continuing work, their leaders make no bones about the fact that their sympathies are with the striking workers. They have said, however, that there will be no sympathy demonstration on the part of Local 200.

Temporary offices have been set up in the Prince Edward Hotel by management of the automobile plant but this is in a makeshift arrangement for handling mail, telegrams and other communications.

Communication into the plant from outside is almost completely cut off. Switchboard operators are either respecting the picket line or are actively engaged on it.

Although the striking workers have said their strike is due to promotion and demotion grievances over a long period of time, the immediate cause is the dismissal of one man and the demotion of two others.

Burma Bans

Meanwhile explosions on the China-Burma border have reverberated inside the rebel-torn country. The situation has become worse in the last few weeks.

One American source said the banding together of all of Burma's rebel factions makes the new situation specially difficult.

The source said the new pattern of operations shows shrewd planning.

(Estimates of the Chinese Communist situation at Hong Kong do not agree with this appraisal. Best information there is that the Chinese Communists have not enough force in Yunnan for an operation against Burma or to throw the balance to Burmese Communists.)

Sources usually considered sober-minded are inclined to accept the rebel boast that they now are receiving limited active help from the Reds across the border. Burmese Communists now are openly saying their one objective is the conquest of Rangoon and seizure of power.

Dollar Unchanged

MONTREAL, Oct. 3 (CP)—The American dollar today opened at 5 7/16 per cent premium to the Canadian dollar, unchanged from Tuesday's close. That is, it took $1.05 7/16 Canadian to buy $1 American.

The pound sterling was $2.95¼, also unchanged.

Steels, refining oils and constructions paced the market with a wide list of gains ranging to the $3 jump of Dominion Bridge. Papers, foods, banks and manufacturing companies turned mixed. Utilities, agricultures, and textiles dipped slightly.

Western oils climbed strongly to another record high. Ajax Petroleum, Del Rio, Gridoil, Home Oil, General Petroleum A, New British Dominions, Royalite, Selburn and Sapphire posted advances to about 50 cents.

Base metals edged slowly upward. Falconbridge, International Nickel, and Pend Oreille added fractions. Anacon Lead, Coast Copper, Labrador, Mindamar, Quebec Manitou, and Van Roi showed gains to 50 cents. Barvue, Minda Scotia, United Keno Hill and Waite Amulet eased.

Senior golds strengthened. Juniors held firm while prespects turned mixed and holding companies weakened.

"I do not think that there is any quick and easy method of procuring total security," he said.

Reds halted UN attacks in the west, recapturing a towering peak in the east, and probed Allied positions in the centre. The steady pounding continued Wednesday.

A general headquarters communique from Tokyo reported an estimated Red battalion, close to 1,000 men, launched a probing attack in the west-central sector and was still attacking at dawn Wednesday.

Front-line dispatches reported the Reds held off a three-pronged Allied assault in this sector west of Chorwon.

Another assault from the south was stalled just below the crest. Opposing infantrymen were within hand grenade range of each other.

On the fringe of the barrage sector, British Commonwealth troops fought a series of sharp hand-to-hand actions with Chinese.

Others Leaving

Simultaneously, today, about 350 Indian and Pakistani employees of Anglo-Iranian are due to leave from Khorramshahr, main Iranian port seven miles from Abadan.

About a score of Britons, including the two top men here, Alex Mason and Kenneth Ross, will remain in Abadan until Thursday, when they are expected to fly out.

When today's contingent reaches Basra about half will board planes immediately for Britain. The others will stay overnight.

(In Basra, the manager of the overcrowded airport hotel said he had turned writing and reading rooms into bedrooms to accommodate the oilmen. "But many will have to sleep on the roof or in the garden," he said.)

The evacuation was a sad and solemn affair.

The evacuees privately said this was one of Britain's most humiliation moments.

Iran now lays claim to oil riches which the country had granted to Britain under a royalty agreement which was to have lasted until 1993.

Baking Firms Convicted For Combine

Three Major Groups In West Fined $10,000, Heavy Costs

CALGARY, Oct. 3. (CP)—Six western baking firms on Tuesday were convicted of operating a combine for a 17-year period up to 1950 and the three major groups were fined $10,000 each plus heavy court costs.

Mr. Justice Boyd McBride handed down the judgment at Criminal Assizes of the Alberta Supreme Court to end the longest proceeding in Alberta judicial records. He delivered a scathing denunciation of the "dishonest trickery" carried out by the firms.

He said they were more interested in price than in quality, service and salesmanship. The maximum fine of $10,000 he was empowered to impose was "quite inadequate."

Penalties Imposed

McGavin Bakeries, Limited, Winnipeg, $8,000; McGavin, Limited, head office, Edmonton, $1,000; McGavin, Limited, registered office, Vancouver, $1,000.

Canadian Bakeries Limited of Calgary, $10,000; Weston Bread and Cake (Canada) Limited, Winnipeg, $9,000; Edmonton City Baking Limited, a Weston subsidiary, $1,000.

McGavin, Canadian Bakeries Limited and Weston were ordered to pay 33⅓ per cent each of the court expenses, which were expected to form the heaviest part of the total penalty Harold W. Riley of Calgary, crown counsel, said it would be "terrific."

Defence counsel are considering an appeal.

The companies were convicted of conspiracy unduly to prevent or lessen competition in the baking industry in Alberta, Saskatchewan and British Columbia.

Fraudulent System

Mr. Justice McBride said the baking corporations, exercising effective control over the degenerated Master Bakers Associations in the three provinces, uses a "fraudulent system of misrepresentation, fraud and plunder" to further their own ends.

He said the Master Bakers Associations, once they were under the control of the corporations, worked to fix and maintain uniform prices, arbitrarily raised or lowered from time to time.

He was satisfied that as a result of the criminal conduct of the corporations the public was mulcted of "very substantial sums of money, both during the years of hard times and war times for bread, a vital foodstuff.

"Small independent bakers who displayed any intention of not 'keeping in line' were coaxed, cajoled and coerced. . . to abandon any independent action and to accept the association's policies and the dictated uniform price structure in existence for the time being."

Control was not confined to the wholesale and shipping levels but had been used against large and small retailers who refused to fix prices.

Methods used included refusal of supply, dissuading other bakers willing to fill the needs, illegitimate use of Alberta government stationery and appeals to various government departments to compel the stores to maintain the chain bakers' uniform price structure.

Not Willing To Risk War Over Technicians

SCARBOROUGH, England, Oct. 3 (AP)—Foreign Secretary Herbert Morrison said today that the Labor Government was not willing to go to war to keep its oil technicians in Iran.

He spoke at the annual Labor party conference.

Replying to a charge Tuesday night by Conservative Leader Winston Churchill that the government broke its pledge to hold the refinery at Abadan, Morrison said:

"It is easy to get into a war if you want to, but not always easy to get out of it, and you cannot always see where it is going to lead you.

"As long as I am foreign secretary, I am perfectly willing to act in accordance with the facts and needs of our country.

Take Every Precaution

"But I will not be a party to a war which is not necessary and can possibly be avoided.

Mr. Churchill said Tuesday night, the Prime Minister (Clement Attlee) had broken his word and that he had said he intended to stay in the southern part of Persia (Iran) with, at any rate, a hard core of British technicians and oil men.

"The prime minister did say so, and that was our intention, and we would have preferred it to be so.

"But what he did not say was that he would use force in keeping our people in Abadan. He did not say that."

Morrison challenged Churchill to "tell us whether in his judgment we should have gone to war with Persia (Iran) or not."

Minister Fined

WINDSOR, Oct. 3 (CP)—There are no special dispensations for clergymen in traffic court here when it comes to speeding violations. The Rev. R. O. D. Salmon of Windsor discovered this Tuesday when he was fined $25 and costs for travelling 70 miles an hour on a county highway.

Princess Has Professional To Fly Her To Dominion

By ALVIN J. STEINKOPF

LONDON, Oct. 3 (AP)—When Princess Elizabeth and the Duke of Edinburgh arranged a Trans-Atlantic flight to start their Canadian tour they really picked a professional pilot.

In charge of the flight, to start from the London airport at 12:30 am Monday, is the most methodical and careful of pilots—Britain's O. P. (Oscar Philip) Jones.

Should the Princess and Duke ask him what an Atlantic crossing is like he will be able to tell them nothing of special interest happened on his first 250 air journeys to North America.

He has had more adventure flying over the English Channel, but he has done that more than 7,000 times. For years he crossed the Channel several times a day.

Dean of Pilots

Capt. Jones, 53, is the dean of pilots of the British Overseas Airways Corporation.

Since 1917 he has flown more than 3,000,000 miles, something like 120 times around the earth. He figures he has been up in the air about two years.

Jones, distinguished by his sharply-pointed goatee, said the Princess' crossing to Montreal will be for him quite an ordinary flight.

But others, not in the plane, will be checking its progress with the utmost concern. The Royal Navy will have its vessels "in the right places" in the eastern half of the Atlantic, and the RCN will have craft suitably disposed in the western half.

"Of course everyone is alerted, and as it's being worked out naval and merchant vessels will be in solid radio contact with the Princess' plane all the way across," an Admiralty spokesman said.

These precautions are outside the sphere of Capt. Jones, whose concern is the plane. With him will be two other officers able to pilot the Stratocruiser, a second captain and a first officer of flight, a radio operator, a navigator and two engineers.

To look after the comfort of passengers will be three stewards and a stewardess. So Capt. Jones' team will be 11 counting himself.

Father Of Six Needn't Pay Poll Tax

LINDSAY, Oct. 3—The case of a father and six children who was paying poll tax was dealt with by Lindsay council at its October meeting and the tax collector was authorized to strike the man's name from the list.

The Lindsay poll tax law states that any man who is not a tenant of at least two rooms has to pay poll tax regardless of whether he is married or single.

Tax Collector F. W. Williamson told council that since the man was renting only one room and had no rent receipts his name could not be taken off the list without council's permission.

Cigarettes Stolen In Lindsay Breakin

LINDSAY, Oct. 3—An unknown quantity of cigarettes was stolen from a Lindsay refreshment booth operated by Fred Stroud on Adelaide Street north early Tuesday morning. The thieves entered by forcing a door of the booth with a screwdriver which was found at the scene together with a flashlight.

This is the second breakin reported in Lindsay so far this week.

On the night of September 30, the office of J. G. Baldwin Coal and Wood Co. on Lindsay St., north was broken into through a rear window. However the office safe was not opened and nothing appeared to have been taken.

Lindsay police are investigating both incidents.

Cobourg Lops New School Cost

COBOURG, Oct. 3 — (ENS) — In sharp contrast to the former estimate of $419,000 the public school board formally advised council last night that it proposed to build an east end school at a cost of $280,000.

The board asked council to prepare the necessary bylaw upon which the ratepayers could vote in December. The town clerk estimated that cost of the school plus operation would mean an increase in the tax rate of seven mills.

Had the larger figure been adhered to and eventually passed, the boost in the rate would have been around ten mills.

Council authorized issuance of a cheque for $9,100 to Chief of Police W. J. Carey for purchase of his land as a site for the new school.

Teachers, Trustees To Hold Meeting

First meeting of the long-discussed teacher-trustee committee will probably be November 22. But it must first be approved at the October 11 meeting of the Board of Education.

Tuesday night the Board's members on the committee met to iron out some of the minor wrinkles, and they reported considerable progress. The agenda and the scope of the committee are two of the major problems.

The committee has been approved by the trustees in the belief it will achieve greater cooperation between the board and the teachers. And the trustees feel they will get the benfit of the teachers' experience by discussing problems first hand.

Included in the committee are the chairmen of the board's various committees, the three administrative heads and two representatives from each of the teachers' federations.

DUNDAS, Ont., Oct. 3 (CP).—Six Hamilton and district youths ranging in age from 16 to 21 years, were remanded one week for sentence, when they appeared Tuesday on a total of 61 charges of theft.

Painful Cramps of "Monthly Periods" halted or strikingly relieved in 3 out of 4 cases in doctors' own tests:

• Women and girls who suffer from those functionally-caused cramps, backaches and headaches of menstruation — who feel upset and irritable on certain "particular days" — may often be suffering quite unnecessarily!

Such is the conclusion from tests by doctors in which Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound gave complete or striking relief from such distress in 3 out of 4 of the cases tested!

Modern in action!

Yes! Medical evidence shows Lydia Pinkham's Compound is thoroughly modern in action. It strikes directly at t cause of menstrual pain!

The effectiveness of Lydia Pinkham's needs no proof to the millions of women and girls whom it has benefited. But how about you? Do you know what it may do for you?

Take Lydia Pinkham's through the month. See if you don't get the same relief from the pains and weakness of "those days"! See if you don't feel better before and during your period!

Lydia Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is grand, too, for those "hot flashes" and nervous feelings so common in "change of life"!

Don't suffer needlessly . . . when relief may be so near! Get Lydia Pinkham's!

Lydia Pinkham's has a quieting effect on the uterine contractions (see chart) which often cause menstrual pain!

Ontario Sanctions Pension Plan

The Ontario Legislature held a four-day special session last week for the sole purpose of passing legislation to provide for old age pensions on a joint Federal-Provincial basis. One bill gives the government power to make final agreements with Ottawa for pensions to all over the age of seventy, the other for pensions to the needy between 65 and 69. The Federal Government will pay the entire cost of the Old Age Pensions; the Province and the Dominion will share equally the cost of providing pensions to those who need them between the ages of [illegible] and 69.

* * *

The pension rate will be the same for both categories; the difference is that people of seventy or older get the pensions on application and regardless of need; those between 65 and 69 get them only after a means test. The pension is $40 a month; the allowable income before pensions are paid the 65-69 age group is $240 a year. There are two points worth emphasis about the pensions for this group. It is the first time people under 70 have become eligible for an old age pension; and the allowable income before pension is paid is raised from $120 a year (the limit previously allowed pensioners aged seventy or over) to $240.

* * *

Federal pensions legislation is in a curious state of suspension at the moment. At the last session of Parliament, enabling legislation was passed on the assistance pensions (for those of 65 to 69); this has made possible Provincial legislation, and that is why one after another various Provincial legislatures are holding short special sessions. But there has been no Federal legislation to provide the universal old age pensions to persons of seventy or over. Nevertheless, the application forms have been sent out and the pensions promised. The reason for the delay is that the Federal Government had not decided by June how it would raise the money for the pensions. This must be one of the first items of business when the next session convenes in Ottawa.

* * *

Why has Ontario been able to pass the bills in a very brief session? How is it planning to raise the money? There is no problem for Ontario. In the first place the Province is paying nothing towards the Old Age Pensions; it is paying half the cost of the old age "assistance". Ontario really does not have to find extra money. At present the Province is paying a quarter of the cost of the $40-a-month old age pensions to those in need aged 70 or over. Under the new plan Ontario will pay none of it. Instead, it becomes liable to pay half the cost of pensions to those in need aged 65-69. This will probably cost the Province less than the 25 per cent. share of the present pensions. And if it should cost a little more—well the Frost Government has had very big surpluses for the last several years.

* * *

The problem for Ottawa is different. It is assuming from now to eternity the entire heavy cost of pensions for every person in this country who reaches the age of seventy. Special funds are needed and vast sums of money. The Ottawa surpluses are very large, and could, this year, probably provide the extra money required. But there will not always be surpluses, and Ottawa will always have to pay the pensions. Thus a special fund is needed. The best way to get that fund has yet to be decided. This is sure; it will come out of wage earners and tax payers.

Law Or A Sense Of Propriety?

President Truman has made the proposal that the U.S. Congress should pass a law compelling its own members, cabinet ministers, top civil servants, generals, admirals, judges, and leaders of political organizations to make a public statement each year of their total income, including gifts, loans and commissions. The President suggests this as a means of checking improper practices.

As an example of the kind of improper practices he refers to, we cite the case of the chairman of the Democratic national organization who has, while in that office, accepted profitable legal business from government agencies; he says that as a lawyer he is within his rights.

Of course he is within his rights, but as Mr. Truman and Governor Dewey have been pointing out, it is improper for him to behave in this manner, and his action brings the organization of which he is the leader into disrepute. There are other, far more disagreeable instances of near-graft and semi-corruption; and we understand the desire of some of the U.S. political leaders to clean up this aspect of politics.

It is a question, however, whether the sort of law Mr. Truman suggests would do it. Getting around laws is not too difficult for people who are determined to be crooks and to seek personal gain in public business. What is wanted is a deeper sense of propriety on the part of men in public office. Probably few of the men who are behaving in the way which scandalizes the President are out-and-out crooks; they are more likely to be men with a base concept of public life, and a notion that scrupulousness and stupidity are akin. A change of opinion should not be impossible.

Graft and political chicanery of this sort are not unknown in Canada or Britain, but they are unknown on a day-to-day level. We must not be conceited about it, but we may be thankful that a tradition of political propriety is part of our heritage.

Magistrate's Delicate Problem

It cannot have been easy for Magistrate Felix Allard, of Amos, Quebec, to weigh the rights and wrongs of the case against the Rev. J. Alfred Roy, who pleaded guilty to interfering with mail addressed to Baptists in the district. Father Roy was fined $100, and his accomplice, the postmaster's sixteen-year-old daughter, was given suspended sentence.

Ordinarily such a sentence would seem very light. Unless the mails are guarded with the utmost care abuses of every kind may become prevalent. Businessmen might secure the services of venal postal employees to destroy the mail-order catalogues of rival firms; newspapers might contrive the non-delivery of competing papers; lovers might buy letters addressed to their adored ones by competitors for her hand. But the special situation involving the Baptists in Quebec is a tricky one, and Magistrate Allard was wise to deal gently with this offence.

The Protestant minorities in Quebec appear to exist, on the whole, amicably in large and small communities where the majority is Roman Catholic. We do not hear of the Anglicans, the Presbyterians or the United Church having brushes with authority, or suffering indignities from hoodlums. But some Baptists of independent factions and the Jehovah Witness sect have had trouble, and some of it seems to have been of their own seeking. They have, in the expressive Irish phrase, been trailing the tail of their coat. Those who ask for trouble rarely have any difficulty in finding it.

The fine imposed upon Father Roy is a warning that the law will not wink at persecution. If there are further instances of persecution the law will have to speak with a stronger voice. But, when consideration is given to the special regard in which priests are held in Quebec, it appears that for the present Magistrate Allard has said enough, and has avoided the great danger of saying too much.

Low Rentals

Considerable local interest is attached to the investigation and planning of Alderman Hugh Waddell's special committee on additional housing. Such questions as these confront it; and the public will want to know what answers they find: How large is the need for more houses? How many can be built under the Federal-Provincial assistance scheme? (According to Premier Frost's statement in June, Peterborough's allocation would have been a maximum of 65 houses; now the municipal authorities are talking in terms of a hundred.) Where should these houses be built: in a completely new housing section (east of Little Lake, for instance) or in parcels of vacant land around the city (as Mayor Whitton of Ottawa has suggested for her city)? And the biggest question of all is: how much will the houses cost to build and what would their rental be?

When the Federal-Provincial aid plan was announced the cost of building each house was estimated to be between eight and nine thousand dollars. Now, a $9,000 house cannot be rented for a song, unless the governments subsidize them heavily. Interest (at 4% for example) on $9,000 amounts to $30 a month. In addition there are rates, upkeep costs and service charges, probably another $30 a month, to be taken into account. On what basis would rentals be fixed?

The special housing committee may look into recent house-building projects in the province where substantial houses have been put up at considerably less than $9,000. Owen Sound is an example. Another example is military housing. Married quarters—houses—for service men have been provided at rents ranging from $47 a month for those below the rank of sergeants, to $118 for brigadiers. These rents include fuel and electricity, which presumably any rental houses built in Peterborough would not. Despite such low average rents, the homes are self-sustaining and require no subsidy from the Federal treasury. As Owen Sound and these military estates show, new houses can be built at moderate costs, to rent and pay their way at relatively low rates.

Two Worlds In Pakistan

By ELIZABETH BALNEAVES

THE last hurricane lantern had been extinguished in the compound. I lay on a hard rope charpoy, gazing up at the young moon in the dark blue sky. The crushed petals of the chambeli flowers, scattered on my bedspread as a gesture of hospitality, gave out their sweet heady scent. Cocoon-like shapes topped the double line of charpoys in front of me, all facing towards the Holy City.

The whole family slept outside; it was cooler there, and there was less chance of being tormented by mosquitoes. Soon the jackals set up their weird howling, interspersed with the barking of the fierce Kabuli dogs outside some village.

This was the town of Dera Ismail Khan, on the right bank of the Indus in the North West Frontier of Pakistan, with the Takt-i-Suleiman, the throne of Solomon, rising in the far distance. Legend has it that the fabulous monarch sat there giving counsel to the world, and that he rested on its summit on his way back to Jerusalem with his Indian Princess so that she might take one last farewell of her native land.

THE Frontier districts were constituted in 1901 by Lord Curzon, then Viceroy, who wished to bring these turbulent areas more closely under control, and the five districts of Hazara, Peshawar, Kohat, Bunnu and Dera Ismail Khan became known as the North-West Frontier Province.

For many years the Tribal Belt of the Province, stretching over nearly 400 miles of wild and rocky territory, was a hot-bed of strife and unrest. Now, for the first time in history, a sense of unity is emerging among these brave, reckless and war-like people. Peace is the key-word on the Frontier today, and peaceful penetration of the Tribal Areas is the aim of the Pakistan Government. The tribesmen themselves consider that they are part of this new country, and are anxious to sample some of the benefits that civilization can bring them.

Sixty thousand acres in the Peshawar district, never before tilled, will come under the plough when the Warsak hydro-electric scheme in Mohammed territory is completed. A Frontier university has been established in Peshawar, and thirty adult education centres and thirty-six primary schools are to be opened in Tribal Areas.

THESE are among the many signs of the new currents that are breaking through the traditional Muslim structure of social and family life in Pakistan. The country, after struggling with the fearful upheavals that followed partition, has embarked now on a difficult transition stage. The more enlightened Pakistanis have accepted European standards and ways of living, but the vast majority, uninformed and ill-educated, cling to the rigid Islamic laws of their forefathers.

Here in Dera Ismail Khan, in the house of Ghulam Haider, a small farmer, I was living in a family where the old codes and customs still prevailed. My host owned a group of three two-roomed houses, each within a walled compound, communicating one with the other. The houses were entered by huge double doors of a light wood, covered with intricate carving, almost Byzantine in design. The whole compound was scrupulously clean, with its tiny sunk garden where the hard green limes would ripen, its line of glistening aluminium cooking pots strung out on a line to dry in the sun.

In one corner an ox and a donkey circled endlessly, trampling out the wheat; and a baby lay in a square cradle, rather like a child's swing, hanging from the branch of a tree. At one side of the house was a room set apart for male visitors, for on the Frontier strict Pudah is observed and no woman will be seen without a burqa, the white, tent-like garment draping her from head to foot.

TO one of the three houses there came every year the same family of nomadic gypsies on their annual trek from Afghanistan; great tall men in black turbans and rich velvet waistcoats, fastened with silver buttons looped together with thin chains, and shy, lovely women, their hair an intricate arrangement of tiny plaits, the folds of their wide skirts giving them a statuesque, plastic beauty. Durkhana Bano, the matriarch of the tribe, was a wonderful old lady with the presence of a Sybil Thorndike and the grace of a Fonteyn. She walked easily with the spring of a young girl, and danced for me the Kabuli dances, not unlike our own Scottish ones.

She never tired of extolling the beauty of her native land, her eyes flashing, her swift hands gesturing out of the wide sleeves as she talked of its mountains, its fruits, rushing streams and tall trees. She had the soul of a poet, and would break off every now and then and croon, "Khorassan, ah Khorassan!" One day she brought me, as a special treat, goat's milk, ten months old.

IN the morning we set out to see the town. Part of our way led through street after street of empty, abandoned houses, with tilting fretwork of balcony and veranda, and here and there a blank space, or a heap of rubble like a bombed site. My host's sons shrugged their shoulders. "They used to be Hindu houses." In the rioting and massacres that followed partition their Hindu occupants had fled. It was like a city of the dead, with only the scavenging pi-dogs, and the kites drifting slowly above, like great pieces of burnt paper in the sky.

The cantonment, once the pride of Indian Army cavalry, was another scene of desertion and decay. Bungalows sprawled empty and neglected behind barbed-wire entanglements. The gardens rioted in a wild profusion of weeds and plants, with here and there a splash of colour from some flower gone to seed. Wasps' nests clustered in the eaves of the veranda, and windows gaped like broken teeth.

The lines themselves were mere shells of buildings, the parade grounds dotted with skeletons of armoured cars and trucks. The wooden horse once used for polo practice stood forlornly, up to its hocks in rank grass. Beyond, lay the Indus, with its great boat-bridge, its waters yellow, swollen with snows from the distant Himalayas.

WE turned back to the town, saddened a little at the inescapable evidence of the price of independence. In the bazaar, we sat in a tiny tea-shop drinking innumerable cups of green tea, talking interminably of the past and of the brave new future.

Pakistan has recently celebrated the fourth anniversary of her independence; and today from Peshawar, gateway of the Khyber, down through the wild belt of Tribal Territory, across the dry and scrubby stretches of the Sind Desert to Karachi, back to Lahore, the "Athens of the Punjab," and east to Chittagong, the green flag with its crescent moon and star flies proudly over this young country; a country which has already proved its worth, although at its inception it commanded little but the solidarity of a common religion and a fervent and unwavering national idealism, as the basis for a modern democratic State.

THE DIPLOMATIC CLASS OF '51

Understanding Delinquency

(MONTREAL STAR)

NOT long ago, commenting in the Montreal courts on the prevalence of crime among youth, Judge Fontaine said: "They seem to have forgotten what is wrong and what is right."

There was a note of despair in this, a puzzlement as to what was happening in the community. Were morals breaking down? Was the community in some way to blame? Had it failed to teach its youth the difference between right and wrong? There was no economic reason for an increase in crime; jobs were available to anyone willing to work. Yet crime increased. Why?

We have not yet found the answer here. The children of a community first take on the morals of their parents, then of the community itself. The blame, then, lies in some measure with these, for children are not evil by nature. Criminal tendencies are not inherited, they are learnt. They develop out of either a parental or social pattern.

An example of this conformity to a social pattern has just been put before us by Madame Tinayre-Grenaudier, the Paris lawyer who has been visiting the Bar in this country. France has had what might well be described as an epidemic of juvenile delinquency. This has been a problem ever since the end of the Great War, but since the end of the last war delinquency has assumed much more serious proportions.

The reason is not far to seek. As Madame Tinayre-Grenaudier says, for five years of the German occupation people in all French circles lied to obtain food, clothing and shelter. This was not a moral breakdown in the ordinary sense. Moral values did not disappear, but certainly the edges of right and wrong were blunted. What was wrong in normal circumstances became the commonplace. More, it became the right thing to do in the circumstances. Social sanction condoned lying; it condoned theft if the theft was from the Germans, it condoned a whole range of actions that in other circumstances were punishable by the community.

It is understandable, then, that the children of France, hearing their parents lie, knowing that they stole on occasion, bought on the black market, employed subterfuge, should themselves fall into this pattern of behaviour. No amount of precept could counteract this practice.

So France today has on its hands a whole generation of children to whom new moral values must be taught. It is not enough to take a juvenile delinquent into court and send him to a correction centre if he did something which in childhood he was taught to believe was not wrong. The community is responsible in this case and it is up to the community to do something about it.

France does. It tries to raise the morale of these victims of war. They are not treated as criminals but as people needing rehabilitation. They are treated with understanding.

Letter To The Editor

ENJOYABLE MOTOR TRIP

Sir: Having returned from a motor trip of nearly 800 miles extending from Stony Lake, Peterborough, via Lindsay, Minden, Callander, Corbeil, North Bay thence to Pembroke, Ottawa, Prescott, Brockville then along the new highway to Gananoque, Belleville, Marmora and home, I am more confident that Peterborough County has so much more to induce tourist business than is being made use of to the best advantages. The only poor road condition we encountered was our own Stony Lake highway. Several times in different ways and through different sources, I have put it before the public, that there should be a public park, varying in size, according to the needs and location for every lake of any size in this Kawartha section and those parks partly purchased by the resort license fees paid by resort owners and that money held in the locality from whence it is obtained. The lakes of thickly populated sections are being depleted of the necessary supply of fish, with which, to induce and satisfy the average tourist therefore our own travelling public should be able to seek public grounds on many lakes.

The above trip can be made with safety and pleasure along with suitable time and small expense and after enjoying it at this season, I wonder why this particular section, the Kawartha, had so few foreign travellers and all the rest had great numbers. From Stony Lake to Lindsay, we saw only three U.S. cars, from Lindsay to Huntsville 40, from there to North Bay 78, from there to Pembroke 64 and only 28 from there to Ottawa. From Ottawa clear to Belleville, we saw so many we got tired counting them. We saw none from Belleville to our home via Marmora. Such a record makes many wonder why the difference in tourist travel.

Recently, I saw an article comparing the tourist accommodations between various sections of this province but with that writer, he favoured others rather than this Kawartha section as having the better accommodations. I differ with that writer. Taking all resorts in comparison, I feel our scarcity of tourist business does not lie as a fault of the resorts in general. I contend, that, piracy in any walk of life along with the co-operation of the majority will destroy to a great degree regardless of accommodations and the legitimate efforts of others and in this case it applies to the legitimate efforts of our resort owners.

Bible Message

(From the Authorized Version)

And I, brethren, when I come to you, came not with excellency of speech or of wisdom, declaring unto you the testimony of God . . .

And my speech and my preaching was not with enticing words of man's wisdom, but in demonstration of the Spirit and of power: that your faith should not stand in the wisdom of man, but in the power of God . . .

For what man knoweth the things of a man, save the spirit of man which is in him? even so the things of God knoweth no man, but the Spirit of God.

Now we have received, not the spirit of the world, but the spirit which is of God; that we might know the things that are freely given to us of God. Which things also we speak, not in the words which man's wisdom teacheth, but which the Holy Ghost teacheth; comparing spiritual things with spiritual.

But the natural man receiveth not the things of the Spirit of God: for they are foolish unto him: neither can he know them, because they are spiritually discerned. (I Cor. 2:1, 4, 5, 11-14.)

Export Of Logs

(Sudbury Star)

If the authorities want to get the most for the citizens out of Ontario's forest wealth, one thing they should do is clamp a ban on the continuing export of unprocessed pulpwood logs.

Altogether too many cords are slipping across the International Boundary to the choppers of the United States' mills which are, in most instances, competing with our own pulp and paper mills, aside from newsprint, with all the tariff advantage on the side of the Americans.

The experts say that when a cord of unprocessed pulpwood is exported from Ontario it brings to this province a revenue of only about $15.

But, when that same cord of pulpwood is processed in a Canadian mill, the revenue total is between $75 and $100—including provision of employment of highly skilled Canadian workers.

The benefit to Canada spreads even further when one considers that the railways obtain higher revenues when the logs are processed here, since they receive higher rates for manufactured goods than for raw materials.

Traffic Crashes Above Average

Unless there is a considerable reduction in the number of accidents involving motor vehicles during the last half of this year as compared with the first six months of 1951, there will be a sharp increase in the number of accidents this year.

Statistics recently released by the Motor Vehicles Branch of the Ontario Department of Highways, reveal that there were 23,085 accidents in Ontario, causing $7,168,602 in property damage on Ontario roads, streets and highways between January and June of this year.

This is an overall increase for the province of 28.3 per cent as compared with the first six months of 1950.

By districts, the percentage of increase ranges from a high of 42.3 per cent more accidents in district 4, which includes Haldimand, Lincoln and Welland counties, to Nipissing and Temiskaming, in district 12, where there were 2.2 per cent less accidents than in the same period last year.

Up 9.4 Per Cent

In district 8, which takes in Peterborough, Haliburton, Victoria, Durham and Northumberland counties, there were 663 accidents involving motor vehicles during the six month period covered by the latest Department of Highway figures. This is an increase of 9.4 per cent over the same period last year.

Three hundred and eighty-four people were fatally injured in the first six months of 1951, as compared with 378 in the same period of 1950—an increase of 38.1 per cent.

More accidents occur on Saturday than any other day of the week, although Sunday runs a close second. The number of accidents on the other days of the week is just about evenly divided, with a few more on Fridays, as week-end traffic starts rolling.

There were 119 accidents at unguarded railway crossings during the period covered by the statistics—15 of them fatal, while there were 39 accidents at crossings where a signal system was in operation, seven of these being fatal crashes.

One hundred and forty-four of the 384 people killed up until the end of June were pedestrians. Of these, the greatest number, 27, were killed crossing the street between intersections. Twenty-three pedestrians were killed walking along highways.

Unclaimed Footwear Cobblers Headache

EDINBURGH — (CP) — Scotland's cobblers have applied through their union for a change in the laws governing shoe repairs. They are tired of unpaid bills.

It is estimated that boots and shoes worth more than £2,000,000 now await collection. Under present laws, repairers must keep unclaimed shoes for "seven years and a day" before they can be sold. When they are, the reparier must claim only the amount of repairs. The rest goes to the owner.

One small Edinburgh repairing firm is waiting for payment of £30. Some of the shoes left in the store belong to festival visitors who have already left town. "I have shoes here from practically every corner of the world," says the owner.

New Machine Makes Fine Sleds

THE PAS, Man.—(CP)—Electric power-saws and planers lend a modern touch to the sleigh and toboggan industry here, but the basic art is as old as the Northland itself.

The local industry operated by W. Lyons however is one of the few in Canada's Northland that still uses some primitive methods in manufacturing items of snow transportation.

Steaming and bending of sleigh runners and toboggan fronts for instance is done in much the same fashion used by early Indians and adventurers who explored the northern reaches in the 17th century.

Mr. Lyons has found that hand craftsmanship pays dividends. Famous dog mushers have been using his sleighs for years. He has filled orders from the Yukon, Northern Quebec and many parts of the United States and Alaska.

He learned the carpentering trade in Scotland and continued as a carpenter when he first came to Canada. He started making sleds and toboggans here when he was discharged from the Canadian army in 1914.

Eastern Style Of Lacrosse More Exciting, Rougher; Western Brand Said Better

By C. J. PERDUE, Examiner Sports Editor

VANCOUVER, Oct. 3.—There's a difference in the eastern and western styles of senior lacrosse. Westerners play better lacrosse, while eastern teams produce a more exciting brand. And rougher. This has been quite evident in the present Mann Cup series, even though some compromise on rule interpretations was made by the CLA before the series began. Vancouver and Victoria fans, shocked at first by the heavy checking and laying on of the wood in checking, soon took to the rugged display served up and hollered for more.

JOHNNY GODFREY

Combines Lighter Team

The Combines aren't as heavy a team as the Petes, but they are a little faster. And they play a wide-open running type of lacrosse, breaking speedily in a swarm down the floor, whipping the ball around and waiting for an opening to show near the enemy goal. They come back fast, too, to set up a strong zone defence.

The Petes have some fast steppers, also, but they prefer a slower, more cautious pace. A ball-carrier jogs up the floor looking for a mate to make a move before he passes the ball. They use their weight whenever possible going in or playing defensively. After losing possession, the Timbermen trot down the floor and form a horse-shoe defence outside their crease and give incoming rivals a rugged ride into the corners. They do not pass the ball as much as the Combines nor do they run as much or as hard.

Cleaner, Faster Game

Under the strictly Western style of play, cleaner and faster lacrosse results, with few injuries in a match. Eastern players use their extra poundage and check harder with body and stick. Hence, injuries are more common.

But fans the country over are bloodthirsty, and even those in the West are going in a big way for this present rugged series. The Combines, after the first game, began roughing it up more, too, and found the Petes more than willing to swap hard checks with them—and even the odd fist. Several of the Vancouver gutted-stick performers have suffered minor injuries in the first few games, and the Petes came through those stiff tests unscathed. The cash customers love the mixing, especially when their team is in front, and the Victoria arena management is trying to induce the teams to play an exhibition there after the series is over, guaranteeing all expenses.

The Petes believe that a travelling club in Mann Cup finals has to be some 25 per cent better than the home club to take the series. There is the trip first, then strange surroundings, a new floor to them, a change in climate, water, etc., and finally a hostile crowd and home refereeing. The same would apply to a Western club playing off in the East, they feel.

Johnny Godfrey Retires From Active Hockey

Both Petes and Legion hockey fans will notice a change when the two city Senior "B" teams clash this year at the Civic arena. The color, dash and spirit supplied by lanky Johnny Godfrey will be missing.

The kingpin of the Legion McGillis defence since the team was formed shortly after the war, Godfrey has officially retired from senior "B" hockey. But his years of experience, both semi-professional and amateur, will be retained, this year by the IOOF's Triple Link team.

A firm believer in building good senior teams with a good youthful hockey program, Godfrey will succed his former Petes mate, Bun Kingdom, as mentor of the junior "B" team.

Contacts Barrie

Already Godfrey has started working with his 1951-52 organization although there isn't ice to practice on yet. This week he journeyed to Barrie where he conferred with the Flyers' Hap Emms who is building his Junior "A" squad again this year.

So far there is only a verbal working agreement between the clubs and a willing counsellor for Godfrey in Barries' Emms.

To Peterborough, Belleville, and Kingston hockey fans, the Legion defenceman is well known, especially for his clean sportsmanship and dangerous slides across the ice to smother hot shots. Some fans believe that in his years Godfrey stopped more shots than his goalie-mates.

Johnny began his colorful career in 1932 when he was a member of the Ontario championship Toronto Marlboro bantams. He promptly moved up with the Toronto Young Rangers for a year in Junior "A" and then shifted northward.

When only 17 he joined the South Porcupine seniors and there roomed with Murph Chamberlain, former Toronto and Montreal NHL player. He again changed locations, this time to Copper Cliff where in 1937 he was with the team which was finalist to Winnipeg Monarchs in the Memorial Cup play.

World Champs

In 1938 the highlight of his playing career shone; he went overseas with the Sudbury Wolves, starred with the team, and won the world championship for Canada.

Press clippings kept for his scrap book, indicate that he was one of the stars of the Canadian entry. He scored the winning goal in overtime against Germany and picked up a goal and an assist in the first game with British team to mention only two games.

After that experience, Godfrey returned to North America and shortly after became a New York Rover in the Eastern Amateur league. There his career in professional hockey ended when his back was broken in an exhibition game.

His Peterborough hockey career began in 1940 with the Peterborough Hockey club. There he stayed until the Legion club, later McGillis, was formed after the war when he joined its ranks.

During that time he has become a favorite with both Petes and Legion-McGillis fans.

The Cardinals' B. Pogue rolled to high three and high single honors in the Ladies' City Bowling league this week with a high of 801 for the three and 322 for the single. The Cardinals' L. Vincent won the blind score (610) with a total of 615.

The Cardinals made it a triple win when they spilled the pins for the high pinnage for three games with 3,182. The fourth honors went to the Curtins', the high single game, with 1,140.

Roses Withdraw From Playoffs

BOWMANVILLE, Oct. 3 (CP). Bowmanville Roses have withdrawn from the Ontario Baseball Association intermediate playoffs, team president Al Osborne announced Tuesday night.

He said the action was taken because the OBA, meeting in Hamilton, ordered the Roses to meet Batawa in a semi-final series.

Batawa did not request entry into the OBA until after Sept. 9 although the deadline was July 15. The OBA several times rejected Batawa's request for special permission to enter the intermediate playoffs.

Meanwhile Bowmanville defeated a Toronto team and was preparing to meet the winner of a Crowland-Fergus series for the championship.

The decision to withdraw altogether from competition was made Tuesday night after the Roses received word that the OBA had reconsidered and wanted them to play Batawa instead.

Brewers Whip Montreal 4-2

MILWAUKEE, Oct. 3 (AP). — After tying the little world series at two games each with a 4-2 victory Tuesday night, Milwaukee Brewers will take the field against Montreal Royals tonight behind Ernie Johnson, best pitcher in the American Association.

Hamp Coleman is expected to work for the pennant winners and playoff champions of the International League.

The payoff blow Tuesday night was a 380-foot home run by Jim (Buzz) Clarkson. It came in the fifth inning and scored three runs.

The Brewers rapped three Montreal pitchers for eight hits and hung the loss on southpaw Chris Van Cuyk, his second of the series. The association champions chased in their other run in the fourth inning when Clarkson looped a double into left field and came home on Jim Basso's scorching two-base hit.

Dick Donovan allowed the Royals only six hits but gave up both runs in the sixth when Al Gionfriddo belted a fast ball over the 272-foot right field fence after Jim Gilliam had drawn a walk.

City Carpetball

At the last meeting of the League it was passed that the schedule for the 1951-52 season begin the week of October 8.

Following are the entries, their team number and the skips:

Glens 1, J. Douglas; Legion 2, A. Pilling; 2nd Armour Scouts No. 3, D. Barclay Jr.; Legion No. 4, G. Gimblett Sr.; S.O.E. 5, F. Parsons; Legion 6, D. Nichols; Quakers 7, G. Fulbrook; Legion 8, C. McPhee; Moose 9, G. Baird; Red Patch 10, Leo Herr; Legion 11, R. Smelt; St. George's 12, A. Sims; Fire Hall 13, G. Gimblett Jr.; L.O.L. 14, H. Lundy; Fire Hall 15, D. Bartley; Legion 16, T. Ryan.

Schedule for the week of October 8. First team is the home team. Glens 1, vs S.O.E. 5; Legion 2 vs Legion 6; 2nd Armour Scouts 3 vs Quakers 7; Legion 4 vs Legion 8; Fire Hall 13 vs Moose 9; Red Patch 10 vs L.O.L. 14; Legion 11 vs Fire Hall 15; St. George's 12 vs Legion 16.

Skips must contact each other to arrange the games.

For the team finishing on top of the first half there will be a special prize.

As there are sixteen teams entered it will take thirty weeks to complete a double schedule. So it is very important to play your game each week. According to the rules games must be played by the second week or they will be defaulted.

Draw tickets are printed and can be secured from A. Pilling or any member of his committee.

Score cards can be secured from the secretary of the league at the Fire Hall. There will also be some left at the Legion.

SPORTS SHOW WINDOW

By CEC. PERDUE, Sports Editor

VANCOUVER, Oct. 3.—Grim determination marks Coach Don Crowe and his senior lacrossers as they prepare for tonight's fifth Mann Cup playoff. Even, now this is the big one and they know they'll be facing a fast-stepping, determined bunch of Combines playing on their own floor at Kerrisdale Arena. A Peterborough win will establish them as big favorites for the title. A loss for them and their backs are right up against that well known wall. Because it appears as if all remaining games will be played on the Combines' floor. Despite a protest from the Petes.

* * * * * *

The CLA officials have been taking a terrific beating from the fans, players and press out here, and they deserve it. They've been wishy-washy over the whole series to date. And they're again bowing to the Western demands. They did that earlier on the faceoff rule, even coaxing the Timbermen to give it a try for the game in Victoria. Then they switched back to the Eastern method, which is the way it should be according to their own rule book. They changed refs at the request of the Combines and have a dandy in one Gord Folka. They booked the series for all over this part of British Columbia, then decided last week all remaining games would be at the Forum—even if it meant putting in the floor over the ice. And they've again had a change of heart, at Combines' kicking, to finally rule that all remaining games will be on Combines' floor at Kerrisdale. Pahdon, plizz, while we gently throw up.

* * * * * *

Yeah, the Combines are a crying club, born and bred in the peats and bogs of county Kerrisdale. They have a wailing wall there, too, and no doubt a large factory making crying towels. They refuse to go on the floor every once in a while, they stop play and meander over to their bench to discuss rules with their manager, they bicker away and ignore the referee's warnings, and they tell the all-powerful CLA where and when they will play in this series. Twice now they've threatened to forfeit the series and leave the officials and fans holding the bag. Excuse us again, we feel another sick spell coming on.

* * * * * *

Well, they've been getting their way and the Petes don't like it—but the Easterners will play where they are ordered. They're grimly determined to bring home the Cup and we think they will. Jerry Fitzgerald is coming along okay in hospital—and won't Metras be burned up when he hears? Nit O'Hearn has obtained permission from Eddie Shore to finish the series here. Good news. Don McPhail is replacing Fitz, though Combines kicked plenty at that too, claiming two replacements were all the Petes could have. CLA said no to that, surprisingly enough. Timbermen are in good shape and full of hustle, and they should win tonight if given half a break by the Western officials.

* * * * * *

The Sun and Province—the morning News-Herald belongs to the former—gave few details on the actual play in the fourth game. They spent a column or so condemning the CLA for making the poor Combines play on a slippery floor over ice. Dismissed the Petes' ability on the same floor by saying the Timbermen were slower and heavier, so that didn't bother them much. Hah, don't they say the bigger you are the harder you fall? Well, we told the Sun sports editor that we found Vancouver Combines the cryingest senior club we've seen in years. His answer was a non-committal grunt. Just "ugh". We also told him the Petes were getting the business—which they are.

* * * * * *

It's a well known lacrosse fact that Western clubs get a rough break in the East, and that Eastern teams don't fare too well out West. This shouldn't be, of course, as CLA rules should govern play all across the country. Same as the CAHA rules do in hockey. That's why BC teams rarely win the Mann Cup in Ontario, and why our clubs seldom do out here. St. Catharines did it 10 years ago and must be rated a superb squad. If the Petes take it this trip—and we feel that they will—they really rate orchids for a huge accomplishment against heavy odds. This is no alibi, and we blamed the Petes themselves for losing those two games to date. But it is a fact that you have to be super-dooper to come through under such circumstances.

* * * * * *

Some odds and ends ere game time: Money is starting to run low and the boys aren't buying so many souvenirs for the folks at home lately. Harry Tudhope expects to go home ere the week-end to give his staff some help. Ken Kingston plans to look up Dr. Reg. Frank in this city, also Jim Wilson, Bob MacKey, sales manager of a big BC bakery, drove several of us to the fourth game. We met Mrs. Lorne Archer there and she sent regards home to her friends; she used to be a hairdresser in Peterborough some seven years ago. Weather stays damp but quite mild. Doug Miller is worrying about his aldermanic duties but hates to go till this is over. Bob Peirson is planning a fishing trip for Saturday. Golly, when are we going to get home? Thanks, folks for the nice cards and telegrams; only wish we could be giving Peterborough hockey and football a shot in the pillar these days, too. Boys had luncheon yesterday as guests of the Vancouver golf club and later toured a huge lumber factory. That's all for now.

Evans Named Captain Of University Blues

TORONTO, Oct. 3 (CP). — Johnny Evans was named captain of the 1951 University of Toronto Blues Tuesday night in a unanimous vote of his fellow teammembers.

Evans, who has been a standout middle with the Blues the past three seasons, was recipient of the two major football honors after last season—the George M. Biggs Trophy for contributing most to university athletics through leadership, sportsmanship and performance; and the Johnny Copp Memorial Trophy for similar qualities on the football field.

Evans is in his final year of medicine and has been a member of the athletic directorate the past three years.

Meanwhile, coach Bob Masterson reduced his squad by eight Tuesday night. Four linemen from last season — Don Longmore, Harry Hyde, John MacKenzie and Bob Dougan—were cut, along with outside Ron Harrison and halfbacks Earl Ford, Ron Fleming and John Adams.

Wings Confident Hockey Season To Be Good One

By JOHN CURRAN

SAULT STE. MARIE, Mich., Oct. 3—(CP)—Detroit Red Wings formed a confident, high-riding hockey crew when they left their training camp here for Detroit to put on the final polish for the National Hockey League campaign.

To railbirds here, the defending NHL champions looked stronger than ever with a gang of eager young recruits ready to take over from the six players sold to Chicago Black Hawks during the summer for $75,000.

The Wings packed far too much power for their American Hockey League farm club, Indianapolis Capitals. They took four exhibition games from the Caps and won two from the Hawks, who trained at North Bay.

Very Pleased

"I'm immensely pleased with the spirit and skill the young fellows we plan to work into the team have shown thus far," manager Jack Adams said when the team moved to Detroit where it opens the scheduled season Oct. 11 against Boston Bruins.

"They've proven to me they deserve a chance to make good in the big time and they'll be given every opportunity to do so. We are counting heavily on them."

The Wings won the exhibition series with Indianapolis 5-0, 7-0, 10-1 and 4-2. Goalie Terry Sawchuck turned in 155 minutes of scoreless hockey before the Caps got a puck past him.

Same Nucleus

Despite the sale to Chicago and single-player deals with Montreal Canadiens and New York Rangers, the Wings have the same nucleus for a club as last season when they won the league crown with a six-point edge on Toronto Maple Leafs.

Sawchuk is back in goal. Leo Reise and Red Kelly are on defence. Up front there's the big line—Sid Abel, Ted Lindsay and Gordie Howe. Other regulars from last season are Metro Prystai, Marty Pavelich and Bob Goldham. Defenceman Marcel Pronovost and forward Glen Skov, who proved their worth in the last campaign, are back for their sophomore years. Then there's veteran Tony Leswick, a scrappy forward the Wings got from the Rangers for Gaye Stewart.

Two of the brightest new prospects are the Wilson brothers—John, a wingman, and Larry, a centre—who scored six goals between them in the first three preseason exhibition encounters. The brothers, who were born in Kincardine, Ont., played last year with the Capitals. They are expected to work on a line with Leswick.

Freddy Glover, a forward whose 48 goals were tops in the AHL last season, appears to have gained a spot on a line with Prystai and Pavelich. Benny Woit of Fort William, another Indianapolis graduate, also seems likely to catch a place on the team.

St. Peter's Edge Grove With Score In Last Minutes

Fleet Bob O'Rourke kept St. Peter's High Junior B team's victory string intact Tuesday by scoring a touchdown with only three minutes to go. Those points enabled the Saints to edge Grove of Lakefield 6-5 at Morrow Park in an exhibtion game. The win was the Saints' ninth straight in the past two seasons.

Although they lacked manpower, Grove easily outweighed the Saints along the line by 10 pounds, and had several heavies in the backfield, Bill Boyd and Robin Legate, who could plunge effectively.

But the Saints had the drive, pressing Grove throughout. The line was determined and came through when really needed, Chambers especially playing a spirited game. The backfield, although they did not enjoy the field day they had at Lindsay, were fair. Where they lacked the weight, they had speed.

Bob O'Rourke's shifty dashes through the line highlighted the Saints' backfield play with other spurts provided by Murray Byrne and Gord Snape.

The passing by both teams was bad. Altogether there were only eight passes completed, mostly by St. Peter's, who also had the most intercepted, four.

Edge In Kicking

In kicking the Saints had a definite edge with Frank McGillen's talented toe pushing Grove back time and again, especially in the first, third and fourth quarters. Ross, Grove's kicker, and best ground gainer, left midway through the second with a damaged leg.

Bil Boyd then took over the spirit-packed Grove after only two days of football practice. His kicking was particularly helpful in the last quarter when St. Peter's carried the play. His plunges were also effective.

Shifty Runner

Robin Legate was another threat along the ground for Grove. Several times St. Peter's allowed the lanky backfielder to get going and break into the open after shifting, weaving and dodging tacklers.

Andy Ross, Blake Uren, and Walke plunged in the first to keep the Saints from crossing as the punting of McGillen kept St. Peter's in Grove territory.

McGillen, early in the second, started the Saints pressing once more. A blocked kick resulted in Ross leaving the game and placed St. Peter's in position where McGillen punted to the five-yard line.

There Robin Legate broke through the centre of the Saints' line, side-stepped two tacklers, and weaved into the clear. With three Saints at his heels he galloped 100 yards for a touchdown. Boyd's convert attempt missed and left the score 5-0.

Called Back

In the third Boyd intercepted a Hickey pass and bucked his way to the Saints' 40-yard line before stopped. Legate again broke into the clear and crossed for a major score, but the play was called back and Grove Penalized 15 yards.

Snape intercepted a pass on the following play and went to the Grove 32. Hickey passed to John Magee for eight yards, followed by Ron Board plunging for seven yards. There Grove stamped out the threat.

Boyd with four minutes to go punted to O'Rourke who returned the kick 24 yards to the 16-yard line. In three runs, the speedy O'Rourke crossed for the major. John Hickey neatly passed to Ron Board for the extra point.

The lineups:

Grove — Flying wing, Uren; halves, Ross, Pearce, Legate; quarter, Ryder; snap, King; insides, Cole, Hellyer; middles, Gibaud, Powell; outsides, Kembar, McNaughton; alternates, Walks, Boyd, Rashleigh, Ramsay.

St. Peter's High— Flying wing, Whatman; halves, Byrnes, O'Rourke, McGillen; quarter, Hickey; snap, Chambers; insides, Gooley, Simmons; middles, Hull, LeBarr; outsides, Corkery, Magee; alternates, Snape, Chretien, Harrington, G. Simmons, Hurtubise, Feeley, Hickson, P. Byrne, and Kingdon.

Curling News

By HERB MARTIN

And now about our curling activities—and while we are writing about curling we do not wish to create the impression that we curlers are already curling—far from it. We are only organizing for it, and tonight we want to touch on the membership angle.

About two weeks ago secretary Ira Moore mailed an application to each 1950-51 member. The members know what this means — it's nothing new to them. In short, it means if you intend to curl this season, sign your application, enclose some folding money and mail at once to the secretary.

We attended a membership committee meeting Monday night and this is what we found out:

That we have a large number of new members already signed up.

That at this stage it begins to look as if we might have a waiting list.

That many of our older curlers who intend curling, have not as yet signed up.

That the committee is accepting the applications as they come in.

That it is just possible some curlers may be left out.

All this came direct from the meeting and you curlers may now govern yourselves accordingly.

Off-hand we believe the dead line is Tuesday, Oct. 16th.

Mail or give your application at once to any of the following committee members: chairman, B. Grant; F. Stenson, A. Lister, H. Baptie, G. Clark, I. Moore or H. R. Martin.

Rangers Trip Chicago 3-1

GUELPH, Oct. 3 (CP). —New York Rangers maintained their perfect record in pre-season exhibition games by defeating Chicago Black Hawks 3-1 here Tuesday night before 3,000 fans Rangers have won four straight exhibition games.

Two newcomers to the Rangers scored two of their goals. Wally Hergesheimer, the American Hockey League's rookie of the year last season, flipped in a neat tally in the second period to break a 1-1 tie.

Then in the final period defenceman Steve Kraftcheck blazed a slap-shot over Harry Lumley's shoulder for the clincher.

Reg. Sinclair opened the scoring for Rangers in the first period although defenceman Hy Buller actually set up the goal. His shot glanced in off Sinclair. Bep Guidolin tied the score for Chicago five minutes later.

A new idea of Ranger coach Frank Boucher, two larger face-off circles, one on each side of the net, was tried out as an experiment. The bigger circles seemed to eliminate the congestion that was noticed with the one big circle in front of the goal.

Don't Forget World Series Opens Thursday

By ORLO ROBERTSON.

NEW YORK, Oct. 3 (AP). — Baseball's 48th world series opens Thursday — a fact that is not exactly news but one that may have been overlooked in the furore of Brooklyn Dodgers and New York Giants trying to decide the winner of the National League pennant.

A few things are certain.

For one, New York Yankees will represent the American League in quest of their third straight world championship.

Allie Reynolds, winner of 17 games, including two no-hitters, and loser of eight during the regular season, will pitch the opener for the Yankees. That also is known. Manager Casey Stengel announced it several days ago.

The games will start at 1 p.m. EST. The first two will be played at Yankee Stadium, the third, fourth and fifth, if necessary, in the National League winner's park and the next two, also if necessary, on the Yankees' grounds. It is a best-of-seven proposition.

In Laps of Gods

The other facts are in the laps of the gods and the pitching arms of Sal Maglie of the Giants and big Don Newcombe of the Dodgers.

In their mound performances today lies the answer to the question of whether it'll be Leo Durocher's miracle men of New York or Charlie Dressen's power packed Dodgers of Brooklyn that'll bid for baseball's highest honors against the favored Yankees.

Brooks Swamp Giants 10-0 In Stunning Victory, New York Still Favorites

By JOE REICHLER

NEW YORK, Oct. 3. (AP) — Today is flag day in the National League. Brooklyn's redoubtable Dodgers and New York's miracle Giants, deadlocked at one playoff victory each, clashed head-on in the rubber game this afternoon with each manager shooting the works. The game shaped up as a burning battle for the pennant between two of the game's finest righthanders, Sal Maglie of the Giants and Don Newcombe of the Dodgers. Maglie, winner of 23 games and loser of only six, has beaten the Dodgers five times in six decisions. Newcombe has whipped the Giants five times in seven starts this year.

Despite Brooklyn's stunning 10-0 victory Tuesday, the Giants were a 6½ to 5 choice to turn the tables and earn the right to meet the Yankees in an all-New York World Series starting Thursday.

The weatherman predicted "fair and warmer" with the temperature in the low 80s.

Experts conceded a slight edge to the Giants because Maglie was to pitch with his normal three days' rest.

On the other hand, Newcombe hurled a shutout in Philadelphia Saturday night and then, in an emergency, added 5 2-3 more innings of shutout ball in relief Sunday. That means three calls in five days for big Don and his fourth in an eight-day span.

The Dodger ace, who came out of Philly complaining of a sore arm, said it was still tight Tuesday.

Sure of Victory

While both pilots refrained from appearing too optimistic, each felt that his team would emerge victorious.

"We've got 'em on the run,' said Brooklyn's Charlie Dressen happily. "Duke Snider is swinging again and Gil Hodges seems to have pulled out of his slump. Their failure to hit has been hurting us."

Leo Durocher of the Giants was not as exuberant, but was just as confident.

"The barber will be shaving Thursday," he predicted.

That was Leo's novel way of saying that Maglie, nicknamed "The Barber" by his mates, would do a lathering job on the Dodgers.

Asked what he thought of Tuesday's shutout defeat, in which young Clem Labine handcuffed the Giants with six hits to end their eight-game winning streak, Durocher replied:

"We just got licked. Labine pitched a good game against us. That's all. If you've got to lose that's the way to do it. Not by a 2-1 score."

Labine, the 25-year-old curveballer, pitched a masterful game as he gave the Dodgers their first victory in their last six Polo Grounds starts. He walked three, fanned three and pitched himself out of some tight spots in the early innings.

Shows Poise

For a youngster whose big league experience encompasses a little more than two months, the lean righthander showed a lot of poise and coolness under fire. He came up to Brooklyn from St. Paul of the American Association July 23.

The Giants threatened to break through in the second when Bobby Thomson doubled and Willie Mays singled him to third with one out. Labine escaped by getting Wes Westrum on an infield pop and pitcher Sheldon Jones on a roller.

Labine brought the crowd of 38,609 to its feet with a superb pitching performance in the next inning. An error, single and walk filled the bases with two out. Then with a full count on the dangerous Thomson, the kid calmly served the Giants' hottest hitter a curve that Bobby swung at and missed.

Meanwhile Jackie Robinson and his slugging mates were clubbing Jones and reliefers George Spencer and Al Corwin for 13 hits including four home runs.

The Giants, due for a bad day after such a miraculous stretch drive that netted them 38 victories in their last 45 games, not only failed to hit in the pinches, but chipped in with five glaring errors that led to five unearned Dodger runs.

Queen's Golden Gaels Hoping To Click This Season

KINGSTON, Oct. 3—(CP)—The Golden Gaels from Queen's, with only 11 of last year's players on the squad, are looking with hope—if not with a lot of confidence—to the 1951 senior intercollegiate football campaign they open next Saturday at London against Western Mustangs.

Coach Frank Tindall sums it up: "we're hoping we can beat the other clubs, even if only by two or three points."

The hard-trying, green Gaels have two wins and one defeat to show for their three-game preschedule exhibition program. They defeated the Ontario Agricultural College intermediates from Guelph 16-5 and McMaster Marauders of the Ontario Rugby Football Union 7-3. They lost to Toronto Balmy Beach of the ORFU 25-24 although they almost overtook the Toronto club with a dazzling last-minute aerial attack that produced two touchdowns.

Holdovers Distributed

The holdovers from the 1950 club are distributed between line and backfields. One, quarterback Don Griffin, suffered a wrist injury in the McMaster game and will miss the first two or three league starts.

Others are Ross McKelvey, Don Ball, Jack Roberts, Eric McIlveen, Dennis Fleming, Don Bahner, Harry Lampman, Jack Varcoe and Walt Waddell. Then there's Dick Harrison who didn't play last season but in 1949 won the Johnny Evans Memorial Trophy as the team's most valuable player.

Jim Charters, captain and centre of last year's team, has decided to return. The 210-pound native of Hamilton is in his final year of medicine and had not intended to play this season. He changed his mind this week.

This is coach Tindall's fifth season at Queen's. He was here in 1939 when the club won half its games—it hasn't done as well since. When college football was suspended during the war Tindall went home to Syracuse, NY. He came back here in 1948 and has handled the team ever since. Last year his club was the only one in the league to defeat the championship Western Mustangs twice.

Hal McCarney, a former player, is helping Tindall on the coaching job this season. From nearby Gananoque, he attended Loyola University in Montreal before coming to Queen's for three years. He played middle wing in the last three seasons.

Helping to replace the departed first-stringers are players up from the Queen's intermediate team like Jack Zwirewich, Ike Lanier, Ron Suksi, Chuck Ramsden, Ken Atwood and Pete Beck.

Newcomers include Greg McKelvey, brother of Ross, Stu Kennedy, quarter Wally Mellor, Jack Cook and Ben Doliszny.

They have to make up for the absence of stars like Tip Logan, going great guns with Hamilton Tiger-Cats of the big four, Doug Woolley, Sam Sheridan, Bobo Penner, Hank Simola, Pete Salari and Jack Sisson.

Thanksgiving Service Held At Ida Church

CAVAN, Oct. 3—(ENS)—St. John's Anglican church, Ida, was decorated with fruit, grain, vegetables and flowers as a setting for the harvest thanksgiving service held Sunday afternoon.

Dr. W. W. Judd, MA, DCL, secretary of the social services of the Anglican Church of Canada was present and preached the sermon.

The choir, with Miss Jean Lough at the organ, led in the service of song. T. McCamus sang a solo.

Report 7 Casualties

PLYMOUTH, England, Oct. 3—(Reuters)— Three British sailors were killed and four were reported missing in a collision early Tuesday between the destroyer Grenville and an Italian merchant ship in the English Channel. The Navy announced that the bodies of two sailors previously reported missing were found in the Grenville's tangled mass of wreckage.

Get Minimum Fines

CHICAGO, Oct. 3 — (AP). — Two men who pleaded guilty to charges of unlawful assembly in connection with the recent Cicero riots Tuesday were given minimum fines of $10 each. Judge E. Marvin Capouch in Cicero Police Court ordered forfeiture of bonds of 19 defendants who failed to appear when cases of 118 persons arrested during and after the rioting were called. Of the others, 78 pleaded innocent and 20 received continuances.

Here and There In Sport

By The Canadian Press

Canada's eight major league professional football coaches heaved a sigh of relief today.

They had one of their toughest jobs of the fall behind them — selecting their quota of seven United States imports as allowed under Canadian Rugby Football Union regulations.

Names of their US players were submitted to Big Four and western league headquarters before the Oct. 1 midnight deadline.

All was not clear sailing in many cases, however, and of the toughest jobs of the lot fell to Hamilton Tiger-Cat mentor Carl Voyles who didn't have to pare his roster, but rather complete a frantic search for his seventh player. He completed it less than an hour before the deadline when Tommy Worthington, a former Northwestern University star, signed.

Frank Colman, a product of London, Ont., has been promoted to playing coach of Toronto Maple Leafs for next year's International Baseball League.

In announcing the replacement by Colman of Fred (Rip) Collins, the Leafs president and owner, Jack Cooke, said at Toronto Collins likely will be given a spot as a manager or coach of St. Louis Browns, with whom Leafs have a working agreement for players.

At Fort Frances, Ont., it was announced that Earl Johnson of Fort Frances, 20-year-old left-winger, has signed a contract with Detroit Red Wings of the National Hockey League. Johnson will be farmed out to Edmonton Flyers of the Pacific Coast League. He previously played two seasons with Windsor Spitfires.

At Lexington, Ky., five world records were established and another was equalled as fast trotters and pacers posted seven two-minute miles at the Lexington trots Tuesday. Tassel Hanover and Prince Jay shared top billing, each setting a pair of marks. Byckeye Grattan notched one and Tar Heel equalled another.

At Lexington, Ky., Ford Hanover, unbeaten three-year-old trotter of this season's grand circuit, was challenged by 10 other trotters Tuesday as they were entered in Thursday's 59th renewal of the Kentucky Futurity. Winner of the richest Futurity in history—it carries a purse of $68,019—can bag some $35,000 if the race is won in two straight heats.

At Toronto, coach Johnny (Peanuts) O'Flaherty pushed 18 players through their paces on Tuesday as Saint John Beavers of the Maritime Major Hockey League swung into the second day of training. O'Flaherty, who last year coached Toronto St. Michael's junior and senior teams in Ontario Hockey Association play, said he is presently seeking a few exhibition dates before moving his club east where they begin their regular schedule Oct. 17.

Say Death Rate Record Low

OTTAWA, Oct. 3 (CP)—Canada's death rate in 1950 was the lowest on record, the Bureau of Statistics reported Tuesday.

The rate was 8.9 per 1,000 population compared with 9.2 in 1949 and an average of 9.8 in the five years from 1941 to 1945.

Infant mortality, dropping steadily since the 1920's, hit a low of 41 per 1,000 live births in 1950. This compared with 43 in 1949 and a 1941-45 average of 56. Maternal mortality fell to 1.1 per 1,000 children born alive from 1.5 in 1949 and 2.9 in the 1941-45 period.

Deaths from all causes totalled 123,649 in 1950, compared with 124,047 in the previous year. Cancer, heart diseases, tuberculosis and accidents were among the major killers.

A total of 38,718 persons died from heart diseases, compared with 35,536 in 1949. The toll from cancer was 16,548 compared with 16,732; tuberculosis 3,582 against 4,295 and accidents of all types 7,538 compared with 8,191.

Marriages rose to 124,733 from 123,877, but the rate was slightly lower at 9.0 per 1,000 population against 9.2.

The birth rate dropped to 26.8 from 27.1 in 1949, 27.2 in 1948 and 28.8 in 1947, the latter being the highest in the last 25 years. Despite the three-year decline, the rate was well above the average for the 1941-45 period of 23.6 The rate of natural increase was 17.9, unchanged from 1948 and 1949, but well above the 1941-45 average of 13.8 per 1,000 population.

Live births in 1950 totalled 370,978—4,439 more than in 1949—and only slightly under the record of 371,740 in 1947. Newfoundland's birth rate was the highest of the provinces at 35.5 per 1,000 population, followed by New Brunswick at 31.4, Prince Edward Island 30.1, Quebec 29.9, Alberta 28.7, Nova Scotia 26.2, Saskatchewan 24.8, Ontario and Manitoba 24.1 and British Columbia 23.8.

The number of illegitimate live births was higher at 14,422 against 14,390 in 1949. By provinces the figures were: Newfoundland, 448; Prince Edward Island, 166; Nova Scotia, 1,184; New Brunswick, 689; Quebec, 3,703; Ontario 3,754; Manitoba, 776; Saskatchewan, 919; Alberta, 1,186; British Columbia, 1,597.

Police Aim New Attack At SA Sunday Sports

JOHANNESBURG — (CP) — South African sports leaders are concerned over the sudden interest displayed by the police in Sunday sport activities. There have been no prosecutions to date, but there have been plenty of warnings that prosecutions are being considered.

Sunday observance laws were passed in South Africa a long time ago, but they have not been enforced for many years. An officer at police headquarters here explained however: "The Sabbath observance laws have not been abrogated by disuse. If complaints of a breach of these laws is made, the police are compelled to take action."

The new surge of activity apparently is not the result of any change in policy, but of an aroused interest among the people. Police headquarters have made it clear they are acting on complaints received from members of the public, and not on any general instructions from the justice department.

A test case however is expected to be provided at Port Elizabeth, Cape Province, where a motorcycle club was warned by police not to go ahead with a race advertised for Sunday. The club ignored the warning, and police then took the names of organizers and race riders.

After this action several industrial firms contributed toward a "defence fund" for the bike racers. The club president, T. McNish, said further donations might come "from some sporting bodies closely concerned with Sunday sport."

Players Quizzed

At many centres police have turned up at bowling greens and golf courses to question persons playing on Sunday.

At Cape Town a rugby game was called off when the police gave warning they would take the names of the players.

On a field near Cape Town an Indian soccer competition came to an abrupt end when police began taking names. Most of the players of four teams scattered among th crowd, but a few gave their names and addresses.

Detectives visited golf courses at Johannesburg and warned club professionals to close their shops during the weekends. This warning was given under a Transvaal provincial shop hours ordinance, meaning the golf pros have to close up from 1 p.m. Saturday to Monday mornings, missing their most lucrative period of the week.

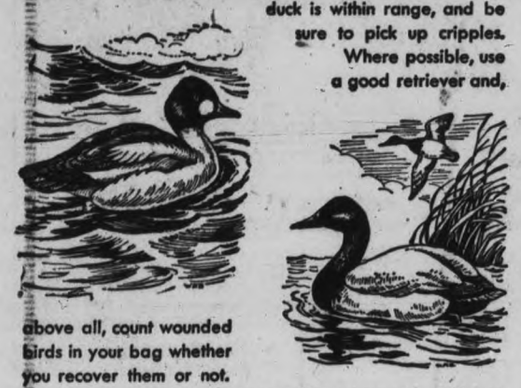
Tennis players at Harrismith got a surprise when they applied to town council for renewal of their lease of the municipal tennis courts. They were informed they could no longer play on Sunday and that a clause would be inserted in the lease barring tennis on Sundays.

The "quiet Sunday" move has been extended to other quarters. Detectives visited night clubs in Johannesburg some time ago and put an end to dancing after midnight.

Radio Criticized

South Africa's leading Afrikaans (Dutch) churches are taking action to ensure stricter Sabbath observance in radio broadcasting. The moderator of one of these churches, the Rev. C. B. Brink, recently objected to the Sunday programs broadcast by South Africa's commercial station, Springbok radio.

Mr. Brink charged these programs competed with church services broadcast on the non-commercial programs. He led a deputation to the South African Broadcasting Corporation and undertook to have a memorandum on Sunday radio prepared by the radio commission of his church.



The Rev. D. F de Beer, secretary of the Public Morals Commission of one of the major Afrikaans churches, told an official commission inquiring into shop hours in the Transvaal that Sunday should be regarded as a truly holy day.

The clergyman urged that ice-cream carts should not be allowed on streets before 11.30 a.m. on Sunday because their vendors rang bells to attract trade, and got some of their revenue from children going to Sunday school. He also called for Sunday closing of tobacco shops and of most garages.

Mr. de Beer also asked for prohibition of the Sunday sale of newspapers, Sunday closing of railway station bookstalls and a ban on sale of programs and refreshments at Sunday entertainments.

Baptist Church Observes 65th Birthday

NORWOOD, Oct. 3 (ENS)—The 65th anniversary of the Norwood Baptist Church was observed Sunday. The Rev. Malcolm F. Morden, minister of Mount Dennis Baptist Church, Toronto, was the special speaker.

Mrs. James Hawthorne of Warsaw sang a solo in the morning, Mrs. Paul Wicks sang a solo and a duet with Miss Lane of Peterborough in the evening.

The choir under the leadership of Mrs. Roy Nevins, sang at both services. At the evening service, the Rev. A. Anderson, retired Baptist minister, offered prayer, and the Rev. H. K. Wright, minister of Norwood United Church, read the scripture passage.

The morning address given by Mr. Morden was based upon the parable of the sower.

"We must aim as Christians to be 100 per cent. fruitful," he said.

The evening sermon was taken from John's Patmos vision of Christ: Revelations, chapter 1. "Hear, turn and see, fall at His feet."

The church was decorated with gladioli and chrysanthemums. Near capacity congregations attended both services.

New Flag Approved For Supreme Hdqts.

PARIS, Oct. 3—(AP)—A new flag, approved and partly designed by Gen. Dwight Eisenhower himself, will be hoisted on Friday for the first time over the Atlantic Pact headquarters near Paris.

It is a green banner bearing the words in gold "Vigilia Pretium Liberatis" (Vigilance is the Price of Liberty).

The flag's centre shield of green and gold together with the Latin motto will at the same time come out in the form of breast badges and shoulder patches. But members attached to the Supreme Headquarters must produce a certificate proving they are really headquarters staff before they will be allowed to buy them.

Two drawn swords of gold with olive leaves of gold—symbolizing the defensive and yet peaceful objectives of the Atlantic Pact—appear on a green background on badges and shoulder patches alike. Underneath are 12 silver fronds representing the Pact's 12 member nations.

It was Eisenhower's idea that the swords should be included.

Harvest Service In Roseneath

ROSENEATH, Oct. 3 (ENS)—"Our needs are abundantly met. Food rationing in England is not because of scarcity, but due to international currency" was the statement made by the Rev. A. J. Patstone, rector of St. James Anglican church at the 88th annual Harvest Thanksgiving services held Sunday.

Mr. Patstone chose as his subject for the morning service "Giving Thanks."

Mrs. Frank Brown was at the organ for the morning service.

At the evening service, Mr. Patstone chose "Joy" as his subject, and spoke of learning the definition of joy in times of adversity, and of joy of achievement and joy of success after long hours of work and drudgery.

Miss Doreen Nichol was at the organ for the evening service.

The church was decorated with a profusion of late summer flowers, fruits of the field and gardens and friends were present from Peterborough, Dartford, Hastings, Warkworth, Baltimore, Alderville and Roseneath.

He explained that he was impressed by the attention and care received and the evidence of efficiency. "I certainly have no complaints."

Urge Pact Armies Used By UN In Crisis

UNITED NATIONS, NY, Oct. 3 (AP)—A special UN group recommended today that in case of future aggression the United Nations should call on regional defence forces, such as the North Atlantic army of Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower, to act in the name of the UN.

This was one of the main points in a report by the military subcommittee of the General Assembly's collective measures committee which is preparing a master plan to meet future emergencies.

The sub-committee also proposed that the military command structure be revised generally to give both the UN and the participating countries a bigger voice in the combat operations.

Prison Plays Host To Actors, "Just Visiting"

By BOB THOMAS

SAN QUENTIN PRISON, Calif., Oct. 3—(AP)—What am I doing here? Just visiting, thanks.

This California prison is host to score of actors. They are shooting atmosphere scenes for the Stanley Kramer film, "My Six Convicts," based on the popular book. Not that actors haven't been here for other reasons besides making a picture.

As the genial warden Clinton T. Duffy remarked, "we have every profession and line of business represented at San Quentin."

Duffy, the prison guard's son who rose to become one of the leaders in penal reform, said the film company's shooting had a good effect on the convicts. "Any change in routine is stimulating to them," he said. "And they are getting a big kick out of having the picture people here."

Guards As Prisoners

Fifty of the prison guards were enlisted as extras for the film and were dressed in convict uniforms. Naturally, the cons had fun with this, shouting such comments as, "hey guard, if you ain't the perfect criminal type!"

Duffy added that movies themselves are a powerful force in maintaining prison morale. Films are shown once a week and they are hand-picked by the warden himself.

Among the favorite stars are James Stewart, Spencer Tracy, Rita Hayworth and June Allyson. The convicts seldom see such players as Humphrey Bogart, James Cagney and George Raft. Reasons: crime pictures are generally forbidden.

Unpleasant Memories

The editor of the prison paper told me that such subjects are not screened because they would bring back unpleasant memories and encourage morbidity.

Duffy, retiring soon to become a member of the California Adult Authority, observed that the movies show an exaggerated view of crime. He criticized the portrayal of criminals as being mugs of a standard facial type. He said his years of experience proved to him there was no "criminal-looking type."

"See that fellow over there," he cited, pointing to a rough-looking character. "You'd think he was a criminal type if you ever saw one. As a matter of fact, he's my assistant."

THE HAHNS ARE PROUD of their background as pioneers in Northern Saskatchewan. Pilot Program

TORONTO, Oct. 3 (CP) — A pilot program in decentralized medical education of graduate doctors will be launched by the University of Toronto this month, President Sidney Smith announced Tuesday night. The plan, financed by a $4,000 grant from the W. K. Kellogg Foundation, will send teams of senior medical teachers to Kirkland Lake, Port Colborne, Fort William and Port Arthur for one-day round-table conferences with medical men.

Quash Conviction

TORONTO, Oct. 3 (CP)—The threat of deportation against a Greek-born restaurant operator was removed Tuesday when the Ontario court of appeal quashed a conviction against him on a charge of indecent assault. As a result, 49-year-old Nick Christofalos can look forward to reunion in Canada soon with his wife and three of their children. The federal government had taken action to have Christofalos deported if his appeal failed.

Indifference Big Blow At Christianity Says Dr. Judd

MILLBROOK, Oct. 3 (ENS)—Dr. W. W. Judd, MA, DCL, secretary of the Council of Social Service of the Anglican Church of Canada, was the guest preacher for St. Thomas' annual harvest Thanksgiving service, Sunday evening.

The church had been beautifully decorated with autumn flowers and fruits in a variety of colors. Small sheaves of grain centred with marigolds marked each pew, and there were white gladioli on the altar table. The Rev. A. A. Chote, the rector, led in the opening prayers and introduced Dr. Judd to the large congregation.

Dr. Judd said he was happy to be there because his mother had been born in Millbrook 109 years ago, and some of his relatives still lived in the neighborhood.

He said that the greatest need of the day was hearts thankful to God and a great trust in the divine. He recalled the words of a great Jewish leader at the time the persecution of the Jews in Europe was at its height: "Our fears should never be greater than our faith, and they need never be."

Too Much Indifference

Dr. Judd took his text from Mathew 13 verse 38. He said preaching the gospel to every living creature was still the greatest command. Europe was once the heart and soul of christianity but now it was beset by communism, by indifference, and by despondency. We must now help it to regain what had been lost.

It had been wise to make the little Chinese churches self-sufficient. Now with missionaries barred from the country it depended on the faithful Chinese to keep christianity alive there. Russia, he said, must be re-won, not by arms but by the power of righteousness.

Too Much Greed

He spoke of the "pleasant pagans "of Canada. The trouble between capital and labor was a spirit of greed. The Anglican Synod of 1930 had found that a change in the spirit of the whole working world was necessary. The church did not ally itself with any political system or party, knowing that no new or perfect system could be worked well by bad men, and that good men could make any system work well.

Mrs. G. A. Spicer took the solo part in the anthem, "Praise the Lord" and Miss M. Collins was at the organ.

Games, Murals Brighten Jail

TORONTO — (CP) — Behind the brick walls and iron bars of Toronto's Don Jail, they're giving a new lease to the lives of men who have been shut off from society.

Soft pastels have replaced battleship grey in the monotonous interior of the building. The main rotunda and the dining room have colorful and attractive murals—painted by artistic prisoners.

The men no longer sit and brood through their sentences. They have cribbage, checkers, bridge and bowling tournaments—competitions between corridors for the championship of the institution.

The changes—a part of the new policy of the Provincial Department of Reform Institutions — were brought to the Don by its new governor, Charles Anderson, who came to the jail 15 months ago from the governorship of the Port Arthur jail.

"We aren't pampering the prisoners," says the governor. "They are in custody as the law says they must be. We have good discipline. But by keeping the men busy we're preventing them from just sitting around and talking crime."

Besides arranging recreational activities, prison officials find employment for many of the short-termers and straighten out personal problems.

In the past three months the jail has found jobs for more than 70 men and most of them are making good.

"The man who wants a chance gets it," says Mr. Anderson.

Driver Gives Life To Avoid Children

HAMILTON, Oct. 3 — (CP) — John Gordon Scott, 23, of Toronto gave his life Tuesday in an attempt to avoid driving his truck into a group of school children, seven miles southwest of Milton.

Police said Scott had just driven the truck over the brow of a hill when he noticed a group of children on the road. He swerved to avoid hiting them and the left front wheel dropped into an 18-inch ditch.

Scott was thrown from the truck and the rear wheel passed over his chest.

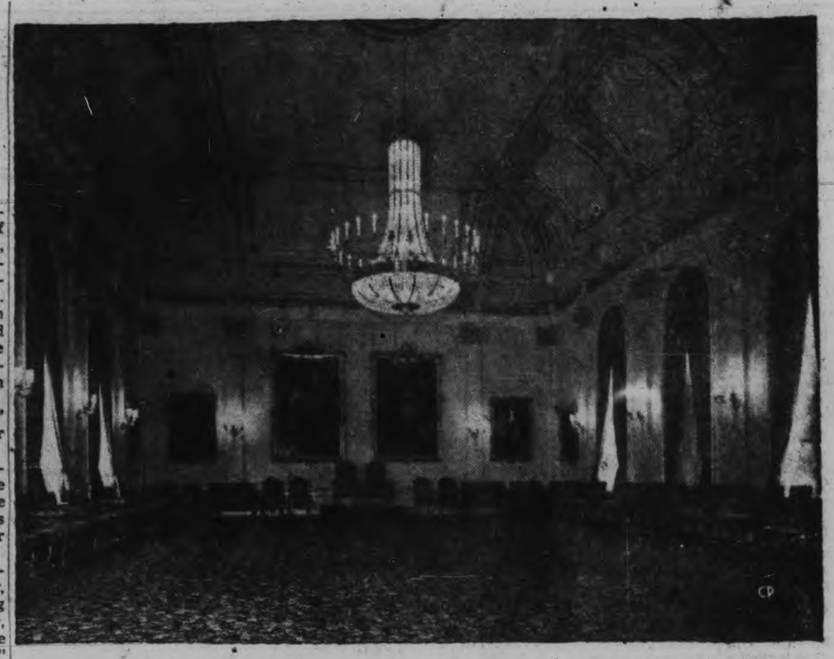
Inquiry Urged In Ontario Racing Scandal

TORONTO, Oct. 3 — (CP) — W. L. Houck, Liberal member of the Legislature for Niagara Falls, Tuesday moved to have the Legislature Crime Committee investigate the Ohtario racing scandal.

He said the "real culprits" in the extensive race fix probe had not yet been apprehended. He added that previously, such suggestions from him had been "dropped like a hot potato."

"There are not hot potatoes," committee chairman Dana Porter countered.



The crime committee was formed last spring to investigate crime conditions in the province. The committee resumed its hearings into stock frauds Monday, after one month's adjournment.

Mr. Houck asked that the committee have S. Tupper Bigelow, chairman of the Ontario Racing Commission, and Sam Roher, named at previous committee hearings as an "important man" in gambling circles, appear before it.

Mr. Houck named the liquor problem as another sphere for committee investigation.

Ask Improved Pension Plan

TORONTO, Oct. 3 — (CP). — The Ontario Public Health Association Tuesday asked the Ontario Government to see that public health officers received better pay and a pension plan. The lack of financial reward and security is driving workers from the field of public health, often to jobs outside Canada, a resolution passed by the association declared.

The association asked the Provincial Government to pay grants to local health boards only if the boards use the maximum salary schedule recommended by the Canadian Public Health Association.

The grants should also be conditional on participation by local boards in a province-wide pension or superannuation scheme for public health workers, the association said.

The salary schedule set up by the parent association has not been released, but it is understood to recommend a salary of $7,000 for the officer of a medium-sized city or health unit.

Sponsor of the resolution, Dr. J. P. Wells of Prince Edward County health unit, said the average salary of public health officers in Ontario is $6,000.

"That is $3,000 by 1939 standards," he said, "and we can't live on that. Many men are getting less."

Says Witnesses Paid Promptly

TORONTO, Oct. 3 — (CP). — Deputy Attorney-General C. R. Magone told the Ontario Crime Committee Tuesday that witnesses who appear in criminal cases in Ontario courts are now paid promptly, as a result of recent improvements in procedure.

E. B. Jolliffe, CCF Leader, said he was bothered by "the talk you hear from the average citizen that he just doesn't want to get involved in trial proceedings."

"Perhaps it is not only financial," he said, "there may be defects in our education system as well."

Mr. Magone told the committee that witnesses in summary conviction cases are paid $3 a day plus 20 cents a mile one-way travelling expenses, immediately the trial is finished.

They also get up to an extra $6 a day if they have to spend the night at a hotel.

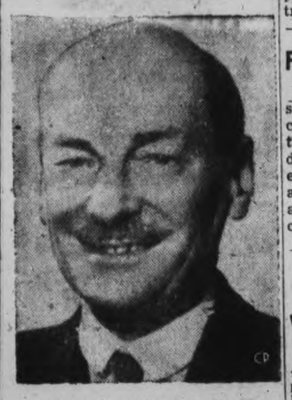
NORWICH UNION

Denies Trying To Wreck Union

SYDNEY, NS, Oct. 3— (CP).— President Lionel A. Forsyth of Dominion Steel and Coal Corporation said Tuesday a recent charge that the company tried to wreck the steel union here is "nonsense and can only be inspired by an improper motive."

In a policy speech on labor-management relations, Mr. Forsyth spoke to the Maritime Boards of Trade on the wage dispute that has caused many walkouts, suspensions, layoffs, and curtailed production here since July.



Noting that the Sydney Local of United Steel Workers of America (CIO-CCL) disclaimed responsibility for the work stoppages, Mr. Forsyth said the union executive, on the other hand, had never "repudiated these actions of their membership."

He added: "I say this—accepting at its face value the avowal of the union that it did not initiate this unlawful method of procedure — it does lie within its power to stop it and prevent its recurrence."

Ed Corbett, union president, charged the company with an attempt to wreck the union when it announced two weeks ago a 10-cent hourly wage increase with a cost-of-living bonus—terms twice rejected by the union. The current contract — expiring next March — provided $1.17 an hour.

Gasoline Price War

LONDON, Ont., Oct. 3 (CP) — A gasoline price war took shape in the city Tuesday night. Tuesday night's announcement followed a cut of three cents locally by Sun Oil Company a week ago.

Charges China Church Was Vested Interest

TORONTO, Oct. 3 — (CP) — A former Protestant missionary, recently recalled from China, Tuesday said the Roman Catholic church in that country has become a "vested interest aligned with the landlords and an active political force." As a result Catholic missionairies have become the key targets of Chinese Communists.

(A number of Canadian Roman Catholic priests and nuns have been held in prison by the Chinese Communists since the Peiping government began a campaign against the Catholic church shortly after taking office.)

Speaking to the Toronto West Presbytery of the Presbyterian church, the Rev. Malcolm Ransom of Fort Erie said Roman Catholic missionairies were persecuted because their church supported the old Kuomintang regime.

Mr. Ransom said one of the great weaknesses of the Protestant churches in China is that they didn't take a stand against the corrupt old regime.

Raps Hidden Taxes

VANCOUVER, Oct. 3 (CP) — Solon Low said here Tuesday night that the federal government's system of "hidden taxes" was the cause of high prices. In an address prepared for delivery over CBC's national network, the Social Credit party leader dealt mainly with the government's attempts to halt the rising cost of living.

*MR. DONALD MacLEAN . . .

Why did you buy your Canada Savings Bond, Mr. MacLean?

My Bond? Man, I've bought Bonds every year. I buy them to save money. It's an easy way to build up a little something.

Did you buy them through your bank?

No, I didn't. I bought them through the Company. That is they took the money for the payments off my pay until they were all paid for. That's the easy way, to my thinking, to set something aside, without missing it much.

Mr. MacLean, have you found it necessary to cash in your Bonds, say for some family emergency?

I have not. I have every one of them, and I bought them every time they came around. I think they are really worth having, that's why I buy them.

What do you figure to do with your Bonds?

I'm going to keep them for my old age. It's a long way off yet, but if I keep on buying Bonds I'll really have something to fall back on when I'm too old to work.

Haven't you any idea of buying a car or a house or something like that with the money from your Bonds?

No, not for me . . . just for my old age, that's all. They're kind of extra insurance.

NOW BETTER THAN EVER

Canada Savings Bonds — 6th Series — mature in 10 years and 9 months from date of issue and bear ten 3½% coupons. The first coupon covers 1 year and 9 months and is payable on August 1st, 1953; subsequent coupons come due August 1st yearly thereafter until maturity. If cashed before August 1st, 1953, simple interest is paid at 2% per year, calculated monthly. If held to maturity the overall yield is equivalent to 3.21% per year. The limit for holdings in any one name is $5,000 in the 6th Series. The bonds are cashable at full face value, plus interest at any time at any bank in Canada. They are registered in the owner's name. They are non-assignable and non-transferable.

How Liberals Will Vote In UK Now $65 Question In Election

By ALAN HARVEY

LONDON, Oct. 3—(CP)—How the Liberals will vote is the largest single uncertainty in the forthcoming British general election.

The Liberals, admittedly, are odd man out in a political system dominated by two main parties. But the votes of Liberal supporters may determine whether the next government is Labor or Conservative.

In the last election, Feb. 23, 1950, the Liberals entered 475 candidates and obtained 2,500,000 votes. In the Oct. 25 election the party will fight on a restricted front, leaving Liberal voters in many areas without a candidate of their own.

Whether Liberals so deprived will vote Labor or Conservative is a matter on which newspaper commentators have largely remained silent. Some feel that the Liberal dilemma may express itself in widespread abstention—that Liberals having no candidate may not vote at all.

National Guidance

Recognizing this possibility, party headquarters have made arrangements to guide Liberal opinion on a national basis. An eight-point electoral quiz will be submitted to candidates in ridings where no Liberals are standing, the answers being expected to show whether Liberals could vote Labor or Conservative without swallowing too many principles.

The eight key questions include queries on electoral reform, legislation against monopolies, restrictive practices, parliamentary control of public assistance bodies and the boards of nationalized industries, co-operation between workers and management, safeguards for personal freedom and reduction of tariffs, preferences and trade barriers.

Liberals are asked to find out what Labor and Conservative candidates feel on these issues, and vote for the one who seems nearest to the Liberal ideal.

Anti-Socialist Front

One factor which so far appears that in some ridings arrangements have been made for an anti-socialist front. Under a tacit agreement, Conservatives in some constituencies allow the Liberal candidate a straight fight against Labor in return for a reciprocal arrangement in another area.

On the other hand, the Conservatives may have antagonized Liberals by listing some Liberal candidates in their own list, thereby giving these candidates an implied coloring of Conservatims. The Manchester Guardian, respected organ of Liberal opinion, branded this practice as "unscrupulous."

There is no easy guide to the ultimate destination of what might be called the "orphaned" Liberal vote. The nine Liberal members of the present parliament disagreed so often they were called the "split-tease" Liberals.

One of the party's chief figures, Lady Megan Lloyd George, has said she wouldn't vote Tory under any circumstances. At the other extereme Lady Violet Bonham Carter, expected to be a successful Liberal candidate Oct. 25, has referred to Conservative leader Winston Churchill as a Pericles among statesmen.

The party's predicament has a rather poignant quality. Nearly everyone agrees that the British people are predominantly Liberal in spirit, but that the two big parties are in an unassailable position. The British system of a non-transferrable vote in single-member constituencies tends to squeeze out the Liberals, who prefer a form of proportional representation.

Clement Davies and his followers went all out in the last election, but failed. They lost a lot of money in election deposits and will have to restrict the number of candidates to about 150 this time.

Romance Not "All Roses" For Elizabeth And Philip

By ARTHUR J. MATHERS
NEA Special Correspondent

LONDON—(NEA) — The romance of Princess Elizabeth and Prince Philip was not just roses all the way once they had discovered they were in love.

At first, there was the war. Philip went back to battle service, this time in the "little ships." At 21 he was first lieutenant on a destroyer, one of the youngest men in the Royal Navy to hold down such a responsible wartime job.

There were letters, but Elizabeth wanted a bigger share in the war. Finally, she broke down her father's opposition and, at 18, went to camp in the Auxiliary Transport Service.

Without ballyhoo, she learned to take apart, repair and drive a three-quarter-ton truck. Under a liberal coating of grease smudges, Elizabeth thoroughly enjoyed her new role and felt she had honestly earned the right to her uniform.

Drove Truck

To celebrate the finish of her driving test, she drove her truck to London with her instructor. After circling Piccadilly Circus twice, she roared down the red-macadamed Mall and through the main gates of Buckingham Palace with the klaxon blaring full blast.

The armed guard didn't know whether to shot or salute.

"He did a lovely double-take before he presented arms," the Princess recalls.

When VE-Day brought Britons Americans and other Allied personnel to the gates of Buckingham Palace to cheer the Royal Family, Elizabeth and her sister appeared on the balcony with their parents.

But when another vast throng gathered in front of the palace on the night of VJ-Day, the princesses slipped out by a side gate of "Buck House" and joined the crowd, unrecognized.

Elizabeth declared later: "It was marvellous. First we shouted for mummie and papa then we cheered them when they came out."

Elizabeth and Philip had seen each other fairly frequently in the last few months of the war.

Philip had acquired a fast black automobile, referred to by his American Navy friends as "The Royal Hot-Rod," and whenever he could wrangle leave from his temporary duties as instructor, he would burn up the road to London or Windsor to visit with the Royal Family.

It was obvious to the family that Elizabeth and Philip were in love, but the subject of possible marriage between them was never openly discussed.

The King and Queen admired Philip for his achievements as a naval officer, for his keen mind, and perhaps most of all for his integrity in maintaining strict silence—even among his closest friends—about his feelings for Elizabeth.

Nevertheless her parents were conscious that Elizabeth had never had a real date like any normal girl her age in any other country. They felt she was too young and had too little opportunity to meet people of her own age group on common ground.

It was not until after VJ-Day, when she was 18—and Philip had been reassigned to duty in Southeast Asia—that Elizabeth was allowed to take part in London's social whirl. She was able, for the first time, to dine in a public restaurant. Even so, wherever she went, her lady-in-waiting was with her.

Elizabeth was starry-eyed about that first short social season. After the drab tweeds and plaids of her wartime 'teens, the party dresses (made over from formal gowns bought by the Queen on a pre-war trip to Paris) seemed like dreams of elegance.

When Philip sailed home early in 1946, due for three years of shore duty, he knew a hurdle had to be faced before he and Elizabeth could openly avow their love.

The King, never a robust type, was drawing deep on his reserves of energy, and was ordered to conserve himself for a scheduled Royal tour of South Africa.

Thus there could be no question of Elizabeth being married before the royal party returned from South Africa at the end of May, 1947.

Since prolonged royal betrothals are traditionally frowned upon ("A change of mind would be bad for everyone concerned") Elizabeth and Philip, head-over-heels in love and longing to tell the world about it, had to behave as mere acquaintances.

Acting such a part had been tough enough for them when Elizabeth was in the public view only on official occasions. Now that she was in the social whirl it was worse. Only as individuals among a crowd of young socialites could they be together at all.

At that they had to appear completely disinterested. Even a privately shared joke had to be treated with decorum. For a couple to whom laughter was as natural as breathing, this, in itself was a major problem.

On the rare occasions when they dared dance together Elizabeth and Philip would fix-it through one of their closest intimates for the band to play the "Oklahoma" hit tune, "People Will Say We're In Love."

That lyric—which both knew by heart—became the theme song for the sad little Princess and her Prince without-a-name.

Tomorrow: "We're moving in with the in-laws."

Hope Marksman To Regain Sight

TORONTO—(CP)—Bill Mcnab, formerly a Canadian champion marksman, who had to give up shooting when threatened by blindness, may have his sight restored.

He lost the sight of his left eye when struck by a spark from an emery wheel as a boy. Three years ago he began to go blind in his right eye when struck by a rifle bolt.

At Toronto General Hospital recently he underwent an operation on his left eye during which the cornea was replaced with one from the eye of a cancer patient whose eye had to be removed.

The cornea is the transparent "window" that covers the eye.

It is too early to judge how much of his vision will be restored because the eye, unused for 40 years, will recover gradually. But the doctors hope he will soon be able to see much more that the top line of the eye chart which is all he has been able to see so far.

The Calgary man won the Canadian three-position championship and shot in competition at the suburban Long Branch range here. He was a personal friend of Lieut. Gilmour Boa, who won the King's prize at Bisley this year.

Farmers Back Objection To Late Train

Chamber Commerce Protested Delaying 7:10 CPR to 8:00 a.m.

Peterborough farmers are endorsing the Chamber of Commerce objection to retarding departure of CPR local from 7.10 to 8 a.m.

"The people who want the 8 o'clock train are those who don't like getting up early," said Reeve James Gifford at the meeting Monday night of the Federation of Agriculture.

Secretary John Kitney was authorized to subscribe to the Chamber's petition for return to the leaving time of the old schedule.

The "local" now leaves at 8 a.m. arriving in Toronto at 10.05 instead of the former 7.10 a.m. and reaching Toronto at 9.15.

President Will Dawson was instructed by the meeting to have a Federation representative go to Toronto Thursday with the Chamber delegates if they wished reinforcement in their meeting with a CPR executive. Mr. Dawson said he could not go himself, but that Mr. Kitney might be able to get away for the trip.

Coming Here

However, James M. Fraser, manager of the Chamber of Commerce, reported today that a representative of the CPR was expected here this afternoon for an interview. In the meantime this morning Mr. Kitney called promptly at the Chamber and subscribed to the petition in the name of the Federation.

Presumably, CPR made a survey in the summer of citizens' opinion of the Peterborough schedule. Housewives and citizens generally, and especially people who didn't shuttle back and forth from Toronto by automobile, were in favor of the 8 a.m. departure of the "local" as generally more convenient to them.

That expression of preference was evidently of convincing preponderance, as representing a collection of individual preference, that the CPR felt justified in acceding to that sentiment.

From local CPR comment it has been emphasized that the company is trying to improve its utility to the Peterborough public, "and we certainly don't want to make any change that would result in any loss of business; that's obvious".

Two Hours By Car

There are many motorists here who boast of a two hour run to Toronto, and even less when roads are clear for their cars. That is common knowledge, to the CPR as much as anyone else.

On the other hand of this debate is the business contention that the 7.10 train enables men to be in Toronto before 9.30, and in time for their affairs, including morning meetings usually at 9.30 to 10 o'clock.

That is the emphasis Chamber of Commerce is presenting to the railway representative today. They are now supported by Federation of Agriculture, and also by the Ministerial Association.

Federation directors also prefer the former hour of leaving Toronto in the evening. They want the "local" schedule restored to earlier departures from both Peterborough and Toronto.

Wool Prices Climb Again

After hitting a low point in mid-September, wool prices have jumped 25 to 30 per cent in the last two weeks.

This upswing in world wool prices after a six-month slump from March of this year during which the price of wool dropped 70 per cent is due to "returning confidence in values throughout the world and resumption of buying in the United Kingdom, Europe and the United States," Gordon Monkman, general manager of G. Whitaker and Co., Ltd., said today.

"Everything points to a further rise," said Mr. Monkman. "Prices are being pushed up because everyone is getting back into the market."

Orders Slow

Mr. Monkman said that the sharp drop in wool prices from the high point in March was the result of "discontinuing of stockpiling by manufacturers, slow placing of expected military orders and credit restrictions throughout the world."

While Mr. Monkman thinks wool prices "may move up a bit more, because stocks are reported light in consuming centres," he expressed the hope that prices "may level off in the next few weeks."

Otherwise, Mr. Monkman said there is the danger of wool "pricing itself out of the market because there is a tremendous supply of synthetic fibres available."

Must End Series This Week

VANCOUVER, Oct. 3 (CP) — Canadian Lacrosse Association officials received an ultimatum today—the Mann Cup final must end this week.

The ultimatum was delivered by Jack Elliott, manager of Kerrisdale Arena after he learned the CLA want to switch Friday's sixth game to Saturday.

"I'm not going to be pushed around by the CLA," said Elliott. "Unless this series is completed this week, my floor comes out fast."

He said the Peterborough Petes and the Vancouver Combines are agreeable to Friday - Saturday games, but the CLA wanted the seventh game, if necessary, at Kerrisdale on Monday.

Unemployed Increase 2nd Month

Record Low Point Reported In July Now Higher Than '50

Although slowly, unemployment increased in September in Peterborough and district for the second successive month, William Mellis, manager of the National Employment office, said today.

Unemployed in July dropped to a record low of 566 but began to climb in August to 633. In September the claim load increased once more to 659.

Sales Down

Slumps in sales have forced Peterborough and Campbellford companies to employ only on a short-week basis or layoff their help. This action started early in August and has increased since.

In Peterborough, said Mr. Mellis, the Western Clock Company has joined the Brinton-Peterborough Carpet Company in a slack period. In Campbellford, the Campbellford Cloth and the Toronto Carpet Company are both slack also. These employees have applied for unemployment insurance.

Higher Than 1950

The September claim load of 659 was more than 100 claims higher than the total for September, 1950, when there were 304 men and 216 women drawing funds. This year both groups increased, the men to 378 and the women to 281.

City men's claims paid in September this year were only to 225 men as compared with 254 last year. But the men's postal claims to men in the district more than tripled to 153 from only 50 in 1950.

Women's Claims

The women's claims, both in the city and district, rose above last year's. In the city 16 more women this year drew funds in September and 49 more in the district.

Unemployed men and women this year registered at the local office increased also in September over 1950. Mr. Mellis pointed out that 547 men were jobhunting as compared with 437 last year while 346 women were looking for work compared with 333 last year.

Fewer Jobs

The number of jobs this year decreased. In September there were only 43 positions for men and 17 for women while at the same time in 1950 there were 56 jobs for men and 35 for women.

Most of the positions for both men and women require experience. For the men there are openings for toolmakers, machinists and draftsmen and for the women, stenographers and typists.

At present the construction work in the city is providing a number of unskilled workers with jobs. The work is at the two new schools, at the CGE and at several downtown stores.

MR. GLASS IMPROVED

Hospital authorities said today that George Glass, 70, 142 Wilson Ave., a victim of coal gas in his own home, was "responding slightly" to treatment. He is still in serious condition. His 73-year-old wife Louise was dead when the couple were found Monday night, more than 20 hours after they went to bed Sunday. The funeral for Mrs. Glass will be 2 pm Thursday at the Comstock funeral home.

Player Breaks Leg

A pileup of players after a blocked kick resulted in a broken leg Tuesday for 16-year-old Andrew Ross, Lakefield. Ross was playing halfback for the Grove school in a game at the Exhibition grounds with St. Peter's high school. He attempted to kick but the ball was blocked and in the scramble for the loose ball several players fell on Ross breaking his right leg. He was taken to Civic hospital.

Bible College To Open Doors Thursday

The Eastern Pentecostal Bible College, formerly the old Nicholls Hospital, will be officially opened Thursday night at a public ceremony in the Brock Street Summer Gardens.

At 2:30 pm there will be a dedication service on the campus of the college, the Rev. C. B. Smith, general superintendent of Pentecostal Assemblies in Canada, officiating.

Last January the old hospital, nurses' residence, and furnishings were sold to the Pentecostal Assemblies for $73,000. After some renovations the hospital was turned into the largest Pentecostal college in Canada, and the only residential one.

Already the building's accommodation is exhausted. On Monday 115 students registered. They are from every province in Canada—including Newfoundland — and from the United States, South Africa, Bermuda and England.

Classes Tuesday

Classes are scheduled to begin next Tuesday.

Not all of the students at the theological college will become ordained ministers. Many will make their decisions after they have been studying for some time. Besides ministers there will be missionaries, and Sunday school teachers, deaconesses and gospel workers.

Sixty-seven of the 115 students are first year enrolments. They are taking a three-year-course.

The Peterborough theological college is the first Pentecostal college to have students in residence. Formerly there were only day schools.

Opening Ceremony

The official opening will be at 7:45 pm in the Brock Street Summer Gardens. College authorities said the campus is not big enough for the ceremony. Mayor Max Swanston and the public have been invited to attend.

There will be a 115-voice student choir and the orchestra from Full Gospel Pentecostal Church, augmented by some student musicians. A group of students, representing their individual province, state, or country, will introduce themselves and speak briefly.

Guest speaker will be the Rev. A. A. Wilson, Kansas City, Missouri, a noted conference speaker.

College authorities are holding open house all day at the college (Argyle and Sunnyside Streets), and would like the Peterborough public to come and inspect their new premises.

JAMES E. GIRVEN was named today to take over as works manager of the Peterborough plant of the Canadian General Electric Co. Oct. 15 succeeding Ian F. McRae who was promoted to assistant to the vice-president in the head office in Toronto. Mr. Girven began his career with the CGE as an apprentice 28 years ago. — (Examiner Staff Photo)

Woman Dies In Attic Room With Gas Jets Turned On

The "Little old lady of Stanley Park," Mrs. Annie Stewart, whose girlhood was spent in Peterborough, is dead. A Canadian Press dispatch from Vancouver today tells the pathetic story of her last days. The tiny woman, crippled by arthritis, who was forced to live in the park briefly this summer because of poverty, died in loneliness in her attic room near English Bay. Her body was found Monday in her gas-filled room. Gas jets were turned full on.

About her were found tragic signs of her loneliness—letters she had sent to her daughter, returned "address unknown".

Enquiries made by The Examiner indicate that Mrs. Stewart had a son, Donald, and a daughter Eleanor. It was presumably to her that the undelivered letters were addressed.

Friends In City

The gentle little lady was not as old as the Vancouver papers indicate. She was 54 and friends of hers in Peterborough, some of whom still corresponded with her, remember her as a girl and young woman in her father's home, 270 Charlotte St., just west of the Bethune St. railway tracks. Mrs. Stewart last visited Peterborough in the winter of 1947. A retired person of gentle breeding, she suffered in her late years from intermittent mental illness.

Six weeks ago, as the Canadian Press relates, Mrs. Stewart was found huddled in the shelter of the Pauline Johnston Memorial in the park.

She explained she was trying to conserve her meagre funds. It was a case, she said softly, of "keep my room and starve, or live outdoors and eat."

For 10 days she had existed like that, doubled up with rheumatism.

Found Her A Room

The Salvation Army found her a room and got her a social service grant. Medical treatment was arranged, and doctors said she could have been cured in a year.

She was eating regularly, had a radio, and the Army had arranged for a friend from the east to visit her.

Peterborough friends of Mrs Stewart remark that she was "not herself" when she last came east. She had been making her home with her daughter, Miss Eleanor Stewart, in Vancouver, whose address last Christmas was 971 Nicola Street.

Mrs. Stewart also had a son, Donald, who was brought up in Peterborough, went west and joined the merchant marine.

Father A Doctor

The late Mrs. A. G. (Annie) Stewart was the only daughter of Dr. Henry Pigeon, an English physician. She was no relation of the Peterborough-Lakefield pioneer Stewarts. Dr. Pigeon came to Peterborough to practice. He died many years ago and his widow subsequently went to Banff and there re-married. After her father's death, their daughter Annie went as a young woman to Regina and there married a westerner, Ormiston Stewart. She is remembered with affection and kindness by many Peterborough and district friends.

Dr. Henry Pidgeon died December 7, 1904, and is buried in Little Lake cemetery. His home and office was in the building that has been for some years the store of T. J. Cavanagh on Charlotte St., afterwards occupied by the late Robert Hicks.

TWO CARS COLLIDE

Slight damage was done to the fenders of two cars when they were in collision Tuesday night at Aylmer and King Sts. James E. Girven Named Works Manager Of Peterborough CGE Plant

Succeeds Ian McRae Moving To Toronto As Assistant To Vice-President; Began As Apprentice 28 Years Ago

The young graduate of Lakefield High School who one evening years ago replied to an advertisement in The Examiner for an apprentice in the laboratory of Canadian General Electric Company is about to move into the office of its works manager in Peterborough. The appointment of James E. Girven as successor to Ian F. McRae is announced by the company today. Mr. McRae is being transferred to the head office in Toronto as assistant to Vice-President K. J. Corkery.

Rumors of these impending promotions of two of this city's leading industrial executives have somewhat anticipated the official announcement. Public reception of the expected news was indicated in sentiment by the statement of Mayor M. J. Swanston at the council meeting on Monday night, particularly in the prospect of Peterborough's eventual loss of Mr. McRae as one of its greatly respected and valued citizens.

The Examiner has heard these intimations of change within recent weeks, but has withheld publication until official verification was received from the company today.

Possibly, Mr. Girven has not yet given thought to the fact that he is the first Peterborough man to reach the responsibility of local works manager of Canadian General Electric Co.

The company's announcement follows:

"Mr. Girven's appointment becomes effective October 15, exactly 10 years and one day from the date he was named Assistant Manager of this plant, and some 28 years from the time he began his career with CGE.

"A native of the Peterborough district, Mr. Girven joined the company after leaving Lakefield high school and began his apprenticeship as a Materials Laboratory Technician in September 1923. He graduated from the course in April of 1927, and shortly thereafter began an association with wire and cable manufacturing which was to continue until his executive appointment.

Wire Expert

"In the materials laboratory, under engineer of materials George S. Parlour, he became secretary of the wire and cable committee, and soon developed into the plant's principal engineer on wire and cable products.

"At that time, works accountant R. E. Layfield was chairman of the wire and cable committee. Now retired, in British Columbia, Mr. Layfield is credited with much of the ground work which brought wire manufacture to its present prominence. And Mr. Girven acknowledges a personal debt for assistance received while the works accountant maintained an active interest in the operations of the wire department.

"The leadership Mr. Girven had established in the works laboratory was recognized in October, 1930, when he was transferred from there to the general engineering section of the engineering department as wire and cable engineer, under A. B. Gates.

"In 1938, the wire department was reorganized into a pattern resembling the manufacturing divisions which were to follow, and Mr. Girven was promoted to engineer in charge of the department on October 14 of that year. Thus, the wire and cable specialist who had entered the plant as a boy with no idea of what lay ahead, found himself 15 years later in charge of one of the plant's largest departments.

Promoted Again

"That he carried out this major responsibility in a capable manner is evidenced by the fact that three years later, October 14, 1941, he was named assistant works manager of CGE's largest plant after serving a few months as assistant to Mr. I. F. McRae. In recent years, he has assumed an increasing share of the works manager's duties as Mr. McRae was given special assignments by head office as assistant to Vice-President Corkery.

"This has resulted in Mr. Girven's office becoming a very busy place, but those who worked with him in the plant will assert that 'Jim Girven hasn't changed

Everyone's Business

One Man's Accident Can Affect Hundreds District Industrial Leaders Told

This month, a campaign to make October an accident-free month in industry is being sponsored by the Industrial Accident Prevention Associations throughout the province.

Tuesday night, the Peterborough-Lindsay Section of IAPA launched the campaign in this area at their first dinner meeting of the 1951-52 season at the Kawartha Golf and Country Club.

Representatives from industries in the Peterborough-Lindsay district attending the dinner were given a grim reminder that "all accidents do not happen in the factory."

Quoting the banner headline in Monday's Examiner— FIND WOMAN SUFFOCATED, HUSBAND STILL UNCONSCIOUS, in his opening remarks, J. E. Girven, chaiman of the local IAPA Section added, "The tragedy of this is that it could have been prevented."

"A person just can't keep his accidents to himself," declared the guest speaker, Norman E. Russell of Toronto, first vice-president of the Industrial Accident Prevention Associations of Ontario.

Vitally Interested.

"Accident prevention is everybody's business and everybody must have a vital interest in accident prevention," said Mr. Russell. "Although the job of a company president is not usually considered to be a hazardous occupation from an accident standpoint, the president of a firm has an accident every time one of his employees has one," said Mr. Russell who is vice president of Aluminum Goods Limited.

Everyone associated with a person who is injured in an accident, his employer, his foreman, his fellow workers and his family is involved in the after effects of an accident, the speaker said. Accidents can be prevented by acquiring safety habits. It takes time to acquire the habit of doing things instinctively but it could be done, he continued.

As an example, he cited the way aluminum workers avoid being burned by handling hot sheets of aluminum, (which doesn't change color when it is extremely hot) by making a quick "test touch" of the sheets with one or two fingers before picking them up.

Turning to different methods of promoting interest in accident prevention work, Mr. Russell said it was important to remember when "legislation" and other short term methods are being suggested that people are involved in most accidents.

No Prevention Machinery.

"You can't find machinery to handle accident prevention the way combines handle wheat," he warned. "We use machinery so much these days, we are often tempted to treat people the same as we do automobiles, washing machines and other pieces of equipment."

Mr. Russell said that teaching safety rules was only the "kindergarten stage" in educating workers to prevent accidents.

"It takes a long time to change the thinking and attitudes of people but it can be done. Looking back to the formation of the first IAPA, we have come a long way.

"Everybody has to be convinced he is going to take up his individual responsibility. In industry, someone must have the responsibilitiy of directing the program and there is no better person than the head of the organization. By following the usual chain of command down through department heads to foremen, results can be obtained not by coercion but through co-operation, each man working in co-operation with the man to whom he is directly responsible."

The speaker was introduced by Lou Ingram, Past President of the IAPA of Ontario and thanked by Harry Baptie, Past President of the Central Ontario Division of IAPA.

Red Italian Port Again Becomes US Supply Base

By STAN SWINTON.

LEGHORN, Italy, Oct. 3 (AP) —Bomb-blasted Leghorn is resuming its Second World War role of a major United States supply base.

Through the still-scarred port, liberated by American soldiers in 1945, flow the supplies of the US occupation army in Austria.

Within a few months, 110 officers, 650 soldiers and 2,000 Italian civilian employees will be operating this end of the supply lifeline running a rail through the famed Brenner Pass in the Alps.

It's a ticklish job. Leghorn's city government is Communist. The port union and the stevedores association are bossed by the Reds. So far, however there have been no incidents involving Italians and US personnel.

In charge of the new base, granted to the United States by Italy over furious Communist protests, is Col. Norman H. Vissering of Lake Wales, Fla.

Vissering has leased a 25-acre dock area north of Leghorn in the same location as the huge wartime dumps of Gen Mark Clark's Fifth Army. A bombed-out 15-acre steel works was taken over for warehouse space.

Temporary Headquarters

A temporary headquarters has been set up in a former gambling casino at Tirrenia, six miles north of Leghorn.

Five floors of a half-completed new office building will be the permanent headquarters.

The troops are living in a former resort hotel where they eat off white table cloths and have a spic-and-span new post exchange. An American school for dependents opened Sept. 10.

Little post-war reconstruction has been done in Leghorn. Italian capital avoided the city because the Communists pulled strike after political strike in the factories.

As a result there is a housing shortage. When news broke of the new US base, a major Red propaganda claim was that the Americans would make the housing situation even more acute.

Private Development

Colonel Vissering trumped that propaganda ace. He persuaded private Italian capital to build a housing development especially for the Americans. Married soldiers will pay about $60 a month for a home. That's far below the average rent here.

The major task of the new base is to provide a safe, short supply route to Austria.

The former route ran from the German port of Bremen across Germany to Austria. That could be quickly cut if the Russians attack across Germany.

Informed sources say if the Russians struck at Austria, allied armies would fall back on the easily defended Alps around the Brenner Pass. Leghorn could keep ammunition and guns rapidly moving up to forces fighting there.

Blow at Communism

One indirect result of the US base may be that Leghorn will abandon Communism. The city has 14,000 unemployed, according to best estimates. The Americans will lower this by 2,000 and also stimulate indirect employment.

American soldiers in the command are in a peculiar position. Modern Italy never before has permitted foreign garrisons within her borders in peacetime.

One tricky political problem still has to be solved. The Americans are unwilling to hire dock laborers from the Communist-controlled stevedores association. They have been hiring non-union non-Communists.

Five hundred of the 1,300 stevedores in the association are non-Communist. They are bitter that they have been bypassed for jobs.

Leghorn's non - Communists fear bitter labor strife may begin between the association stevedores and the non-union men working the docks for the Americans. They are hopeful a compromise will be arranged in which the US authorities will hire non-Communist members of the Stevedores' Association under a special arrangement guaranteeing they would not abide by any political strike call.

Two RCMP Flying Squads Will Guard Royal Pair

OTTAWA, Oct 3 (CP)—Two flying squads of RCMP motorcyclists will follow Princess Elizabeth and the Duke of Edinburgh across Canada on the Royal tour, an RCMP spokesman said Tuesday.

The two eight-man squads will form part of the protection provided by Canada, which will assume practically all responsibility for the security of the Royal couple.

In 1939, when the King and Queen visited Canada, Scotland Yard sent two men in advance to survey the situation and had three men on the Royal train. This time it will be an all-Canadian show except that Inspector F. Kelly of Scotland Yard, the Princess' personal detective, will acompany the Royal party.

Assistant Commissioner M. F. E. Anthony, 48-year-old director of criminal investigation, is in charge of co-ordinating security arrangements with city, provincial and railroad police and will accompany the Royal party throughout their trip on this continent.

The party will have four personal attendants in addition to the motorcycle squads, consisting of a sergeant and three constables. The latter four will attend the Royal party at all times during walks or processions.

When Elizabeth and Philip fly, two Mounties will go on the Royal plane and two will follow in the other official plane.

Eight Mounties on the Royal train will be augmented by railway police throughout the trip.

The two motorcycle squads and their motorcycles will be transported across the country by RCAF Dakota aircraft, moving in advance of the Royal party and escorting them during processions in the various cities.

Assistant Commissioner Anthony, who has held major RCMP posts in Toronto, Vancouver and Winnipeg, will also accompany the Princess and her consort to Washington, assisted by two of the four personal attendants. U.S. authorities will be responsible for security arrangements during that portion of the tour.

After a brief period of recreation Bill Peltz took the chair for the business session .It was decided to proceed with plans for a turkey dinner to be held early in December. This is to be a "get-together" for the congregation with the Women's Association looking after the meal and the young peoole taking charge of the entertainment and other details.

Offer $10,000 Reward If Barilko Found

TORONTO, Oct. 3 — (CP). — The directors of Maple Leaf Gardens Tuesday posted a reward of $10,000 for the person who locates missing hockey player Bill Barilko, dead or alive.

The Toronto Maple Leafs defenceman and Dr. Henry Hudson, Himmins dentist, have been missing in Northern Ontario since August 26 when their light plane took off from Rupert's House, on the southern tip of James Bay, en route home after a week-end fishing trip.

A widespread air search has been carried on since then by the RCAF, Department of Lands and Forests, and private planes.

Conn Smythe, president of the Maple Leaf Gardens, said Tuesday night:

"We are making this announcement at a time when hundreds of hunters will be flocking to the north and we hope the offer of a reward will result in a final all-out effort to locate either the men or their bodies before freeze up time."

The offer terminates January 1, 1952, and if there is more than one claimant, the president of the Gardens will divide the reward as he thinks appropriate.

Fewer Sweets Reduce Tooth Decay

Experimental evidence cited by Dr. Gordon Nikiforuk in the current issue of Health indicates a strong relationship between sugar and tooth decay. He adds, however, that it does not necessarily follow that people who eat sugar will suffer from tooth decay, any more than all people who are exposed to the tubercle bacilli will inevitably contract tuberculosis. Sugar is one of the important factors, but it is not the only factor.

"Tooth decay is a complex process influenced by many factors, some of which are not fully understood," writes Dr. Nikiforuk, who is associate professor of pedontics of the Faculty of Dentistry, University of Toronto. "A more complete explanation of all observed clinical facts will only be possible when, through research, we learn more about such factors as the influence of saliva, tooth structure and tooth substance, prenatal tooth development, and systematic conditions as they are related to dental health."

There is reason to hope, according to this article in the Health League of Canada's official magazine, that within the next few decades research will develop a method by which tooth decay may be prevented.

Sound Advice

"In the meantime a reduction in sweets is sound advice," says Dr. Nikiforuk. "And when this is coupled with sound nutritional habits and good oral hygiene, Canadians will enjoy better dental health."

The following dietary guide are offered as a means of reducing tooth decay:

1.—An appetite for sweet foods can be acquired by children at an early age. Therefore it is important to refrain from excessive sweets during childhood. There is no need for sweetening the baby's orange juice or pablum with sugar.

2.—Reduce the number of eating periods during which candies, jams, cookies and cakes are consumed. If you must eat sweets, they should constitute part of the meal.

3.—Immediately after eating, remove food debris by thorough brushing and rinsing. Brushing teeth two hours after eating sweets is of little benefit. Eating a raw fruit after a meal will often clean you teeth as well as a good mouth rinse.

4.—A nutrition program that adheres to the Canada Food Rules, which does not recommend refined sweetened foods, is economically and nutritionally the most sound plan to follow. There is no need for a special nutrition program for dental health.

Anatomy Professor Defines Woman — Still Likes Them

MONTREAL, Oct. 3 (CP). — Woman, man's better half? Well, here's how Dr. C. P. Martin, professor of anatomy at McGill University, described woman to the Montreal Medico-Chirurgical Society's annual meeting.

"Woman possesses certain contrasts and certain likenesses to man. She is rather more knock-kneed. Her brain is definitely smaller. She has not that delicate ability, that sense of higher values that characterizes man. She is less sensitive to pain. Man faints more easily than woman. She has an inherent untruthfulness covers herself up with juices and powders. . . In spite of the outrageous way they behave to us (man), we like them, we can't get on without them."

"Mother of Three Works 74-hr. Week Childless Wife 47"

QUEBEC, Oct. 3 (CP).—Jean Daric, chief of France's Institute of Demography, said in a talk at Laval University last night that a mother of three children works a 74-hour week.

He said a survey conducted among 1,800 married women in France showed the childless wife was busy 47 hours a week with dish-washing and house work.

Mr. Daric said care of one child takes about 11 hours a week of a mother's time, two children take 15 to 16 hours and three children 20 hours.

Mr. Daric said the survey was conducted to establish the "economic value" of a woman's work in the home.

City Chicken Offered In Special-Purpose Menu

Oven Dinner

City Chicken (see directions)
Baked Curried Rice
Baked Stuffed Tomatoes
Relish Tray: Celery Hearts, Tiny Raw Cauliflower Flowerets, Dill Strips, Radishes
Shoo Fly Pie Coffee

DIRECTIONS:

City Chicken

Originally this was intended to seem so tender and delicious because it was breaded veal impaled on a skewer in the shape of a drumstick. I have made a similar shape but used three different meats, beef, veal and lamb, all shoulder cuts, and found it delicious. Cut 1½-inch cubes of lamb, 1¼-inch cubes veal, and 1-inch cubes beef; line up 1 or 2 cubes of each on wooden skewers, having the smallest ones at bottom with about 1 inch of the skewer protruding, dip in beaten egg diluted with a little water, then in fine salted and peppered crumbs. Saute in butter or margarine until golden. Place, bare end of skewer out, in a circle on large glass pie plate or shallow baking dish, add ¾ cup boiling water, cover, and bake at 350 deg. Fahr. until meats are tender —turning once or twice, and adding water as necessary.

Baked Curried Rice

Wash one cup brown or long grain white rice in sieve until water running through is not cloudy. Put in buttered baking dish. Mix together 1 teaspoon each curry powder and salt. Sprinkle over top. Dot with 2 tablesoons butter or margarine. Pour over 2½ cups boiling water. Cover. Bake 1½ hours at the same time city chicken is baking.

Baked Stuffed Tomatoes

Six rather large tomatoes, ½ tablespoon finely chopped onion, 2 tablespoons butter or margarine, ½ cup crumbs, ½ cup fresh corn cut from cob (or slightly sauteed mushrooms or at other times when no meat is being served add ½ to 1 cup chopped leftover ham or veal or chicken) ½ teaspoon salt, pepper, 1 egg, ½ cup buttered crumbs. Wipe tomatoes and cut slice from stem end. Scoop out the inside leaving ½ inch walls; sprinkle inside with salt and invert for 15 minutes. Brown the onion slightly in the butter, add the crumbs, vegetable or meat, tomato pulp previously scooped out and seasonings and cook 5 minutes over low heat. Add the slightly beaten egg. Refill shells, cover with buttered crumbs, place in greased casserole and bake at same time other dishes for this dinner are baking for about 25 minutes. When possible bake these for 20 minuntes at 425 deg. Fahr.

Shoo Fly Pie

This is included on the verbal request of Mrs. O'N.

Bottom Part: ¾ cup barbados or dark molasses, ; cup boiling water, ½ teaspoon soda.

Top Part: 1½ cups flour, ¼ cup margarine or shortening, ½ cup light or dark brown sugar.

Dissolve the soda in the hot water and add to molasses. Mix together the sugar and flour and rub the shortening in to make it crumbly. Pour one-third of the liquid into an unbaked crust. Add one-third of the crumb mixture. Continue alternate layers finishing with crumbs. Bake on the bottom shelf of the oven when the other items for this dinner are baking. This should be cool to serve so start baking it when the City Chicken is put in the oven. It requires about 40 minutes. If baked alone 375 deg. Fahr. is the correct temperature, and 35 minutes baking time.

Of Interest to Women

DOROTHY DIX

Old Man's Last Fling Said Not Worth Price of Son

DEAR DOROTHY DIX: I am writing in the hope of helping some other father who may face what I have just been through. I am a man in my fifties. I have just seen my son leave for foreign service with the armed forces and in his eyes I saw hate and disrespect for me where I should have seen love and honor. At one time he was proud to be called my son, but I forfeited that right when I became involved with another woman in what I thought was happiness. He saw me crush his mother and ruin our home. This woman meant so much to me that nothing else in the world mattered—or so I thought until today when I saw the look in my boy's eyes. I wish to God I had never put it there! I know now, when it is too late, that the happiness I thought I had can never make up to me for what I've done to my son. I let him down and killed something fine and good in him. An old man's last fling isn't worth the price of a son.

B.H.F.

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: These words from a man who learned his bitter lesson too late preach more eloquently than I ever could of the wages of sin. Punishment is not always saved for the hereafter; it is meted out on earth, too. Losing the devotion and respect of loved ones is a heavy price to pay for the fleeting joys of a passing romance, yet how few count the cost when they lightly break up one—sometimes two—homes to satisfy their aging passion masking as true love.

Love Needs Honor

Love is a wonderful motivation; after all, the poet tells us, it makes the world go 'round. In itself, however, it is neither the strongest nor the purest emotion. For completeness, it needs coupling with honor and loyalty. To call upon a poet again, "I could not love thee dear so much, loved I not honor more."

To give it up all for love may be a marvellous theme for a book, movie or soap opera; in real life it can be a sordid, selfish affair with tragic consequences.

The saddest letters—and their number is legion—that come to my desk are from men and women with devoted mates, happy families, pleasant homes, who urgently seek my approval of breaking up that happy home and riding down the moonlit trail with a sweetheart or lover. Never do they get the approval and seldom, I am sure, do they follow the advice to give up the illicit affair and stay home. The call of romance is too alluring. Within a few months, or perhaps years, the thrill is gone, and nothing remains of the so-called undying love save several broken hearts. Is it worth it? Here's one man, at least, not afraid to say it wasn't!

DEAR MISS DIX: I like to cook and am considered a good cook, but on the money my husband gives me I have little chance to show my skill. He will not give me a budget for food; every day I must ask for what I need; then I get a portion of it, plus a lecutre on what I did with yesterday's money. No matter how careful I am he's never pleased and he simply doesn't realize that food costs are going up. I even hate to have guests for a meal because it means a scene about the extra money. He makes a wonderful salary, so it isn't lack of money. He just seems to enjoy getting me worked up every day about the food question.

P. P.

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: On hubby's day off, give him a shopping list and tell him to get the food. Nothing brings a man up to date on food costs like a trip to the market. If he refuses to go, declare a strike and refuse to cook until he brings the food into the house. Drastic measures are the only means to bring a penny-plucking husband to heel, and unless you want to face a future of petty money squabbles, you'd better use them.

✧ ✧ ✧

DEAR MISS DIX: I am in love with a fellow who is rarely on time for our dates. Sometimes he doesn't keep them at all, and doesn't even let me know he's not coming. How can I cure him?

T. H.

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: Chronic lateness and indifference to dates is a difficult habit to cure. People with these faults are apt to shrug them off lightly with an airy, "Well, I have no conception of time!" All attempts to excuse this extreme discourtesy are utter nonsense. Anyone with respect for other people will keep a date—and on time. Unavoidable delay will be announced, with apologies, by telephone.

I doubt if you can cure your friend unless you try the same tactics on him. When he arrives for a date, tell him you've changed your mind about going. If he doesn't arrive on time, leave the house, if it's only to go across the street to a neighbor's, but don't be available when he arrives. He may take the hint! If not, you must either accept the habit or get a new boy friend.

Men Bow Slightly From Waist Women To Curtsey

TORONTO, Oct. 3 (CP).—The well-informed man will bow slightly from the waist when presented to Princess Elizabeth and the Duke of Edinburgh.

City Clerk George Weale, who has had so much experience in that sort of thing that he's become Toronto's unofficial chief of protocol, briefed city council last night on what to do when meeting royalty. The councillors will meet the Royal couple here Oct. 12.

In the male bow, the head does not incline, Mr. Weale demonstrated at what might be termed an executive session of council, after its regular meeting.

The city clerk can also do a neat curtsey. His effort drew a round of applause from the attentive councillors.

What should the well-dressed councillor wear on such an occasion?

Mr. Weale said he favors dark lounge suits, or, even better, "executive suits."

The latter, said indigenous to Toronto's Bay Street, consist of striped trousers and straight-cut dark coats. They also are known as "directors' suits."

Find Plane Wreckage

TOKYO, Oct. 3 — (AP) — A ground search party found the bodies of five crew members in the wreckage of a C-119 transport on a peak 60 miles south of Tokyo, Far East Air Forces Headquarters said today. The "Flying Boxcar" had been missing since Sept. 27.

A LARGE EXPORTER OF PURE FOOD PRODUCTS to all parts of the British Commonwealth is A. Wander Company of Peterborough. Part of a large shipment to India was photographed on Tuesday pulling out of the plant siding. Shipments are going forward steadily to South Africa and the West Indies as well as India and from coast to coast in Canada. The company has factories in England, Australia, New Zealand, the United States, Switzerland and France.—(Examiner Staff Photo)

Driver Waved To Policeman, Fined By Court

Thomas Hughes, Lansdowne St. E., was fined $57 and costs today when convicted by Magistrate W. R. Philp of driving while his licence was suspended. At a previous hearing, Hughes pleaded not guilty.

Constable Dennis Traynor told court at the previous hearing that he had seen Hughes driving a truck north on George St. on September 22. Today, Crown Attorney John A. Bradshaw, KC, filed a certificate from the registrar of motor vehicles saying Hughes' licence was suspended at that time.

Another Driving

Hughes testified today that he was not the driver at the time; another man who was going to buy the truck was driving.

The constable said that on the day in question, he heard a car horn blown and looked up to see Hughes waving at him. Hughes said he had been sitting in the middle of the truck seat, not in the driver's seat, at the time.

Defence counsel W. J. Arthur Fair, KC, argued that there was a conflict of evidence and that Hughes should be given the benefit of the doubt.

Magistrate Philp ruled that there would be a conviction, but refused the request of the crown for the forfeiture of the truck.

James E. Girven

one whit from the time he was boss of the wire department.'

"Although Mr. Girven's social activities in the community have been limited by the demands of business, he has found time to give active support to several public welfare groups in the city. Particularly interested in health services, he is a director of the National Board of the Health League of Canada, and a past-president of the Victoria Order of Nurses in Peterborough. He is also a director of the Peterborough Chamber of Commerce; a past-president of the Lions Club and of the Kawartha Club. In the plant, he is an active member and has lent assistance to the work of the Quarter Century Club and the Foremen's Association.

"While he was closely connected with wire and cable, Mr. Girven was a member of the Wire and Cable Technical Committee, a manufacturing group covering the entire industry in Canada, and he served as chairman of the rubber-insulated section of that committee.

"One of Mr. Girven's prime interests has always been the promotion of safety and the elimination of industrial accidents. He served on the executive committee of the Central Ontario Division, IAPA, for several years, and was recently elected chairman of the Peterborough-Lindsay section. His first official function in the new office was a meeting on Tuesday of this week to open "No Accident Month" activities in the district.

Despite the demands of his work as an eminent industrial executive, Mr. Girven still finds time for a bit of fishing from his Chemong Lake cottage. But relaxing at home with his two delightful daughters and their charming mother is his idea of recreation at its finest."

Mr. Girven is in the line of management of CGE manifesting breadth of sentiments and interests, chiefly of personal inspiration, extending beyond the scope and concern of actual production and business. It has been observed in so many little things, apart from others, indicating warmth and sincerity of feeling that has earned for the first executives the respect of the community of Peterborough. The public has been conscious of that spirit with deepening appreciation.

Good Team

Mr. Girven briefly mentioned to the Examiner that when the post of assistant works manager was proposed to him it was not even in t' e borders of his thinking. At that time he was happy in the affairs of wire and cable division of the plant. Since then it has seemed to the public that as assistant to Mr. McRae their relations have been marked by fine compatability, an apparent fact that speaks much for both of them in their onward way.

It is also characteristic of Mr. Girven that he wished to remember gratefully agencies of influence in his life, his mentioning of Lakefield High School, his tribute to Robert E. Layfield and George Parlour, for example.

James and Helen Girven and their daughters Nancy and Elizabeth live at 367 Mark Street, in Ashburnham.

MAIN ST. TOPICS

FIRE AT INCINERATOR

Fire early today licked into a quantity of paper and cardboard that had been set aside for salvage at the city incinerator, Townsend St. Much of the salvaged material was destroyed and a window sash singed. The value of the paper and cardboard was small—not more than $15.

FETE CLUB FOUNDER

A gathering of the "old originals" of the YMCA Friday Night Club is expected Friday night. The guest of honor will be James H. F. Wallace, Vancouver, the first chairman of the club which was organized 26 years ago. Mr. Wallace and his wife are visiting the city for a few days. Those wishing to attend the dinner should contact the YMCA or G. H. Roper, retired general secretary of the YMCA.

NOMINATION MEETING

Durham Liberals will choose their candidate for the next provincial election at a nomination meeting in Orono on the night of October 15, it was decided at a meeting of the Durham County Liberal Association Executive held in Newcastle Town Hall Monday night.

HIGH COMMISSIONER

Ramji R. Saksena, Indian High Commissioner to Canada, and Madam Saksena stopped in Peterborough for lunch today while motoring from Ottawa to Toronto.

CIVIL MARRIAGES

Since the institution of civil marriages a year ago, Magistrate W. R. Philp has performed six or seven, he said today. People are sticking pretty well to church ceremonies, the magistrate believes.

CAR DAMAGED

A car driven by Joe M. Gear, 19 Park St. S., was slightly damaged Tuesday at 5:05 p.m. when it was hit by a car driven by Morris Hughes, 318 Burnham St. Hughes' auto was parked behind Gear's on Park St. in front of the CGE when Hughes pulled out and hit the left rear fender of Gear's car. The tail light was smashed and the fender dented.

Civilian Planes Must Avoid Royal Aircraft

OTTAWA, Oct. 3 — (CP). — Civilian aircraft will have to keep well clear of Princess Elizabeth and Prince Philip while the Royal visitors are in Canada, according to Transport Department regulations made public today.

While the Royal couple are in the air, either during their arrival or on the nine flights during the tour, no civilian plane may come within three miles of their aircraft.

While the party is on the ground, non-scheduled flights by civil aircraft are barred over an area on the ground within a one-mile radius from the Royal group except for landing or taking off from an airport.

On the flight from Britain to Montreal's Dorval Airport Monday, Their Royal Highnesses will be in a British Overseas Airways Corporation plane. On their air moves through Canada and between Montreal and Washington; they will be in the government's Canadair C5.

The department warned pilots not to approach closer than three miles to any four-engine aircraft along the Royal air route at the times the party's plane will be aloft.

The Royal flights will be made on these days:

October 8, Britain to Dorval; October 12, Trenton to Toronto; October 15, Windsor to Kapuskasing; October 16, Kapuskasing to Winnipeg; October 23, Saskatoon to Rivers, Man., to the Lakehead; October 29, Lakehead to North Bay to Montreal; October 31, Montreal to Washington; November 2, Washington to Montreal.

REGAL EGGS

Eggs fit for a king and big enough for both a king and queen are being laid by a hen owned by Bob Freeburn of Young's Point. Two of the six-months-old hen's efforts were brought to the Examiner Tuesday by a friend of Mr. Freeburn's. No dimensions were available, but the eggs weighed a quarter-pound each. Inside one was another egg—about Grade A large size—and the large egg had two yolks of its own. The other large egg had not been broken.—JE

Frost Announces Election To Be Held November 22

MOSSADEGH'S STAND CHEERED—Iran's Premier Mohammed Mossadegh rides on the shoulders of cheering admirers in the streets of Teheran after he had reiterated his determined stand on the nationalization of the Anglo-Iranian Oil Co. The UN Security Council has voted to place the dispute on its agenda.

Puts An End To Hot Speculation

Legislature Dissolved Premier Says In Kingston Bulletin

KINGSTON, Oct. 4 (ENS)—Premier Leslie Frost in an announcement here this afternoon said that a new election will be held Thursday, November 22. The Ontario Legislature will be dissolved immediately.

TORONTO, Oct. 4. (CP) — High officials in the Progressive Conservative party say the date of an Ontario general election will be announced today. One source told The Canadian Press the announcement may come around 3:30 p.m. or later.

A Toronto paper reported in a newspage story that the vote will be Nov. 22—the one suggested most frequently in recent speculation.

This report said the announcement will be made by one of the cabinet ministers in the absence of Premier Frost in Kingston to open a new school and to speak to a Progressive Conservative meeting tonight.

Some observers thought the announcement would be made by the Premier and in Toronto but by noon today they weren't ready to pay any money on it.

Rumor Spread

There was a stir of excitement Wednesday when the cabinet held a long meeting to which Major Alex Lewis, chief election officer was called. Rumors spread tha the Legislature would be dissolved and an election called right after the meeting. But nothing happened.

One possible reason for a delay has turned up. The Active Service Election Act the Legislature passed a year ago has never been proclaimed law. Until this step is taken there is no machinery for taking a vote among Ontario soldiers serving overseas in Korea. By the time the election comes around, others from Ontario may be in Europe with the 27th Brigade. Some officials feel certain that proclamation of this act will precede any election announcement.

Pearson Sees Little Hope Of Getting Seaway Started By Next Year, US Stumbling Block

OTTAWA, Oct. 4 (CP)—Despite a swiftly-moving series of developments on the St. Lawrence seaway, External Affairs Minister Pearson today saw little hope of getting the huge project started physically by next year.

He told his regular press conference there are too many political, constitutional and other difficulties in the way—chiefly in the United States.

However, he emphasized that the Canadian government is going ahead full steam with preparations for a Canadian-built seaway in readiness for a quick start should a joint US-Canada scheme fall through and the Canadian job get the necessary blessing from the US.

But he stressed, too, that the fact the Canadian government has decided to go ahead alone if necessary doesn't mean it can do this. It all hinges on the US, and there some new difficulties have cropped up recently, despite President Truman's Friday assurance that he will approve a Canadian seaway if Congress doesn't act soon.

A major constitutional difficulty now seen in some quarters, Mr. Pearson said, is the possibility that—in addition to Mr. Truman's okay—Congress also may have to approve the Canadian seaway. Congress has failed to act on the joint proposal for many years.

Grave New Dollar Crisis Facing Britain, Worst Since Devaluation

LONDON, Oct. 4. (AP)—The Labor government disclosed details Wednesday night of a grave new dollar crisis which shadows campaigning for the general election Oct. 25. The Chancellor of the Exchequer, Hugh Gaitskell, said the gold-dollar reserves of the British-banked sterling area shrank by $598,000,000 in the last three months to $3,269,000,000. The size of this drop in the kitty backing the sterling area's trade with the rest of the world shocked Treasury officials. Qualified sources had known there would be a drop, but forecast only a few weeks ago it would be in the neighborhood of $350,000,000 to $400,000,000.

Long, Hard Fight

The meaning of this financial storm warning for the Conservatives and the Labor Party is clear. Whichever side wins the election will have a long, hard fight to re-establish Britain's fortunes.

The gold-dollar decline is the biggest since mid-1949, which brought on devaluation of the pound from $4.03 to $2.80.

Gaitskell called for more austerity and for fewer imports from the dollar area, principally meaning the United States and Canada. The sterling area is made up of Burma, Iraq, Iceland and all countries of the Commonwealth, except Canada.

The hub of the crisis seems to be that the members are spending too many dollars and not earning enough. Empire wool, rubber, tin, jute and cocoa sales to the United States have sagged in dollar volume because prices have come down.

Addressing a banquet given by London's Lord Mayor, Gaitskell said the Labor government is sidestepping a decision now on whether to pay the United States $87,000,000 interest on the American loan, but will repay the first instalment of capital due Dec. 31.

Britain owes the United States a total of $4,350,000,000 under 1946 loan act and in lend-lease pipeline aid. She owes Canada $1,185,000,000 under more or less the same conditions.

House Prepares For Dissolution

LONDON, Oct. 4 (CP).—The House of Commons wound up its affairs today with traditional decorum, putting aside momentarily its anger over the loss of the oil refinery at Abadan and shock at the nose-dive of Britain's gold and dollar assets.

The formal preparations to dissolve parliament in advance for the Oct. 25 elections went off without a hitch. The impartial speaker ruled out of order an attempt by Independent member Raymond Blackburn to prod Prime Minister Attlee on his government's handling of the Iranian oil crisis.

All that remains now is the formal dissolution by the King Friday.

Normally the King would have attended Westminster with the full panoply of state to launch officially the election campaign.

Instead, his speech was read for him by the Lord Chancellor, Lord Jowett.

"My ministers have tried to achieve by negotiation a solution of the unfortunate dispute which has risen with the oil industry in Iran," it said. "But these efforts, despite the help rendered by the President of the United States and his special representative, have so far been unsuccessful."

Pats Start Big Attack On War Front

Fight 1st Offensive As Division, Good Tank Support

WESTERN FRONT, Korea, Oct. 4. (CP)—The Princess Patricia's Canadian Light Infantry Wednesday touched off a fierce new United Nations' assault which today had troops of nine countries smashing at Communist resistance along a 40-mile front in western Korea.

Reports from United States Eighth Army headquarters said today the Canadians, part of the Canadian 25th Brigade forming up for an attack with the Commonwealth Division, unwittingly touched off the big battle.

Chinese troops opposite the Patricias had launched a probing attack at 1.10 a.m. Wednesday and ran smack into the Canadians.

The report said the Patricias shot the force to pieces and blasted the remnants with artillery. The Reds scattered.

An hour later, headquarters said, the Allied artillery barrage was roaring along 32 miles of the western front.

Other reports, delayed by censor Wednesday, said tank-supported infantrymen of the Commonwealth Division jumped off before daybreak Wednesday from positions north of the Imjin River.

Tanks Help

Spectacular hill climbing by giant British Centurion tanks into fire-support positions helped the foot soldiers drive into defences on the hill dominating the division's front.

This sector was inside the giant "U" north and west of the winding Imjin river and east of the Samichon river.

The first Commonwealth offensive as a full division was fought over rugged, thickly-wooded hills in an almost trackless area unmarked by any sizable town

Chinese Attacks Slow Offensive, UN Gains 4 Miles

US EIGHTH ARMY HEADQUARTERS, Korea, Oct. 4. (AP)—Flame-throwing infantrymen from nine United Nations burned two narrow wedges in Chinese defences on the western front today in some of the fiercest fighting of the Korean war. Canadian troops advanced four miles. But smashing Red counter-attacks stopped the two-day-old Allied offensive cold along much of its 40-mile front. Gains up to four miles were hammered out in the two days. At other points gains were so limited the yardage was not announced.

See-saw battles ranged over all of the shrub-covered hills in the Imjin River sector northeast of Kaesong; site of the disrupted truce talks.

The Allied offensive was launched by five divisions behind one of the heaviest artillery barrages of the war. US, British, Canadian, Australian, New Zealand, Greek, Turk, South Korean and Filipino troops participated in the attack. Tanks and planes supported them.

The Chinese fought so stubbornly from their deeply dug-in positions—they've been digging in since truce talks started three months ago — they had to be turned out by flame thowers or blasted by hand grenades.

Make Big Advance

Canadian troops fighting west of Yonchon, seven miles north of the 38th Parallel, made the four-mile advance. Fifty-seven ton Centurion tanks supported their savage hand-to hand attacks.

Puerto Ricans of the 3rd Division plunged a mile abo northwest of Chorwon in the on other noteworthy US advance reported Thursday. The rapid US advance apparently caught the Reds by surprise. The five-hour push ran into only moderate resistantce. Chorwon is 17 miles north of the Parallel.

Other 3rd Division troops attacked a hill mass west of Chorwon for the fifth straight day. They reached the crest twice, only to be pushed off each time.

Between the 3rd Division and the Canadians, Red counter-attacks forced small withdrawals along a 10-mile sector. US 1st Division cavalrymen and supporting Greek troops made limited gains against heavy Red mortar and artillery fire in this sector northwest of Yonchon.

An Eighth Army briefing officer said the Reds "threw a number of counter-attacks" against the cavalrymen, "forcing slight withdrawals in one area."

A hundred UN planes rocketed, bombed, strafed and fire-bombed the Chinese along the west front.

A pooled dispatch from the eastern front said heavy Red mortar and artillery fire forced an Allied tank-infantry patrol to pull back Thursday after it probed up a valley east of Heartbreak Ridge.

French and American troops reported strong Red resistance from North Korean Reds still in control of Heartbreak.

Allied planes hurled 10 assaults at Red positions in the Heartbreak area.

The offensive smashed to within earshot of Kaesong, site of disrupted truce negotiations.

The Allies—British, Canadian, Australian, New Zealand, American, Greek, Turkish, Filipino and South Korean troops — fought shoulder to shoulder.

Giants Leading In First Game Of World Series

Giants	200 003
Yanks	010 00

YANKEE STADIUM, New York Oct. 4 (AP).—Allie Reynolds (17-8) an old hand at pitching in world series, was the Yankee starter as the sixth all New York world series opened today at Yankee Stadium. The Indian righthander was opposed by Dave Koslo (10-9), 31-year-old southpaw.

The lineups:

Giants—Stanky 2b, Dark ss, Thompson rf, Irvin lf, Lockman 1b, Thomson 3b, Mays cf, Westrum c, Koslo p.

Yanks—Mantle rf, Rizzuto ss, Bauer lf, DiMaggio cf, Berra c, McDougald 3b, Coleman 2b, Collins 1b, Reynolds p.

First Inning—Giants

Stanky sent an easy roller to Rizzuto who threw him out. Dark, hitting the first pitch, sent a soft fly to Mantle. Thompson walked on five pitches. With two strikes and no balls, Irvin lined a single over Coleman's head for the first hit off Reynolds in two consecutive games. Lockman smashed a ground rule double that bounced into the left field seats scoring Thomson, who had gone to third on Irving's single, while Irvin stopped at third. Irvin took advantage of Reynolds 'semi-windup and stunned the huge crowd by stealing home. Thomson walked on five pitches. Mays raised a high fly to Mantle in short right.

Have Own Devices Show A-Explosions

OTTAWA, Oct. 4. (CP)—Canada has her own scientific detection devices for registering atomic explosions, External Affairs Minister Pearson disclosed today but he indicated this country learned of the latest Russian explosion from the United States. In a brief and guarded statement at a press conference, the Minister said Canada's detection devices are not nearly as highly developed or expansive as those operated by the US. He declined to go into further detail on the grounds that the apparatus is high on the secrecy list.

A reporter asked whether Canada's devices picked up reactions from the second Russian blast.

"I don't want to say," Mr. Pearson answered.

But he confirmed that Canada was informed by the US government last week "as soon as it was reasonably certain from the detection devices that there had been an explosion."

No one here was surprised at the news, he said. Ottawa had been waiting for a second explosion ever since the first one more than two years ago. He saw no cause either for comfort or alarm among Canadians.

Mr. Pearson told reporters these things as well:

1. Canada is in general agreement with Anglo-French-American plans to moderate the Italian peace treaty and any bid from Italy for such treatment would receive "sympathetic consideration" here.

2. Canada's delegation to the November meeting of the UN general assembly in Paris will be announced this week. He will go over for the first sessions and then go down to Rome for the Atlantic pact council meetings late in November.

3. The system of sending parliamentary advisers from opposition parties to the UN meeting will be continued but there won't be as many of them as is usual.

The White House announced news of the second Russian explosion, Wednesday.

The announcement, coming just two years and two weeks after President Truman disclosed the first atomic explosion in Russia, gave no further details.

Both Sides Urge Talks Resumed, Split On Site

TOKYO, Oct. 4 (AP).—In an abrupt exchange of messages today, Communist and allied commanders each proposed that Korean truce talks be resumed immediately—but disagreed on a site.

Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway injected a new note into the situation by telling the Reds to pick a new site—as long as it was in no-man's-land. If it looks good to him, he said, armistice negotiations can resume at once.

The talks were broken off abruptly by the Communists Aug. 23.

The Reds started today's exchange by breaking a week-long silence. As a new allied offensive roared within earshot of Kaesong they answered a message Ridgway sent them last Thursday.

Reject Suggestion

The Reds rejected Ridgway's suggestion that talks start anew near Songhyon, a no-man's-land village six miles southeast of Kaesong. They said the suggestion was "devoid of reason."

The Communists said it would provide no new assurance that neutrality agreements would be observed. Instead they suggested:

"Both sides immediately resume the conference at Kaesong. At the first meeting . . . appropriate machinery should be established to stipulate a strict agreement concerning the neutralization of Kaesong."

Two hours after announcing the Communist communication, Ridgway replied. He told North Korean Premier Kim Il Sung and Chinese Gen. Peng Teh-huai:

"I have already made clear to you my views regarding the unsuitability of Kaesong as a conference site . . . satisfactory conditions for the resumption of the armistice talks can only be insured by moving the conference site to an area where it is not under the exclusive control of either side."

Quash Conviction On Forged Notes

TORONTO, Oct. 4. (CP)—Gerald Sullivan of Brampton, under sentence of 2½ years in penitentiary on a charge of uttering forged bank notes, Wednesday had his conviction quashed by the Ontario Court of Appeal.

The court ruled that evidence presented by the crown was insufficient to convict Sullivan.

Judgment was reserved on an appeal by Bert Hawkins of Toronto against conviction on a similar charge.

Sullivan and Hawkins were charged with passing forged $10 bank notes in the Port Hope-Cobourg area last spring.

Schooner Burns But Crew Safe

HALIFAX, Oct. 4 (CP) — The smouldering hulk of a three-masted schooner was found drifting off Newfoundland's west coast early today. The crew safely reached shore.

A message received at Corner Brook, Nfld., several hours after the Alfred and Emily was located said the crew landed at Bellburns Wednesday night.

Bellburns is about 18 miles south of the spot where the burning schooner was found.

The 197-ton craft, owned by A. W. Payne of Curling, Nfld., was burning fore and aft with only one o fher masts still standing when spotted by the tug Lillian.

The message received at Corner Brook said the crew members—numbering about seven—landed Wednesday night but gave no further details.

It was presumed, however, that they abandoned ship after trying to control the fire.

Salesman Convicted Of Assault On Child

OTTAWA, Oct. 4 (CP) — George L. Tilley, 55-year-old Toronto insurance salesman, today was convicted of indecent assault against a seven-year-old Ottawa girl.

The jury deliberated 15 minutes after Mr. Justice E. R. E. Chevrier told them there was insufficient evidence to convict Tilley on a charge of attempted rape.

Sentence was deferred pending the judge's decision on a surprise move by Crown Attorney Raoul Mercier, who sought to invoke Section 1054 of the Criminal Code.

The section, recently added to the code, would provide that if Tilley were found to be a criminal sexual psychopath he could be sentenced to two years on the charge of which he was found guilty and a further indeterminate sentence in prison, subject to review of his case every three years.

Blame Hurricane

TORONTO, Oct. 4 — (CP). — Southern Ontario's current record-smashing heat wave which has hatched a new generation of mosquitos, is blamed on a hurricane over the Atlantic about 100 miles east of Cape Hatteras. The weatherman expects the thermometer to keep on climbing, with a high of 85 degrees forecast for Friday. This would equal the all-time October record for this area.

French Troops Hurl Viet Minh Back

SAIGON, Indo-China, Oct. 4—(AP).—French forces in fierce battle have hurled back the column of Viet Minh troops which was advancing on Laichau, 180 miles northwest of Hanoi.

Laichau is the capital of the Thai Federation.

Announcing the repulse of the attack today, French army headquarters said hardbitten Moroccan fighters threw back the Communist-led Viet Minh units in disorder after a bitter struggle for control of a mountain pass.

The Viet Minh column retreated toward Binhlu—an outpost town northeast of Laichau—which the French lost Saturday after the Vietminh army launched its fall offensive.

The Viet Minh drove on the key French position in the northwest corner of Tonkin halted at the entrance to the mountain pass of Pousamcap.

Ottawa Hopeful US Will Drop Ban

OTTAWA, Oct. 4 (CP) — The Canadian government is hopeful the United States government will rescind recently-imposed restrictions against the import of dairy products, External Affairs Minister Pearson said today.

The minister expressed that hope when asked about a statement made here Tuesday by James Sinclair, parliamentary assistant to Finance Minister Abbott, that Canada and 11 other countries will retaliate against the US if it doesn't repeal the restrictions.

"The last thing in the world we want to do is to take retaliatory action against the United States," said Mr. Pearson.

Helped Build Flying Ball

TORONTO, Oct. 4 —(CP)—A man who claims to have helped build the "fantastic flying ball" seen by four northern New York residents says it's a plastic, egg-shaped balloon measuring about six feet across and powered by an electric motor.

A man who gave his name as Arthur Greenwood called The Canadian Press Wednesday and said he helped O. Edward of Toronto build the thing. Greenwood said he lived in New Toronto, a Toronto suburb.

Greenwood said the contraption is a motorized balloon capable of speeds up to 210 miles an hour. It could take off almost vertically while "hanging" on its electrically-driven propeller.

On its flight Tuesday, Greenwood said, it "took off from a secret hiding place near Ancaster (New Hamilton) and returned to another hiding place near Toronto." Further, it would be flown over Niagara Falls Sunday.

Canadian Official Snubs Nazi Minister At Reception

JAKARTA, Indonesia, Oct. 4—(Reuters). — A high Canadian official of the United Nations refused to shake hands with Hjalmar Schacht, Hitler's financial "wizard," at a reception Wednesday night.

Guests quoted the ofifcial. Dr. Hugh Keenleyside, Director-General of the UN Assistance Administration, as saying: "I know your black record. I shall have nothing to do with you."

Later, according to a statement issued by the administration's Jakarta office, Keenleyside called Schacht "a disgrace to the human race" and "an unprincipled turncoat and a despicable scoundrel."

Schacht is here to advise the Indonesian government on financial reforms.

The statement said: "At a buffet reception given by Sir Mirza Ismail (resident representative of the Technical Assistance Administration in Indonesia) the host presented to Dr. Keenleyside Mr. and Mrs. Schacht.

"Dr. Keenleyside shook hands politely with Mrs. Schacht, but withdrew his hand at once when Mr. Schacht offered to shake.

"Dr. Keenleyside said: 'I share the opinion of all decent people who know Schacht's history, and I cannot shake hands with a man having such a record.'"

Schacht was president of Hitler's Reichsbank and later finance minister. He was cleared of war crimes at the Nurnberg trials.

Dr. Keenleyside is known to friends and associates in Ottawa and throughout the diplomatic service as forthright in his beliefs and actions but strictly formal and restrained in his personal relations.

He has served as ambassador to Mexico and as deputy minister of mines and resources, the position he left a year ago to head the UN technical assistance commission.

King May See Privy Council

LONDON, Oct. 4—(Reuters)—The King, who underwent a major lung operation just 11 days ago, Friday may hold a sick-room meeting of his Privy Council to dissolve parliament.

This was disclosed today following a Buckingham Palace medical bulletin saying the Monarch continued to make steady progress in his convalescence.

The King himself appoints the Privy Council—made up of statesmen and others—to advise him on high constitutional affairs. It is normally summoned before a royal proclamation ends the life of a parliament.

But should the King not feel well enough to take part in Friday's ceremony, he can delegate authority to sign the proclamation to the Queen.

News that the King was well enough to want to perform one of his duties came as a happy surprise to the millions of his subjects who have anxiously followed daily bulletins on his progress.

Canadian Delegates Praise Moscow Life

MOSCOW, Oct. 4 (CP). — A Canadian delegation visiting the Soviet Union said today its members are convinced that the Russian people are striving "to broaden cultural and economic ties with the peoples of the world."

In a joint declaration made at a press conference, the Moscow newspaper Trud quoted Dewar Ferguson, head of the delegation and vice-president of the Canadian Seamen's Union, as telling of the delegation's travels and saying the members were impressed with "the peaceful construction" taking place in the USSR.

Truman Says Papers Revealing US Secrets

WASHINGTON, Oct. 4 (AP).—President Truman said today that his executive order tightening control over government information grew out of publication of 95 per cent of United States secrets "by the newspapers and slick magazines."

In a press conference, Truman sparred with newspapermen over the order and said he has no desire to suppress freedom of speech.

The order was issued Sept. 25. It empowers civilian as well as military of the government agencies to withhold information which they think might endanger the national security, and establishes uniform methods of "classifying" such information.

Although Truman's announcement of the new order said censorship was not involved, the order has been widely attacked by editors, publishers and many members of Congress as establishing censorship at the source of information to which the public is entitled.

5 Cars, Truck and Wagon Orillia Crash Casualties

ORILLIA, Oct. 4 (CP).—Three persons were injured, seven tons of fruit and vegetables wound up in a ditch and five automobiles, a truck and a wagon were damaged in two accidents near here Wednesday night. Damage was estimated at $15,000.

Alex Gowanlock, 12, of Orillia, was injured severely when thrown 20 feet as an automobile driven by John Miller, 58, of Buffalo, crashed into the rear of the wagon in which the boy was riding. The wagon was being pulled along the highway by a tractor driven by the boy's father, William Gowanlock. The latter was uninjured. Hospital officials today reported Alex's condition "very poor."

Shortly after, a truck driven by Wallace MacMillan of Queensville, Ont., came over the brow of a nearby hill, apparently out of control, and crashed into a car that had stopped for the earlier accident. Jack Seager of Orillia, and his son, John, in the car, escaped uninjured. A third passenger, Mrs. William Seager, suffered minor injuries.

The truck hit the Miller car, sideswiped two others and ended up hitting a third. Dorothy MacDonald of Toronto, in the last car, suffered minor facial injuries.

Miss MacDonald's car was carried on the front of the truck and down a 20-foot embankment where the truck landed on its side, spilling seven tons of fruit and vegetables.

Sidney Smith Jailed 2 Months On Bootlegging

Sidney Smith, 40, of 728 Gillespie St., was today sentenced to two months in jail when he was convicted of the illegal sale of a case of beer. Evidence was heard September 27 and Magistrate W. R. Philp reserved judgment until today.

Quotihg a previous case, the magistrate ruled it was not necessary to prove that money was received, but that a transaction of the nature of a sale was accomplished. He found that one witness's evidence showed that such a transaction had been made.

Larry Casselman, 37, Watts St., had told court at the previous hearing that he and two friends had chipped in $8 as a gift for Smith, who had given them the case of beer as a gift.

The three men, Casselman, Jim Mills, Sophia St., and Albert Vilneff, 30, Welsh St., had really gone to see Smith about a dog. Casselman said he wanted to buy a dog from Smith, and thought he might as well have a couple of pints of beer while doing so. There was no arrangement for sale, he said.

Beer In House

Constable Douglas Farthing was watching the house at the time, and he stopped the car on Lansdowne St., and found a case of 24 pints of beer in the car. A search of Smith's house yielded a further 69 pints of beer.

Defence counsel Gordon Farquharson after court said today he might appeal the conviction.

Two runs, two hits, no errors, two left.

First Inning—Yankees

Thompson came in fast for Mantle's fly to short right. Rizzuto lined a single off the glove of Lark who made a leaping try and barely missed making a spectacular catch. Irvin raced back to the furthest left field corner to make a spectacular leaping catch of Bauer's bid for a home run in front of the 402-foot sign. DiMaggio raised a high pop behind second base that was caught by Thompson at the last minute after Stanky had almost scared him off of it. Thompson waved aside by Stanky, had to make a diving catch when Eddie changed his mind.

Second Inning—Giants

Westrum walked on a full count Koslo, attempting to sacrifice, bunted sharply to Reynolds who threw to Rizzuto forcing Westrum at second. Koslo barely beat Rizzuto's throw to first. Stanky grounded sharply into the hole but McDougald made a brilliant stop and threw to Coleman forcing Koslo. Coleman relayed to Collins at first to double up Stanky.

No runs, no hits, no errors, none left.

Second Yankees

Lockman scooped up Berra's hot smash down the first base line and beat the runner for the unassisted putout. McDonald lined a double off the screen just inside the left field foul line. Coleman singled to right sending McDougald to third. When Thompson experienced difficulty in picking up the ball, McDougald continued on to home on Thompson's error for the Yankees' first run. It was not a run batted in for color. Collins grounded to Thompson who then threw to Stanky forcing Coleman. Stanky's relay was too late to double up Collins. Reynolds drilled a ground single into right field, Collins stopping at second. Mantle walked on five pitches to load the bases. Rizzuto sent a slow bounder to Lockman who flipped underhanded to Koslo, covering first for the putout.

One run, three hits, one error, three left.

Third Inning—Giants

Dark fouled off four consecutive pitches, then struck out as Berra held on to his foul tip. Reynolds knocked down Thompson's not smash to the box and recovered in time to throw him out with a snap throw to Collins. Irvin looped a broken bat single past the outstretched glove of Coleman into right field. Lockman walked on a full count after manager Reynolds threw 10 pitches. Reynolds attempted to pick Irvin off second but his throw was late and dropped by Rizzuto. Thomson lined a vicious single into left field. The ball was hit so hard and reached Bauer in such a hurry that Irvin was forced to hold up at third leaving the bases full. Manager Casey Stengel came out to confer with Reynolds. Mays hit a soft liner right into the hands of Coleman.

No runs, two hits, no errors, three left.

Third Inning—Yankees

Bauer raised a high pop to Thomson on the edge of the infield grass. DiMaggio flied deep to Irvin who made the catch almost at the runway, some 380 feet away. Berra fouled out to Bobby Thomson near the third base coaching box.

No runs, no hits, no errors, none left.

Frost Cabinet Holds Meeting

TORONTO, Oct. 4. (CP) —The Ontario Cabinet met in special session Wednesday for what political forecasters, and even cabinet members, believed was called to set a provincial election date. But Premier Frost, through his secretary, announced it was purely a "routine" meeting.

Despite Premier Frost's silence it was reported widely that the date may be announced after the regular weekly Cabinet meeting today, or possibly as late as Friday evening.

No report on what was discussed by the Cabinet Wednesday was given through the Premier's office, but with the presence of the chief electoral officer, Alex Lewis, and his assistant, Rod Lewis, it was obvious that the election was on the agenda.

Fourth Inning—Giants

Westrum walked on four pitches. It was the fifth base on balls issued by Reynolds. Koslo dropped a neat sacrifice bunt down the first base line and was out, Reynolds to Collins. Stanky bounced out, McDougald to Collins, and Westrum was forced to hold second. DiMaggio came in a few paces to get under Dark's fly.

No runs, no hits, no errors, one left.

Fourth Yankees

McDougald fouled out to Westrum near the Yankee dugout. Dark took Coleman's vicious grounder and threw to Lockman for the out. Collins banged a single past Lockman into right field. Reynolds went out, Stanky to Koslo, who covered first for the putout.

Fifth Giants

Thompson flied deep to DiMaggio in right-centre. Irvin tripled to the wall in deepest left-centre, the ball rolling to the 457-foot mark. It was his third straight hit. Lockman, after fouling off a pitch that missed being a home run by 10 feet, rapped sharply to Coleman who fainted Irvin back to third and then threw to Collins to retire Lockman. Rizzuto made a nice stop of Thomson's hard grounder and threw him out.

No runs, one hit, no errors, one left.

Fifth Yankees

Mantle walked on five pitches. Rizzuto went down swinging. It was Koslo's first strikeout. Bauer lined to Mays whose quick throw to Lockman almost double up Mantle. DiMaggio sent Thompson to the scoreboard in right-centre for his long fly.

No runs, no hits, no errors, one left.

Sixth Giants

Mantle had a little trouble with the wind but managed to get under May's high fly.

Westrum singled past McDougald's outstretched glove into left field.

Berra tripped over his own mask trying to field Koslo's sacrifice bunt in tront of the plate but recovered in time to throw out the pitcher with a quick heave to Coleman who covered first. Stanky walked on a full count. On the fourth ball Westrum was almost nicked off second by Berra's quick throw but managed to slide back safely. On the second pitch to Dark, Berra almost caught Stanky off first with a snap throw but the latter made a headlong dive back to the bag. Dark walloped a home run into the lower left field stands scoring Westrum and Stanky ahead of him to increase the Giants' lead to 5-1.

The homer was hit on a three-and-one pitch.

Reynolds obviously unnerved by Dark's three-run homer, walked Thompson on four pitches. It was Reynolds' seventh base on balls.

Irvin cracked a line single over Rizzuto's head into centre field sending Thompson to third for his fourth straight hit.

Lockman rolled out, Coleman to Collins.

Three runs, three hits, no errors, two left.

Sees Chance Of Winning Military Decision In Korea

WASHINGTON, Oct. 4. (AP)—Gen. Omar Bradley came back from the Korean war zone today with word that "there is a chance of winning a military decision in Korea." The chairman of the joint chiefs of staff arrived by military plane after a week of conferences with military leaders in the Far East. He was accompanied by Mrs. Bradley and State Department Counsellor Charles Bohlen, an expert on Russia.

Neither the general nor Bohlen would discuss the stalemated cease-fire negotiations.

Declines Comment

Bradley declined to comment on the purpose of the Eighth Army drive that started Wednesday on the western end of the line.

"When you see the morale of the Eighth Army," Bradley added, "you feel that they can do most anything and take anything the enemy might throw against them."

Bradley made a two-day tour of the battle front and conferred secretly in Tokyo with Gen. Matthew Ridgway.

At the time of his departure last Wednesday, there had been speculation that he was carrying to Ridgway plans for new and larger military operations.

Market Prices Show Slight Session Drop

TORONTO, Oct. 4 (CP) —Mild profit-taking today after three sessions of steady advance dropped stock market prices slightly in mid-session dealings.

Heavy trading in western oil produced most of the turnover. Industrials were active and increased base metal interest boosted the first three hour volume to 3,587,000 shares.

Western oils eased after a first-hour climb to another record high.

Anglo-Canadian, Calmont, Calvan Consolidated, Canadian Collieries, General Petroleum A, Pacific Petroleum and Trans-Empire retained gains of about 20 cents.

Base metals made little headway, Bellekeno, New Calumet, Normetal and Silver Standard posted advances to about 15 cents.

Senior golds showed little trend as four issues edged higher while five dipped moderately. Juniors held gains and losses in balance.

Premier Sheds More Tears

TEHRAN, Iran, Oct. 4 (AP) — Premier Mohammed Mossadegh wept today as he told the Majlis (parliament) that the British government had no right to bring the Iranian oil dispute before the United Nations Security Council.

Calling the oil-nationalization problem an internal dispute with the Anglo-Iranian Oil Company, Mossadegh told the deputies he will leave Sunday to argue Iran's case in New York.

Mossadegh wiped away tears as he said "I am sure that on this trip I will enjoy the prayers and support of the Iranian people, and I am sure that almighty God will help me and the nation."

The premier will head the delegation which includes four members of the parliamentary oil board.

The Security Council met last Monday at the urging of Britain. Over Russian and Yugoslav objection, it voted to consider Britain's complaint that Iran's expulsion of British technicians after the nationalization threatened world peace.

The Iranian delegate obtained a postponement until Oct. 11 to allow the premier to reach New York.

One dispatch said resistance west of Chorwon suddenly evaporated in the night on the northern end of a ridge line. The Communists gave up their positions under cover of darkness and let the Allies take over without firing a shot.

Told Chickens Diseased Woman Charges

Emil Konineck, a Toronto man charged with fraudulently obtaining 130 chickens from a Belmont Township woman, heard the Crown's case against him today. Defence will be entered October 15, when defence witnesses will be available.

The chickens were the property of Mrs. Violet Clark, a Belmont Township widow who lives with her daughter on a small holding of land where they raise chickens and pigs.

Mother Away

Konineck bought the chickens from Mrs. Clark's daughter while the mother was away, and is alleged to have got them by telling the daughter that the chickens had Newcastle disease and that they would die anyhow.

Mrs. Clark, a short, dark woman who is slightly hard of hearing, told the court how she left her home about noon on September 24, leaving her daughter in full charge. The chickens, she said, were perfectly healthy when she left.

When she returned on September 28, the chickens were all gone, including 25 of her daughter's.

The daughter, Mrs. Marion Sheppard, told court that Konineck came to the house the afternoon of September 24, and asked if she had any chickens to sell. He was told there were none for sale.

The next thing she heard, said Mrs. Sheppard, was the voice of Konineck. She turned and he was holding a chicken in his hands, saying that it was dying of disease. She said he showed her some blisters on the fowl's breast and he said they were all going to die in two or three days, and her mother would lose everything.

"He said he could help me out, and I asked him what he could do. He said he could give me 80 cents apiece instead of us getting nothing. I asked him if he could buy them and he said yes, he would cut that part out and throw it away," Mrs. Sheppard told the court.

"He told me they were stopping all shipments of fowl east of Peterborough because they were diseased. He said that quite a few thousand chickens had died of it in this district."

Under cross-examination by defence counsel J. C.N. Currelly, Mrs. Clark told court she had given her daughter authority to sell the chickens if a neighbor to whom she promised them decided not to take them. The daughter, also in cross-examination, testified she had sold them to Konineck because she thought it was better to get something for them.

Mrs. Sheppard, however, rejected a suggestion by defence counsel that it was she who first mentioned Newcastle disease. She said Konineck mentioned it first.

or landmark. Probably the most amazing exploit of the day was the climbing by the 57-ton tanks of the Hussars regiment to hilltop positions from where they hurled 20-pound shells in support of their comrades.

The sluggers also received thundering support from heavy artillery from Napalm (jellied-gasoline) bombing planes in three air strikes.

Infantrymen bagged six Chinese prisoners in their first day's assault on an estimated Chinese division of 6,000 men facing them.

Pleased With Job

Maj.-Gen. Jim Cassels, division commander, expressed satisfaction over the first phase of the offensive, and said his men were "off to a very good start."

The 44-year-old Cassels spent much of the day driving his own jeep across the front. This morning he personally directed supporting artillery fire.

Cassels' troops and tanks for 36 hours before the offensive began to move deceptively into attack positions by crossing fields and hills and staying off the few roads under Chinese observation. A heavy fog provided unexpected cover for the jump-off at 5 a.m., and for more than an hour afterward.

The attack was spearheaded by Britain's King's Own Scottish Borderers, the King's Shropshire Light Infantry, and Royal Australian Rifles. The Scotsmen ran into the toughest opposition while the Aussies drove to their initial objective almost unopposed.

(Other Canadian units in the 25th Brigade were not mentioned. But it is customary for a large force to attack in depth, with some units in reserve.)

Announce Addresses For European Troops

OTTAWA, Oct. 4 (CP)—Letters and parcels for personnel of Canada's 27th Brigade after it leaves for Europe next month are to be addressed care of the postmaster at Montreal, the post office department announced today.

The department said such mail must carry the name, number, rank and unit of the soldier to whom it is addressed and be sent to C.A.P.O. 5050, care of the postmaster, Montreal, Que.

Rates of postage and conditions now applicable to mails from Canada to the United Kingdom will apply and customs declarations must be completed and affixed to every parcel going to the 27th Brigade.

Shambles Of Pier By CNR If Council Soft

COBOURG, Oct. 4 (ENS).—The CNR would rip the steel out of Cobourg's ferry slip pier and leave the place a shambles if Council were soft enough to let them do it, said Mayor Jack Burnet of Cobourg Tuesday night.

He was commenting on a letter from the CNR asking the town to cancel its agreement with the railway concerning the pier.

Mayor Burnet recalled to Council that the CNR had been told that Council would ask a dock equal in length to the ferry slip if the slip were dismantled. This, said the mayor, would have cost the railway more than the value of the salvaged steel from the slip.

As a compromise, he suggested that if the CNR agrees to take only the apron and machinery or to rebuild the pier, the town would cancel the previous agreement, as the CNR had requested.

The railway has been anxious for some time to wind up the affairs of the now defunct Ontario Car Ferry Company.

A motion authorized the mayor and clerk to deal with the matter.

Nothing Done

Just five years ago he had asked to have a tree removed, wrote Dr. James Harrington. It was still there. Two years ago he had asked to have a culvert fixed up. It was still plugged. Council referred it to the board of works.

J. C. M. German, solicitor, wrote Council in connection with the title held by the Kirk of Scotland to land near Ontario Street which the Lions Club wished to acquire as a site for a boy scout hall. The club intended also to erect a monument to William Weller, who was buried in the old cemetery there, and who was Cobourg's first mayor. A few of the old graves were still occupied, but the remains would be interred in another cemetery, it was pointed out. Council referred it to the town solicitor.

Council had two requests in connection with housing subdivisions, and deferred action so that enquiries could be made to ascertain if possible where the new highway would pass in respect to the subdivision.

Grocers Seek Close Monday

COBOURG, Oct. 4 (ENS).—The old Saturday night shopping custom has been gone for some time, getting its first push toward oblivion by the action of the banks in closing at eleven o'clock on Saturday morning. It used to be the custom for almost everyone, including many from the rural sections to "go down town" on a Saturday night, do their weekend shopping and visit around. However, the old order changed and most of the shopping is done early on Saturday.

As Friday is pay night in the factories, many of the stores keep sufficient money on hand to cash cheques for those who do not get to the bank in time for the early Saturday closing. Barber shops are open evenings on Friday, and indications are that hardware stores and other places of business will be staying open part of Friday evening. It was with all these circumstances in effect that the grocers this week decided to seek a town bylaw which would permit them to close all day Monday instead of the Wednesday half holiday and to stay open until eight o'clock on Friday nights, effective after Christmas of this year.

Many grocers regard Monday as a clean-up day from the weekend business and as a day which is far from being a good one for trade. The half holiday Wednesday is too short to be any value by the time the stores are closed, it is felt. Accordingly the grocers would be more satisfied if they close all day Monday, stay open on Wednesday and for part of Friday evening.

LINDSAY, Oct. 4.—Stewart G. Wilkinson, a former Lindsay resident recently ended 49 years of service with the CNR at Toronto Union Station.

Mr. Wilkinson started working at the Grand Trunk yards here in 1902 as a call boy. At the age of 19, he became Lindsay yardmaster.

For six years, Mr. Wilkinson was a yardmaster at the Don Yards in Toronto and then spent a number of years as conductor on Toronto - Montreal passenger trains. He has been in charge of the rule car in Toronto for the past several years.

Relatives from Lindsay and Cannington attended an "Open House" held at the Wilkinson's home in Toronto on September 23.

Mr. Wilkinson is the son of the late Thomas Wilkinson, former mayor of Lindsay.

Ex-Officer Calls At Palace Nightly

LONDON, Oct. 4 (Reuters).—To make sure that the King is all right and to offer a silent prayer, a retired army officer calls at Buckingham Palace every night.

The caller, Stewart Neame, steps out of a taxi, and through the palace railings calls softly: "Everything all right?"

A policeman, recognizing the visitor, answers: "Yes, sir."

Neame has never missed his nightly visit since it was announced last month that an operation was to be performed on the King.

Peterborough Splits Wins With Brampton

BRAMPTON, Oct. 4 — (CP).—Peterborough and Brampton split in the opening clashes of a two-game, total-goals Ontario Lacrosse Association midget and bantam series, Wednesday night.

Peterborough Bantams staged a last-half rally to edge Brampton 12-11, while Brampton Midgets led all the way to score a 16-12 victory in their game. The four clubs play the final games of their series Friday at Miller Bowl.

Brampton Bantams led Peterborough throughout the first two periods of their game, holding a 7-5 edge at the half. Peterborough came to life in their third session, however, and leading 11-9 going into the final stanza, managed to hang on for their 12-11 victory. They will carry a slim one-goal edge into tomorrow evening's contest.

Brampton had little trouble in their midget game. Leading 10-3 going into the second half, they held a 14-8 toll at the end of the third period before racking up their final of 16-12. They carry a four-goal advantage into their second game at Peterborough tomorrow night.

Larry Kedall with six goals and Gord Thompson with four were the Brampton Bantams' leading scorers, while Grant Simmons with four and P. Heffernan with three, led the winners.

Dave Scheffield with five tallies and Jim Cunningham with four were the best for the Brampton Midgets. Jim Hunt notched four for the losing Peterborough club.

A New Minister of Education

It is good news that Premier Frost has appointed a full-time Minister of Education; and Dr. William James Dunlop has spent his life in the Ontario educational field. Politically, the appointment is an astute one, for Dr. Dunlop is widely known and well-liked, and there can be no doubt but that he will make an excellent showing in the election which is expected late this autumn. There can be no doubt, also, that the full attention of a man who is thoroughly versed in the educational system as it exists will be better for the Department than the part-time supervision which Mr. Dana Porter, who was already carrying the burdensome portfolio of Attorney-General, was able to spare. We cannot pretend to think, however, that Dr. Dunlop will bring a new spirit to the Department, and a new spirit is what it badly needs.

* * *

Ontario education is not satisfactory, and its faults are in the main traceable to extreme conservatism at the Department of Education. Ontario once led Canada in the field of provincial education, but now it lags behind the more adventurous provinces of the West. Criticism of our provincial education has come from many sources; the Canadian Research Committee on Practical Education was the last authoritative voice to speak, and although its criticisms embraced the Dominion it had much to say which Ontario should take to heart. The Hope Report, apart from its few controversial recommendations, contains a wealth of information and suggestion of the utmost importance to Ontario. Are we expected to believe that Dr. Dunlop, at the age of seventy, will begin housecleaning our Department of Education? Is he not, by reason of his background, too much infected with the civil-servant attitude, which prefers to get along as well as possible, without making changes?

* * *

How much first-class direction has Ontario education had during the past twenty-five or thirty years? Premier Drew held the portfolio himself, and if he had not tried to combine it with the premiership he might have done splendid work in the Department. As it was, he was unable to do very much. The Hon. Duncan MacArthur, during his time in office did much work of the highest quality, and his death was a severe loss to the cause of education in this province. But apart from Dr. MacArthur, have we had anyone of the first rank devoting his full time to the Department of Education in Ontario in two generations of politicians?

* * *

We have no desire to belittle Dr. Dunlop, or to throw cold water on his appointment. He is a man with many qualities which would make him an admirable deputy minister. But as a Minister of Education we badly need a man in Ontario who is not hitched to the Department, not bred in Department ways, and sufficiently objective to see the Department's faults. Such men are not often found in political life, but from time to time they make an appearance. Certainly such a man is needed now.

A Good Word For Canadian Dentistry

This is Dental Health Week, and we are glad to have a chance to say a few kind words about Canadian dentistry. Any of our readers who are over thirty have witnessed in their own lifetime many advances in dental technique; readers who are over fifty have seen dentistry advance from a comparatively primitive state. Undoubtedly there is much to be done, and great new discoveries in dental treatment and in the prevention of dental ills undoubtedly lie before us, but the record up to date is a fine one.

Wretchedly bad teeth, deformed mouths, empty gums and false teeth of farcical crudity are rarities in Canada today, as a result of a long and intelligent program of public education in matters relating to dental care. Many of the ills which had their origin in unhealthy teeth have been considerably allayed. In this connection it should be said that Peterborough County has a program of dental health education which the Canadian Dental Association considers among the best in Canada; it is watched with interest, and even with envy, by similar organizations elsewhere.

It is not superficial, we think, to speak particularly of the great aesthetic value of dentistry of the quality which exists in this country. Part of the progress of mankind is to be traced in the importance which is attached to looking—if not beautiful, at least healthy and inoffensive. Good teeth, and properly preserved teeth, are part of the characteristic appearance of a civilized man or woman. The care of the teeth begins in earliest childhood, and we now regard it, quite rightly, as blameworthy negligence to permit a child's teeth to decay or to grow in such a fashion as to give it a deformed mouth. Dentists have taught us these things, and this is the week when we express our gratitude for a lesson in hygiene and practical civilization.

Seven Million Dentures

The United Kingdom National Health Service completed its first three years in July. Despite the criticisms made in Britain by the British of details of that service, there is a general acceptance of its principles and a gratification that it has come into being. Whether the Labour Party is re-elected or the Conservatives come to power, the National Health Service will remain.

Almost every Canadian visitor returns from the United Kingdom impressed by the serenity it has given the British people. It has removed from them individually and as families, the economic spectre which used to haunt illness and accidents, child-bearing and old age. The National Health Service has become a corner-stone of British social democracy, and already is of demonstrable benefit to the health of the nation.

We have come upon some statistics which indicate the range of the Service and the progress that has been made in the first three years. The figures are only for England and Wales. In that period 609 million prescriptions have been dispensed by the pharmaceutical service; 19,500,000 pairs of spectacles have been supplied; 23,600,000 patients have received dental treatment and seven million sets of false teeth have been supplied. Among appliances supplied free of charge to the patients have been 31,995 artificial limbs, 21,952 artificial legs, 98,277 surgical boots, 16,385 invalid chairs, 130,000 hearing aids.

Hospital and nursing home services have been extended—22,024 additional hospital beds have been made available, and nursing and midwifery staffs in hospitals have increased from 136,116 in June 1948 to 165,628 last March; these are apart from student nurses. Local health authorities have established 1,787 ante-natal clinics and 4,565 child welfare centres, and employ 1,028 midwives, 3,373 whole-time home nurses and 4,959 part-time home nurses.

Despite the fuss the practitioners have made (and are continuing to make) against the National Health Service, 88 per cent. of all doctors in England and Wales are in the Service, 95 per cent. of the dentists, and virtually all pharmicists. Incidentally, 41,200,000 people, or 95 per cent. of the population have joined the lists of the 19,000 doctors in the Service.

Confusing Sports Season

Fans of organized games need at least three heads these days—complete with three sets of eyes and ears, and a triple-voiced throat. It's the big moment in the baseball season, with Brooklyn dodging around New York Giants. It's the beginning of the football season—and ice is being laid in the arenas to start off the hockey season. Gone are the days when baseball was the summer sport, football the fall game, and hockey the preserve of winter. We suppose that if there were a spring sport (other than turning fancy into loving sighs) there would be a fourth organized game crowding the October schedule. Actually, there is a fourth, and in this district the fourth is so dominant that people have hardly any enthusiasm to spare for the National League as Peterborough's own lacrosse team battles in Vancouver for the Mann trophy.

NOTE AND COMMENT

The house detective is that man who creeps round the hotel in his stalking feet.

In a public address a scientist foresees a day when people will work only with their brains. He did not add that this would bring about unprecedented unemployment.

A science note tells us that the acathodian, a fish which existed millions of years ago, was the first creature to have a lower jaw. And we presume that the first acathodian to combine a lower jaw with a backbone was the first democrat.

A South African church group says that in modern dancing chastity disappears. But our own observations lead us to believe that those who take any appreciable store of chastity to a dance usually take it home with them. Real chastity is a durable quality.

Mr. Hugh Dalton says that Britain is crowded with cemeteries, and suggests that his countrymen arrange to have themselves cremated; the American Cemetery Association, on the contrary, says that it has "enough space in sight to last for 200 years." Would it care to make some of that space available to Britain as a form of Marshall Aid?

Tory Election Manifesto

By PHILIP VERNON

MR. CHURCHILL, it is believed, is anxious to seize and hold the initiative throughout the coming election campaign in Britain.

Today, over his name, the Conservative Party has published its manifesto, and thus is the first party in the field to present its proposals to the electorate. When one remembers that Mr. Attlee announced the date of the election only nine days ago, this is a considerable achievement. It suggests that the Conservative Party machine is in good order and ready for the fight.

✧ ✧ ✧

THERE is nothing in the manifesto which surprises or shocks. Here are its specific proposals:

1. It proposes to cut all unnecessary Government expenditure. This has been a recurring theme in Conservative speeches and statements of policy for the last five years; it conveys little unless it is elaborated.

2. It proposes to give tax reliefs to industry and commerce "in cases where profits are ploughed back and used for the renewal of plant and equipment." This comes as no surprise in a Conservative manifesto. Most economists will judge it a sensible proposal, and the Labour Party's attempt to make party capital out of it—"the Conservatives are the party of profiteers"—will be somewhat reduced by—

3. A further proposal to "set our face against the fortuitous rise in company profits because of the abnormal process of rearmament. We shall accordingly impose a form of Excess Profits Tax...." The main interest of this proposal is the absence of any reference to the Labour Government's recent suggestions for strict dividend limitation. Since a Conservative Government is certain to turn its back on these suggestions, it must be presumed that the party leaders have decided that this is an issue best ignored at election time.

4. It proposes to strengthen the Monopolies Commission in its attempts to reduce the abuses of monopoly and "operations in restraint of trade." This is of some interest, because it is only since the war that the Conservatives have shown themselves so concerned with this problem. Many people while accepting the sincerity of this proposal, will feel it is wise to await performance before giving their judgement.

5. It proposes to stop all further nationalization, to repeal the Act which nationalized the iron and steel industry, and to decentralize the organization of the industries which remain nationalized. Even at the last election nationalization was scarcely an issue. At this election it will be even less so. There will be little controversy about these proposals.

6. It proposes to give housing "a priority second only to national defence. Our target remains 300,000 houses a year." There is no reason to question the sincere belief of the Conservative leaders that this figure can be attained. The question is whether it is compatible with the rest of the Conservative programme for reducing expenditure. (I will return to this all-important question later in this article.)

7. It argues that to "obtain more food, practical knowledge and business experience must be released to comb the world for greater supplies." It is the caution of these words that is interesting. In their speeches during the last year, Conservatives have been unanimous in their outspoken denunciations of bulk-buying by the state. Now in their manifesto they are more wary, deliberately refusing to commit themselves.

8. It states that "food subsidies cannot be radically changed in present circumstances, but later we hope to simplify the system.... to ensure that public money is spent on those who need help and not, as at present, upon all classes indiscriminately." This is the key proposal of the whole manifesto, and it needs to be set against the background of the really fundamental issue which is raised by this statement of Conservative policy.

✧ ✧ ✧

AFTER their defeat in the 1945 General Election, the Conservatives were thrown into confusion. The problem of finding a policy at once distinctively Conservative and yet likely to attract the electors troubled their leaders—and had, indeed, not been solved by the next General Election, of February 1950. On that occasion the Conservative manifesto read like a mild paraphrase of Socialist policy; the Manchester Guardian, indeed, described it as a Tory-Socialist document.

✧ ✧ ✧

SINCE then the need for large-scale rearmament has produced an economic situation in which larger cuts in Government expenditure seem to offer the only way out. They must be cuts on a much larger scale than the purely administrative savings foreshadowed at the beginning of the Conservative manifesto. In other words, they imply a scaling down of the Welfare State.

✧ ✧ ✧

YET to advocate such a scaling down demands more courage than a party can be expected to show at election time. The Conservatives therefore suggest that there is another way out; increased productivity. This was the theme of Sir David Maxwell-Fyfe's broadcast last week—and he is an influential Conservative leader. It was also the theme of Mr. David Eccles's speeches which have caused so much stir in political circles in recent weeks.

THERE is no doubt that increased productivity—increasing, that is, the size of the national cake—is the only solution to Britain's problems: that much the Conservatives have sensed—and stated. But independent observers are likely to point out that before the incentives to increased producivity can be effective, the present inflationary situation must be tackled, and this involves precisely those cuts in Government expenditure which the Conservatives implicitly or complicitly disavow in their manifesto. In his proposed Conservative policy Mr. Eccles suggested a cut in Government expenditure of six per cent. of the national income—that is, something over £660,000,000: this in much the same range as the cuts in Government expenditure suggested in the Conservative manifesto of 1950.

Today, significantly, no such estimate of the reductions needed is made by the Conservatives, and it will not be surprising if their opponents and independent observers alike accuse them of electoral cowardice. But if the Conservatives have shirked the main issue, it is a reasonable prophecy that the Labour manifesto will shirk it as well.

Labour and Politics

(BRANDON SUN)

AT the recent gathering of the Canadian Congress of Labour the president, A. R. Mosher, reported that, as matters now stand, the capitalist system would not be able to meet the demands of organized labour to a much greater extent in the future. Therefore he declared:

"If the workers are to obtain further improvements along these lines, it will be necessary to bring about the nationalization of industry and its operation on a basis of service rather than profit. Such a step takes us from the economic into the political field, and it is therefore essential that organized workers should turn their attention more and more toward political action."

Of course, one of the great mistakes of organized labour is to consider these leaders speak for the workers of Canada while they are but a minority of them. At the Vancouver meeting Mr. Mosher seemed to indicate it had failed to achieve its purpose as a labour movement and needs a nationalization revolution in Canada to ensure full power over the government to attain the C.C.L. objectives—more and more pay for less work. He confesses the present labour movement cannot serve members of the C.C.L. and that capitalism is inadequate to do so. Not a word about government of the people, for the people, all the people. Just in the interest of the Canadian Congress of Labour our industry must be socialized, or nationalized as he put it. So he will turn attention to political action "to meet the demands of organized labour."

Hamilton Borrows From United States

(KITCHENER-WATERLOO RECORD)

THE City of Hamilton is going to sell its debentures in the U.S. market where it can obtain money at interest rates of about 3½ per cent. Rates for financing in Ontario are roughly 4½ per cent.

More and more Canadian municipalities are turning to the United States to borrow money for needed civic works at rates that will be less burdensome for the taxpayer.

Toronto's finance commissioner said recently that municipalities are in a precarious financial position and that the situation will deteriorate into chaos should an economic recession occur.

During the depression of 20 years ago, the Canadian balance of accounts was greatly aggravated by the fact that Canada had used the New York market so freely for borrowing funds. The interest on these loans, and in some cases the capital amount also, had to be repaid in American funds, when the Canadian dollar stood at a heavy discount.

In those days it was freely said that a safeguard for the future would be the development of the Canadian money market. Were our fixed obligations to be made payable only in Canadian funds, it would greatly relieve the strains on our foreign exchange and on our general stability when times got bad.

Under the influence of current conditions, this salutary lesson is being forgotten. Increasingly, provincial and municipal bodies are going to the United States to raise the money they need.

The Montreal Star points out that in the first eight months of 1950, $146,700,000 government and municipal bonds were sold in the United States. This total, in the first eight months of the current year, rose to $214,291,000. Since Sept. 1, moreover, Ontario and Nova Scotia and the cities of Ottawa and Quebec have gone to the United States for a total of $76,561,000.

"The reasons for this switch are clear enough," says the Star. "Among them is the rise in Canadian interest rates—part of a deliberate policy to help check inflation in this country. The rise in Canada has been, however, greater than the corresponding stiffening in rates in the United States. Comparatively, the American market has become more attractive.

"It is attractive for another reason. There is a premium on American funds. The borrowers appear confident that, by the time the loans fall due, this situation will have righted itself, and it will take fewer Canadian dollars to pay off the loan than it would take now. This gives them a nice little dividend.

"There is nothing very critical about this situation, and the Department of Finance at Ottawa and the Bank of Canada doubtless have it under constant study. Yet men with memories have not forgotten the old bad days, and they may reflect upon the fact that good times do not last forever. It is worth having in mind that too great recourse to the American lending market has given us trouble in the past. Perhaps it will again."

Advances In Health

(Edmonton Journal)

There is reassurance for Canadian parents in the knowledge that the country's maternal and infant death rates have been greatly reduced in little more than two decades. As a result of advances in medicine, public health work and living standards, both have now reached very low levels.

Twenty-five years ago, 11 mothers were lost for every 2,000 infants born. By 1948, this death rate had been cut to three, where it still held in 1949. It may be slightly lower now. Among infants (up to one year old), the story has been much the same; in only three years between 1945 and 1948 the death rate was reduced by nearly 14 per cent.

While this is gratifying to all, the record reported for Israel, in respect to infant mortality, leaves no room for complacency here. In spite of all the turmoil and trouble involved in the birth and early growth of the new state itself, the infant death rate in Jewish families was halved between 1947 and 1950, according to an official publication of the Canada-Israel Association. It was only 21 per thousand live births in the latter year—less than half of Canada's!

Worth noting, too, is the fact that among infants born of mothers of European origin, as distinct from those of Oriental origin, the record was still better.

This remarkable achievement, which has won the admiration of Canadian health authorities, is credited largely to the program for maternal and infant welfare which has been developed by the Hadassah Organization over a period of 30 years in Palestine.

It would seem that Canadians also should show further improvement in this field.

"Watch out if them Tories get in—they'll wants all yer teeth, sixpences, 'air and hostiles at free jollop 'anded back."

Bible Message

(From the Authorized Version)

Then the children of Judah came unto Joshua in Gilgal: and Caleb the son of Jephunneh the Kenezite said unto him, Thou knowest the thing that the Lord said unto Moses the man of God concerning me and thee in Kadesh-barnea. Forty years old was I when Moses the servant of the Lord sent me from Kadesh-barnea to espy out the land; and I brought him word again as it was in my heart. Nevertheless my brethren that went up with me made the heart of the people melt: but I wholly followed the Lord my God.

And Moses sware on that day, saying, Surely the land whereon thy feet have trodden shall be thine inheritance, and thy children's for ever, because thou hast wholly followed the Lord my God. And now, behold, the Lord hath kept me alive, as he said, these forty and five years, even since the Lord spake this word unto Moses, while the children of Israel wandered in the wilderness: and now, lo, I am this day fourscore and five years old.

As yet I am as strong this day as I was in the day that Moses sent me: as my strength was then, even so is my strength now, for war, both to go out, and to come in. (Josh. 14: 6-11.)

✧ ✧ ✧

Even the youths shall faint and be weary, and the young men shall utterly fall: but they that wait upon the Lord shall renew their strength; they shall mount up with wings as eagles; they shall run, and not be weary; and they shall walk and not faint. (Isa. 40: 30, 31.)

Unconsidered Trifles

The film magnate wanted one of his stars to accept a reduction in salary, so he said to his partner: "You tackle him, Paul. You're better educated than what I am. You can give him a better line of talk than me."

Paul went off on his disagreeable job. When he returned the magnate asked, anxiously, "Well, what about it?"

"He acquiesced," said Paul.

"Did he? The dirty dog!"

The aproned figure at the sink gazed sadly at the accumulation of plates and dishes, pots and pans. Was this all that marriage meant?

A heavy sigh, a rolling up of sleeves, and the kitchen was soon filled with the clatter of washing and scouring. The toiler paused from time to time to listen to the steady thrash of a typewriter in the next room.

Suddenly the noise ceased, and a large, spectacled woman, lofty of brow, appeared in the doorway.

"Hercules, darling," she said, addressing the little man, "I can never remember—do you spell 'cave man' with or without a hyphen?"

Decide House To Recess During Royal Visit

OTTAWA, Oct. 4 (CP).—The cabinet Wednesday got down to the final stages of drafting its legislative program for the parliamentary session that opens Tuesday.

The ministers also discussed the question of Canada going ahead alone on the St. Lawrence seaway and were reported to have considered what action is to be taken towards easing restrictions on the marketing of Canadian-mined gold. The cabinet meets again Friday.

Prime Minister St. Laurent indicated to reporters there might be an early statement on gold policy in the light of the international monetary fund's lifting of its policy against the sale of gold on the free market.

A cabinet decision announced by the prime minister at the lunch-time adjournment was that Parliament, due to open Tuesday, will recess Wednesday and Thursday while Princess Elizabeth and Prince Philip are in Ottawa.

Hear Throne Speech

Since the early-year session still stands adjourned from June 30, it will be prorogued Tuesday, followed quickly by the formal opening of the new session with the readings of the speech from the throne. The address in reply will be moved Friday after the two-day holiday.

There was no information after the cabinet session on what legislation was under discussion Wednesday, but it appeared probable the ministers gave some thought to the question of a bill implementing the Government's intention of going ahead with the St. Lawrence project without the assistance of the United States Government.

Postpone Hearing

WASHINGTON, Oct. 4—(AP)—A meeting of the House of Representatives Public Works Committee scheduled for today on legislation to authorize new St. Lawrence Seaway legislation was postponed Wednesday until Friday. Chairman Charles A. Buckley (Dem., NY) said the postponement was necessitated because the House will meet at 12 a.m. EST—the hour which the committee had set for its hearing.

Order 2 Freighters

PORT ARTHUR, Oct. 4—(CP)—Costruction of two more large freighters at the Lakehead was assured Wednesday with an announcement in a telegram, from Hon. C. D. Howe, minister of defence production and member of parliament for Port Arthur. One of the vessels will be a sister ship to the bulk freighter now under construction for Canada Steamship Lines.

Two Brantford Men Acquitted of Rape

BRANTFORD, Oct. 4 (CP)—Neil Edwards, 17, and Michael Freeborn, 18, Wednesday were acquitted of the rape of a young married woman after they produced witnesses who gave them an alibi for the time of the assault.

The witnesses testified that they talked to Edwards and Freeborn, both night shift workers, at about 1 am July 7. The assault was reported to police at 1.05 am.

The young woman picked the two out of a line-up at the police station.

Mother To Soldiers Dies In Belfast

BELFAST, Oct. 4. (Reuters)—Mrs. Katherine Alderdice, known as "mother" to thousands of Canadian servicemen and women stationed in Northern Ireland during the war, died Tuesday night in a Belfast hospital.

She was manager of the Canadian Legion Club in Belfast which she joined after her elder son, a pilot in the RAF, was killed.

Her husband, Leslie Alderdice, said Wednesday that she corresponded with hundreds of Canadians after their return home.

Royal Pair Poorly Portrayed On Special Postage Stamp

By GEORGE KITCHEN

OTTAWA, Oct. 4. (CP)—Later this month, Canadians will be able to buy tiny engraved portraits of Princess Elizabeth and Prince Philip at four cents a pair, but the chances are that they won't think much of them.

In that, they'll be in good company.

The Post Office Department, which will be issuing them, does not think much of them either.

The portraits, of course, will be on the special four-cent postage stamp the department plans to issue Oct. 26 to commemorate the Royal tour. It will be on sale in postoffices across the country.

What the department is concerned about, and what the public will be quick to notice, is that the likenesses of the Royal couple are poor, due to a number of factors over which the department admittedly had little control.

Enlarged photographs of the new stamp, made public yesterday, show the princess with a wistful, almost remote look. The Duke looks stern, his face almost in a frown.

A postoffice spokesman confessed today that the department is not "completely happy" about the new stamps, but said it was the best that could be done in the circumstances.

Poor Photographs

One factor in the poor reproductions is that the photographs sent from the palace in London for use in the stamps weren't considered, here at least, the best that could be obtained.

Another factor is the difficulty of translating photographs to stamp engravings.

The third factor was the limited time in which the department had to prepare the stamp.

The stamp, when issued, will be large-sized and colored purple. For the Princess, this isn't her first appearance on a Canadian stamp. She was on three times before. It will be the first time the Duke's portrait has been used on stamp issues, either here or in the United Kingdom.

Elizabeth first ppeared on a Canadian stamp in 1935, at the age of 9, when her portrait was used on the one-cent stamp of a series commemorating King George V's silver jubilee.

She achieved a sort of philatelic fame with that stamp. When it was issued, it was found that a tiny imperfection, resembling a tear-drop, appeared on her cheek just below the right eye. It was on one stamp in each sheet of 100.

The error won quick popularity with stamp collectors, who dubbed it "the Weeping Princess" and that one-cent stamp now retails on the collectors' market for $10 to $12.

The story is that a mechanic dropped a wrench on the original plate while fitting it into the press before the stamp was run off.

L.H. Winslow to Judge International Plowing

MILLBROOK, Oct. 4—(ENS)—Louis H. Winslow left Monday to judge plowing matches this week in the eastern part of the province. Wednesday he judged plowing near Alexandria, today he was scheduled to judge in the Cornwall district, on Friday near Spencerville, and on Saturday in the vicinity of Desoronto.

When asked for how many years he had served as judge of plowing and of field crops, he replied: "For so many I couldn't remember; for at least 25 or more."

He has been asked once again to be a judge in the international plowing match which is being held in Woodstock next week from Tuesday to Friday.

Warden Changes Mind

BRAMPTON Oct. 4 (CP). — Reeve J. A. McLaughlin, warden of Peel County, said Wednesday night he would "definitely be willing" to meet Princess Elizabeth and the Duke of Edinburgh when they arrive at nearby Malton airport Oct. 12. Earlier, he was reported unwilling to meet the royal couple, because, as one Council member put it, "he is very self-effacing and doesn't want to be in the limelight."

PETES TRAIL IN THE BEST OF SEVEN MANN CUP SERIES 3 TO 2

Easterners Strongly Protest Refereeing Of Game As They Are Defeated 15-10

By C. J. PERDUE, Examiner Sports Editor

VANCOUVER, Oct. 4.—Beaten 15-10 Wednesday night at Kerrisdale arena here, the Petes have their backs to the wall as they trail in the best-of-seven Mann Cup series by three games to two. Sixth one is listed for Friday and seventh, if necessary, on the same floor Saturday, according to present CLA orders. Highly dissatisfied with the refereeing last night, Coach Don Crowe at first said he planned to ask for a change. However, later he commented caustically: "If Folka is one of their best out here, what can we expect with a poorer one. They're scraping the bottom of the barrel now on lacrosse officials."

Given 10 Penalties

The Petes were handed 10 of the 15 penalties, several of them quite costly, and the Easterners protested bitterly at the cheapness of some. McPhail once was pushed into the enemy crease by a rival player and Folka promptly fingered him off allegedly for playing in the crease. Nit O'Hearn drew a slashing penalty another time for hitting a rival's stick. There were several similar ones.

Each side drew an injury out of a hard-checking duel. Russ Slater suffered a four-stitch gash on the upper lip, yet only a two-minute penalty was given with blood drawn. Gogie Stewart collided with O'Hearn late in the session and suffered a fractured jaw, O'Hearn being ousted. Both sides laid on the gad willingly before 2,700 noisy home fans and the Friday fray is expected to be a sizzler. "We'll even it up again Friday," the Petes promised afterward.

Petes Take Early Lead

Timbermen rolled well in the first half, to rack up a 4-1 lead in the initial inning and have a 7-6 edge at the half. But the speedy Combines took the play away from them for a 3-0 margin in the third chapter and a 6-3 edge in the fourth, penalties hurting the Petes plenty in the last frame.

Moon Wootton went well, despite the count, his defence not being at its best in the last half. The Petes battled grimly throughout, but the Combines stepped a bit faster and whipped the ball around more effectively as the game progressed to earn a margin on play, though not a big one. The Petes were too often shorthanded to flash their top form over the route.

Swanson Goal-Getter

Jim Swanson was top sniper for the winners with four goals. Two each went to Bus Byford, Stewart and Roy Cavallin with singles counted by Bert Ticehurst, Jim Kinna, Rene Letherbarrow, Ken Webb and Ernie Smith. Harry Buchanan proved best playmaker to set up five goals, Ticehurst aiding on a pair, and Alec McKay, Smith and Swanson one each. Jack Green started in the home net but gave way to veteran Wilt Lee at the end of the first quarter, the latter going much better with a raft of hot saves.

Peterborough had two goals each notched by Russ Slater, Don McPhail and Merv McKenzie, the latter playing an outstanding game. Singles went to Bob Thorpe, Denny Peterson, Nit O'Hearn and Curly Mason. O'Hearn helped on a pair and Ross Powless on one.

O'Hearn served an early slashing penalty and was back when Mason took Powless' passout and slapped it home. Slater got another with a hot angle shot around defence. O'Hearn made it 3-0 with some fancy running after McKenzie gave him the ball.

Stewart got it back from an angle, and then he and Mason were gated for roughing it. McPhail got around Combines' defence to beat the goalie near the close and it was 4-1.

Gets Free Shot

Swanson sank a free shot to start the second chukker and then Peterson beat their defence with a nice solo effort. Leatherbarrow rang the gong on a fast play with Harry Buchanan and the latter set up Swanson for another. A bit later, Swanson deked his check out of the way to go in and sew it up in hot playing. McKenzie shifted through defence to blast one by Lee, and then Cavallin tied it again as his shot was partly stopped but dribbled through Moon's legs. Thorpe again put Petes up in a fast move with O'Hearn's close-in pass. Wipper went over for charging and McKay got it seconds later for slashing and drawing blood on Slater.

Swanson tied it for the last time early in the third as he fooled the defence, and Byford put them in front with a crease slap-shot with Harry Buchanan's lob. McPhail was waved off for allegedly playing in the crease as the Petes hollered plenty. Smith cashed in on it to score at point blank range. O'Hearn went over next for slashing and McKenzie ragged it till his return. It looked like every time the home crowd let out a disapproving roar, Folka's finger pointed to a nearby red sweater.

Webb sifted through the Petes' defence to begin the fourth and cuff home Smith's pass. McKenzie bulleted his way through two stiff checks to bounce the ball by Lee.

Powless was chased for slashing and Stewart took Ticehurst's passout to sink the apple. Slater got in from the side with a bullet drive into the twine, and Kinna's blast was screened and Wootton never saw it. With Powless back, McPhail took a forward pass on the run from O'Hearn and nicked a net corner. O'Hearn got it then for slashing and Anderson followed for tripping. They were back as C's kept pressing and Byford got in close on criss-cross passing to score. O'Hearn drew a minor for slashing as he bumped hard into helmeted and masked Stewart, and it touched off a fight. Peterson and Swanson drew majors out of the deal and McKay got a roughing minor. Powless went next for tripping with Ticehurst winding it up from Buchanan.

Petes — Goal, Wootton; defence, O'Hearn and McKenzie; centre, Thorpe; wings, Dugan and Vitarelli; rover, McPhail; alternates, Crowe, Wipper Mason, Slater, Powless, Peterson and Creighton.

DOUBLE MISSES by the Vancouver Combines in Monday night's game in which the Petes tied the series for the Senior A' Lacrosse Canadian Championship. Wednesday night they dropped behind again. In the top photo Dootch Vitarelli is shown sprawling on top of Roy Cavallin of the Combines. Dootch hit the Vancouver player just before he got his shot away and the ball went harmlessly into a corner. Scotty McPhail of Mimico (replacing Jerry Fitzgerald) is shown on the right. In the lower photo goalie Moon Wootton ended up on the seat of his pants after deflecting a hot shot in the corner off the stick of Gogie Stewart (helmeted). Denny Peterson (12) in the background and Curly Mason (15) start to chase the ball. The Petes took this game 13-4 and lost Wednesday night 15-10.

SPORTS SHOW WINDOW

By CEC. PERDUE, Sports Editor

VANCOUVER, Oct. 4.—Kerrisdale arena manager is burned up over a CLA suggestion to switch the sixth Mann Cup game there from Friday to Saturday night. Screams he: "The CLA is afraid of losing some dough if they play on a hockey night. But unless this series concludes Saturday, we will lift the floor and replace it with ice-making equipment". To finish the series, if it goes the limit, on that floor this week would mean games Friday and Saturday. All arenas around here now are getting set for hockey, a sport which cuts in on summer sports at the start and finish of their season in recent years. CLA prefers to have a seventh tilt, if needed, on Monday.

* * * * * *

Manager Bob Curtin of the Petes was reported as saying they were in favor of playing Friday and Saturday if needed. "This side show is costing us money," Curtin said. "The club is in the hole out where $500 already." Some of the Petes want it that way and others feel there should be a night free in between playoff games. All agree that they need the money and they may accept an invite to fly later to Victoria for an exhibition game, being well paid for their attempt to prove they can beat the Vics, who keep insisting Victoria has a stronger senior lacrosse squad than the Combines. However, that's in the air yet.

* * * * * *

After last night's number it was announced that the teams would go Friday and again Saturday, if necessary, at Kerrisdale. So that seems to be it. With the Petes dropping a 15-10 decision, they simply have to win tomorrow or it's all over. They were plenty peeved at the finish but not downhearted. Fighting mad, actually. "We've picked ourselves up off the floor before," they said. "And we'll tie it Friday and take the Cup the next night." We fervently hope so, but dang it all they're doing this the hard way. If they do it. It's a pretty tough assignment now to win two in a row on the other guy's floor.

* * * * * *

As expected, they got no breaks at all from Referee Folka. They got the business—10 of the 15 penalties a flock of them dirt cheap. He also handed the ball to Combines several times for free throws because he didn't like the way the Easterners faced off. Folka has played and coached in Vancouver for years. The Timbermen were really burned up at him, but they'll likely have him the rest of the series, too. It's pretty tough on a team and knocks the heart out of players. At that, it was a close enough scrap and should have been about 12-10 for Combines, at the most. But it was still a loss for Peterborough.

* * * * * *

Some 2,700 fans whooped it up in the exciting encounter. Play was pretty fast, plenty rugged and a real dog fight throughout. A lot of good lacrosse served up by both sides, one fist fight near the finish and two guys injured. Gogie Stewart was reported to have a fractured jaw, and that will probably finish him this series. Russ Slater got a cut on the upper lip which took four stitches, we were told after the game. And by the way Jerry Fitzgerald is coming along rather slowly lately after his appendix operation, Manager Bob Curtin informs us. There was an abscess on the appendix and Fitz was under weight, too.

* * * * * *

While the Petes tried hard to keep the pace down last e'en the speedy Combines shook loose enough in the second half to flash in there on quick passes and sudden darts around checks to win the game. They really roll on their home pitch with the fans roaring approval at them and yelling blue murder every time a Vancouver player is checked. Big Merv McKenzie came up with his best performance of the series in this joust, while Don (Scotty) McPhail fits into the Petes' pattern well. They all fought hard. O'Hearn taking time out to score one and aid on two besides drawing several penalties for too robust checking.

* * * * * *

Three goalies saw action, Combines yanking Green after one frame and inserting their veteran Lee. He was tough to beat and he seemed to give his squad quite a lift. Wootton had little chance on those that beat him, his defence as a whole not clicking at their best. Well, they've all go to turn in their peak performance next time out, or they're out for this year. Don't worry, they'll be trying desperately to even it up once more. It's a long way to come to be beaten and they will shoot the works now with the chips on the line to avoid that fate. And they know that thousands of folks in Peterborough will be pulling for them in the big one Friday evening, and again Saturday.

Queen Mary Seniors Edge Central 1-0

Queen Mary school seniors with a first half goal edged Central school Wednesday 1-0 in a public school senior soccer league game.

The goal came when R. Brady booted the ball down the field on a goal kick, to Morgan on left wing who centred to J. Dafoe who sank the ball. P. Hum and K. Hum led the attack for Central backed by Patterson in the second half, testing Queen Mary goalie, F. Stinson from all angles, but he was unbeatable.

Lineups:

Central: goal, R. Gray; fullbacks J. Matthews, P. Brown; halfbacks, C. Craymer, D. Patterson, B. Naish; forwards, W. Tranter, P. Hum, D. Lustic, K. Hum, C Dunford; alternates, L. Harrington, B. Findlay, J. Lustic, B. Sorrie, T. Kelly, J. Lane.

Qeen Mary: goal, F. Stinson; fullbacks, C. Ellis, J. Mason; halfbacks, R. Atkinson, R. Brady; J. Plunkett; forwards, C. Morgan, G. Finn, J. Dafoe, G. Harris, G. Passmore; alternates, G. Dafoe, N. Reynolds, B. Lincoln, G. Vincent.

Garnet, Greys Begin Schedule With Belleville

Yet to have a point scored against them in two exhibition games, the PCVS senior Garnet and Greys will begin COSSA play Friday night at Morrow Park with Belleville collegiate.

Senior competition during recent years has become weaker in the Lake Ontario and Bay of Quinte areas of the COSSA district. This year the two areas combined with a three-team league, Belleville, Oshawa and PCVS, to play a home-and-home schedule. The winner will enter the COSSA finals.

So Friday's game is a must for the Garnet and Greys who have only two league games at home.

Beat Riverdale

Coach Goulding's charges have proven their abilities this year with victories over Toronto Riverdale, strongest in the Toronto city play, and over Trinity College School, Port Hope, of the Little Big Four, first-place team last year.

By air and ground the PCVS crew have rolled up 41 points against a goose-egg for the opposition.

There will be no changes made in the collegiate line-up for Friday's game, with Bryan Young quartering and Warren Brown, Bus Jensen, Bob Craw and Spin Hope in the backfield.

Weak '50 Team

The only indication so far of Red Townsend's strength in Belleville is last year's COSSA semi-final games. The Belleville seniors and juniors then offered only weak competition.

Therefore they'll at least have experience but probably not enough for the thoroughly conditioned and experienced Garnet and Grey.

Coach Alex MacQuarrie will lead his green PCVS junior Garnet and Greys against Lindsay in the preliminary game on Friday night. This will be their second league start.

Rebuilding once more, Coach MacQuarrie's boys suffered from stagefright last Saturday in Oshawa and lost 46-1. Just when they were regaining their morale, injuries wiped out the backfield.

For this game PCVS will have an alternate backfield to help the regulars which should improve the team greatly.

Otherwise there will be few changes, Kearns and Whalen, returning even though they have broken noses from last week's game, and Coit is back also.

Lindsay is not as strong as Oshawa CVI and the game should be more even than the opener.

Yankees 8-5 Favorites Over Dynamic Giants After Dramatic Series Win

By JACK HAND

NEW YORK, Oct. 4. (AP)—The incredible New York Giants miracle men of '51 charge into the World Series today in the familiar but becoming role of 8-to-5 underdogs to the seasoned New York Yankees. Floating on a pink cloud in a world all their own after the greatest comeback in baseball history, the Giants face the stern reality of Allie (double no-hit) Reynolds (17-8) in the Yankee Stadium opener. To meet this challenge, Manager Leo Durocher has named Dave Koslo (10-9), a journeyman southpaw who hasn't started in two weeks. It's another gamble by take-a-chance Leo in a series of inspired managerial moves.

Noting that lefthanders gave the Yanks fits all season—and Yogi Berra in particular—Leo reached for the only lefty starter on his arm-weary staff. Koslo spends at least half his time in the bullpen.

No matter what Leo does, the Yanks who watched the Giants snatch Wednesday's dramatic 5-4 clincher from Brooklyn will not take his club lightly. The record books show the Giants often are down—but never out.

Dramatic Blow

Bobby Thomson's three-run homer into the lower left-field seats in the ninth inning was one of the most dramatic blows ever struck. It rescued the Giants from the brink of disaster and wrenched a pennant from the grip of the desperate Dodgers. In dollars and cents it probably meant about $200,000 to the winning athletes in world series dough.

To appreciate the full drama of the occasion you must know the background: how the Giants flopped in a miserable 11-game losing streak in April; how they were given up for dead Aug. 11 trailing Brooklyn by 13½ games; how they clawed back, game by game, until they tied Brooklyn and forced the second National League playoff.

Winning the first play-off game 3-1, losing the second 10-0, they were backed up against the wall in the ninth inning of the final game.

After pulling up to tie in the seventh, they saw their hard work go down the drain in the eighth when Sal Maglie wild-pitched one run home and the Dodgers hammered home two more.

Slight Stir

Trailing 4-1 in the ninth with big Don Newcombe firing a four-hitter, Al Dark stirred a faint hope with a single off Gil Hodges' glove. When Don Mueller, singled, the Polo Grounds settlement of 34,320 began to stir. But Monte Irvin fouled out to Hodges for out No. 1.

Whitey Lockman set the joint jumping with a double off the left-field wall to score Dark, narrowing the gap to 4-2. Sliding into third on the hit, Mueller twisted his ankle and was carried from the field. On the way he passed Ralph Branca, striding in to replace the weary Newcombe.

Thomson the goat on some bonehead base running and inadequate fielding, looked at a called strike from big Ralphie. The next pitch was a high fast ball and the Scot from Staten Island slammed a sinking liner that just cleared the high green wall in front of the lower left-field seats.

Great Roar

A hoarse roar echoed off Coogan's Bluff as Thomson rounded the bases with a wide grin. Wild-eyed Giants pounded Thomson's back and climbed on his shoulders.

The old Polo Grounds, which saw the great John McGraw's teams of years ago, never saw any wilder victory celebration than it did Wednesday. Thousands grouped on the centre-field grass and raised volleys of cheers toward their Giants in the clubhouse windows.

They yelled for Thomson, for Durocher, for anybody. It didn't make any difference. No pennant had flown from the Polo Grounds flagpole since 1937 and they were making the most of it.

The series is something else. The facts of the matter show Casey Stengel's Yanks with a rested pitching trio of Reynolds, Vic Raschi and Eddit Lopat. Durocher must piece together his staff after the terrific strain of the last seven weeks.

Since 1923 the Yanks have beaten the Giants in three world series in a row.

They lost their first two series to the Giants in 1921 and 1922 in the fabled era of McGraw, Miller Huggins and Babe Ruth.

Because the Yanks have more pitching depth, a steadier infield, better catching and at least an even break in the outfield, the pick here is the American Leaguers in six. But then you never can figure inspiration on paper.

NHL Has Discarded New Face-off Plan

ST. CATHARINES, Oct. 4 — (CP). — Toronto Maple Leafs of the National Hockey League were informed Wednesday night that the NHL has discarded a proposed innovation calling for a large face-off circle directly in front of each goal.

The league will return to the system of having two face-off circles on each side of the ice at both ends of the rink. But the circles will be 30 feet in diameter and willbe situated 35 feet out from the goal line. Last year, the face-off spots in the end zone were 10 feet out from the goal and were 20 feet in diameter.

There will also be a 30-foot face-off circle at centre-ice.

THAT SURPRISED LOOK on Duke Snider's face, resulted when Umpire Larry Goetz called him out on a close play at home in Tuesday's playoff clash against New York Giants. Catcher Wes Westrum of Giants, right, nabbed the Dodger outfielder when he tried to score on Gil Hodges' roller which Whitey Lockman recovered and threw to the plate. The decision created a temporary rhubarb in the third inning.

Brewers Blank Royals 6-0 To Lead Series 3 to 2

MILWAUKEE, Oct. 4 (AP). — Milwaukee Brewers will be out to win the little world series championship tonight, after gaining a 3-2 edge in games over Montreal with a 6-0 victory Wednesday night.

The shutout gave the American Association champions their first bulge in the best-of-seven battle. The Brewers came here from Montreal trailing the International League champs 2 to 1.

Milwaukee manager Charley Grimm has named righthander Sid Schacht to hurl tonight against the Royals' southpaw Mal Mallett.

Ernie Johnson, best pitcher in the Association, employed a side-arm delivery most of the time Wednesday night and set Montreal down with only four hits.

George Shuba and Maurice Atwell got two of them in the fourth, both singles, but Bert Haas hit into a double play to end the threat. Only other Royal hits were a single by losing pitcher Hamp Coleman in the third and a double by Hector Rodriguez in the fifth.

Four straight Brewer blows, three for extra bases, met Coleman in the seventh inning after he held Milwaukee to a pair of singles and two runs in the first six frames.

Coleman stayed through the slaughter, but Dan Bankhead took over in the eighth and retired three straight batters.

The series will be concluded in Milwaukee.

mythe Sees eafs Finishing In Fourth Spot

ST. CATHARINES, Oct. 4 (CP) —Conn Smythe looks for a fourth-place finish for his Toronto Maple Leafs in the 1951-52 National Hockey League campaign.

That may seem a pessimistic viewpoint for the managing director of a team which wound up second in the six-team league last season and then captured the post-schedule Stanley Cup championship.

But Smythe finds his reason in the loss of depth through the tragic disappearance of Bill Barilko on an aerial fishing trip and Howie Meeker's election to parliament as Progressive Conservative member for Waterloo South.

Here in training camp at St. Catharines, another reason is obvious—the players are displaying lethargy unusual for a Leaf team in preparations for the 70-game schedule they open against Chicago Black Hawks at Toronto Oct. 13. Unless they acquire a tougher competitive spirit they may even miss fourth spot—last playoff position in the league.

Big Loss

Barilko's loss was a big one. "He was the bounce boy of our team," said Smythe. "He had the spirit and he passed it along."

Meeker's case is different. The dependable right wing goes to Ottawa next week to attend the fall session of parliament. It may continue until mid-December. Then he'll be available until the 1952 session opens early in the New Year.

The Leafs don't expect the cut in the number of players they can dress for each game will be much help in making up for the two absentees. This season each team can dress 16 men, including the goalie—last season it was 18. But the club will have to keep an extra man or so handy to use in case of injuries.

Hugh Bolton, a Toronto native, appears a likely choice for the defence spot left vacant by Barilko's disappearance. Two other candidates — Tim Horton and Frank Mathers—are expected to play with Pittsburgh Hornets, Toronto's farm club in the American Hockey League.

Four Solid Men

Four solid blue-liners are back: Jim Thomson, Gus Mortson, Bill Juzda and Fern Flaman.

Al Rollins, last season's Vezina Trophy winner, will probably do most of the goalkeeping. But Turk Broda, now 36, will see some action. Last season the fabulous fat man from Brandon played in 31 games, allowed 68 goals and posted six shutouts to help Rollins win his Vezina Trophy.

"We'll have to keep the Turk going until he's 50," Smythe remarked with a laugh.

Ted Kennedy, at 25 starting his ninth NHL season, heads the most formidable forward line. He and his linemates — left wing Sid Smith and right wing Tod Sloan —scored 79 of the Leafs' 212 goals last season and had 89 assists.

In training camp, a new line of Danny Lewicki, Ray Timgren and Joe Klukay is showing attacking promise. A left winger in his rookie season, the 20-year-old Lewicki has been shifted to centre where he has more room for his free-wheeling style. Klukay, a left hand shot who plays right wing, has been the top payoff man of this combination.

Fleming Mackell, another leftie on the right side, is working into Meeker's spot with Cal Gardner and Harry Watson.

Stanbury Rolls 887 To Take Top Honors

W. Stanbury rolled an 887 in the Major Bowling League Tuesday night for the high three honors while D. Pearson spilled the pins for a 320 and the high single honors.

Woods' entry won the high pinnage with a total of 3,484 as they took six points from Wonder Bread. Bickells totalled 1,232 for the single game pinnage as they won four points from the Sun Life.

Other good scores were: J. Playford, 315 (854); B. McConnel 316 (760); H. Correll 747; D. Pearson 749; F. Willison 728; A. Caccavella 732; J. Dormer 302 723); A. Woodcock, 716; C. Signoretti 708; A. Hall 704; W. Stanbury 310, 304; F. Hurley 300.

Points were taken by: six, Cherneys over Mongraw; Campbell over Darling; Plazas over BE; Woods over Wonder Bread; Mowry over Kawartha; Herbs over Brewery; four, Bickell over Sun Life; Odeon over Revenoors; Stud-Champs over Lillians; UEW over Kingsmen; McLeod over Selkirk.

Drop Two Players

ST CATHARINES, Oct. 4 (CP) —In their first player cut of the year, Toronto Maple Leafs of the National Hockey League Wednesday dropped rightwinger Specs Chorley, from Winnipeg's Junior Monarchs, and goalie Don Campbell of Saskatoon. Chorley will join Glace Bay Miners of the Maritime Major Hockey League and Campbell will return to his Saskatoon Wesley's Juvenile club.

ANNOUNCED RAISE

Cleveland Indians announced Wednesday night at New York a salary raise and a new two-year managerial contract for Al Lopez. There was no mention of the terms, but there was speculation that the annual salary jumped from $30,000 to $40,000.

THIS STARTED IT OFF — Brooklyn players rise from their Polo Grounds dugout to congratulate teammate Jackie Robinson (42) after he hit a homer with Peewee Reese aboard in the first inning of the second pennant playoff game. Dodgers went on from there to beat the Giants 10-0.

Here and There In Sport

By The Canadian Press

The Canadian Rugby Union has been asked by the Big Four to withhold the playing certificates of Tom Worthington of Hamilton Tiger-Cats, pending an inquiry into circumstances surrounding Worthington's signing a CRU form.

Harry McBrien of Toronto, acting registrar of the CRU said on Wednesday night at Toronto that he had been asked to withhold Worthington's certificate.

"All I know is that I was asked to hold out his certificate," he said. "I'm simply following orders."

The former Detroit Lions triple-threat halfback was hurriedly signed by the Tiger-Cats Monday night to replace end Joe Shinn, who decided to return to Tulane University. Deadline for registration with the CRU of United States imports was Monday midnight.

McBrien said that the Hamilton team had forwarded a signed certificate bearing Worthington's signature and because the letter was postmarked 11:30 p.m. Monday, he assumed the registration was in order.

Jockey Gilbert Robillard, who rode many of the horses of E. P. Taylor of Toronto, Wednesday was suspended by the Ontario Racing Commission when he appeared at Toronto for further questioning in connection with the probe of fixed races at the Fort Erie rack track during the summer.

He is the seventh jockey to be suspended since the commission started its investigation. He previously had been fined $100, with several other jockeys, for failing promptly to report bribe offers.

TCS Firsts Edge Oshawa 28-20

PORT HOPE, Oct. 4. — Trinity College School Firsts won their second victory in three pre-season exhibition games here Wednesday afternoon when they defeated Oshawa Collegiate, 28 to 20.

The game was a wide-open affair for the first half, TCS leading at the interval, 28-to 15, but in the second half it slowed down considerably and Oshawa scored the only TD of the fourth quarter.

The winners broke away to a fast start, scoring quick touchdowns by Clark and McDermott, one of which was converted. Oshawa broke into the scoring on a forward pass to Mozewsky, but a converted touchdown by Jackman sent TCS into a 17 to 5 lead.

Oshawa came back with two majors in rapid succession, neither of which was converted and trailed by only two points. Before half time, however, the homesters added two more touchdowns by Muntz and McDermott, the latter's being converted.

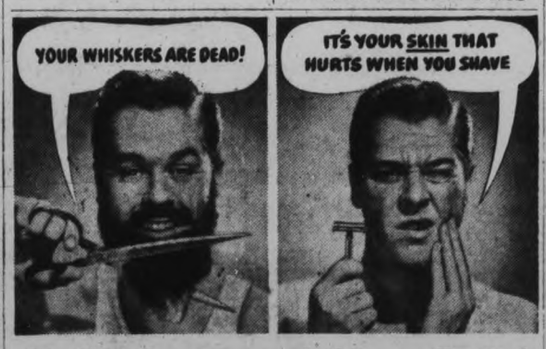
After a pointless third quarter Oshawa ran the ball to the TCS five-yard line and Andranovich went over for an unconverted touchdown.

For Trinity, Long, Phillips, Seagram, and Gordon played well while Mozewsky and Edwards stood out for the losers.

Favor Yanks To Win

NEW YORK, Oct. 4 (AP). — The majority of sports writers covering the world series see New York Yankees beating the Giants for their third straight world championship. And most of those who picked the Yankees in a poll conducted by The Associated Press figure the American League champs will take the series in six games.

AMERICAN DEBUT



Australia's Dave Sands, shopping for a shot at middleweight champion Sugar Ray Robinson's title, made his American debut with a unanimous but dull, 10-round win over Hawaii's Carl (Bobo) Olson before a derisive Chicago Stadium crowd Wednesday night. Sands weighed 164½, Olson 163½. Sands is the British Empire middleweight champion.

Ralph Branca Sheds Tears As Series Lost

By WILL GRIMSLEY.

NEW YORK, Oct. 4 (AP). — Ralph Branca sat on the steps, eyes wet, his head buried in his arms. Manager Charley Dressen paced the floor like a nervous lion. Don Newcombe moved around, silently and aimlessly as if trying to figure out a reason for it all.

The others sat on the short, three-legged stools in their dressing room. None spoke.

These were the men of Brooklyn, wondering what they had done against destiny to make destiny treat them so.

"We are three runs ahead going into the ninth inning," said Jackie Robinson, Dodgers' brilliant second baseman. "We see ourselves in the world series. And then—boom—five minutes later we are sitting in the clubhouse."

Once before Dodgers had started counting world series money—amounting to $5,000, maybe $6,500. That was when they were 13½ games ahead on Aug. 11. Then the Giants' surge collared them and they fought back twice from the brink of elimination to Wednesday's final game.

It was all wiped out with one tremendous blow in the ninth inning by New York's Bobby Thomson, giving the Giants a 5-4 victory.

Not Bad Pitch

"It wasn't a bad pitch," said Branca in a low, smothered breath. "It was a high curve ball. I didn't think he hit too well. It was sinking when it went into the stands."

The big righthander was charged with both defeats in the best-of-three playoff for the National League Pennant. He lost 3-1 to Giants Monday, also on a homer by Thomson. That came in the fourth inning with a man on base.

Branca relieved Newcombe, who had pitched magnificently for eight innings to carry his mates just a breath away from the championship.

Asked if he wanted to stay in the game, Newcombe said:

"The manager is paid to think. He can think better than I can. He makes the decisions. I'll stand by them."

Dressen said Newcombe was tired.

"They told me also that Branca had a lot of stuff in the bullpen. That's why I called him in."

Dressen was asked if he ever had considered walking Thomson, who is having a great year, to get Willie Mays, who has been in a tremendous slump.

"We might have under certain circumstances—that is, if the count got up to three balls—but we wouldn't want to walk the potential winning run," the Brooklyn manager said.

Passing Attack To Decide Varsity Chances

By WILFRED GRUSON.

TORONTO, Oct. 4 — (CP). — The eventual success or failure of the passing attack worked out by Coach Bob Masterson for his University of Toronto Blues will provide the answer to how potent a force his club will be in this season's senior Intercollegiate Football Union campaign.

The Blues are packed with big, speedy, hard-running halfbacks, and if the passing needed to go with their ground power comes around, Masterson expects the Blues to emerge from the depths of the league standings. That is where the Varsity Blues sank after winning the intercollegiate crown in 1948.

The Blues, who finished third in the four-team league last season and fourth in 1949, showed their lack of passing strength even in winning all three of their exhibition games this season. Their first league test is scheduled for this Saturday against McGill Redmen and Masterson has been working overtime in trying to improve the tossing of his two quarterbacks, Olie Mandryk and Alec Lawson.

Both throw the ball well, but their trouble has been lack of experience, which Masterson believes is causing them to be overanxious and too eager to get rid of the ball even when they are not being rushed by charging linemen. It is just a question of getting them to take their time, he says.

Loses 12 Men

The big, genial coach has lost more than 12 men from last year's squad, including outside wing Jack Gray, quarterbacks Don Peart and Don Wigle, snap Ed Fisher, and middle Joe Errington.

Capable replacements are on hand from last season's intermediate Blues and the high school ranks, notably halfback Steve Oneschuk from St. Catharines Collegiate. Oneschuk, who played lacrosse for two seasons with the senior St. Catharines Athletics of the Ontario Lacrosse Association, is being counted on by Masterson to make the big jump from high school football to college competition without too much trouble and eventually develop into a real star.

The Blues will operate mostly from the T-formation. However, they also have been drilled in a number of single-wing plays and occasionally may use that system.

"We have a good chance this year," says Masterson. "If we get an even share of the breaks and our key men avoid serious injuries, we have as much chance as any of the other clubs to take the title."

Al Haig, a left-footed kicker, will again look after the booting and alternate with Tom Bird and Bob Leeming at the flying wing spot. Others available for the half line besides these three and Oneschuk are Bill Bewley, Bob Rumball, Geoff White, Bob Garside, Bob Dale, Bill McFarlane, Murray Hadlow and Greg McFadden.

Dale, interscholastic champion in the 100-yard dash in his high school days in Toronto, is the smallest of the halves at 160 and the fastest. The others weigh between the 185 and 195-pound mark.

MONDAY'S WAR WHOOPS turned in sheer ecstacy for Manager Leo Durocher as New York Giants won the pennant race over the Brooklyn Dodgers in Wednesday's dramatic game. Here the Lip does a little dance as Monte Irvin trots in after clouting a telling home run Monday. In the picture on the right Durocher does his war dance after Bobby Thomson slashed out his first four-bagger of the series and headed home. Wednesday when Thomson batted out his ninth inning homer that gave Giants three runs and the series, Durocher could hardly be restrained.

Paddy Nolan Lacrosse Player Dies In Toronto

TORONTO, Oct. 4.—A veteran of lacrosse and hockey wars of the nineties and the first six years of the present century, William George (Paddy) Nolan died Wednesday at his home in Toronto at the age of 76. A native of this city, Nolan made his lacrosse debut with the Uxbridge club in 1892 and was a member of the famous Beaverton Checkers in 1896.

From then until he retired from active participation in the two sports, in 1906, he played lacrosse or hockey in Allendale, Toronto, where he was a member of the Maitlands, Collingwood, Port Arthur, Sudbury, Galt, North Bay, Madoc, Peterborough, Napanee, Midland, Markham, where he was a teammate of the late Charles Querrie, and with the Junction Shamrocks.

He played on the home in lacrosse and at centre in hockey. He was goal judge in the first lacrosse game played at the Island and he introduced box lacrosse in North Toronto when he coached the North Toronto juniors. In recent years he had been a keen follower of sports but has not been actively connected with any of them since 1928.

Giants Wild After Victory, Players Thrilled

By ORLO ROBERTSON.

NEW YORK, Oct. 4 (AP). — Bobby Thomson, Scottish-born resident of metropolitan New York, wrote a story book finish to the spine-tingling National League pennant race Wednesday and then pandemonium broke loose in the Polo Grounds.

The New York Giants' fans quiet most of the afternoon, especially after Brooklyn Dodgers took a 4-1 lead in the eighth inning, opened all their pent-up emotions as Thomson's 32nd and most important home run of the year settled in the lower left field stands with two mates aboard.

"It was a high fast one and a little inside," Thomson shouted above the din of the dressing room. "I saw Branca let loose with his fast pitch and I was all set."

The Giants' dressing was such confusion that hardly anyone could get in a word. But out of the backslapping, noise and general hullabaloo came:

"Never saw a greater finish," declared Ford Frick, newly-elected baseball commissioner. "And I have been watching games for more than 30 years."

Into the jam-packed, hot dressing room came Warren Giles, new president of the National League; manager Charley Dressen of the Dodgers, Jackie Robinson, the Dodgers' great second baseman; Walter O'Malley, president of the Brooks, and scores of others.

"I told you we'd finish one, two," Dressen said as he congratulated Durocher. "I was right, only we were second."

"I don't feel sorry for myself" said Robinson, "but I do feel bad that we let the Brooklyn fans down."

Asked if he said anything on the bench b fore the start of the Giants' ninth, Durocher replied:

"I told the boys we had three big outs left. You haven't given up all year so don't give up now. Let's get some runs. And the reply, almost in a chorus was, "we'll get the bums."

Layne After Quick Knockout In Charles Bout

PITTSBURGH, Oct. 4 (AP). — Just in case former heavyweight champion Ezzard Charles has any ideas of a quick knockout in his comeback fight with Rex Layne—the feeling is mutual.

Layne, fourth ranking heavyweight, meets the Cincinnati belter in a 12-round bout Oct. 10 in the same ring where Charles lost the crown to Jersey Joe Walcott less than three months ago.

The bout originally was scheduled for Forbes Field next Monday but was postponed until Wednesday.

Several reasons entered into the postponement, particularly the world series and a last minute $25,000 television melon the promoters picked up from a brewing company.

If Layne gets by Charles, he wants a shot at the heavyweight title. After all, he's already beaten Walcott. Layne decisioned Jersey Joe in a 10-round bout Nov. 23 at Madison Square Garden.

In Best Shape

Layne, blessed with the physical assets of a Jack Dempsey, says he's in the best shape of his ring career which shows 34 triumphs in 37 fights.

"I'll be after Charles for a knockout from the start," comments the 23-year-old Salt Lake City belter.

In Cincinnati Charles has been training three weeks in his own gym. He expects to weigh 187 or a little more by fight time.

"I intend to win," says Charles. "My wind is good. I'm getting my punches the way I want them. I'm sharp enough."

Jack McGinley, co-promoter of the fight with the International Boxing Club, estimates a crowd of 15,000 with a gross gate of $100,000, including television and radio rights.

Charles' cut will be 35 per cent, Layne's 25.

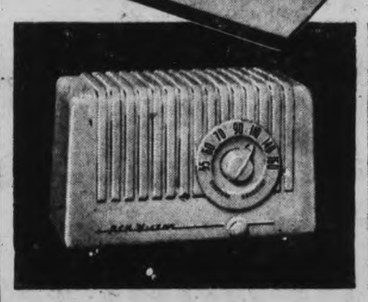
Legion to Sponsor Minor Hockey Club

CAMPBELLFORD, Oct. 4 (ENS).—The monthly meeting of the Canadian Legion, branch 103, was held Monday night. This particular meeting was a highlight in the annals of the branch, due to the fact that the Ladies' Auxiliary were invited in order to receive their charter.

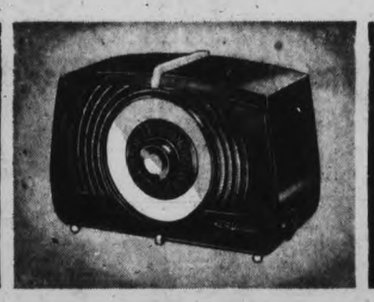
President Helen Hazell received the charter on behalf of the Ladies' Auxiliary from Legion President A. MacDonald. In the absence of their standard-bearer, Comrade Hollings received the flag.

In accordance with present plans to form a town league for minor hockey, the branch decided to sponsor a team and appointed Howard Wilson as manager and Wib Blake as coach.

Many members expressed their intention of going to Trenton for the royal visit, and when further information is received it will be taken up.



Comrade Jarvis thanked the branch for their hospitality during his recen tillness, and also the branch received a note of thanks from Olive Lambert for a gift of flowers.



It was decided that the annual banquet be held on November 21, and that the Ladies' Auxiliary would do the catering.

Menjou Weeps As Male Elegance Lapses

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 4 (AP) —"Ah," sighed Adolphe Menjou, "the age of male elegance is fading from our civilization."

He almost shed a tear. He himself did not look up to his reputation as Hollywood's most high-powered dresser. He was wearing a $32.50 suit for his detective role in "The Sniper."

Menjou gazed at the crowd watching the film company. "Even a city like San Francisco, where the men used to dress smartly, has fallen down in quality," he complained. "You see the same sloppy clothes that you see in other parts of the country."

New York Best

The actor said the best-dressed city in the United States is New York. A few men in Cleveland and Chicago were well dressed, and a smaller number in Texas. But on the whole, he believes men have fallen to a low estate.

"Why, spats are virtually extinct," he said. "You never see a derby any more. Top hats appear only at the opening of the opera."

Among things Menjou views with alarm (he is a great alarm-viewer) is the sport coat with unmatching slacks.

"You see that all the time in the cities," he observed. "In reality, the sport coat was developed in England for use in the country only. They would leave the city on Friday afternoon and remain until Monday morning. There they would wear sport coats with grey flannel trousers. But they wouldn't be caught dead wearing a sport coat in the city."

Even England

Even England is no longer the fashion centre for men, he added. "The average Englishman is so poor he cannot afford new clothes, even if he could get them," Menjou said. "Many of them dress in little better than rags."

The actor is doing his bit to stretch out the last days of the elegant era. He said he pays between $250 and $300 for his suits and up to $500 for a dress suit. He has about 200 suits and an equal number of hats and shoes.

DURING THE COURSE of the International Conference on wood chemistry, held under the auspices of the Pulp and Paper Research Institute of Canada this week in Montreal, a group of some 35 distinguished foreign chemists representing 15 different nations toured the laboratories of Industrial Cellulose Research Limited, at Hawkesbury, Ontario. This is one of the leading cellulose research centres in the world. In the above picture, research chemist Raila Mielikainen, who came to Canada from Finland, chats with a compatriot, Dr. Terje Enkvist, professor of organic chemistry at the Universtiy of Helsingfors, Finland. The foreign chemists who attended the symposium are the world's authorities on the fundamental chemistry of cellulose and lignin.

Hurricane Strikes Off Florida

MIAMI, Fla., Oct. 4. (AP)—The tropical storm that swept across Florida developed into a full hurricane in the Atlantic today, with winds of 95 miles an hour near the centre.

Storm warnings were ordered up from Cape Hatteras to the Virginia Capes and small craft on the North Carolina coast were told to remain in port.

Grady Norton, chief storm forecaster at the Miami weather bureau, said strong winds, possibly up to gale force, were expected to lash the coast but the "hurricane force winds should pass off shore."

Damage along the lower east coast was confined to small craft, awnings and shrubbery but in the rich Lake Okeechobee farming country an estimated 11,500 acres of beans, tomatoes and young potatoes were flooded.

Charge Dismissed

PORT ARTHUR, Ovt. 4 (CP)—A manslaughter charge was dismissed Wednesday against Trevor C. Lyons, of Rainy River, Ont. However, the 28-year-old railway dispatcher will face trial on a charge of criminal negligence. Lyons was charged in connection with the death last May of George Alfred Miller, of Fort William. The Canadian National Railways fireman was killed in a head-on collision of two locomotives. At a preliminary hearing at Fort William last month, Lyons was charged with failing to relay a message to one of the conductors.

MONTREAL, Oct. 4—(CP)—H. The operation was performed Tuesday after the prominent Toronto financier was flown here from Mexico.

Shooting Justified

TORONTO, Oct. 4—(CP)—An inquest jury decided Wednesday night that the fatal shooting of Joseph Sarosky by police officers who broke up an attempt to rob a midtown office Aug. 24 was justifiable homicide. Its verdict said police should be free to use their guns when threatened by thugs engaged in lawbreaking.

In Service For Men Women Who Served

Comrades:

In the course of his many duties the secretary of the Canadian Legion meets many people. Not all of them, however, are as interesting as the one I am going to tell you about at this time. The gentleman I refer to was a padre in the last war and I am sure that you will find his service record and his post-war activities very interesting.

H/Major A. E. Larke is his name and he entered the army in Jan. 1940 in Calgary. During that year he was garrison padre at Newata Park, Calgary and at Currie Barracks. From 1941 to October, 1943, he was with the 4th Canadian Armoured Division, South Alberta Regiment, 4th Division Royal Army Service Corps and Engineers. He also served with the Calgary Tanks in Italy, in support of the Indian Troops with the Eighth Army. Prior to his discharge in March, 1946, he was in charge of spiritual welfare at the Canadian Engineers Training Centre at Chilliwack, British Columbia, and the Women's Service Convalescent Centre at Harrison Hot Springs, British Columbia.

After his discharge, H/Major Larke was president of Canadian Legion branches at Magrath and Raymond, Alberta. His appointment to the United Church at Gore's Landing, brought him to this district and he is now minister at Springville United Church.

H/Major Larke was born in England and came to Canada in 1916. He attended high school in Windsor, Ont., and upon graudation, attended Victoria University, Toronto.

H/Major Larke is now a member of Branch No. 52, Peterborough and we are sure that he will prove to be a valuable addition to the membership of our branch, both in his line of ministry and knowledge of legion affairs.

Mr. Frank Ball reports that the first cribbage game of fall and winter season was a decided success, although the Legion players were defeated, it was touch and go all the way with the Del.aval players being the winners by a slim margin of 48 points. High scores and winners of the evening prizes were R. W. Smith and G. LaPlante (715), H. Dolman and F. McCartney (708), S. Ivison and Mr. Garside (700). Frank promises that the next time these teams meet the score will be in favor of the Legion.

The shuffleboard tournament will be starting shortly. At a meeting held recently the team captains were picked and team members names were drawn. Your correspondent understands that there are a few teams not filled, so if any members wish to compete in this tournament, please contact the secretary or George Gimblett.

There will be a meeting of all members interested in darts tonight at 8 p.m. on the top floor of the Legion Hall.

The Duffy Club monthly meeting on Tuesday, October 9, in the club room, top floor.

Any veteran who is not now a member of the Canadian Legion, Branch 52, why not come up some evening and see for yourself the many and varied ways the Legion can be of service to you.

Unfit For Trial

LONDON, Ont., Oct. 4—(CP)—Mrs. Elizabeth Lawrence Wednesday was found mentally unfit by a jury to stand trial for murder in the fatal bludgeoning of her husband in their Caradoc township farm home last January. Supreme Court Justice H. A. Aylen ordered the woman removed to the county jail "to await the pleasure of the lieutenant-governor."

APPROPRIATE DATE

John Graves Simcoe, first Lieutenant-Governor of Upper Canada, arrived in Kingston on July 1, 1792.

Calgary Breeder Sees Horses Making Return

REGINA—(CP)—Some people may think the horse has had its day—except for racing and butcher shops—but not Hardy Salter of Calgary.

A breeder of Percherons, a heavy draft type, Salter says he'd "just as soon eat my brother or my relatives as eat horse meat."

"A horse is a man's friend," he says.

And he thinks people who believe the draft horse is headed for extinction via meat-packing plants are badly off the trail. Ordinary draft horses, well-broken to harness, brought good prices at horse sales this spring—so good that horse-packing plants had to raise their prices.

Sales at Stettler and Lacombe, Alta.—usually the biggest in the West—were cancelled for lack of animals.

Mr. Salter said work horses are coming back into demand. The Maritimes Provinces have banned the use of caterpillar tractors in tree-cutting because the machines crush young trees.

"A horse can get in and out between the trees without breaking them down," Salter says.

Handy On Farm

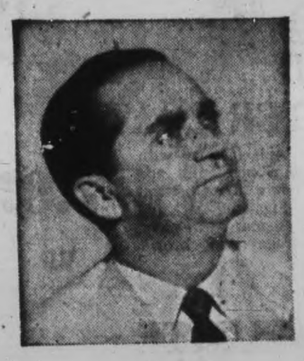
He doesn't think the horse will regain its old place on the prairies as the main source of power. But he says there is a use on every farm for two horses—a draft team and a dual-purpose horse for riding and winter driving. Horses can do innumerable farm chores much cheaper than tractors.

Mr. Salter admits interest in heavy horses has dropped, but he says he doesn't like the suggestion of some cattle breeders that prize money for horse classes at prairie fairs be turned over to cattle classes.

"When beef animals were selling at a cent a pound during the depression and you could get $1,000 anywhere for a good stallion, we didn't suggest that the prize money for cattle be turned over to us.

"They didn't ask us horse breeders if we were through.

"I'm not through by a long ways."



Park Nominated

TORONTO, Oct. 4 (CP). — Eamon Park, CCF member of the Ontario Legislature for Toronto Dovercourt, Wednesday night was nominated to contest the seat again in the next provincial general election. Other CCF nomination meetings Wednesday night chose Frank Frier as candidate in Toronto St. George, now held by Attorney-General Porter, and Bill Newcome, in Toronto St. Patrick, present seat of Charles Rea, Progressive Conservative.

"am I the forgotten woman?..."

"I'm 5 feet 4, weigh 125 pounds—apparently that's about average. Yet I can't find a suit or coat that fits me. If it fits up here, it's wrong down there. Or vice versa. Have the fashion experts forgotten about me—or do I need redesigning?"

"NO!" says Lou Larry, one of Canada's foremost fashion authorities.

"You are actually the 'Perfect Canadian Type.' Research shows that the average Canadian woman is between 5 feet, and 5 feet 4 inches tall. But she has been trying to get into clothes designed for tall fashion models. That's why we developed our famous Perfect Canadian Type—for five feet four and under, without alterations. It provides high fashion for the average Canadian woman, as she is built, and gives her that taller, slimmer look. The PCT label is available at the leading fashion shops shown below. Come in and prove it to yourself. You'll see that you're by no means 'forgotten'."

Case of Missing Plaque Develops In Dalton Feud

By ALAN HARVEY

LONDON, Oct. 4—(CP)—The case of the missing plaque would be a suitable title for the most piquant of all Britain's pre-election feuds. The principals in this political thriller are the country's housewives, its textile manufacturers and one Hugh Dalton, the saucy, insouciant Socialist who once was tabbed as a future prime minister.

The first storm signals were noticed in mid-September. Dalton, minister of local government and planning, advised housewives to refrain from buying clothes or other textiles until prices started dropping.

The storm freshened quickly. Adjectives such as "reckless," "unwarranted," and "irresponsible" were heard on all sides. Everybody who had ever sold a suit of clothes, it seemed, wanted to tell Dalton where to get off.

Traders Angry

A member of an organization called The Drapers' Chamber of Trade stiffly advised his colleagues to "cut Dalton dead." C. W. Fulker, officer of the co-operative union, said co-op managers were "gnashing their teeth and would like to tear Mr. Dalton to pieces."

Rival politicians got into the act. One recalled that Dalton had been dismissed as Chancellor of the Exchequer in 1947 for spilling budget secrets to a newspaperman—in the wrong place, at the wrong time, to the wrong person." Others challenged Dalton's claim that clothing prices should be reduced immediately, saying that the fall in wholesale prices could not be reflected in the stores as soon as that.

Dalton didn't budge an inch. In fact, he was sassy enough in a subsequent speech to claim that the housewife, by foregoing clothing purchases, had won a "striking victory" on the cost-of-living front.

Housewives Happy

"We have broken the price of rings and clothing and textiles," said Dalton, chummily linking himself with the housewife in the personal pronoun. "The profiteers are in full retreat. In the last fortnight many prices have come down with a run—knitting wool, carpets, blankets, men's suits, raincoats, women's dresses and best of all children's clothing."

He accused the Conservatives of trying to "hush up" the fact that wholesale prices had fallen.

If the price reductions made the housewives happy it didn't do the same for the traders. In some areas, manufacturers spoke gloomily of being forced to fire employees because of reduced turnover caused by the housewives' buying strike.

Proving that political pronouncements often come home to roost, one of the hardest-hit areas was reported to be Bishop Auckland, Durham. Nothing significant in that except that Bishop Auckland is the constituency which elected Dalton to Parliament.

That's where the missing plaque comes in. Three years ago Dalton opened a new clothing factory in Bishop Aukland, once depressed area. To commemorate the occasion a plaque, giving glowing details of Dalton's part in the ceremony, was placed in tory in Bishop Auckland, once de-the entrance hall of the factory.

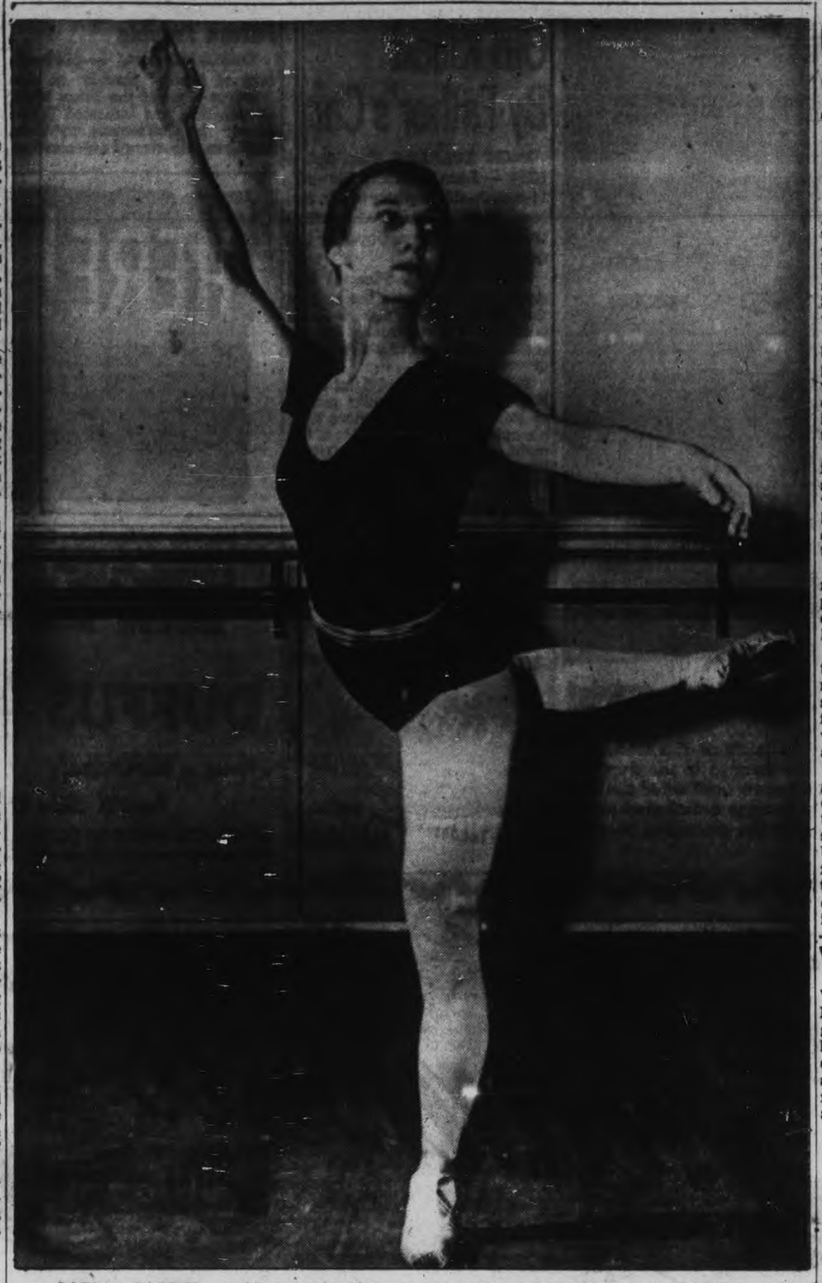
Now the plaque is missing, and nobody will say where it went. But runor is that workers threatened with lay-offs pulled down the plaque to show their displeasure at Dalton's "don't buy" advice.

Civil Servants Ask Increase

OTTAWA, Oct. 4—(CP)—Fred Whitehouse, president of the Civil Service Federation of Canada, said the Federation intends to press for an "immédiate adjustment" in the salaries of Canada's 120,000 federal government workers.

In a statement, the president made public a letter from Finance Minister Abbott. This said that a decision on federation claims for a salary increase or cost-of-living bonus would be made as soon as departmental enquiries had been concluded and a report made to the cabinet.

Mr. Whitehouse said, however, that "information received would indicate that the cabinet is of the opinion that a year should elapse from the last salary adjustment" last December, and added:



"The federation executive cannot agree to this due to the unprecedented increase in the cost of living since the last salary adjustment."

RCN Frigate To Help Patrol Princess' Route

OTTAWA, Oct. 4. (CP) — A Royal Canadian Navy frigate—La Hulloise—will join with Royal Navy craft in patrolling the sea along the transatlantic air route of Canada's royal visitors Oct. 7-8, it was learned Wednesday.

Veteran of the Second World War now based at Halifax, La Hulloise will form the western link of a chain of five warships spaced about 400 miles apart between Britain and Newfoundland. The other four will be from the Royal Navy.

The Canadian vessel, detached for "search and rescue" duty, will patrol in an area about 300 miles northeast of St. John's Nfld., on the great circle route over the Atlantic.

Cadesky Testifies Securities Board Doing Good Job

TORONTO, Oct. 4 — (CP).— A Toronto broker told the Ontario Legislature Crime Committee Wednesday that if Ontario brokers were prohibited from soliciting sales in the United States, the mining business here would be "shot."

Louis Cadesky, who said he had been a broker for 16 years and a promoter since 1950, was the first witness called Wednesday by the committee, formed last spring to investigate crime conditions in the province.

The committee resumed hearings October 1 after a month's adjournment. Mr. Cadesky said: "The mining business needs gamblers— people who will take a chance. We've only scratched the surface of Canadian mines. . . There wouldn't be sufficient money to develop the number of properties around today if brokers couldn't solicit in the US."

Doing Best

Mr. Cadesky said he believed that the Ontario Securities Commission is doing everything possible to protect the public from fraudulent shares. "I don't know what else they could do," he added.

Prior to its adjournment August 31, the committee heard charges from the United States that Ontario stock dealers had swindled American buyers. The US Securities Commission asked for changes in extradition laws so that those Ontario brokers so charged could be tried in American courts.

Canon Yearns For Something Peaceful Like Cannibal Country Instead Of Tour

NIAGARA FALLS, Ont., Oct. 4. (CP)—Canon A. F. T. Holmes of Christ Church here is beginning to look as though he yearns for the quiet life of a missionary in a cannibal country.

All the trouble started when Ottawa announced that Princess Elizabeth and the Duke of Edinburgh will worship in Christ Church Oct. 14.

There are 1,300 families on the church rolls—the church seats only 300—and lately most of the families seem to be ardent in their attendance.

What bothers Canon Holmes is that evrybody wants to come to church—on Oct. 14. His phones ring all day, the general public as well parishioners button-hole him for invitations, and the press wants to be kept posted.

Families will be judged for invitations on the basis of past attendance. Two tickets will be sent out to each family qualifying, up to the number of 600.

The first 300 to arrive at church that morning will be allowed inside. The rest will be seated on the lawn where loudspeakers will be installed.

Peppery Lady Violet Snaps Back At Attlee In Campaign Warmup

By ALAN HARVEY

LONDON, Oct. 4 — (CP) — Clement Richard Attlee says that Lady Violet Bonham Carter is a dead fly.

Lady Violet Bonham Carter says that Clement Richard Attlee is a political refrigerator.

That's the first round in one of the surprise battles of the general election — between the genteel, mild-mannered Labor Prime Minister Attlee, who seldom calls anybody a bad name, and peppery 64-year-old Lady Violet, one of the Liberal Party's star speakers.

Bred in the blue as far as politics are concerned—her father was Rt. Hon. H. H. Asquith, first Earl of Oxford and Asquith and one-time Prime Minister — Lady Violet is back on the hustings after a long absence.

She was adopted Tuesday night as Liberal candidate for Colne Valley. Attlee, who passed that way last Saturday, had the temerity to refer to her as a Conservative and a "dead fly." Replied Lady Violet:

"Am I a dead fly? I can only say I don't feel like one. I mean to do some flying and some buzzing and even, possibly, some stinging in the next few weeks."

Strange Situation

Then, in a reference to former Cabinet Minister Aneurin Bevan, she added:

"Is Mr. Attlee Bevanite? If not how can he welcome Bevanite support without breaking every tradition of political honesty and integrity?

"Will Mr. Attlee tell me—Is he a dead fly in Mr. Bevan's web or is it vice-versa?"

Lady Violet said it was no reflection on Attlee to say that his speech last Saturday was neither hot nor strong. The Prime Minister was a political refrigerator. He had an uncanny gift, almost to genius, for lowering the political temperature of any situation he took part in.

Has Straight Fight

Lady Violet was not a candidate in the last election. This time, she has a straight fight against Labor—and Conservative support, but she said emphatically this does not mean she is anything but a Liberal.

One of the saltiest speakers in British politics, Lady Violet has been warming up for the present campaign. In a recent speech, she unburdened herself of these sallies:

Labor manifesto—"One of the dreariest documents it has ever been my lot to plow through. If this is the trumpet blast blown to rally the Socialist hosts for the next election, the walls of Jericho won't fall; it is a wheeze which would hardly topple a ninepin. Trite, tepid, tasteless, it is like last week's warmed-up porridge."

RCN Destroyer Rescues Crew

TOKYO—(CP)—Rescue of a helicopter, in distress while on a resuce mission, was a highlight of a recent patrol by the Canadian destroyer Sioux off the west coast of Korea.

An aircraft from a British carrier had been forced down on tide-flats off the enemy shore. The crew was picked up by a helicopter attached to the carrier, but the 'copter ran out of fuel en route to its mother ship and landed on a small island.

The Sioux, dispatched to the scene when it became evident the helicopter was in truoble, arrived in time to see it landing. The destroyer anchored off the island and sent ashore her motor cutter under command of Douglas Babineau of Halifax and carrying the ship's doctor, Surgeon-Lieut. H. D. MacWilliams of St. Andrew's NB, and Halifax.

The cutter brought the airmen back to the destroyer and then took out a supply of gasoline for the helicopeter guarding it overnight against possible enemy attack from the mainland. The operation was successfully completed next day.

Members of the landing party guarding the island were: Lieut. R. C. K. Peers of New Westminster, BC; PO Robert Cooke, Victoria; PO. Derek Whitworth, Esquimalt and Ottawa; LS. S. T. Sawyer, Verdun, Que.; AB John Scott, Victoria and Winnipeg; AB. Robert L. MacPhee, Vancouver; AB. William Carmichael, Whitehorse, Alta., and AB. Ernest W. Law, Kamloops, BC.

Make Use of Act

TORONTO, Oct. 4 — (CP) — One-third of the eligible mothers have taken advantage of a new provision of the Ontario Mothers' Allowance Act permitting payment of allowances until a child is 18, if the child is doing well at school. Provincial officials said Wednesday that 411 of the 1,205 mothers eligible have asked for the extended benefits. Previously allowances were paid up to the age of 16.

STEAMSHIP LADY NELSON will have to be drydocked for examination of her hull and propellers, to check any damage which she may have suffered when she went aground in Montreal recently. Officials of the steamship company said they did not believe damage to the ship was extensive, but nothing would be known until after she was in the dock. They said the only damage anticipated might be the propellers. They attributed the grounding to cross currents in the harbor.

Girl Killed By Father's Car

PORT STANLEY, Ont., Oct. 4 (CP) — Lana Elizabeth Pineault, 14-month-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Alex Pineault, was killed Wednesday when run over by her father's car.

Police said Mr. Pineault was driving up a lane to the rear of the home when the accident occurred. He apparently did not see the child due to a rise in the driveway.

Former residents of Saint John, NB, the Pineault family moved to Port Stanley little more than a month ago. Grandparents of the child, Mr. and Mrs. Octave Pineault and Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Perry, live in Bloomfield, PEI.

EARLY RISERS

It is estimated that upwards of 35,000 alarm clocks of all types are sold daily throughout the world.

Future Trouble

WINSDOR, Oct. 4—(CP)—A hint of future trouble at the Windsor plant of the Essex Wire Corporation was indicated Wednesday in a statement by Tom MacLean, director of organization for the United Automobile Workers (CIO), that four workers at the plant had been fired for attending a union organizational meeting. Company officials declined to comment on the charge at the present time.

Conservation Test Plan Wins Approval

LONDON, Ont., Oct. 4 (CP)—A test and demonstration program covering conservation, land use and reforestation for every square foot of the Avon River valley north of Stratford was approved here Wednesday night by Upper Thames Valley Conservation Authority.

It will follow recommendations made in an Avon River report presented by A. H. Richardson, of the Ontario Department of Planning and Development.

It is the first time in Canada that an overall plan covering every conservation detail has been approved for immediate action.

"We can only accomplish conservation in a watershed," said Mr. Richardson. "If we concentrate on a number of little valleys, and demonstrate what must be done in larger areas."

Approve Dam Action

Action on two small dam conservation and recreation projects was also approved.

Purchase of Harrington Mill dam, almost due east of St. Marys was approved, with a view to restoring the dam there.

Harrington dam burst Easter Monday, 1949, emptying a large pond which had existed for years.

Second project was a $2,500 expenditure for a small dam at Kirkton under an agreement with the municipality. Primary use for the three-quarter acre pond would be recreation.

No action was taken on restoration of mill dams at Carlingford and Centreville.

It accused them of practising racial, religious and economic discrimination while recruiting members.

Young Canada Will Play Big Role In Welcoming Elizabeth And Philip

By The Canadian Press

A vivacious young matron comes calling on Canada next week.

For Princess Elizabeth, it will be her first look at the country she some day may rule. For Canadians at home, it will be their first glimpse of the 25-year-old woman with the softly-waved brown hair and grey-blue eyes who has won a place in their affections.

With her will be a tall, blonde man of 30, her husband, the Duke of Edinburgh. Some time in the future he may become consort to a queen, a difficult and delicate role last exercised in Britain by Prince Albert, consort to Queen Victoria.

They are due in Montreal from London by air next Monday, Oct. 8. But their month-long tour of the oldest Dominion will not begin officially until the following morning from Quebec City, just a week after the date originally set. The delay was caused by the grave illness of the King who underwent a lung operation Sept. 23.

The tour through a countryside clothed in the golden dress of autumn will not be as rigorous as that of Princess Elizabeth's parents in the spring of 1939. There will be fewer official functions, perhaps more informality, than in 1939. But it will follow much the same route.

Many Changes

There have been many changes in the 12 years since the King and Queen won the hearts of Canadians. The rugged scenery of the mountainous east and west is unchanged, the pastoral aspect of the farming areas the same. But the population has grown from 10,000,000 to more than 14,000,000. The cities and towns are larger, industry, manufacturing and commerce have grown immensely.

The Princess and the Duke will see parts of all Canada except the wilderness of the north. They will see modern industrial cities and picturesque villages. They will see the west's immense grain fields—from which the crops has been harvested—mines, factories, seemingly limiteless forests . . .

In Montreal next Monday, the Royal couple will land at Dorval airport. They were to have arrived Oct. 2 by ship at Quebec—at the spot where Wolfe's forces went up the cliffs in 1759 to win Canada for Britain—aboard the liner Empress of France. But the delay caused by the King's illness forced a switch to Trans-Atlantic plane.

Opening Of Tour

There will be little ceremony on arrival. The party will be whisked to Quebec City by train to open the tour officially at 9.45 a.m., Oct. 9. From then on, Canada will be theirs. The schedule is stiff.

Viscount Alexander, the Governor-General, and Prime Minister St. Laurent will welcome the Royal couple. In one full day in Quebec they will visit the Legislature, Laval University, the city hall, the Citadel, that overlooks the St. Lawrence River, the Plains of Abraham where Wolfe's victory was won and Bois De Coulogne, residence of the Quebec Lieutenant-Governor. A state dinner tendered by the Quebec government will close the 12-hour visit. Premier Duplessis will propose the toast to the couple and the Princess will reply briefly.

Use Coliseum

Quebec's 20,000 school children were to have put on a demonstration on the Plains of Abraham but ownig to transportation difficulties encountered in taking them to the upper town plains, the ceremony will be held in Quebec Coliseum, in the north end of the city.

From Quebec, the Royal couple go directly to Ottawa in their 10-car royal train, arriving in the capital at 10 a.m. Wednesday. The train will stay at a siding in picturesque Island Park driveway.

From there they drive to Lansdowne Park where Ottawa school children will be assembled, then to the national war memorial for the placing of a wreath, then to Government House—their residence while in the capital—for a press reception. Following luncheon with Mr. and Mrs. St. Laurent at the prime minister's residence, they swing across the Ottawa river to Hull ,Que., for an official welcome at Hull city hall.

Make Presentation

At 4 p.m. in the railway committee room of the parliament buildings, Princess Elizabeth, on behalf of the Imperial Daughters of the Empire, will present Queen Mary's carpet to the National Gallery. The needlepoint carpet, made by the Queen Mother to earn dollars for Britain, was purchased through public donations of more than $100,000.

Canada's state dinner will be tendered the Royal couple at eight that night. At that dinner Her Royal Highness, in replying to the Governor-General's toast, will speak briefly to the country in a broadcast address, then she and the Duke will hasten to an official reception at 10 p.m. Members of parliament and senators will attend.

On the following day, the Prince and Princess, after a civic luncheon at the Hotel Chateau Laurier, will view the magnificent sweep of the Gatineau hills from the deck of a boat in the afternoon. The Royal couple then must hasten back for a government reception at 5 pm and a buffet supper later at Government House. They leave by train at 1:05 am Friday to open the Ontario section of their tour.

At Cornwall Oct. 12

First stop in Ontario after Ottawa is Friday, Oct. 12 at Cornwall—from 8:45 am EST to 9 am—then on to Brockville for a 10-minute pause at 10:20 am. At Kingston during a visit of almost two hours the Royal couple will inspect the Royal Military College and receive the city's welcome, then go on to Belleville for a 15-minute stop. Trenton, a few miles west, will see the visitors for two hours during which period they will inspect the RCAF's central command air station outside the town.

Cobourg, Port Hope and Oshawa will be by-passed under a late revision of the itinerary which calls for the Princess and the Duke to fly from Trenton to Malton, outside Toronto. Thousands of Peel County children—county authorities plan to hire 125 buses to carry 8,000—will feature Ontario's official welcome at the airport.

Predict Chaos

From Malton to Toronto is some 10 miles. This distance will be covered by motor-car over the Queen Way, to be kept clear of motorists. Police also have ordered that two parallel highways be kept clear. "Utter chaos" has been the commen of some officers in their forecast of what traffic condition are likely to be.

Once in Toronto itself, their Royal Highnesses face one of the stiffest portions of the tour. They will be met at the city hall at 5:40 pm by Mayor Hiram McCallum and other civic dignitaries, then at 6:15 pm to take a short drive through the streets.

By 6.35 p.m. they will be in the Royal train, their headquarters during their stay in Toronto, in the Front St. railway yards where the view of Lake Ontario, to the south, is obscured by factories and other industrial buildings. That night they dine privately with the Lieutenant-Governor, Hon. Ray Lawson, and Mrs. Lawson.

Saturday, Oct. 13, will be a crowded day. At 10 a.m., their Royal Highnesses will drive slowly westward along Lake Shore to the Canadian National Exhibition ground. Thirty-five thousand school children will be packed into the CNE grandstand, built to accommodate 23,000 adults. Seven holders of the Victoria Cross will be presented.

To Make Address

At 10.55 a.m., they will drive along a circuitous route to Hart House at the University of Toronto, arriving there at noon. At 12.20 o'clock, the Duke will attend a Board of Trade luncheon. His address will be broadcast. At the same time, the Princess will attend a luncheon given by Mrs. Lawson for younger married women.

For the remainder of the crowded day Their Royal Highnesses will speed to one point after another, mainly to posts where children will be congregated. High points will be visits to the new Hospital for Sick Children on downtown University Avenue and to Sunnybrook Military Hospital in suburban North York.

That night, they will attend Ontario's state dinner in the Royal York Hotel. Directly after the dinner they leave for their train—almost across the street—and departure at 12.01 a.m. EST Sunday for Niagara Falls.

The Royal couple arrive in the city of the world-famous cataract at 10 a.m. Sunday. They will worship that morning in Christ Church, largest of the city's three Anglican churches overlooking the Niagara River gorge. The Rt. Rev. R. Walter Bagnall, Bishop of Niagara, will conduct the service.

Renew Friendships

Then after participating in the city's program and viewing the 167-foot falls, it's off to St. Catharines at 1:30 p.m. for the royal tourists. After a 10-minute station stop at 2 p.m. they will leave for Hamilton where a two-hour visit is scheduled from 3:30 p.m. to 5:30.

Friendships formed at the royal couple's summer home near Balmoral last August will be renewed when the Princess and her husband inspect the Argyll and Sutherland Highlanders at Hamilton. The Princess is Colonel-in-Chief of the regiment.

Lt.-Col. J. A. Farmer and 26 members of the band met the Princess and her family when the band competed in the Highland Games at Stirling Castle.

The remainder of the Ontario schedule calls for an observation-platform appearance at Dundas at 5:47 p.m.; a stop in Brantford from 6:13 p.m. to 6:33 p.m.; 10 minutes at Woodstock at 7:07 and a train-slowdown appearance in Ingersoll at 7:28. They arrive in London at 7:55 p.m. for a half-hour stay, go on to Chatham at 10 p.m. for a 10-minute stop and arrive in Windsor at 11:30 p.m. to spend the night.

They leave that city — after meeting Detroit's mayor in the middle of the Ambassador Bridge—for Kapuskasing at 1 p.m. The visitors will spend almost a full day in the Northern Ontario pulp and paper town, taking off for the west by RCAF plane at 10 a.m. Oct. 16.

Fire Was Missing

KENTVILLE, NS.— (CP)—The Kentville Fire Department has been informed from Ottawa that the moving picture of Kentville and its volunteer fire department in action, taken by the National Film Board, will be released in December. The only serious deficiency was lack of a big fire "but we could hardly wish that on Kentville," said the producers.

BARON WOLF RICHTHOFEN, cousin of the famous "Red Knight," the German air ace of World War 1, arrived in Canada with his wife and five children, because he couldn't support them in Germany. Heavy taxes, he said, made it impossible for him to support his family. So he decided to come to Canada to take up mixed farming near Toronto. Accompanying them was Countess Eissiedel, mother of the Baroness Von Richthofen, and a sister of Countess Bismark, one-time ruling family in Germany. When he finally gets settled, he plans to bring out his string of trotting horses, one of which holds the trotting championship of Germany.

Two Ships Collide

LANDS END, England, Oct. 4 (CP) — A small British cargo vessel and the United States navy transport General Patch collided in the English Channel off Lands End Wednesday. The transport ship was undamaged and the 874-ton vessel, the Afon Gwili, was only slightly damaged.

Tax-Free Gratuities

LONDON, Oct. 4—(Reuters)—British forces in Korea are to get tax-free gratuities "in recognition of special services rendered," Defence Minister Emanuel Shinwell announced Wednesday. Amounts will depend on rank and length of service of three months or more.

Traffic Ban Causing Moans

TORONTO, Oct. 4 — (CP). — Ever since Police Chief John Chisholm annonuced that no traffic and no parking would be permitted in central downtown Toronto in the late afternoon of October 12, the date of the Royal arrival, the Police Department has been listening to tales of woe from Toronto citizens.

Officials of Brink's Express Company have explained that at 4:30 p.m. — the time when the traffic ban comes into operation—the company's grey armored trucks make the rounds of the downtown banks, picking up the day's receipts. They said Friday is a heavy banking day.

Post Office Department officials have pointed out that the department's little red trucks have mail collections to make in the forbidden area—nine blocks long by three wide.

To all requests, the Police Department has made but one reply: "You shall not pass."

LONG TUNNEL

The Moffat tunnel, opened in 1928, runs 32,150 feet long under James Peak in Colorado.

Great Lakes Altering, Many Causes

TORONTO (CP)—Changes are taking place continually, although generally unobserved, in the waters and also beneath the surface of the Great Lakes. The moon, atmospheric pressure, precipitation and evaporation, run-off and man himself are all instrumental in these changes.

They were described to the American Shore and Beach Conservation Association by Charles A. Price, of the hydrographic service of the Canadian Department of mines and Technical Surveys.

One of the most curious of the phenomena is the seiche. A seiche is caused by areas of unbalanced atmospheric pressure over the surface of the lake which, in turn, cause a variance from normal of the hight of the water.

More On Superior

They are more or less continuous and bring changes in the water level varying from six inches—in a normal seiche—to five feet in a major one. The great rises in the waterlevel don't occur often on Lake Erie or Ontario but are more familiar on Lake Superior.

A detailed account of a Lake Ontario seiche was printed in the Toronto Mirror of Oct. 3, 1845. It occurred at Cobourg and was observed by several persons;

"The whole lake seemed to be going bodily away. In a few minutes nearly a third part of the inner harbor was left bare when, suddenly, the tide turned again and came as rapidly back, filling the harbor at least two feet higher than it ever was before."

Another force affecting the lakes is the gradual tilting of the earth's crust. As a result—through a long period of years—the water is gradually encroaching on the southwesterly shores of the lakes.

Water Was Fine

LONDON — (CP) — When they led this horse to water he started swimming. A five-year-old pony taken to the Grand Union Canal for a drink plunged in and was dragged out two hours later by firemen using a horse-sling.

Prevent Fire Chief Urges All Citizens

Zacks Holocaust One of Worst In City's History

On the eve of Fire Prevention Week Fire Chief George Smith has issued his annual warning to local residents: take elementary precautions and cut down Ontario's mounting fire loss.

The fire in the Zack's block has boosted the fire loss in Peterborough, for the first nine months, from $37,783 in 1950 to $391,971 in 1951.

"This year Peterborough had one of the worst fires in its history," said Chief Smith who announced that Fire Prevention Week would be October 7-13. "The loss of three regular firemen and a volunteer brought home to the whole community the realization that fire is a constant threat to our lives and property.

"Fire Prevention Week is here once again," he said. "If home owners and business men observe elementary precautions we can have a year free from fatilities and with less fire damage Every fire has a cause; so every fire can be prevented."

Special Warning

People with coal stoves and furnaces are given a special warning by the chief this year. Only this week an elderly Peterborough woman, Mrs. Louise Glass, 142 Wilson Ave., was asphyxiated in her own home from coal gas fumes and her husband is still in serious condition in hospital.

Last March, Mrs. Mary Cowie and her brothers Joseph and William Hagerman, as well as a dog and cat, were asphyxiated at their Donegal St. home. And at least seven other people required the attendance of the fire department's respirator squad.

"Leaking coal gas can very easily overcome its victims and lead to death," said Chief Smith. "And yet, in nearly all cases, these accidents could have been prevented by foresight or care in looking after the furnace."

Check Furnace

Chief Smith listed these preventative methods of forestalling coal gas leaks:

1. Check your furnace for leaks or cracks before the cold season begins.
2. Replace faulty pipes.
3. Clean chimneys and flues before lighting up.
4. Before retiring for the night, burn off excess coal gas and don't check the furnace off too tight.

If it hadn't been for the disastrous Zacks' block fire the fire loss for the first nine months this year would have been more than $4,000 less than in 1950. The tentative figure for the fire that took four lives is a loss of $357,485—$221,935 for the building and $146,275 for the contents.

Ontario fire losses for the last two years are $20,237,894 in 1949 and $22,619,343 in 1950. Official Peterborough statistics show that in 1949 there were 74 fires with a total loss of $42,251; in 1950, 78 fires with a total loss of $56,698.

"With the co-operation of every citizen we can reduce these figures substantially," said Chief Smith.

Children's Aid Gives Help In Adoption Plan

Representatives of eight Children's Aid Societies discussed child welfare problems and the placing of older children for adoption with the Provincial Committee on Adotions which held a hearing in Peterborough City Buildings Wednesday.

This was the third meeting of the committee appointed last April by W. A. Goodfellow, Minister of Public Welfare, to hold hearings throughout the province and determine how present adoption methods could be improved so as to place more children, particularly older children, in permanent homes.

Temporary Wards

Large numbers of children in Ontario are reported to be living in temporary homes as wards of the Children's Aid Societies and by giving Children's Aid Society officials and interested citizens an opportunity to express their views on this problem, the committee hopes to be able to make recommendations for the placing of more of these children in "adoption homes."

The Peterborough Children's Aid Society was represented by Miss R. Young, superintendent, B. Sargent, president of the board of directors, T. T. Rodger, Mrs. G. Pilon and J. McKerchar.

Basing their remarks on their experience at the local Children's Aid Society, Miss Young, Mr Sargent and Mr. Rodger gave the committee their opinions on various aspects of child welfare work.

Officials from nearby Children's Aid Societies who contributed to the discussions were: Allan Blewett, superintendent, Victoria and Haliburton Society; Arthur B. Finnie, superintendent, Northumberland and Durham CAS; and William C. Lockyer, superintendent of the Belleville, Hastings Society who was accompanied by two members of the Belleville, Hastings CAS board of directors, Mrs. W. C. Lockyer and Mrs. D. L. Fleming.

Mayor, Aldermen See Apartments For Old Folks

New apartment houses for elderly pensioners were inspected by Mayor Swanston, Ald. Waddell and Ald. Braund at Owen Sound Wednesday.

"They have five of these homes each of eight apartments," Mayor Swanston said today.

"The layout is kitchen, bathroom, sitting room, bedroom and fixtures include hot water heating, electric stove, electric refrigerator. They are compact, but are comfortable, well built and entirely adequate.

Dominion government pays 90 per cent of these apartments for elderly people. The municipality assumes the remaining 10 per cent. Rents are $22 to $24 a month.

Owned by City

The cost of the buildings is retired in a period of 48 years. They then become the property of the municipality"

City council has been at glancing in the direction of a project of accommodation for elderly couples. Adam Sands, former alderman, proposed that the buildings of Nicholl Hospital and its nurses' residence be converted into housing units for pensioners.

Nothing definite has been proposed yet beyond the mentioning of such a project several times.

Mayor Swanston said the Owen Sound apartments, totalling 40 units, are snug, attractive, comfortable and solidly built.

Concert Dates Established; 2 On Thursdays

At the annual meeting of directors of the Community Concerts Association of Peterborough held in the board room of the YMCA Wednesday night, Miss Musa Cox, president, announced the dates of the forthcoming concerts.

They are: Thursday, November 29, Jean Casadesus; Monday, January 14, Dorothy Maynor; Wednesday, February 20, Members' Concert; New York Town Hall Little Orchestra, Thursday, March 20.

A letter is being sent to the choirmasters explaining the necessity of holding two concerts on Thursdays, choir practice night, and asking their co-operation in this conflict of timing. The chief reasons were the availability of the artists and the limited reservations possible at the Collegiate auditorium.

Secretary Named

Owing to the removal from Peterborough of John Hooper, a new secretary had to be elected. Donald Kennedy was the unanimous choice of the directors, and Mr. Kennedy took office immediately.

Committee heads were appointed as follows: Mrs. H. A. Mitchell campaign chairman; Christopher Gledhill, publicity; Mrs. Ford Turner, dinner convener; Mrs Agnes Logan Greene, concert presentation chairman, assisted by C. H. Crowe, Miss M. Hicks and R. L. Hale; Mrs. Walter Perry, piano committee, with J A. Bradshaw, KC, R. B. Arnold and W. A. Messervey; Miss Margaret McCulloch, reception committee, assisted by Mrs. W. J. Gilling; W. A. Messervey, transportation; Mrs. W. B. Brown, telephone, with Mrs. J. Fialkowski, Mrs. G. W. Craw and Mrs. H. Cherney.

Named to a committee of three to report on the constitution were C. S. Browne, C. H. Crowe and Thomas Allen.

Waiting List

Miss Cox said that for the first time in many years, no subscription tickets had been turned in for re-sale. She held out hope of 14 vacancies because the Normal School allotment might not be taken up as a result of a change of schedule at the Normal School which would take the students out of town on the major concert nights. There is an extensive waiting-list.

Miss Cox told The Examiner after the meeting that this season's concerts were, on the whole, the most outstanding that the Peterborough Association had ever been able to bring to the district. "Jean Casadesus, young handsome pianist; brilliant son of a brilliant father; Dorothy Maynor, known on four continents; A renowned symphony orchestra. It is a thrilling season."

Minor Damage As Cars Collide

Minor damage was done to two cars when they collided Wednesday night at Simcoe and Water Sts. Drivers were Donald F. Fitzgerald, RR 8, Peterborough, and John Moran, Toronto.

Fitzgerald, who reported the accident at the police station, said he was driving south on Water and turned west on Simcoe. At the same time, Moran's car, northbound on Water, also turned west on Simcoe St. Fitzgerald's car was hit on the left front door.

Damage to the Fitzgerald car was about $30 and to the Moran car only light damage was done.

Farm Youth, Tractors Plow Straight Furrows At Match

Youth was at the wheel of seven tractors that gave a five-acre field on the farm of Robert Jackson, Otonabee, a fast going-over in the Peterborough county plowing match Wednesday. It was the closing event of the day, a general purpose class with time limits for finishing, fixed respectively for two and three-furrow plows. The winner was Gordon Bradfield, a consistent performer in recent county matches. Lyle McMillan of Norwood-Alliston was second, Irvin McIntosh third, H. C. Manley of Otonabee fourth, Sandy Carlow, Don Garbutt and Murray Jones.

Dominance of tractors is no longer plowing match news, and Alvin Mark of Cameron, a provincial champion and winner of a European tour in 1949, commented as judge that some of the tractor work would command attention at the International.

Henry Batten, president, and his committee men, drew from autumn a perfect day. Incidentally Charlie Moore of Smith said he could not remember over a period of 25 years a better match site than the Jackson farm provided. Several hundred spectators were rewarded with keen competition in most of the classes. The soil was in tillable condition, and other details were just as satisfactory.

Farm machinery display, demonstration of power sawing by Herb Cardwell were added attractions against the early coloring of the foliage of an adjoining woods.

Results

Results were as follows:

Open class in sod, jointer plows and horses—1 Stanley Smith of Ennismore; 2 Ernie Kelk of North Monaghan.

All the other classes were for tractors. Norman Blodgett of Otonabee was the only contestant with single furrow plow.

Two-furrow plows, open class—1 Walter Orde, Otonabee; 2 Irvin McIntosh; 3 Lyle McMillan.

Three furrows—1 H. C. Manley, Otonabee; 2 Donald Garbutt, Douro.

Two or three-furrow plows, turning furrows not less than 12 inches—1 Don MacFarlane, Otonabee.

Boys under 20, open class—1 Glen Jones, South Monaghan; 2 Sandy Carlow, Indian River; 3 Murray Jones, South Monaghan.

Close Competition

Alvin Mark said the plowing in this class gave him most difficulty in awarding the prize money.

Trophies that were presented to the association in the pre-tractor era were taken by Stanley Smith, winner of the class for plowing with horses. They were the J. H. Burnham and Royal Bank Cups.

A Robert Jackson team used by Ernie Kelk won the special for best going; and Mr. Smith the special for the best team and equipment.

Walter Orde was awarded the $10 Esso special for the best tractor job in sod. He also earned the Massey-Harris $10 special for the best tractor plowing with a Massey-Harris machine.

Two Are Injured In Bicycle Crashes

Two are in Civic hospital with injuries received in bicycle accidents.

Charles Faryon, 14-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. R. R. Faryon, River Rd., is suffering from injured ribs as a result of a bicycle collision. He was admitted to hospital at 5 p.m. Wednesday and his condition is reported as fairly good.

Two-year-old Louise McElroy, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert McElroy, 551 Rose Ave., received a fractured right leg when she was knocked down by a bicycle Wednesday afternoon. She was admitted to hospital at 5 p.m. Her condition is reported as fairly good.

Wounding Hearing Begins Witness Cut In Scuffle

Hearing of a wounding charge against John Clark, 189 Hunter St. E., began today in police court. He elected summary trial, and pleaded not guilty. Clark was charged after a scuffle in front of a Hawley St. house in which two men suffered slight cuts from a knife Clark is alleged to have wielded. Wounded were Gerald Whatman, 668 Hawley St., and Frank Allen, 675 Hawley St.

Brought Whiskey

Whatman testified that Clark had come to his house the afternoon of September 29, and sold him some aluminum ware. The two of them went to the liquor store and bought a bottle of whiskey, brought it back to Whatman's house and drank some of it.

Later that evening, Whatman with his wife and Mr. and Mrs. Clark, went to a party at the home of James Hawley, also on Hawley St. There was some friction there between Clark and his wife, Whatman said, and later, Clark, Whatman, Allen and a fourth man went to Whatman's home.

At this time, said Whatman, Clark was getting towards the point of intoxication. At Whatman's home, a scuffle started when Clark told Allen he didn't like his companny. Allen was hit on the head, and Whatman knocked Clark down.

Judged Scratch

During the scuffle at the front door, said Whatman, Clark had a knife, and "I think my arm got cut in the scuffle." Magistrate Philp looked at the traces of the wound and termed it a scratch.

Whatman told Crown Attorney John A. Bradshaw, KC, that he had about five beers that afternoon. Under cross-examination by J. C. N. Currelly, defence counsel, he admitted he had had more than that, and some liquor as well.

Constable C. J. McGillen told court he arrested Clark at his home, and that Clark never stopped talking from the time he was warned until he arrived at the police station. The officer said Clark asked to phone his lawyer, was permitted to do so, but phoned a friend in Dundas, Ontario, instead.

The case continued this afternoon.

Women Ask For Sidewalks

Only the names of women appeared on a petition to the council Monday, in that respect a most unusual if not unique letter of request.

Signed by Mrs. Freda O. Ainlie, corresponding secretary of Grove Public School Home and School Association, it was an application to the council for sidewalks on Erskine Ave. and on Cameron and other streets leading into it and toward Grove School.

Grove School on Erskine Ave., built before annexation from North Monaghan, is now being enlarged.

The Home and School Association is concerned for the safety and other well being of attending children. They are asking for sidewalks in order to keep children off the road, and to provide dry and snow-free footing for them.

Several names selected from the list of signatories were: Mrs. Ruth Bevan, Mrs. Glen Carson, Mrs. Mae C. Atkinson, Mrs. Ken Junkin. There were many others.

Corny Musical Gadgets Put Spike Jones On Way To Fame

By MARK BARRON

NEW YORK—(AP)—The one certain thing an audience at a Spike Jones show can expect is that, aside from surprisingly good music, they'll see an orchestral extravanganza that looks like an auto assembly line.

In making such music as "Holiday For Strings" and "I haven't Been Home For Three Whole Nights" Jones and players use as much hardware as they do musical instruments.

At a TV rehearsal recently he had what, at first glance, appeared to be a combination of a junk yard and a bevy of buxom blondes and burlesque comedians.

Jones is overwhelmingly a gadget man. Shapely singers wander in and out while Jones' musicals play the novelty tunes which have made his crew one of the most profitable outfits to spring from Tin Pan Alley.

As an example one of his first musicians wears a straight jacket while playing a mouth organ clenched between his teeth and picking a harp with his feet. He makes very good music, too.

"I got started playing with musical gadgets when I was a kid in California," Jones said between rehearsals.

"My father was a railroad station master and he had a colored cook working in the station cafe who was a wonderful musician. He wanted to teach me music, but we didn't have money for instruments. So we made our own from odds and ends of wire, tin and other hardware we picked up around the railroad yards.

"That's where I got my nickname because we used railroad spikes on some of those homemade instruments."

Today when you see Spike on his television show his orchestra still looks like a junk shop. Along with the trombones, violins and pianos there are washtubs, old fashioned automobile horns, blacksmith anvils, bells, bottles and other odds and ends. Somehow, they all make music.

"I made a lot of records of these novelty tunes," Jones said, "but, at first they were mostly failures. Then in 1942 I made a record of a gag tune, 'Der Fuehrer's Face.' Overnight, it seemed, the public caught on to what I was trying to do.

"I made the record on Saturday. On Monday Warner Brothers signed us to do a picture. On Tuesday NBC signed us for radio. On Friday RCA Victor signed us to a recording contract."

Although his comedy and novelty arrngements were the springboard which brought him to the top, Jones said his greatest thrill was recently when he and his zany crew gave a concert in Honolulu for 3,000 wounded veterans on their way home from Korea.

"As I reached the finale and lifted my arms in salute," he said, "3,000 soldiers' and sailors' caps went flying into the air. That was the greatest applause I ever got . . . or ever will."

Elementary Method

Fijian Stowaways Long On Royalty

VANCOUVER (CP)—Two Fijians, convinced that Canadian immigration officials know too much, are returning to their native island to learn some more answers.

I. Veitala and J. Torovugle stepped off the British tramp steamer Graigaur, confident they had the answer that would let them stay in Canada.

"We stowed away because of our earnest desire to see King George," the oldest of the two teen-agers told authorities.

The only trouble was, authorities had heard exactly the same story from about every Fijian that has arrived in Vancouver.

The two boys boarded the ship thinking it was going to England. Two days after the ship sailed hunger drove them on deck.

Ships officers told them they were going to Canada with a cargo of sugar and set them to work chipping paint.

But the lads didn't change their story when the arrived here instead of England. If they had said they wanted to see the prime minister, dumbfounded immigration authorities might have let them stay.

As it was they were awarded "A" for effort and "Z" for originality.

North American Cars Prize In New Zealand

By J. C. GRAHAM

WELLINGTON, N.Z. (CP). — Cars from Canada and the United States are so scarce and eagerly sought in New Zealand that 3,000 to be imported this year are being rationed out to essential users under extremely strict conditions.

Owing to the dollar shortage, scarcely any North American cars have been imported in recent years. When the government decided to make dollars available for 3,000 cars this year, it stated care should be taken to ensure that no black marketing took place.

Conditions under which the cars will be allotted ensure they go to those most in need of them. A total of 2,600 will be made available to persons who chiefly use back roads, with preference for those drivers using the worst roads.

Buyers must be essential users, such as back-country farmers, county engineers, employees in public utility services, doctors, veterinary surgeons clergymen, stock and station agents, meat, dairy, sawmill and mining executives, and commercial travellers or others in similar occupations.

The remaining 400 are for taxi-driyers, but if they have had a new car since 1945 they qualify for the imports only in exceptional circumstances.

Must Sign Contract

Each purchaser must sign a covenant not to dispose of the car in less than two years except at cost price, less depreciation.

If such a car is sold by the original purchaser, the new owner must also qualify for priority purchase and is also barred from selling again in less than the unexpired balance of the original two years' term at more than cost price plus depreciation.

New cars are so scarce in New Zealand that those less than two years old, of any make, can be sold at hundreds of dollars above the new-car price even if they have covered 20,000 miles or more. Pre-war North American cars still bring about their original purchase price.

WITH KING GEORGE gaining strength daily, Princess Margaret has returned to Balmoral Castle, Scotland, to continue her vacation. She is shown here shaking hands with Group Captain Hodgson, officer commanding the RAF base at Northolt before she left by air in a Viking aircraft of the King's flight. The Princess flew to Dyce Airport, Aberdeen, and motored the 40 miles to Balmoral.

BIG BABY

WINNIPEG. — (CP)—The city zoo made room for an orphan elk stag recently and for some reason named him "Baby." The yearling stag hits the scales at 500 pounds and stands five feet high at the shoulders.

NATO Adviser Canadian, Good Scholar

OTTAWA—(CP)—A Canadian literary expert is heading the Atlantic Pact Information Services at the pact council meeting here this week.

He is Theodore Francis Moorehouse (Ted) Newton, 48, who was born near Sarnia, and moved from the ranks of university professors to government service during the war.

The stocky, scholarly Canadian is the main link between reporters and the sessions in Ottawa in his capacity as director of information for the pact organization, a job he took a year ago. His headquarters is in London.

Educated in Sarnia and at McGill University, he has lectured at Harvard, Radcliffe College and McGill, studied at London, Oxford and Cambridge, and built up a reputation, among other things, as an outstanding authority on Daniel DeFoe, the British author of "Moll Flanders," and "Robinson Crusoe."

Loaned to the wartime information board by McGill's English Department in 1943, he served with WIB in the US and later joined the external affairs department and became first secretary of the Canadian Embassy in Washington in 1946.

As an information officer and adviser, he had much to do with Canada's United Nations activities until 1948 when he became Canadian Consul in Boston. In 1950, he became NATO's top information officer.

He has published various studies of the reign of Queen Anne and the early history of English journalism, was a newspaper correspondent from 1926 to 1928 and has contributed to various semi-popular and scholarly periodicals in the US and Canada.

Disapproving exhibitionism on the gridiron, McGill coach Vic Obeck explains, "We are not in the burlesque business." With college football season soon to open, Andy looks at this major controversy and offers his opinion as a critical scribe.

A diamond bullet, a postman and a dimunitive 'private eye' who wound up a case by slugging his client makes "My Little Detective" by Steve April one of the most unusual crime stories in many years. Frank Beniot tells WEEKEND readers the hardships of homesteading and a trailer safari which took the Hahns, a versatile musical family, from one night singing stands to fame and fortune on the airwaves.

Carlu Carter, a 17-year-old Winnipeg girl, is coming home—as a fullfledged ballerina with the Sadlers Wells Theatre ballet and then there are pictures and a story about a girl who has a lot on the ball. It is Marlene Stewart who won the Canadian ladies' open 'on a bicycle.'

At the recent Halifax convention of Canada's press and radio women, delegates selected their ideal busines woman in appearance. For up-and-coming career girls Kate Aitken outlines their findings and presents them as a key to good grooming. Jolliffe Pledges Boost Pensions

TORONTO, Oct. 4 — (CP). — E. B. Jolliffe, Ontario CCF Leader, Wednesday night pledged his party, if elected in the next provincial general election, to increase old-age pensions to $50 a month from $40.

He told a CCF dinner for the Toronto ridings of St. George and St. Patrick that the increase could be made by payment of a cost-of-living supplement.

"In the Legislature last week, Premier Frost made a definite commitment that his government won't have anything to do with a provincial supplement, although Saskatchewan and British Columbia are already paying it.

"We are prepared to commit ourselves just as definitely that we will bring the pension up to $50 a month. In these days of inflation, I am ashamed to find Ontario is not doing asm much for destitute pensioners as less wealthy provinces are doing."

At a later speech in Toronto Dovercourt riding, Mr. Jolliffe promised that his party, if elected, would relieve the municipalities of their share of the costs of the recently-annonuced Federal-Provincial-municipal plan for low-rental housing.

Stage Rock Fight

BERLIN, Oct. 4—(AP)—A band of 5,000 Communists, demanding German unity and national elections, crossed the Russian-French sector border Wednesday night and touched off an hour-long rock fight. The putsch from the east was turned back by West Berlin police, who doused the invaders with water hoses. Ten policemen and a number of rioters were injured. About 60 ringleaders were arrested.

Demand Grape Quota

ITHACA, N.Y., Oct. 4—(AP)—An official of the New York State Farm Buereau Federation Wednesday called for a quota on imports of Canadian grapes to correct what he termed a bearish market. C. K. Bullock, associate secretary of the federation, said in a telegram to Agriculture Secretary Charles F. Brannan that "already heavy imports of grapes from Canada and the prospect of still larger amounts are disrupting the markets for grapes in New York State."

Give Up Babies Over Housing

HAMILTON, Oct. 4—(CP)—Some parents are putting newborn children up for adoption because of lack of proper housing, a Children's Aid Society worker said Wednesday.

"They want to give them up completely," Miss E. Duffy told a city housing committee. "They feel they cannot continue if another child is added to the already-overcrowded home."

She said she knew of a baby being bitten by a rat because a family had to live in a rat-infested home. Another result of overcrowding was that more children than usual were becoming wards of the Children's Aid.

Tears streamed down the cheeks of Mayor Lloyd Jackson, as he listened to descriptions by Miss Duffy and city welfare officials.

"The story on housing in this city is so heart-breaking, I could not begin to describe it," he remarked.

Turns Down Demand For Labor Conrtol

BLOEMFONTEIN, South Africa—Dr. Herfanus Verwoerd, South African Minister of Native Affairs, rejected demands made at a Nationalist Party congress here for a system of labor control for Africans.

The minister said it was impossible for the government to direct Africans to parts of South Africa where a labor shortage exists.

"Any such control will mean that the whole world will condemn up for using slave labor," he said.

Dr. Verwoerd said the only way to deal with the African problem was regulating the outflow from African reserves. There would have to be control if they were not to pour into white areas with disastrous results.

Bevan Victory Spectacular But Not Too Important

By ALAN HARVEY

LONDON, Oct. 4—(CP)—The success of former minister Aneurin Bevan and his left-wing colleagues at the Labor Party conference in Scarborough is probably more spectacular than politically significant.

It may reflect little more than what has always been a strong Labor tradition—the tendency of constituency parties to reserve their strongest support for those to the left of the movement.

Since 1937, when the number of constituency members elected to the national executive was increased from five to seven, the local parties—the so-called grass roots or rank and file — have always looked for a leader with blood in his eve. In 1937, for instance, right-wing members were pruned from the executive in preference for Sir Stafford Cripps, D. N. Pritt and the late Harold Laski, all on the extreme left of the party.

Another explanation advanced here for the high vote polled by the Bevan group is that it represents a protest arising from a feeling of frustration within the party. The Bevan group's opposition to the present scale of rearmament may also touch a responsive chord among members of a party schooled in what has been called "ancestral pacifism."

Nobody can say for sure. What can almost certainly be said is that the Bevan supportrs are more noisy than numerous. Their opposition to rearmament and their strongly - implied anti - American feelings do not reflect the feeling of the country as a whole.

The Bevan group's policies, outlined in pamphlets called "One Way Only" and "Going My Way?" have received probably the worst drubbing the British press has ever accorded a political document. Their arguments have been meticulously analyzed by the leading independent newspapers, and contemptuously dismissed.

Within the Labor Party itself there is strong opposition. The trade unions, core of the party, are also incensed at recent attacks on their bosses in the Bevan pamphlets.

The union leaders, incidentally, all won their way back on the executive with big majorities.

New Alberta Dam Cuts Floods, Eliminates Odor

EDMONTON—(CP)—First major step in controlling the unruly rivers of the High Prairie district of the Peace River Valley, an 1,800-foot dam has been completed on the Heart River.

It's a complicated project where by the dam, four miles east of the eastern tip of Lake Winagami, has diverted the backwash of the West Prairie River and forced the Heart River's upstream flood through a natural creek and reservoir into a 1½ mile diversion canal, through Lake Winagami and into a two-mile outlet canal to a creek.

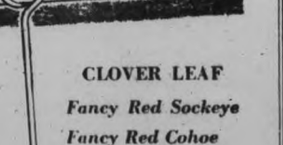
The water now flows four miles down the last creek and back into the Heart River.

One aspect of the work is that it has eliminated what one government official called "the corrupting turnip" odor of Lake Winagami, long offensive to district dwellers. The project has raised the lake level by four feet and reduced its high salt content to the point where it is pleasant to drink.

And the fish that once shunned the lake, now are following a clear path from Lesser Slave Lake to Winagami.

It has even increased the duck population in the area. Because of this the organization known as Ducks Unlimited contributed $20,000 towards the Heart River project, total cost of which has not been announced.

Power Potential



The project presents possibilities for hydro- electric development. There is a 75-foot drop between the levels of the Heart River and Winagami Lake and the dam this last spring held back enough water to flood 250,000 acres to a depth of one foot.

Reg Bailey, water resources board engineer in charge of the project, now is studying flood control of the West Prairie River which each spring floods about 72 square miles of farmland near High Prairie. The Heart River project may offer a solution to the West Prairie River floods that have been a problem for many years.

The town of McLennan benefits great by the dam. A supply of fresh water may easily be piped to the town from the lake to overcome a persistent water-shortage problem. And the town also is talking of building a new summer resort around the reservoir.

Distance No Obstacle

FORT FRANCES, Ont. — (CP) —Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Challis from London, England, think the folk back home would be amazed at the way people treat distances here. They were surprised to see people from Fort Frances travelling almost 200 miles to Winnipeg for a day's shopping.

SERVING CANADIANS SINCE 1919

GEN. MATTHEW B. RIDGWAY, right, and Gen. Omar Bradley, chairman of the joint chiefs of staff, are back in Tokyo after a two-day survey of the military situation in Korea. With their return, a veil of censorship was clamped on a massed Allied bombardment of hill-entrenched Reds less than 15 miles away from the site of suspended truce talks in western Korea. They gave no reason for the news blackout. The two generals are shown here chatting with Charles Bohlen, U.S. State Department expert on Russian affairs, at Haneda airport in Tokyo. Mrs. Ridgway and Lt. Gen. Doyle O. Hickey are at left. Gen. Bradley arrived home today.

Canadians Treating Wounded On the Korean Front

WITH THE CANADIANS IN KOREA—(CP)—Canadians are helping with the treatment of wounded servicemen and civilians in the forward areas on the Korean battlefront.

A Canadian army surgical unit, commanded by Maj. Charles Egan of Kingston, Ont., has established a mobile operating room in one of the forward areas. Patients have included hundreds of civilians as well as wounded soldiers.

Working with Maj. Egan is Maj. G. Lippert of Kitchener, who performs surgery, and Capt. W. M. Crawford of London, Ont., who is in charge of the blood transfusion unit.

"We have operated on soldiers of almost all the nationalities represented in the UN forces over here," said Maj. Egan. "Actually, we were all set to move the unit to a more forward position and work on our own, but the small number of casualties we have suffered so far has not warranted such a move."

Can Move Quickly

Maj. Egan and his detachment have their own mobile equipment set up and ready to go. Should the necessity arise, they could move quickly and carry on their work just back of the front lines.

Their surgical van is a model of Canadian ingenuity. It is equipped with cupboards for surgical equipment and anaesthetics and both hot and cold running water. The credit for much of this work goes to Maj. Ed. Hallam of Vancouver, Commander of the 191st Canadian workshops company. Maj. Hallam's men pitched in and made all the necessary adjustments to the vehicle.

Maj. Egan paid high tribute to the soldiers who assist him in his work, and also to the training which has fitted them to perform such fine tasks.

Among those working with the unit are, Cpl. Paul L. Furlette, Montreal, chief operating room assistant; L. Cpl. Gordon S. Ramage, Red Deer, Alta.; Pte. John D. O'Connor, Montreal operating room assistant; Pte. Merle A. Kirk, Kerrobert, Sask.; L. Cpl. Robert E. Notley, Dixie, Ont.; Pte. James C. Trueman, Thornhill, Ont.; Pte. George Ryan, Halifax; Pte. Don Schlereth, Edmonton; Pte. Ruben Lindeman, Medicine Hat, Alta.; Pte. James Betts, Montreal.

BIG INDUSTRY

The moving picture industry in India is the second largest in the world, exceeded in quantity of output only by the United States.

Barkless Hounds Congo Hunters

VICTORIA—(CP)—Lotus Bud of the Congo, Joss of Glenairly and Magician of the Congo all have three things in common.

They're dogs—rare Basenji hunting hounds; they can trace their ancestry back to the days of Egypt's Pharaohs; and they can't bark.

The three dogs, believed to be the only ones of their breed to be brought to Victoria and some of the few on the North American continent, are owned by Mrs. Sheila Anderson of this city.

Mrs. Anderson brought them from England after the first of the breed was exported to England from their native Belgian Congo.

Although they can't bark, the dogs are used by natives of the Congo to track down big game—elephants, gorillas and other wild beasts.

These excellent pets, which can whine and growl with the best of dogs, are considered top show dogs in the hound class.

Mrs. Anderson hopes to breed them, but Basenjis have only one litter of pups a year. Litters are generally between five and seven pups.

Another feature of these sturdy little dogs that few other canines possess is there is no "doggy odor" about them.

Airmen on Long Survey Have Rugged Job

OTTAWA—(CP)—An RCAF squadron is carrying on a lonely, rugged job that amounts to "perhaps the greatest contribution to the planning of northern defence assigned to any unit of the Canadian armed forces today."

That is the opinion of Don Brown, Ottawa Citizen reporter who wrote a series of articles after flying 15,000 miles with the squadron over a two-week period that took him three times inside the Arctic circle and "over vast uncharted areas of the Yukon and Northwest Territories."

The squadron is No. 48 photo survey squadron from Rockcliffe Airport, near Ottawa. Its boss is Wing Cmdr. D. J. G. Jackson of Ottawa.

Its job is to provide Canada with information for the first completely authoritative maps of the vast northwest. Such maps would be of large importance in defence of that area. They would become the very foundation of defence planning.

Be Back Soon

No. 408's 300-odd air and ground crew men left here in 15 aircraft in May for Yellowknife, NWT, and points north. They'll be back soon, due for leave and reunions with their families.

Behind is a summer in which they were scattered through 2,000,000 square miles and in which they gathered information on that much space and more.

This was done in two ways, by photographing 750,000 square miles from the aid and by ground-air co-operation—so-called Shoran (radar) surveys—which taped another 1,500,000. Between them, they will keep map-makers in Ottawa busy all winter.

Much To Be Done

Still ahead, says Brown, are two or three more years of this tough and lonely work which turns teen-aged boys and veteran airmen alike into bushmen, packhorses, construction experts, short-order cooks and menders of socks. It is done, he says, with a surprising lack of complaint.

Out of it will come in a few years "the first completely accurate geodetic survey for the precision mapping of the far north."

The Shoran surveys are of particular importance. They consist of radar measurement of distances from point to point through a combination of aircraft, flying meticulous routes aloft time after time, and of ground stations established roughly 300 miles apart.

Between them they can tape the mileage of any area so exactly that they will only be out a maximum of one foot in 60,000.

Only Partly Mapped

Many of the areas "now receiving the Shoran treatment are uncharted or only partly mapped," Brown writes. "Many others have been found to be inaccurately chronologized, resulting in improper land measurements and directions which have been fouling up both land and aerial navigation."

The job of installing a Shoran—derived from short range navigation—station, says Brown, can't be surpassed for toughness. It requires in most cases "a 22-hour work day, hours of tedious, nerve-straining flying, packing of heavy, cumbersome equipment over man-killing terrain, all this accompanied by pestering of flies, mosquitos and muskeg and possibly deluging Arctic rain storms."

A couple of airmen live at these stations for a month at a time "subjected to the greatest conditions of deprivation and loneliness of any of Canada's servicemen." They work, read, hunt and eat and, occasionally when there's nothing else to do and they want a laugh, they tune in on radio Moscow.

Law Company Boasts Three Generations

MONTREAL—(CP)—A Montreal law firm made up of three generations of the same family are waiting for a fourth generation member before making any claims to fame.

Benjamin Beniot, 83, founder, heads the organization which includes his son, Hector, and his grandson Jean Boulanger.

Although the organization is believed to be the only one of its kind in Canada, the grandfather said he is "still young" and is waiting for the fourth generation lawyer to appear in the firm.

The company was founded in 1894 and the grandfather has been practising for the last 57 years. Hector, his son joined him in 1935. Prior to assisting his father he was a stenographer of the superior court here, and later a Hansard stenographer.

Jean Boulanger, the third member, is a son of Benjamin's daughter, and came into the company last year after a distinguished record at the University of Montreal law school.

"We'll really cheer when there are four of the same family, in sequence. Until then, we're making no grandiose claims," Benjamin Benoit said.

MARY MOORE SAYS:

Soup, Paste And Juice Made Out Of Your Extra Tomatoes

The best time of year for breakfast and lunches for me and family is the fall. There must be something contented or unimaginative about me because for breakfast every morning I want a bowl with a broken up shredded wheat in it and filled to brimming with sliced peaches.

Lunch is just as simple; a tomato sandwich, a glass of milk and a banana. Marianne and I agree on this peasant fare, but Pete has to have all of the extras—like egg and toast too, for breakfast and in his lunch sandwiches bacon, besides the tomatoes. For our one sandwich he eats three, plus a peach and an additional banana plus whatever cakestuff he can lay hands on.

So, loving tomatoes as I do I didn't think the possession of three unexpected baskets would faze me. I hadn't planned to give any more to "doin' down" tomatoes, but had no choice. Here is what we have now: Canned tomato soup, plain canned tomatoes, canned tomato juice, and canned tomato paste. Not all from those three extra baskets, of course. Some were done early in September.

Canned Tomatoes

Have quart jars sterilized. Peel washed tomatoes which have been plunged in boiling water for 1 minute to loosen skin. Drop directly into sterile jars, but do not let fingers touch rims of jars. Large tomatoes may have to be cut in halves or quarters. With a sterilized spoon press down tomato to fill in empty spaces. If desired some extra tomatoes may be boiled down and strained to give juice to fill jars fuller. Put on sterile tops and rings and seal to within ⅛ turn of tight. Process in hot water bath having water come to within 2 inches of tops, for 45 minutes. Cool out of draughts. Tighten seal.

Canned Tomato Soup

Three gallons chopped tomatoes, 14 stalks of celery, 14 stems parsley, 12 bay leaves, 8 medium-sized onions, 20 whole cloves (these are optional), 1¼ cups flour, 1½ cups sugar, 1 teaspoon pepper, 3 tablespoons salt, ¼ lb. butter or margarine. Cook the peeled and quartered tomatoes, onions peeled and chopped, chopped celery, and parsley, bay leaves and cloves together until very soft. Force through strainer. Mix together dry the flour, sugar, salt, pepper, then stir into them 2 cups cold water to make a smooth paste. Stir the flour paste into the hot tomato puree, until thick. Bring to boiling point. Add butter. Pour into sterile jars and seal. This needs no further processing.

Canned Tomato Juice (4 quarts)

One peck of tomatoes, 4 medium sized green peppers, 4 onions, 2 stalks celery, 1½ cups sugar, 2 tablespoons salt. (If desired all but salt may be omitted, but this is the way I flavoured my tomato juice this year and we all liked the change.) Chop the vegetables and add 3 cups boiling water and cooking until soft. Strain through fine sieve. Add sugar and salt and bring to boiling point. Pour into sterile jars and seal. Sugar of course, may be omitted entirely. Lemon juice is a good addition—¼ cup 30 seconds before bottling.

Tomato Paste

A fine bright coloured heavy paste is impossible to make at home. The commercial canners use vacuum machinery which evaporates the liquid faster and retains the bright colour. However here is the way to do it at home. Wash, peel and boil tomatoes until tender. Force through sieve. Boil until reduced to at least one-half the volume. To each gallon add 1½ tablespons salt and 4 bay leaves. Boil until slightly thinner than desired consistency. Pour into steril jars and seal. The tomato paste thickens somewhat after it is stored.

Helen Roger Aux. Supper Meeting

Helen Roger Evening Auxiliary of Knox United Church met at the church this week. Mrs. C. Ross assisted by Mrs. D. Richardson, Mrs. E. Pearse, Mrs. F. Dunford and Mrs. D. Hubbs prepared the meal which was served by six CGIT girls in their uniforms.

Special guests included the Rev. H. G. Douglas and two of the honorary presidents, Mrs. H. G. Douglas and Mrs. H. Clegg. Mrs. D. Jackman sang a solo accompanied by Miss Phyllis Kidd at the piano. Mrs. J. Clarke moved a vote of thanks to the soloist and the CGIT girls.

Following a short business period Mrs. S. Whitfield led the worship service assisted by Mrs. M. Jude who read the scripture. Mrs. Whitfield then presented chapter two of the study book dealing with the home mission work in the "Far-flung Frontiers." Mrs. Whitfield told of the work of the home missionary worker in small isolated communities, the Sunday school by mail and air, and the work of the mission boats on both coasts, telling interesting stories of all phases.

A letter was read from Mrs. J. F. Morrison expressing her regrets at being unable to attend. Mrs. Morrison had been a guest at the supper meeting for many years.

THE WAY THAT A GIRL LOOKS in slacks depends, first, on her figure, and second, on the slacks she chooses. It should, by now, be clear that some girls can't wear slacks, no matter how much they like them. But the girl who can wear them should shop for them carefully and watch for cut, for expert tailoring, for fabric that won't give. Fortunately, there's a good choice of slacks that are flattering to the figure that's youthful, no matter what the age. This means slim and trim, without excess fat, with no bulges in the wrong places. Light grey flannel slacks (left) by Pendleton are precisely tailored, beautifully cut. They are worn with jacket in grey and long-sleeved shirt in red. Both shirt and jacket have easy, open-throated collars. Shades of Sherlock Holmes descend gently (right) on hat, vest and slacks by White Stag. In plaid wool, they're worn with simple, long-sleeved white blouse.

YW "Open House" Shows Wide Range Of Activities

Peterborough YWCA showed what it is planning for the fall and winter program—educationally, recreationally and socially—at "open house" Wednesday evening.

Mrs. C. K. Hurst, chairman of the program committee, told an audience assembled in the recreation room for the entertainment, that she could not outline the "aims and purposes" for them, because: "they are continually changing with the interests of those who use the Y." She compared them to the lights from a diamond—symbolic of the Y's 60th anniversary this year.

"We feel the Y is a community of interests and activities which is reflected on the city," said Mrs. Hurst. "We emphasise development of the individual and aim to make the Y a clearing house for talents. Our program covers the age group from three to 83."

And truly the activities on posters and by displays in the Y would seem to have interest for just that age group.

"Playtime" is for little folks three to five years, held each Thursday from two to four o'clock. Then there is the nursery school—a new one in the south end is to be opened shortly. Swimming and gym and dancing classes take entrants from four to 40, or over.

The Current Events Supper Club, which is new, the oil painting classes, the Overseas and Old Country Clubs and the Newcomers' Club have absolutely no age restrictions. Then there is "hobby night," a series of instruction on bridge, millinery, smocking, embroidery, rug making, Christmas gifts, interior decorating, open to anyone. "If there isn't a group to suit, it will be formed," says program secretary Miss Marion Foster.

The Senior Drama Club is going ahead under the direction of Mrs. Irene Campbell, and has taken in a number of new members already. A sample of the calibre of acting possible with only two weeks' practice by the group was given in the "Empror's Dilemma," a humorous playlet that was very well received.

Twenty Plus Club president and vice-president Tony Burns and Frank Booth entertained with Music Hall variety songs, Mrs. Booth playing accompaniment.

Clubs for the teens are the Featherbrain, Teen Y, Out of Town Teen Club and Friday Night Supper Club, and for older girls there is the Kappa Gamma Club and the '38 Club.

Mrs. D. B. McGregor, chairman of the membership committee, asked to have filled out a questionaire which will indicate to the board what activities are desired in the Y. One question is "Would you enjoy a Sunday afternoon music hour and tea?" Another: "Do you know that the cafeteria is open to the public, including men, daily except Sunday?"

Miss L. Brownscombe, executive director, spoke briefly, introducing the new swimming instructor, Miss Phyllis Alexander. She recalled that the present Y had developed in 60 years from a small group meeting in a residence on Brock St.

Miss Hazel Wilson capably led the visitors in a sing-song, with Miss Shirley Starke accompanying at the piano.

Registrations were taken by Mrs. E. Killingbeck and Miss Helen Edmison was assisting the Y staff in welcoming.

Bothwell-Thorn

A quiet wedding took place Saturday at the home of the Rev. E. W. Rowland in Peterborough of Marion Elizabeth, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Thorn of Millbrook, to Percival Madill Bothwell, son of Mrs. John Bothwell and the late Mr. Bothwell of Fraserville.

The bride was dressed in romance blue, with rose feathered hat trimmed with navy, and navy accessories. She wore a corsage of pink carnations. Miss Helen Thorn of Toronto was her sister's attendant. She was dressed in pink with navy feathered hat trimmed with pink and with navy accessories.

Ray Bothwell of Fraserville, brother of the groom, was groomsman.

A reception was held in the Empress Kawartha room where the mothers of the bride and groom received. Each had chosen a dress of black and they wore black hats and corsages of red roses.

For going-away the bride wore a navy gabardine suit, with matching shortie top coat, a pink hat, and pink carnation corsage. Her accessories were navy. The bride and groom left for a motor trip to Ottawa and points east. They will live in Fraserville.

Mrs. Scores Again On Better Driving

NEW YORK, Oct. 4 (AP). — The Automobile Club of New York says women are more thorough than men in learning to drive— and that married women do better than single women.

The finding was based on studies in the club's driving courses.

Women as a rule are less easily discouraged than men in the first hours of learning to drive, said Martin Klein, the club's director of traffic engineering and safety.

He said women show marked steadiness, good reaction timing and a resistance to bewilderment by the glare of oncoming headlights.

MAJOR BENNETT CHAPTER

Major Bennett Chapter, IODE, met Tuesday evening in the YWCA green room, regent Mrs. Wm. Taylor presiding.

Guest speaker was Mr. J. R. Twigg, probation officer for the city of Peterborough, who outlined the difference between probation and parole in a history of probation officers since 1854 in Boston. He explained that the juvenile court is really a social agency. Majority of cases dealt with are boys, the offences against them theft and property damage. Very few girls are delinquent he said. He suggested a court is needed to deal with the inbetween age groups, 16 to 21.

A word of advice from Mr. Twigg was in regard to dispensing children's allowance: "It is better to encourage a child to think of himself as part of a family unit carrying responsibility due for rewards, than to pay him for duties performed.

The speaker was introduced by Mrs. J. Ralph Clark and thanked by Mrs. R. G. Kemp.

Volunteers to drive the teacher of the blind to various out-of-town points were asked by Mrs Robert E. Gibbons, child and family welfare convener. Mrs. Thomas McMillan reported 15 boxes of food were packed and sent overseas. Each member brought to the meeting several items of good used clothing for an overseas shipment.

Arrangements were made to pack Christmas stockings for children in England, Mrs. T. Gaskell, Mrs. G. Barns, Mrs. J. R. Clark, Mrs. R. G. Kemp and Mrs. Wm. Taylor forming the committee. Post war convener Miss Jessie Johnson announced a sewing meeting on October 23 at the home of Mrs. Kemp, 620 Sherbrooke St.

Plans for the harvest tea, October 17th, were reported by the convener, Mrs. R. E. Gibbons. A knitting bag, made by Mrs. Gaskell, is to be drawn for. A new idea is the children's nursery where mothers may leave their small children while at the tea. Chapter members who will model fall fashions for the guests are Mrs. R. J. Garner, Mrs. Thomas MacMillan, Mrs. D. Ireland and Mrs. C. Dominik.

Mrs. B. E. Metcalfe, educational secretary, reported letters of thanks received from Indian children of the adopted school at Burleigh Falls for bat and balls, also a soccer ball. Thanks was received from Princess Louise Scottish

EVEN FOR THE WOMAN who lives in suits all fall and winter, the slim and unaffected wool dress is a wardrobe must. There are days in the fall when nothing else seems quite right. There are days when this dress, under a companion coat, provides just the right weight and warmth. Coat-and-dress ensemble (left) by Eisenberg includes a collarless wool dress with three - quarter sleeves. Skirt is straight; waist is encircled by a snakeskin belt. Big tortoise buttons appear at the neckline and trim the stand-out hip pockets. The coat that goes over the dress has full back-falling down from a yoke, roll collar and huge turn-back sheared beaver cuffs. Another wool dress by the same designer (right) is in grey wool flannel with long, tight sleeves and stand-up collar. Smoke jewel buttons glitter from neck to hem and sparkle on slit pockets at the hips.

DOROTHY DIX

Find Petty Criticism Sign Person's Small Mindedness

DEAR MISS DIX: I have an older, married sister who has a habit I find very annoying. She is constantly making criticisms of everything I wear, do or say. She comes to visit my mother and makes the same sort of remarks about all her in-laws and neighbors. Worst of all, she is always finding fault with her husband, who is really very good and to whom she is actually devoted. She just can't seem to resist these cutting remarks, all of which my mother believes. Consequently, mother doesn't have too high an opinion of her son-in-law, and he really deserves better. Can I do anything to make my sister see where she is wrong?

ROSE

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: Your sister is beguiling herself with two fallacies—one that she is possessed of a striking sense of humor, and that her sarcasm is really brilliant wit. The other is that by belittling others, she is herself elevated to a superior position. Actually, she is proving herself to be not only devoid of wit, but of the ability to discuss anything intelligently.

Those with small minds talk about people, those with better intellects converse of things and events, and those happily possessed of superior intelligence discuss ideas. So, when a person can talk of nothing but the frailties of relatives and friends, she can be immediately marked as a woman of low intelligence and even less character. As for a woman who shows her disloyalty to a good mate by unjust—or for that matter even just—criticism to her friends and relatives, well, she certainly does not deserve the blessing she has.

Would Infuriate Her Husband

Your sister had better be careful lest her husband learn of her tendency to belittle him. A man can frequently forgive a larger infidelity more easily than he can the seemingly small fault of holding him up to ridicule.

I am happy to see, Rose, that you hold these habits of your sister up to scorn and are not likely to follow her example. Malicious gossip frequently begins with just the sort of backbiting to which your sister is prone, and develops into actual defamation of character.

If you can make your sister realize that her actions are not admirable, but reprehensible, she may, for the sake of her own reputation, change them.

DEAR MISS DIX: I have a problem which has me considerably worried. It is my gray hair. I'm only 27 and people take me for 47. I am very self-conscious because of it, and am thinking of dyeing or bleaching it. I am not married, and feel that my hair may keep men from becoming interested in me. Will it?

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: Gray or white hair no longer is the sure sign of old age that it once was. A well-coiffed head of gray hair can be very attractive and should add to, rather than detract from, your appearance. However, since you are so self-conscious about the condition, there is no harm in either dyeing or bleaching. But you must remember one thing. Once you begin the process of changing your hair color, you must continue. It can be an arduous and an expensive job if done professionally. Coloring at home must be done very carefully, or you'll wind up with a head of streaky hair that will be far less attractive than your present color.

If you are an interesting person, well groomed, well read, well informed on the world's events, you should have no trouble attracting men, whether your hair is gray or not.

✧ ✧ ✧

DEAR DOROTHY DIX: Two weeks after my marriage, we went to live with my husband's grandmother, who raised him. She was 69 years old and bedridden. I cared for her until I became pregnant, then we took her to her daughter's and moved to a place of our own. Her daughter left the state, and so we took her back. She seems much better and I don't mind caring for her. Now, however, she wants my husband's brother, wife and child to come and live with us. I don't see how we can all manage in one house. I'm 23, and really completely tied down with grandma's care, but I want her to feel as though someone really wants her.

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: You deserve stars in your heavenly crown for the care and devotion you are giving this old lady. You are doing enough; don't take on the burden of an extra family in the house. If your husband is fed up with the care of his own grandmother, you'd better let one of the daughters take over the job, but since you are willing to continue with it, he should be proud of you and glad to lend a hand whenever possible.

Nursery Rhyme Expert Boys

ALTON, Hampshire, England—(CP) — Seven-year-old James Opie and his four-year-old brother, Bobby, are notable authorities on the latest in Oxford "dictionaries."

For James and Bobby helped collect the 550 rhymes that make up a new volume called "The Oxford Dictionary of Nursery Rhymes." And they can recite more rhymes dating back hundreds of years and traceable to many countries.

It seems that Humpty Dumpty is International. In France he's called "Boule Boule," in Denmark "Lille-Trille," in Finland "Hiller-in Lillerin" and the Germans call him "Humpelken-Pumpelken."

The book was started more or less by accident. When Mrs. Opie was expecting her first child she found a curious dearth of nursery rhymes. So she set about making a collection. Soon husband Peter gave up his printing job to join the research.

Now their books are on the market (Oxford University Press). It is dedicated to: "Masters James and Bobby Opie, who dutifully submitted to early training as collectors."

What's Right?

You meet an acquaintance whose engagement has been announced and you want to say the right thing to her.

WRONG: Congratulate her.

RIGHT: Tell her that you hope she will be very happy.

Co-Op Hospital Reduces Rates

SHELBURNE, Ont. (CP)—Ontario's first co-operative hospital has been open only eight months—but already it is starting to pay dividends, not only in good health but also in cash.

Officials of the $23,000 hospital say that when the hospital goes into its second year next Jan. 1, its 400 charter members will enjoy a 50-per-cent deduction on hospital care for themselves and their families.

In addition to their annual flat rate of $10, they will pay only $2.75 per day in hospital. Non-members admitted to the 14-bed institution must pay $5.50 a day.

Elmer Dykes, chairman of the hospital board, says that the low rate—dollars below normal hospital charges in the province—doesn't mean the hospital is hamstringing itself financially to make an impressive showing.

"First-year experience, when we gave members a 20-per-cent discount," he says, "has convinced us that the 50-per-cent discount plan will strengthen our financial position."

Members of the hospital feel that they have demonstrated the practicability of the suggestion by provincial and federal health officials that more smaller hospitals would take the pressure off larger institutions.

The hospital is without provincial grants because co-operative hospitals were unknown when the revelant legislation was passed.

6—In Memoriam

CARL—In loving memory of a dear friend, Betty Carl, who passed away two years ago today.
What would I give to clasp her hand,
Her patient face to see,
To hear her voice, to see her smile,
As in the days that used to be.
But some sweet day we'll meet again
Beyond the toil and strife,
And clasp each other's hand once more,
In heaven, that happy land.
—Shirley Bloom.

CARL—In loving memory of Betty Carl, who passed away October 4, 1949.
However long our lives may last,
Whatever lands we view,
Whatever joy or grief be ours,
We will always think of you.
—Lovingly remembered by Beverley and Joan Reynolds.

CARL—In loving memory of Betty Carl, who passed away Oct. 4, 1949.
The depths of sorrow we cannot tell
Of the loss of one we loved so well,
And while she sleeps a peaceful sleep
Her memory we shall always keep.
—Sadly missed and lovingly remembered by her family.

CARL—In loving memory of my sister, Betty, who passed away Oct. 4, 1949.
You are not forgotten, sister,
Nor ever will you be,
As long as life and memory lasts,
We will remember thee.
—Ever remembered by June.

McFARLAND—In olving memory of our uncle, Joseph McFarland, who passed away Oct. 4, 1947.
You're not forgotten, uncle dear,
Nor ever shall you be
As long as life and memory last
We shall remember thee.
—Ever remembered by Mr. and Mrs. Bert Edwards, Gerald and Douglas.

McFARLAND—In loving memory of dear brother, Joseph McFarland, who passed away Oct. 4, 1947.
Farewell dear brother thy work is o'er
Thy willing hands will toil no more,
A loving brother, kind and true,
No one on earth we'll find like you.
—Ever remembered by Robert and May McFarland and family.

MENZIES—In memory of a dear mother, Mrs. Charles Menzies, who passed away Oct. 9, 1941; and loving father, Charles, who passed away Oct. 4, 1949.
They always leaned to watch for us,
Anxious if we were late,
In winter by the window, in summer by the gate.
And though we mocked them tenderly,
Who had such foolish cares,
The long way home would seem more safe,
Because they waited there.
Their thoughts were all so full of us,
They never could forget,
And so we think that where they are
They must be watching yet.
Waiting till we come home to them,
Anxious if we are late,
Watching from heaven's windows,
Leaning from heaven's gates.
—Ever remembered by family.

A-Bomb Blast Believed Timed For Red Talks

By FRANCIS W. CARPENTER

UNITED NATIONS, NY, Oct. 4 (AP)—Some United Nations diplomats speculated today that Russia touched off its latest reported atomic explosion as a demonstration of force to back up Moscow's bargaining in critical world discussions.

They said Russian atom-bomb reports have catapulted the atomic problem back into a high-priority rating on the assembly calendar when it meets in Paris Nov. 6.

There was some speculation that Moscow may also have designed its demonstration to back up Russian bargaining if Moscow gets agreement on holding a Big-Four conference.

The atomic question has been dormant in the UN since the White House announced in September, 1949, that the Russians had the atomic secret. Demands followed for UN decision on plans for atomic control. But the problem dragged along between unyielding US and Soviet proposals.

Suggested Merger

President Truman suggested last year that the UN Atomic Energy Commission could be merged with the UN Commission for Conventional Armaments, set up in 1946 to plan for disarmament.

A committee of 12 at the last general assembly approved the merger plan several weeks ago. It calls for a single commission of 12 members responsible to the Security Council.

This plan will come up for final approval in the Paris Assembly.

The Russians opposed the merger plan because it includes a sentence endorsing once more the majority plan for control of atomic energy.

That plan calls for control of atomic energy by an international commission and effective safeguards against evasion of the atomic code.

The Russians call for immediate prohibition of the atomic bomb, and periodic inspection of such facilities as each country declares it owns.

Sentenced As Spy

DUESSELDORF, Germany, Oct. 4—(Reuters)— A British court today sentenced a mechanic Gottfried Urban, 36, to six years imprisonment for attempting to spy for the Czech Intelligence Service. He was found guilty of trying to collect information on the strength of British troops and the location of RAF and Army ammunition depots.

Rebels Seize Outout

RANGOON, Oct. 4 (Reuters)—Burmese rebels have seized three years' output of Wolfarm from the British-owned Mawchi mines stocks at Mawchi, 270 miles northeast of Rangoon, it was learned Wednesday. Wolfram is used to harden steel and is in heavy demand throughout the world.

Taking No Chances

NEW YORK, Oct. 4. (CP) —If you walked up to the front desk of the Hotel Edison here today you would be asked an unusual question: Do you support the Yankees or Giants in the World Series? Then, you'd be assigned a room on a floor with fellow rooters. "It avoids trouble," explained Manager John Pringle.

Parents Protest School Half Days

HALIBURTON, Oct. 4 — Half-day classes for some Haliburton Public School children caused by overcrowded schoolrooms have drawn protests from 40 parents.

The parents attended the October meeting of Dysart Public School Board and urged the board to do something to remedy the situation as soon as possible.

The Legion Hall and the Anglican Church basement were suggested as emergency school accommodation. At present, children outside the village attend school in the mornings, while the village children go to classes in the afternoon.

"Every effort will be made to find another room and teacher as soon as possible," School Board chairman Mervin Robertson assured the parents. Mr. Robertson said that this might not be possible for another month and that in the meantime, classrooms were so full, that part-time classes appeared to be the only solution.

Union Workers Get Two-Year Contract

BROCKVILLE, Oct. 4 (CP) — Management and employees of John B. Stetson Company of Canada, Ltd., Brockville's second largest industry, on Wednesday agreed to the first two-year wage contract in the company's history.

Ontario Fails To Pay Bonus Jolliffe Says

MILLBROOK, Oct.4 (ENS). — At a meeting of the CCF of Durham riding held in Port Hope on Tuesday evening, a member from each of four labor unions was appointed, along with the executive, to serve as a nominating committee in the event of an early election.

E. B. Jolliffe, Leader of the Ontario Opposition party, and Fred Young, Ontario organizer, were the special speakers.

Mr. Jolliffe told of the short four-day session of the Ontario Legislature held last week when the Old-age Assitance Act was passed. After January 1, all who have lived in Canada 20 years and are 70 years of age or over will receive $40 a month regardless of means. The means test still remains for those between 65 and 69 years of age. In the first pension group the Federal government pays all, and in the second the Federal and the Provincial governments each pay half. In order to receive this pensioners in the second group are not allowed to earn more than $20 a month. Mr. Jolliffe pointed out that this created hardship for a man who in the summer months would be able to earn more than $20 and would immediately be cut off, and it would be some months before he could get back on the pension list again in the winter when he was unable to earn anything. However, the new pensions Act in spite of imperfections was a step in the right direction. He recalled that J. S. Woodsworth had pioneered the way for old-age pensions. On the walls of Woodsworth House in Toronto hangs the framed letter from Mackenzie King to Woodsworth promising him to draw up an act to institute old-age pensions. Mr. Jolliffe pointed out that in British Columbia, where a Liberal and Conservative Party is in power, $10 a month cost-of-living bonus is being paid to pensioners. The same is true in Alberta under Social Credit, and in Saskatchewan under CCF. Yet in Ontario, reputedly the wealthiest province of all, the government refuses to pay such a bonus.

Would Amend Act

Mr. Jolliffe said that one of the first bills to be passed by the Legislature if a CCF government is returned will be one to strengthen the Farm Products Marketing Act. "The Act was changed for the better in April, but there is still much need for improvement. For example, producers are not paid soon enough. Why should a farmer under contract have to wait many weeks after delivering his crop before he gets his money?

"Why do processors, in this day of shortages, refuse to buy pears and grapes? And why should Ontario onions be allowed to spoil when onions by the carload come in from the USA? There is evidence that these things have happened because certain processors want to smash the marketing organizations built up by Ontario farmers in recent years," Mr. Jolliffe declared.

Not only the marketing schemes but the legislation itself is being attacked by big business, was the opinion of the speaker. The Milk Control Act as well as the board is being challenged in the courts.

"One of these days big business is going to find out that the Ontario Legislature is a sovereign legislative body within its own important sphere, and cannot be defeated by delaying actions or any other devices. King Charles lost his head for disputing the supremacy of Parliament. The tycoons of this day should think twice before insisting on their divine rights to rule our economic system," he said.

There has been a lot of talk about an election this year, and Mr. Jolliefe was of the opinion Mr. Frost would be foolish to plunge Ontario into a hectic election campaign during the Royal tour. However, the stories are jittery, and they often do foolish things, so perhaps it will happen," he said.

Mr. Young, in his address, urged farmers and labor men to stand together for their common interest. He felt that they were realizing this need more clearly then ever before.

Spence Cheshire, Durham riding CCF president, was in the chair. There were members present from Fraserville, Millbrook, Port Hope, Bowmanville and Courtice.

ALBERT GOSELIN, engraver, and Horace Lamb, silversmith, work diligently on silver plaque and key which will form part of RCAF gift to Royal couple when they visit the RCAF Station at Trenton.

Steel Workers Agree To Halt Work Stoppages

SYDNEY, NS, Oct. 4 (CP) — Sydney Steel workers today promised to cease their rash of work stoppages as union and company officials prepared to re-open wage talks.

Local 1064, United Steel Workers of America (CIO-CCL), decided Wednesday night to refrain from further walk-outs for the balance of their contract, which expires March 31, 1952.

The union opened wage discussions with Dominion Steel and Coal Corporation last July. They have continued off and on since. During this time, workers at the plant engaged in an estimated 90 wildcat walkouts.

The union asked for wage parity with workers in Central Canada, who have a basic hourly wage of $1.29.

The present Sydney agreement provides a basic hourly wage of $1.17 but the company several weeks ago announced a 10-cent hourly increase and a cost-of-living bonus which would yield another 3 cents an hour under present conditions.

Churchill Outlines Party Platform For Election

LONDON, Oct. 4 — (Reuters) —The Conservative party of Winston Churchill said Wednesday that if it is elected Oct. 25 it will seek to develop the latent power of the British Commonwealth.

In a policy statement entitled "Britain strong and free," it said its plans included:

1. Establishment of an advisory Commonwealth Defenec Council, a combined Commonwealth Military Staff, and the standardization of equipment, organizing and training.

2. Calling, as an urgent matter, an economic conference to reach an agreed Commonwealth policy on investments, research, migration and trade.

3. Frequent meetings of Commonwealth ministers to develop a sense of partnership. To this end a permanent civilian liaison staff may be required."

Discussing the close association of the Commonwealth and the Untied States, the document suggested an organization "on the general lines of the Wartime Combined Chiefs of Staff."

Would Review Strategy.

"Given the necessary political direction, this organization would be able to review world strategy as a whole and weigh the conflicting claims of unlimited resources of one area against another," it said.

The Conservatives said they would encourage emigration from Britain to the Commonwealth "provided that the flow is steady and that those who go represent a fair cross-section of our population in age and occupation."

The pamphlet, an amplification of a statement released last week over Churchill's signature, said the first remedy to better conditions in Britain is to increase production, while cutting out government waste and extravagance.

The Conservatives said they would strive to restore private trading in food and raw materials "except where obligations to our allies or long-term guarantees to Empire countries necessitate other means."

The Liverpool cotton exchange would be re-established and free enterprise released "to comb the world for greater supplies."

Prince and Princess Move In With the 'In-Laws'

By ARTHUR J. MATHERS
NEA Special Correspondent.

LONDON — (NEA) — Steeped in British tradition—and in love with England's Princess Elizabeth—Philip was instructing naval cadets at Corsham in 1946, a lieutenant in the Royal Navy.

Yet he was still a Greek citizen. And he was still just plain Philip to the butcher, the baker, the barman, and the "regulars" at the Corsham village pub with whom he spent a couple of nights a week drinking beer and playing darts.

HE GETS A NAME—Prince Philip, here saluting at Corsham in 1947, became a British citizen and plain Philip Mountbatten.

But a few weeks after Elizabeth had sailed for South Africa in January, 1947, Philip became a naturalized Britain and got himself a surname. He shed his titles, took the name of his uncle, and became simply Lieut. Philip Mountbatten.

Meanwhile, Elizabeth was taking South Africa by storm.

Her terrific natural charm, her absorption of history and the general training on which Queen Mary had placed such emphasis in Elizabeth's education were paying off in a big way.

Bluntly asked by an old Boer farmer when she was going to be married, Elizabeth, with a beaming smile, replied: "Like me—you'll have to wait and see."

Even the aged Boer joined the laughter which resulted. "And," as the South Africans themselves say, "to make a Boer laugh is something."

At another ceremony Elizabeth noticed a loaded bus standing well away from the crowd. She was told it contained a Girl Guide troop from a leper colony.

Without hesitation the Princess walked across to the tragic vehicle and gave each of the leper children an individual wave and smile. Neither South Africa nor Elizabeth have forgotten "at incident. Soon after her fi st child,

SHE GETS A BOUQUET—Princess Elizabeth receives a bouquet from two little girls during the royal tour of South Africa in 1947. King George and Queen Elizabeth watch in the background.

Prince Charles, was born, Elizabeth "adopted" a leper on his behalf.

But the real highlight of that South African tour came three days before the Royal Family returned home. In Capetown, on April 21, Elizabeth celebrated her 21st birthday and made a "solemn dedication" to the British Comonwealth in a world-wide radio broadcast.

Said the Princess: "I declare before you all that my whole life, whether it be long or short, shall be devoted to your service and the service of the great Imperial family to which we all belong. But I shall not have the strength to carry out this resolution unless you join in it with me...."

To a tall, blond navy lieutenant, listening to her clear, girlish voice 5,000 miles away, that last sentence carried a deep personal message.

Shortly after the Royal family returned to England a distinguished, gray-haired woman slipped unnoticed into the office of a famous jeweler. Without preamble she produced a magnificent antique ring—the history of which is also part of the history of Greece—and gave directions for certain alterations.

For Princess Alice of Greece—mother of Philip and now a member of a semi-secluded religious order caring for the sick on the Greek island of Tinos—that was a supremely happy moment shared only with her son.

A few weeks later Philip, by Royal consent, slipped that same ring on the betrothal finger of Elizabeth and, for both of them, the world rejoiced. The long months of waiting to declare their love were over.

On their wedding eve, Philip had been created Duke of Edinburgh, Baron Grenwich, Earl of Marioneth and had his right to the title "Prince" restored to him by the King.

Their wedding was celebrated before the assembled royalty of Europe and a great host of nobles and commoners in Westminster Abbey on Nov. 20, 1947. It was a wedding the whole world watched.

As yet without a home of their own, Elizabeth and Philip returned from their honeymoon to live for a while in the Princess' old apartments in Buckingham Palace. Philip told his friends: "We're moving in with the in-laws."

However, Clarence House—just across the Mall from the Palace—was being restored for them and much of their first months of married life was spent in planning the way they wanted their home to look and feel.

While Elizabeth selected the furniture and supervised the decorations, Philip — a gadget-fan from way back—spent hours at home exhibitions looking for modern labor-saving devices. He's said to have fixed so many handy gadgets in the kitchen and serving quarters that the staff call it Luna Park, after the laboratory of Thomas A. Edison.

Before their home was ready for occupation, Philip was recalled to sea-going duty with the Mediterranean Fleet based at Malta. He returned from that three-year tour of duty last month.

They were a mighty important three years for Elizabeth and Philip in more ways than one.

Their two children were born: Prince Charles (Nov. 14, 1948) and Princess Anne (Aug. 15, 1950), Philip got his first command (the destroyer Magpie), and, against a spate of ill-directed criticism, Elizabeth, like many other navy wives went out to live with her husband in Malta.

They were rewarding themselves in some measure for those long, unhappy months of separation.

Tomorrow: A new role for Philip.

Varsity Editor Resigns Job

TORONTO, Oct. 4 (CP)—Jack Gray, 23, resigned Wednesday night as editor-in-chief of the Varsity after putting out five 1951-52 issues of the University of Toronto daily newspaper. The students' administrative council accepted his resignation from the $20-a-week job on grounds that he is not technically an undergraduate.

The English and philosophy student missed an important second-year subject last year, when he was the paper's magazine editor. Rather than repeat the entire year, he came back this fall as an "occasional" student not registered in any course and not working towards a degree.

In other years, some editors of the Varsity, which claims its circulation of 10,000 makes it the largest student newspaper in the Commonwealth, have been graduates. Several staff members this year are graduate and occasional students.

No word of a successor to Gray was announced immediately.

Senior Workshops

COPENHAGEN. (CP) —A machinery factory here installed "senior workshops" for workers over 70. In the bright and friendly rooms workers who do not wish to retire at 65 or 70 may work four hours a day at standard rates of pay, earning a welcome addition to their pensions.

Fancy Covers

MARITZBURG, South Africa—(CP)—A cowboy hat and a few revolvers on the jacket of a book are enough to ensure its sale, Bookseller C. A. Roy wryly admitted in an address to the South African Library Association. He said novels of "sustained neurotic misery" also sold well.

Britain Boosts Purchases In Canada 56%

OTTAWA, Oct. 4—(CP)—The United Kingdom, though short of dollars, boosted purchases in Canada by 56 per cent in August, the Bureau of Statistics reported Wednesday.

Exports to Britain, totaling $66,397,000 for the month, were more than $20,000,000 higher than the $42,544,000 in August last year. In July sales to Britain totalled $73,900,000—the highest monthly total since May, 1948, when exports totalled $85,100,000.

Tthe August climb in sales to Britain, as well as increases to other countries, boosted total August exports to $349,800,000—a record for the month—but down from $374,500,000 in July.

August shipments increased by $92,700,000 from $257,100,000 in August, 1950, and pushed the eight-month total to a peak $2,464,500,000, up $523,100,000 from $1,941,400,000 last year.

Main impetus for the sharp rise was the world's clamor for raw materials, and increased prices. Shipments during August were higher for wheat, wood pulp, newsprint, aluminum and nickel.

Newsprint Buying

Britain's purchases in August boosted the eight-month total to $393,855,000 from $313,629,000. Bigger buying was mainly for pulp, newsprint and non-ferrous metals.

The United States, Canada's top customer, increased her purchases by 15 per cent to $192,838,000 from $167,148,000 in August last year, driving the eight-month total to $1,504,611,000 from $1,240,292,000.

In a previous report the bureau estimated imports for August at $358,800,000. Foreign and domestic exports totalled $354,600,000, resulting in a deficit for the month of $5,200,000.

This adverse balance of trade, resulting principally from higher purchases from the US, brought the eight-month deficit to a record $337,100,000. In past years, Canada usually chalked up a surplus in her trade.

Unknown Depth

LONDON — (CP) — A motorist at the Festival of Britain "fun fair" at Battersea mistook an artificial lake for a rain puddle and drove in. With the water up to the floor-boards of his car the driver stayed in his seat until a rescue boat came along.

Had Stomach Disorders 3 Years—Always Tired

Nerves On Edge, Got Bad Headaches, Backache and Awful Gas, Indigestion. "Feel Much Better Since Taking Syntona."

MRS. MARY DALLAS

Here is good advice for all sufferers from common disorders of stomach, kidneys, liver or bowels, backache and fatigued, nervous, rundown condition. Thousands of men and women suffering this way have obtained their best relief by taking Syntona Herbal Compound. For example, here is the experience of Mrs. Mary Dallas, well-known Copetown, Ontario, woman, who said:

"I had stomach disorders so bad for three years that my nerves were all on edge. I'd getting throbbing headaches, a dull aching pain across my back, and I constantly felt tired and rundown. At times even the lightest food gave me awful gas, indigestion and heartburn. I' dget a bloated feeling, sour acid risings and just couldn't get any relief.

"One day a friend told me about Syntona and since taking this medicine I feel much better. Especially the gas, heartburn, and belching of hot sour liquids has cleared up so that I enjoy my meals. Headaches and back ache and the other aches and pains I had are now relieved and my nerves are calmed down so I am getting more sound, restful sleep and do not feel tired-out as I did before. I highly recommend Syntona to all who are troubled with gas, indigestion, or tired, fatigued feeling.

Syntona is sold and recommended in Peterborough at Elliott's Drug Store. Find out how it can help you, too. (Advt.)

New A-Weapons For Battlefield Big Advantage-US

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 5. (AP)—Gordon Dean, top United States atomic official, said today the US has atomic weapons which can "cancel out" on the battlefield "any numerical advantage" of an enemy and that it need not hesitate or fear to use them. Without indicating whether he had the Korean war specifically in mind, Dean said of use of tactical atomic weapons: "I think that when a situation arises where in our carefully considered judgment the use of any kind of a weapon is justified, we now are at the place where we should give serious consideration to the use of an atomic weapon, provided it can be used effectively from the military standpoint and that it is no more destructive than is necessary to meet the particular situation in question."

The Atomic Energy Commission chairman presented this new picture of US atomic power in an address prepared for a Founder's Day gathering at the University of Southern California.

Broad Hints

In it, he gave new broad hints of the progress in atomic weapons.

He said:

"We are entering an era where our power to wage warfare with atomic devices is so great, even in comparison with the recent past, that our fundamental concepts of what atomic warfare is and what it might mean to us must undergo revolutionary change . . .

"In the past, most of us have thought of atomic warfare in terms of inter-continental bombers striking at the great cities and industrial hearts of an enemy nation . . . This concept of atomic warfare, while still true, is now no longer the whole truth.

"It is but one kind of atomic warfare and there is now a new, quite different kind . . . much more promising as a means of halting aggressors without the risk of destroying large parts of the world in the process."

Yanks Leading Game 3-1 In Last Of 8th

Giants.... 000 000 10
Yanks.... 110 000 01

YANKEE STADIUM, New York, Oct. 5—(AP)—Larry Jansen, who assured the Giants of at least a pennant tie by beating Boston Braves on the final day of the regular season, was Leo Durocher's choice to pitch the second game of the 1951 world series today.

The American League champion Yankees, who saw their double no-hit pitcher, Allie Reynolds, drop a 5-1 decision to Lefty Dave Koslo Thursday, banked on their own ace left hander, Eddie Lopat.

Jansen, who tied with teammate Sal Maglie as the biggest winners in the National League, wound up with a record of 23-11. The 32-year-old Lopat's mark was 21-9.

A crowd of some 65,000 was on hand, with the weather clear and warm and a brisk wind blowing across the field from left to right. The temperature was around 75.

The lineups:

Giants—Stanky, 2b; Dark, ss; R. Thomson, 3b; Irvin, lf; Lockman, 1b; Mays, cf; Westrum, c; H. Thompson, rf; Jansen, p.

Yanks—Mantle, rf; Rizzuto, ss; McDougald, 2b; DiMaggio, cf; Berra, c; Woodling, lf; Brown, 3b; Collins, 1b; Lopat, p.

First Giants

Stanky swung at a two and two pitch and sent a slow roller to McDougald who threw him out. Rizzuto raced behind the mound to make a nice stop and throw to retire Dark. Woodling caught Thomson's long fly with his back against the left field barrier.

No runs, no hits, no errors, none left.

Don't Believe Reds Gaining

By FRED HAMPSON.

SINGAPORE, Oct. 5 — (AP). —Is Asia moving closer to the Communists or shying farther away?

A trip through this section brings the distinct impression that the free world has gained some ground in South-east Asia.

The Communists don't seem to have gained anywhere.

This gain is credited by south-east observers to the Korean War, to the Japanese Peace Treaty, to the firm stand of the French in Indo-China, and to a slight increase in guerrilla fighting in Red China.

Malcolm MacDonald, British High Commissioner for South-east Asia, said: Sentiment "has shifted enormously away from Peiping, especially among the Chinese in South-east Asia."

These overseas Chinese are key people in Asia. They have much control over commerce, mining, farming, and finance. Peiping hoped to pipe Communism into this part of Asia through them.

Overseas Chinese were impressed at first by Peiping's show of power in world affairs, but this has been outweighed by their dislike of Peiping's revolutionary extremes— the purges, suppression of liberty, schools and the church and land confiscation.

Foxes Get Break Too Hot For Dogs

KITCHENER, Oct. 5 (CP) — Four or five foxes in the Bamberg area, 10 miles northwest of here, have reason to be happy about the unseasonal warm weather.

This morning the foxes were being pursued by 45 eager dogs in the opening field trials of the Western Ontario Foxhound Association. However, by noon, the panting dogs, tongues hanging out in the 80-degree heat were called off by Magistrate A. F. Cook of Stratford, master of the hunt. It was just too hot.

The contest, with entries from Kitchener, Brantford, Guelph, Barrie, Caledon and Toronto, will resume tomorrow.

Grain Storage Rules Relaxed

OTTAWA, Oct. 5 (CP).—Faced with a grain storage and transportation crisis, Trade Minister Howe today empowered the Board of Grain Commissioners to relax its regulations and find additional storage to stockpile a record prairie wheat crop.

Under a new order-in-council passed under the government's emergency powers, the three-man board will be permitted to licence such buildings as skating rinks and community halls if they are available and found suitable for storage.

This will ensure, said Mr. Howe "that as much as possible of the large crop will be suitably stored."

Police Help Man Pass Rubber Cheque

MODESTO, Calif., Oct. 5 (AP) —Police today admit they were "used" in getting a rubber cheque passed.

Chief Urbane Pickering said a man identifying himself as Robert Chinn came to the station Monday night with a tale of being robbed of his car and cash.

Later, the man appeared at a restaurant and cashed a $50 personal cheque—after the proprietor checked on his plight and identity with police.

The cheque bounced, the auto licence number was a phony, and no one named Robert Chinn lives at the address the man furnished.

Drift Helplessly On Ocean. Trio Finally Reaches Land

LOUISBURG, NS, Oct. 5 (CP). —Three survivors of an Atlantic saga rested in hospital here today with weather-blackened faces and bruised hands, the only apparent mark sof their ordeal.

Capt. Francis Corkum, 31, Morris Burke, 41, and Joe Richardson, 23, staggered ashore from their dory near here Thursday, tottering from hunger, thirst and lack of sleep. Richardson collapsed when he stepped from the boat.

They told a story of heartbreak and grim courage during six days of drifting helplessly in the treacherous autumn Atlantic. Three times rescue passed them by, within sight. When a rainstorm came to quench their burning thirst, Burke gave up his share of the precious water to his younger companions.

The trio left nearby Port Morien last Friday to tend their trawls in the 45-foot Cape Island boat Inez Eloise, which developed engine trouble later the same day.

Friday night, a ship passed by, unaware of their gasoline flares and flashing electric light.

Sunday night, a 45-knot storm twisted the vessel's stern off and they scrambled into their dory without food or water and with only the comparatively light clothing they wore.

The dory was equipped with a compass, foghorn and flares. The men rowed from Sunday night until Tuesday, and then, bone-weary, gave up the struggle and drifted aimlessly.

A "blesesd rain" came Wednesday and they captured some in their compass base. Burke gave up his share but even at that there was hardly enough to dampen their parched lips and throats.

Also on Wednesday, a plane passed twice in murky weather, but didn't see the fishermen's crude distress signal—a shirt flying from the end of a swordfish pole.

Finally, they made landfall at nearby Kennington Cove yesterday and stumbled to the farmhouse of Sandy MacLean, who arranged to get them to hospital here.

Million Dollar Fire At Airport

Transport Department Offices Burned At Moncton Field

MONCTON, NB, Oct. 5. (CP) —Work began today on temporary quarters for Airway Traffic Control, lost Thursday night when fire raced through the Maritime district offices of the Transport Department at nearby Lakeburn. No one was injured in the fire which caused close to $1,500,000 damage.

Fire destroyed the two-storey wooden structure housing radio communications equipment to handle flying in the Maritimes. ATC will be housed in the Canadian National Telegraphs building here temporarily.

Nova Scotia range stations at Yarmouth, Greenwood, Halifax and Sydney co-operated with ATC centres in Gander, Nfld., and Boston to control flights over the Maritimes Thursday night and Boston will likely handle the master control for some time.

The fire broke out in a part of the building where work was going on. In less than half an hour the 600 by 300 foot structure was gutted.

Leap To Safety

Some 100 transport employees left for the day only minutes before the fire but a small working force of control employees was cut off by the flames and forced to jump from second-storey windows.

Approximately $500,000 in communications equipment was lost, plus $250,000 worth of new construction work on a partially completed waiting room for trans-Atlantic air passengers, construction materials and several automobiles.

Officials were particularly concerned over the loss of records and stocks of radio communications equipment stored in the building for Maritime airports.

Trans-Canada Air Lines, which operates from Moncton airport, carried on operations with emergency equipment. The transport department planned to carry on its work in temporary quarters in a former RCAF building at the airport.

All available fire-fighting equipment in Moncton and nearby communities was called out. They concentrated on saving two hangars flanking the doomed building. Drums of gasoline and oil were dispersed over the area as a precaution against explosions.

Cost-of-Living Continues Climb During August

OTTAWA, Oct. 5 (CP)—Some of the steam was taken out of the upward climb of the cost-of-living index in August but it had too much momentum to be stopped. Consumers had to be consoled with the report Thursday of the Bureau of Statistics that although the index jumped to a record 189.8 from 188.9, the jump of 0.9 points was the smallest since last April. A decline in prices for a variety of food items was the only real bright spot.

Prices were lower for certain vegetables (including potatoes, carrots, cabbage, turnips, onions), pork shoulder cuts and lamb, bananas, fish products and vegetable shortening.

Prices were up for beef, bacon, butter, cheese, eggs, cocoa, oranges and canned vegetables.

However, for the first time since last April the over-all food sub-index—considered the most important in the general index—declined. Its drop of 0.3 points knocked down the food index from its peak of 251.4 to 251.1.

Higher Prices

But the rest of the report told of higher prices for rents, woollen goods, footwear, coal and coke, dishes, hardware, floor coverings, transportation and recreation.

In fact prices had risen to the point where a dollar in August bought only as much as 52 cents did in the 1935-39 period. The entire range of price climbs pushed living costs in Canada up 88.3 per cent since August, 1939.

Although they haven't been too good a barometer in the past, lower wholesale prices in September may point to a similar decline in the retail end later on.

The bureau reported its wholesale index for 30 industrial materials declined to 285.3 on Sept. 28, down 2.0 points from 287.3 on Aug. 31.

US Steamship Sinks Five Bodies Sighted

ELIZABETH CITY, N.C., Oct 5 (AP)— The coast guard said today that five bodies had been sighted in the Atlantic near the spot where the steamship Southern Isles broke up and sank.

The Southern Isles broke into halves and sank about 200 miles south-east of Cape Hatters, N.C., early today.

Elizabeth City coast guard said the steamer Charlotte Lykes had reported by radio that she had picked up seven of the 24 crew members of the Southrn Isles and had sighted five bodies. One of the survivors had a broken leg.

The coast guard station here said two B-17s were being dispatched to Charlotte, NC., for search duty, in addition to two Martin mariners dispatched from Jacksonville, Fla. The coast guard cutter Cherokee, dispatched from Norfolk, Va., was expected to reach the area late this afternoon.

UN Official Will Resign Because Boss Snubbed Nazi

JAKARTA, Indonesia, Oct. 5. (CP)—Sir Mirza Ismail, resident United Nations official in Jakarta, said today he is quitting his job because his boss, Canadian-born Dr. Hugh L. Keenleyside, insulted a former Nazi bigwig. Ismail, an Indian resident representative of the UN technical assistance administration, said "despicable" was the word for Keenleyside's conduct at a reception here Wednesday night. Keenleyside, director-general of the technical assistance mission, refused to shake hands with Hjalmar Schacht at a reception given by Ismail.

Schacht, who helped juggle German finances so Hitler could build his vast war machine, and Keenleyside are visiting in Indonesia.

Keenleyside said Thursday he had refused to shake Schacht's hand when they were introduced at the reception because he felt no UN official should fraternize socially with a man who represented so completely something the UN was organized to oppose.

Schacht said at a press conference today that he would sue Keenleyside if he had the money to launch such an action.

"It does not show much psychological insight on the part of the UN to send such a man to promote goodwill for that institution," Schacht said.

Dr. Keenleyside is a former Deputy Minister of Mines and Resources in the Canadian government.

He and Schacht, who helped engineer the financing of Hitler's war machine, met at a reception given by Sir Mirza Ismail, resi-

King Signs Election Order

LONDON, Oct. 5 (AP).—The King today signed in a firm hand a proclamation dissolving parliament in preparation for the national election Oct. 25.

The signing took place in the Buckingham Palace bedroom where the King is recovering from his dangerous lung operation of Sept. 23.

The new House will meet Oct. 30 to elect a speaker. It probably will hold its first business session Nov. 6.

Three members of the Privy Council — the King's advisory body — stood in the doorway of the bedroom in Buckingham Palace watching him write his name with a fountain pen. Another member of the council, Sir Alan Lascelles, also the King's private secretary, took the documents to the bedside.

The fifth man present at the simple ceremony was Francis Fernau, clerk of the Privy Council. No doctors or nurses were there.

Today's medical bulletin said the King's condition continued to show improvement.

The statesmen present when the King signed were Viscount Jowitt, Lord Chancellor; Viscount Addison, Lord President of the council, and James Chuter Ede, Home Secretary.

From Oct. 23 to 25 inclusive, for instance, the Royal couple will be free. They will motor from Victoria for a holiday at Eagle's Crest, going via the Island Highway, through Duncan, Ladysmith and Parksville. They will motor from there Oct. 26 to resume the tour at Nanaimo.

BRISBANE, Australia, Oct. 4— (Reuters)—Scattered rains over 40,000 square miles today brought relief to firefighters in the 10th day of a desperate battle against bush fires raging through South Queensland.

Scots Take Hill To Skirl of Pipes After Fierce Fight

US EIGHTH ARMY HEADQUARTERS, Korea, Oct. 5. (AP) —Chinese front-line defences appeared to be crumbling in the west today before an offensive of 100,000 United Nations troops. Battered Communists retreated northward in some sectors. Some hills were abandoned after days of bitter fighting. Elsewhere only die-hard rear-guards delayed US troops. Soldiers of nine United Nations moved forward cautiously for limited gains. Canadian troops gained four miles in the first two days of the offensive.

Late in the day Reds lashed back with counter-attacks in efforts to recapture some abandoned hills.

Hard Fight

Hunched in Chinese bunkers, men of the King's Own Scottish Borderers to-night (Thursday) prepared to stand off Chinese counter-attacks after a hellish "battle of the woods" which gained them a strategic hill on the west central front.

Fighting to the skirl of their beloved bagpipes, the Scots fought non-stop for two days to take this bald, 1,100-foot Korean hill.

The Borderers drove through jungle-like approaches while an unseen enemy machine-gunned and shelled them.

Near the end, every-man-for-himself fighting raged, with Scots and deeply-entrenched Chinese swapping grenades and bullets at a few yards' range.

Through it all could be heard the pipes of Battalion Pipe-Major Donald MacKinnon of Skye.

Thousands of shells from British, New Zealand and Canadian 25-pounders made the hills and ridges appear lifeless as the Borderers started, but the Chinese hit back two hours later with machine-guns, grenades, artillery and mortars.

The Scots forced the battle and, after several hours, routed the Chinese from their foxholes with bayonets.

Ford Office Workers End 4-Day Strike

WINDSOR, Oct. 5 (CP). — A four-day strike of office workers at Ford Motor Company of Canada, Limited, ended about noon today as members of the Office Workers' Local 240, United Automobile Workers (CIO) voted to return to work and to submit one member's grievance to arbitration.

Terms under which the union members agreed to return include the reinstatement of Kenneth Pickthall, whose discharge by the company touched off the strike, and the submission of Pickthall's grievance to arbitration.

The union agreed to have Judge Eric Cross of Woodstock as arbiter in the Pickthall case.

Members of the office workers' local met today to discuss proposals worked out at a union-management negotiation meeting on Thursday. After an hour-long session, closed to the press, the union members flooded out of the hall, obviously happy with the decision to return to work.

Costly British Dock Strike Said Promoted By Reds

LONDON, Oct. 5. (CP)—A dock strike which involved 87 ships, cost £150,000 in lost wages and a loss of 86,330 working days, was promoted and prolonged by a Communist-led organization, says a parliamentary report.

The strike of 2,500 Manchester dockers lasted six weeks in April and June this year. The report, published Thursday by Labor Minister Alfred Robens, says the unofficial strike leaders went to "unusual lengths" to keep the strike alive.

"An organization seems to have been created in Manchester," the reportsays, "that was all ready to take advantage of the dispute when it occurred . . .

"This organization obviously owed its origin to the Port Workers' Committee in London. The unofficial leaders seem to have gone to unusual lengths to keep the strike alive. The strike ended only when the men repudiated them completely."

The London Committee has been prominent in every major dispute at the port of London since the Second World War ended. An official white paper blamed the Communist-led committee for the long and costly London dock strike in 1949, which had as its purported cause a dispute involving the Canadian Seamen's Union.

The strike at Manchester started over the suspension of two men who refused to work overtime. But, says the report, it was not the result of a "spontaneous outbreak" of feeling among the dockers. The answer lay in the tactics of the unofficial committee.

"First, the declared objects of the strike were impossible of achievement; second, meetings were held frequently, but became more and more perfunctory as they went; and third, the official union leaders were made the object of attack."

The chairman of the Manchester Committee was George Norman, identified in the report as an avowed Communist.

Fighter Plane Crashes, Find Pilot's Body

NORTH BAY, Oct. 5 (CP) — The body of an RCAF pilot, killed when his Mustang fighter crashed and exploded seven miles north of here Thursday night, was found today.

The airman, on loan to a civilian company, was flying from Winnipeg to Ottawa. It was thought the plane was hit by lightning.

Wreckage covered a 300-yard area. A ripped RCAF tunic with rows of decorations still intact was found on a tree. Pieces of clothing were located 20 yards from the crash scene.

RCAF officials here declined to reveal the pilot's name pending notification of his next-of-kin.

In Ottawa, an RCAF officer said the pilot was on a ferry flight from Winnipeg to Uplands airport at Ottawa. Because the pilot was ferrying an aircraft and not on an operational flight, it was difficult to determine his unit.

The plane cut a swath several hundred yards long before crashing into a rock ledge and exploding. The explosion completely demolished the plane and dug a crater in the earth 15 feet across and four feet deep.

Witnessed Crash

Bits of wreckage were scattered over an area half a mile square. The largest fragment found was a piece of the engine about three feet square.

Nineteen-year-old Irwin Prescott, a Canadian Pacific Railway employee, saw the plane crash from his parents' home, about a mile from the scene.

Said Prescott "It was just getting dark and I heard a very loud roar. When I looked up the plane was coming out of some dark storm clouds. It went straight down in a tailspin. Then there was a loud explosion which lit up the clouds."

Prescott, first to arrive at the wrecked aircraft, said blue flames were coming out of the crater the machine had made.

Man To Get Pound Of Flesh

NEW ROCHELLE, NY, Oct. 5 (AP).—New Rochelle is fattening the calf so that a Delaware schoolmaster may have his pound of flesh under a 272-year-old agreement.

Mayor Stanley Church reported today the calf will be given to Walden Pell of Middletown, Del.

Pell claims the calf under agreement in 1689 when Sir John Pell sold the land that is now New Rochelle to one Jacob Leisler.

The agreement said:

Jacob Leisler and his heirs and assigns agree to yield and to pay unto said John Pell and his heirs and assigns . . . one fatte calfe (sic) on every four and twentieth day of June yearly and each year forever—if demanded.

Pell identified himself as a direct descendant of Sir Robert.

Mayor Church said it is the first time in 272 years that the request has been made.

Couldn't Buy Car So Made His Own

OSHAWA, Oct. 5 (CP)—William Sabyan wanted a car but hadn't the money to buy one. He began making one instead.

Now—three years later—Sabyan has completed a sleek sports car which he estimates cost $8,500 in labor and materials.

"It was a lot of work but I enjoyed every bit of it," said the Hungarian-born Sabyan, an ardent racing car fan and top-notch mechanic.

The two-seater model is 17½ feet long and weighs between 3,600 and 4,000 pounds.

Eager For Battle Liberals Say, Vote Idiotic - CCF

TORONTO, Oct. 5. (CP)—Ontario votes Nov. 22 in its 24th general election since Confederation and the first in November in its history as a province. Nomination day is Nov. 8. The long-expected announcement, made simultaneously late Thursday in Toronto by Attorney-General Porter and in Kingston by Premier Frost, immediately set the political pot boiling. Premier Frost, in his 2,000-word statement calling the election, said he desired a personal mandate from the electors. George Drew, now Federal leader of the Progressive Conservatives, led the party to victory in Ontario in the last Provincial election, held in June, 1948.

E. B. Jolliffe, CCF Opposition leader in the Legislature just dissolved, termed the November election "idiotic" and said his party asks for "a thumping majority and a mandate to form the next government of Ontario."

Liberal leader Walter Thomson said his party is "ready and willing" for the fray. He said he intends to refrain from personalities in his campaigning and to "deal only with the issues."

Welfare Minister Goodfellow, speaking Thursday night in Welland, said provincial grants to municipalities this year amount to $100,000,000 compared with $23,000,000 in 1943.

The night's political activity also saw E. Elmer Brandon nominated as Progressive Conservative candidate in the Toronto area riding of York West, held in the last House by C. H. Millard, CCF, and the nomination of Ellis Morningstar as Progressive Conservative candidate for the Welland seat won in the last election by Harold W. Walker, a Liberal.

Formal Dissolution

On Saturday, Lieutenant-Governor Ray Lawson will formally dissolve the Legislature, the province's 23rd. Party standing in the 90-member House, unchanged from the 1948 election, is: Progressive Conservative, 53; CCF, 21; Liberal, 13; Labor-Progressive, 2; Liberal-Labor, 1.

Mr. Frost indicated in his statement that he intended to appeal to the 3,000,000 eligible voters, 375,000 more than in 1948, on the record of his administration. He listed its achievements as hydro-electric power expansion, improvement in relations with the federal government, housing construction, conservation, old age pensions, education, improving rural telephone service and the lowest provincial taxation in Canada.

He said the problems ahead—and the election issues from the government standpoint—included solution of federal-provincial tax problems, municipal financing, forest management and conservation, development of natural resources, construction of the St. Lawrence Seaway in collaboration with the federal government and Quebec.

Mr. Thomson, who for months has been challenging the administration to a test of its political popularity, said his campaign will centre on criticism of the government's record and construction proposals. He plans to resign his Federal seat and seek election to the legislature for Ontario riding, which includes Oshawa.

A hint of CCF campaign strategy was given by Mr. Jolliffe, who criticized the premier for calling the election while the work of legislature committees on crime and rent control remained unfinished. He also said the premier had promised last week that the public accounts committee would look into CCF charges of misuse of funds in work on a Northern Ontario fish hatchery.

Peterborough Drama Festival In Spring

Peterborough Drama Festival executive Thursday night called a general meeting of city and district play group representatives for Tuesday October 24 at the city hall to organize the annual spring Festival.

President Peter McCombe, in the chair, said that while the Peterborough Drama Festival had not been officially advised of, or asked to assist in, the Eastern Ontario Drama Festival being held in Peterborough in February, the two festivals complemented each other, and the Regional effort warranted full co-operation from every local person interested in the theatre.

W. A. Brown, treasurer, reported an adequate working capital to start off the next Spring festival. He remarked that the festival last April had been an outstanding success, artistically and as "cracking good entertainment".

Aegean Strategy Split Leaders

NEW YORK, Oct. 5 — (CP) — Winston Churchill says the "most acute difference" he had with Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower in the Second World War concerned strategy in the Aegean Sea in 1943.

In the fall of that year, Churchill wanted to capture the islands of Rhodes and Leros.

The plan was rejected by Gen. Eisenhower and President Roosevelt on the grounds that men and supplies could not be spared from the Italian campaign or the projected plans for the invasion of France.

"Happily," Churchill adds in the fifth volume of his memoirs, the difference of opinion occurred "on a small scale."

But he makes it clear he still thinks he was right and Eisenhower and the late President were wrong.

"I realized—and remain in my heart unconvinced that the capture of Rhodes could not have been fitted in," the former British leader writes. "Nevertheless, with one of the sharpest pangs suffered in the war I submitted."

Stock Market Prices Mixed In Toronto

TORONTO, Oct. 5. (CP)—Investor hesitation before the long weekend held stock market prices mixed and irregular today in early afternoon dealings.

Volume for the first three hours was 3,650,000 shares.

Miscellaneous industrials formed the market's strongest section as papers turned mixed. Utilities, liquors, refining oils, banks, textiles and manufacturing companies showed little trend. Agricultures, constructions and steels weakened. Retail stores were unchanged.

Western oils dipped moderately. Devon-Leduc, Petrol Gas and Security Free countered the trend with gains to 40 cents.

Base Metals eased from earlier gains. Consolidated Smelters, Quemont and United Keno Hill slipped fractions. Barvue, Labrador and Torbritt dipped pennies. International Nickel and Waite Amulet climbed fractions. Senior golds were firm. Hollinger, Kerr Addison, Teck Hughes and Wright-Hargreaves headed upward while Dome and Giant Yellowknife eased.

Major Gains

Front-line dispatches from the western front reported these major gains Friday in the third day of the drive:

1. The US Third Division took a key hill in the centre of the line—without firing a shot.

2. Just south of the third the US First Cavalry Division beat off a series of pre-dawn counter-attacks, and captured three hills north of Yonchon in the daylight. At nightfall they were fighting counter-attacking Chinese trying to recapture one of the hills.

3. The Commonwealth Division made gains of up to 1½ miles in the sector reaching from Yonchon seven miles south to the 38th parallel. They fought off one Red counter-attack late in the day.

Maj.-Gen. A. J. H. Cassels, commander of the division, said he was pleased with the performance of his forces, operating for the first time as a division.

"Things were a bit sticky on the first day," Cassels said. "But after that we moved on."

He reported 50 prisoners were taken by his men in the three-day advance.

Friday's ground action started with a series of Red counter-attacks, directed against the 3rd Division and the 1st Cavalry Division.

Aimed At Centre

Three battalions of Reds—about 3,000 men—poured down at the cavalrymen from 2:40 am until dawn. These counter-attacks were aimed at the centre of the UN offensive.

The Allies were driving into the Communists' favorite assembly area for western offensives of their own. This is where the Reds would build up for a new major campaign to recapture Seoul, former South Korean capital.

Reports from the eastern front Friday said the Reds were planning a new win-the-war offensive for Oct. 23. Other reports, possibly only rumors, said a Red offensive was set for next Friday.

The Oct. 23 date was reported by anti-Communist North Koreans. They attributed it to North Korean political officers. These Reds also were quoted as saying there would be no truce in Korea in the immediate future.

Official forecasts issued by the Dominion public weather office at 9.30 a.m. EST today.

Synopsis:

This morning's weather map resembles a rugby field. Polar air dominates most of Canada and the north central states, while very warm tropical air has caused an early October heat wave in Southern Ontario. The line of scrimmage between these two opposing forces has been almost stationary for several days across Central Ontario and Michigan. However the Atlantic hurricane which is lashing the east coast of the United States is calling the play for the beginning of the holiday weekend. As it moves northeastward along the New England coast the polar air will gain yards today and by Saturday morning will have scored a touchdown, dropping temperatures over the Lower Lakes 10 to 15 degrees.

Regional forecasts valid until midnight Saturday:

Lake Erie, Southern Lake Huron, Lake Ontario and Niagara regions; Windsor, London, Toronto and Hamilton cities:

Sunny and very warm today. Sunny with a few cloudy intervals and cooler Saturday. Winds light. Low tonight and high Saturday at Windsor, London, St. Thomas, Toronto and Trenton 55 and 70, Hamilton and St. Catharines 60 and 70.

Royal Gifts To Have Canadian Touch

By The Canadian Press

The accent will be on "something to remember us by" as Canadian cities, provinces and organizations present a variety of gifts to Princess Elizabeth and the Duke of Edinburgh during the Royal tour of the Dominion.

Many of the presents will have a distinctive local nature. BC is to present the Princess with a necklace and matched ear-rings in platinum and gold, set with emeralds and diamonds, in a design of dogwood blossoms—the provincial flower.

To the Duke, British Columbia will give gold cuff-links and studs, in a dogwood design with a diamond centre, and a cohoe salmon fishing rod and tackle.

An Indian sweater and mocassins for Prince Charles and Princess Anne respectively will be given to their parents.

Vancouver's mayor will present Prince Philip with a silver bowl engraved with the city's crest. Princess Elizabeth will receive a golden spade after planting an oak tree from Windsor Castle in Queen Elizabeth Park in Vancouver.

Gets Totem Pole

An Indian girl will present the Princess with a totem pole when she meets North Shore children in Vancouver's Stanley Park.

Children from Nanaimo, on Vancouver Island, will present two silver cups for Prince Charles and Princess Anne.

Saskatchewan will present illuminated addresses to the Duke and Princess.

The Province of Alberta and the City of Edmonton, which will combine in presenting gifts to the Royal couple, will keep the gifts a secret until they are presented.

The city of Ottawa is following a similar plan in not announcing its gifts until the presentation. The Federal government and the Province of Manitoba have not yet decided on their gifts.

Ottawa has announced, however, that it will give a Royal Blue windbreaker with a civic crest to Prince Charles, and a pair of baby-blue blankets, also with a civic crest and her coronet, to Princess Anne.

Something Different

Hull, Que., across the river, will give the Royal couple a deluxe copy of a book on the history of Hull. Montreal's gift will be an ornately-carved wooden box containing a map of the route through the city that will be taken by Princess Elizabeth and Prince Philip.

Neither Quebec province nor Quebec city has yet announced its gifts. However, Quebec's Regiment de la Chaudiere, of which Princess Elizabeth is Colonel-in-Chief, will present her with a specially-bound book on the history of the unit.

Toronto plans to give Princess Elizabeth a diamond-studded brooch, set in a Maple Leaf design, and has diamond-set cuff-links, similarly designed, for the Duke of Edinburgh.

To Be Given Painting

The Royal couple will also receive a painting from Toronto to be hung in Clarence House. The painting has not yet been selected.

Halifax will give Princess Elizabeth a necklace, a bracelet and ring of Nova Scotia agate, set in silver, designed by Provincial artists. The Duke will be given cuff-links and a tie clip of matching materials.

New Brunswick's gift, to be presented at Fredericton, will be a set of matched motor rugs in Air Force tartan colors and bearing the Royal crest. Saint John, N.B., will give the couple a demi-tasse set of pottery made in that city.

Silver keys, handmade from a solid block of the purest silver obtainable, are to be handed to the Princess and the Duke when they visit the RCAF station at Trenton.

"Regrettably I have not sufficient dollar funds to sue Dr. Keenleyside. I can only publicly call him a slanderer. I hope and beg he will file charges against me in Germany."

Schacht, president of Hitler's Reichsbank and later finance minister, said no charge of crimes against humanity had been brought against him during the Nurnberg trials.

First Yankees

Mantle bunted Jansen's first pitch past the mound and was credited with a drag-bunt single as Jansen made a futile headlong dive in an attempt to field the ball. Rizzuto beat out a bunt down the first base line and Mantle, who had stopped at second, continued to third when Lockman threw wildly past Stanky after first bobbling the bunt. It was credited as a hit for Rizzuto and an error for Lockman. McDougald looped a humpback single in short right scoring Mantle and sending Rizzuto to second. DiMaggio rapped sharply to Dark who started a double play, the shortstop to Stanky to Lockman with Rizzuto advancing to third. Berra struck out missing a sharp sinker but had to be tagged out by catcher Westrum who had dopped the third strike.

One runs, three hits, one error, one left.

Second Giants

Irvin drove a long single to left-centre and only a nice stop by DiMaggio prevented the blow from being an extra base. On the third pitch to Lockman, Irvin stole second sliding in under Berra's one-bounce throw to Rizzuto. It was his second stolen base of the series. Lockman hit back to Lopat who bluffed Irvin back to second, then threw to Collins to retire the batter. Brown stopped Mays' hard shot and threw him out as Irvin was forced to hold second. Brown also scooped up Westrum's roller and threw across the diamond to Collins for the putout.

No runs, one hit, no errors, one left.

Second Yankees

Woodling flied to Irvin who, apparently bothered by the wind, staggered around a bit before he gathered in the towering fly. Brown bounced out, Stanky to Lockman. Collins, swinging at a one and two pitch, lofted a towering home run into the fourth row of the lower right field stands to increase the Yankees' lead to 2-0. Lockman fielded Lopat's 2-bounce hopper and beat the pitcher to the bag for the unassisted putout.

One run, one hit, no errors, none left.

Third Giants

Thompson bounced out, Collins to Lopat who covered first. Jansen raised a soft fly to DiMaggio in right-centre. Stanky drew the game's first walk. Dark flied to Woodling who made the catch just inside the left field foul line.

No runs, no hits, no errors, one left.

Third Yankees

Mantle went down swinging. Rizzuto hit Jansen's first pitch up in the air to Irvin in short left. McDougald sent a hot liner to Thomson who plucked the ball off his shoetops.

No runs, no hits, no errors, none left.

Fourth Giants

Thomson looked at two called strikes, then raised a soft fly to DiMaggio in straight centre. McDougald ran out into short centre to gather in Irvin's pop fly. Lockman grounded sharply to short and was retired, Rizzuto to Collins.

No runs, no hits, no errors, none left.

Fourth Yankees

DiMaggio went down swinging, looking at the first strike then missing the next two, all of them curved balls. Berra tapped over the pitcher's mound, but Dark came in fast to make a swell stop at the edge of the infield grass and retired the runner with a quick underhand throw to Lockman. Mays retreated a few paces to get under Woodling's long fly in centre.

No runs, no hits, no errors, none left.

Fifth Giants

Mays flied to DiMaggio in right-centre. Mantle, who also made a try for the ball, tripped and fell plat on his face. It looked like he had turned his ankle. DiMaggio immediately motioned for help and a stretcher was brought out. The young rookie outfielder was borne back on the stretcher by his teammates to the Yankee dugout. Hank Bauer replaced Mantle in right field for the Yankees, Westrum flied to Woodling close to the left field stands just inside the foul line. Lopat used only three pitches to make Thompson his first strikeout victim. Hank missed the first two then looked at a third strike.

No runs, no hits, no errors, none left.

Fifth Yankees

Stanky moved in for Brown's hopper and tossed him out at first. Thomson leaned over into the field boxes behind third to make a nice catch of Collins' foul fly. Lopat looked at a wide sweeping curve for a third strike.

No runs, no hits, no errors, none left.

Sixth Giants

It was announced that Mantle had sprained his right knee which was immediately placed in splints. X-rays will be taken later to determine the extent of the injury. Jansen popped to McDougald behind second base. Stanky hit a curve at the end of his bat and tapped it meekly to Lopat who threw him out, Dark lined a single into left for the Giants' second hit. Thomson went out on a long drive to DiMaggio in left-centre.

No runs, one hit, no errors, one left.

Sixth Yankees

Dark scooted to his left to grab Bauer's hot shot past the mound and threw to Lockman for the out. Thomson also raced to his left to make a fancy pickup of Rizzutto's sharp grounder and threw him out. It was now announced that Mantle will not be taken to hospital for X-rays. The injury is not as serious as originally feared. McDougald struck out, swinging at a fast breaking curve to become Jansen's fifth strikeout.

No runs, no hits, no errors, none left.

Seventh Giants

Irvin smashed a ground single through the middle of the diamond for his second hit of the game and sixth hit of the series. Berra made a game try for Lockman's short foul that landed just inside the stands at the left of home plate. Lockman lined a single over second into centre and Irvin, who had headed for third, had to scamper back to second as DiMaggio came in fast to field the ball.

Mays bunted the second pitch down the third base line and Brown, with a fine throw to Rizzuto, forced Lockman at second as Irvin moved to third. Mays beat Rizzuto's throw to first. It was not ruled a sacrifice despite Irvin moving to third since a runner was forced. Westrum walked on a full count to load the bases. Bill Rigney, a right-handed batter, went in to hit for Thompson, a lefthanded swinger. Hank Schenz ran for Westrum. Rigney swung at and missed a low outside curve. Rigney this time looked at a low outside curve for a ball. Rigney hit the third pitch to Bauer in deep right-centre, Irvin scoring easily after the catch as Mays raced to third and Schenz remained at first. Ray Noble was called in from the bullpen to bat for Jansen. He's a righthanded batter. Noble sent a vicious foul grounder wide of third base. He fouled the next pitch into the stands near the Giants' dugout. Noble went out on a short pop foul to Berra behind the plate.

One run, two hits, no errors, two left.

Seventh, Yankees

George Spencer, a righthander, went in to pitch; Clint Hartung went in to play right field; and Noble went behind the plate for the Giants.

Noble will bat ninth; Hartung will bat in seventh, and Spencer in eighth place.

DiMaggio's bounced Spencer's second pitch down to Thomson who threw him out.

Berra grounded sharply to Stanky who threw to Lockman for the putout.

Dark fielded Woodling's high chopper near second base and threw him out.

The last 16 Yankees have now gone out in order.

No runs, no hits, no errors, none left.

Eighth Giants

Stanky popped to Collins inside first base.

Dark raised a high fly to Woodling in left-centre.

Thomson made a half-hearted swing at a curved ball and tapped it down the third base line to Brown whose throw to first was high but Collins stretched out and made a gloved-hand catch to retire the batter.

No runs, no hits, no errors, none left.

16 Canadians Cited For Gallantry

OTTAWA, Oct. 5—(CP)—Sixteen Canadian soldiers, including a twice-wounded private who showed "extraordinary courage," have been cited for gallantry and outstanding service in action in Korea.

With the exception of one, all the soldiers are alive and with their units in Korea, the army said yesterday in announcing the award of a Distinguished Conduct Medal, four Military Medals and 11 "Mentions-in-Dispatches."

The distinction of being the fightingest went to Pte. Wayne Robert Mitchell of Virden, Man., a member of the 2nd Battalion, Princess Patricia's Canadian Light Infantry.

A 21-year-old former Hydro worker, Mitchell Bren-gunned one "overwhelming" Red assault to a halt, carried a wounded man to safety, rushed a Chinese position firing the Bren gun from the hip to relieve a group of wounded men who were pinned down, covered his platoon's withdrawal by drawing enemy fire, and refused to be evacuated after four enemy assaults.

All this despite his being twice wounded himself.

He stayed at his post throughout a long night on April 25 at Kapyong. "At daylight," said the citation, "Pte. Mitchell could hardly stand for loss of blood."

The four 25th Brigade members to win Military Medals included three drivers for forward observation officers, the men who go up with the infantry to see that they get supporting gunfire when they need it.

The three were L. Bdr. Allan Osborn King, 24, of North Augusta, Ont.; Gnr. Arthur Martin Garaughty, 23, of Rosemount, Que.; and Gnr. Kenneth Wilfred Wishart, 28, of Ochre River, Man. All are members of the 2nd Regiment, Royal Canadian Horse Artillery.

The fourth Military Medal went to Pte. John Archibald Sargent, 25, of Owen Sound, a member of the 2nd Battalion, Royal Canadian Regiment.

All M.M. winners are lauded for their example of bravery under fire and accepting responsibility beyond the call of duty.

The Mention in Dispatches were given to the late Maj. J. L. Y. Dube, Royal 22nd Regiment, Three Rivers and St. Jean, Que.; Capt. C. A. MacGillivray, 33, R.C.H.A., Victoria and Port Arthur, Ont.; Lieut. J. F. O. Plouffe, 27, Royal 22nd, Montreal and Millet, Ont.; Lieut. T. R. Webb, 25, of Brigade H.Q., Hamilton; WO2 G. H. Fuller, 30, R.C.R., Montreal and Sherbrooke, Que.; Staff Sgt. Robert Henderson, 31, Intelligence Corps, Toronto; Sgt. J. C. Carson, 31, R.C.A.S.C., Turner Valley, Alta., and Halifax; Cpl. J. A. Polio Quarantine Questioned By Doctors

LINDSAY—Although there is a compulsory quarantine for polio in Lindsay, doctors here are questioning the value of placing families of polio victims under quarantine.

It was announced Thursday from Toronto that a Lindsay man, Harry Wilson was in Riverdale Isolation Hospital suffering from polio. He is in an iron lung and his condition is reported as critical.

Dr. Gleeson, Medical Officer of Health, stated that his office had only been advised at noon Thursday that Mr. Wilson's condition had been diagnosed as polio. As Mrs. Wilson and her son had both left the home here since her husband had been stricken, Dr. Gleeson said it was unlikely that the home would be quarantined.

Two cases of polio were reported earlier this fall and both families were quarantined for nine days. In one instance, a member of the family who was away at work was brought home and also placed under quarantine.

Acts On Orders

Pointing out that he is responsible only to the Medical Officer of Health, Sanitary Inspector Alex Kiner said that if and when Dr. Gleeson's office issues the order, he will be obliged to quarantine the home whether it is occupied or not.

The physician attending Mr. Wilson says he is doubtful of the value of quarantine as there is very little known about the cause and spread of the disease and added that he did not think the Wilson home would be quarantined.

A spokesman for the Riverdale Isolation Hospital admitted that the regulations "didn't make sense" but the Department of Health states that all polio victims must be isolated for seven days. In addition, the isolation hospital official said that all persons having contact with the victim must also be isolated for a period of seven days.

However the breadwinner of the family is exempted from this ruling and allowed to continue working, providing he takes up some other residence while the home is under quarantine.

Hospital Beds Are All Filled

CAMPBELLFORD, Oct. 5 — (ENS). — The first four days of this month resulted in somewhat of a record for the Campbellford hospital. The institution, chiefly a maternity hospital, was filled to overflowing this week with new arrivals and emregncy patients. The normal capacity of the hospital is eight patients and five bassinettes, but for a short time this week the number of patients and babies was almost double the capacity. Extra nurses were pressed into duty.

The situation revealed the need for completion of the new 38-bed hospital, at present in process of construction. The new building is about ready for occupancy. The opening has long been delayed, and lack of funds has hampered the hospital board. The Town Council recently sold a $20,000 debenture, in addition to the amount given previously.

Frost Seeks Re-Election On Basis Of PC Record

KINGSTON, Oct. 5—(CP)—Premier Frost launched his campaign for the Nov. 22 Ontario election Thursday night, proclaiming that his Progressive Conservative Government seeks support on the basis of its record of progress and its old age pensions legislation.

He spoke to a Progressive Conservative meeting a few hours after he announced the election date in Kingston simultaneously with an announcement in Toronto, handled in his absence by Attorney-General Porter.

The premier in effect told the United States to come in on the St. Lawrence seaway project or get out of the way and let Canada, a great nation in its own right, get on with the job.

The seaway is certain, he said, and regardless of what the US does, Canada will be committed irrevocably to the project by Jan. 1. Men would be working on it in a few months.

The governments of Canada, Ontario and Quebec were anxious to get on with the project that would make Kingston one of the great ports of America, and provide Ontario with 1,250,000 additional horsepower of hydro-electric energy.

Predicts Development

The premier forecast tremendous development of Ontario's mineral resources. Bethlehem Steel Corporation of the US planned to invest $10,000,000 in iron ore deposits in Eastern Ontario, but would only scratch the surface. Algoma district ranges contained 1,000,000 tons of known iron ore deposits, and that could be multiplied by a dozen at least.

It was fitting that he should announce the election date in Kingston, cradle of Conservatism in Ontario and Canada, said the premier, acknowledging that his political inspiration came from the life of Sir John A. Macdonald. He visited the grave of Canada's first prime minister here earlier in the day.

Ontario was the first province to implement the agreement with the Federal Government for old age pensions without a means test to all persons 70 and over and for means-test pensions for those between 65 and 69.

Royal Visit Affects Conventions

By FORBES RHUDE,
Canadian Press Business Editor.

When Winnipeg welcomes Princess Elizabeth and the Duke of Edinburgh Oct. 16, it will be helped by a few hundred people who didn't expect to be members of a welcoming party.

In fact, they expected to be welcomed themselves.

They will be the delegates attending the annual meeting Oct. 16-18 of the Canadian Woollen and Knit Goods Manufacturers Association.

When the Association found that its convention coincided with the royal tour, it quickly realized that Oct. 16 in Winnipeg will allow little time for business conventions, but, with some changes, they will go ahead. In the words of George H. Carr, of Sherbrooke, Que., the Association's president:

"We'll reschedule our main events for Oct. 16 and 17. Instead of being welcomed to Winnipeg Oct. 16, our delegates and their ladies will join the citizens of Winnipeg in offering a memorable welcome to the royal couple."

The Association represents 550 mills in many communities across Canada. And planned the Winnipeg meeting "to honor the development of that city as an important textile centre."

Other Conventions.

Dates of two other conventions scored what might be termed "near-missess' on the visit, though their delegates travelling across country may run into the tour here or there.

The Canadian Chamber of Commerce meets in Quebec Oct. 30-Nov. 1, when the tour will be in Montreal and Washington; and some of the Chamber delegates will be in Quebec several days earlier for preliminary meetings.

The Canadian Industrial Preparedness Associatiin meets in Toronto Nov. 8-9, including a visit to Camp Borden, dates on which the tour will be in the Maritimes.

The Canadain Manufactureres' Association, which meets in the spring, had no such worries. It announces its dates for May 28-30, in Toronto.

This will avoid conflicting with the Canadain International Trade Fair in Toronto June 2-13, but at the same time will come close enough to allow delegates to stay over for the fair.

Peterborough WMS Visits Branch At Keene

KEENE, Oct. 5—(ENS)—The Women's Missionary Society of Keene United church at their October meeting entertained the members of the WMS of St. Andrew's church, Peterborough.

The president, Mrs. H. MacFarlane, extended a welcome to the ladies, and read a poem entitled "Autumn". The thankoffering was received by Mrs. F. Nelson and dedicated by Mrs. H. B. Herrington.

The worship and program was in charge of St. Andrew's WMS with Mrs. F. W. K. Harris presiding. Mrs. Munroe conducted the worship service. Mrs. D. Kenny, at the piano, played "Rising Sun", "Night Visions", and "Indian Lullaby." Mrs. Harris spoke on the hymns of the church, pointing out the spiritual message in several of the hymns. Mrs. Wright moved a vote of thanks to the visiting auxiliary. Refreshments were served by the social committee.

The War In Korea Goes On

The war in Korea has been resumed with fury, and all hope of an armistice seems to have vanished in a storm of gun-fire. Allied troops thus face another winter in Korea and another bitter winter campaign. It is sad that this should be so. The Chinese have had many months to come to terms with the American high command; they have not done so.

• • •

Cold weather has come early to Korea this year and many of the Allied troops have been caught unprepared for the chilly nights in their high positions on mist-shrouded hills. As one observer on the Korean front has cabled, there is plenty of winter gear in Korea but the early arrival of the first cold weather caught the Q.M. Stores unawares. Supplies are now being rushed forward.

• • •

The new campaign may—may—bring war to a quick close by putting the Reds to utter rout and crushing them by the force of superior Allied armament. But it may also lead the vast Chinese nation to pour in more troops and more guns, and unleash Russia-supplied planes. If this happens the campaign could continue into the winter. The U.N. forces are very much better prepared this autumn than last to deal with their enemies—because of both their tactical situation and their equipment against foul weather. They have a strong, closely-integrated line; their lines of communication are good, and across most of the front all-weather roads have been built. Further, the Allied troops are now tougher and more resourceful than they were last winter; they have had (and among them are the Princess Pats, now in the van of attack) a year's experience, in the mountains, in bad weather, and against inferior but wily and sometimes very nasty Red soldiers.

• • •

The war begins again. What is the objective? The U.N. objective is to defeat aggression. The fighting is now north of the 38th parallel, and South Korea, for whose presumed sake the United States went to war, is virtually free of North Korean and Chinese troops. Therefore, the aim must now be to defeat utterly those who were aggressors, but were forced to give up their aggression in South Korea by the might of the West. Aggression has been stopped, but the offenders still bear arms, even if on Red terrain, against the men and policies of the political democracies of the West.

Definition Of A College

Now that Peterborough's old Nicholls Hospital, which faithfully served generations of this city and district until replaced a year ago by the new Civic Hospital; now that venerable hospital has been bought by the Pentecostal Assemblies in Canada and re-opened as the "Eastern Pentecostal Bible College," Peterborough people might be interested in having a concise definition of the word 'college.' The Pocket Oxford dictionary gives this: "Body of colleagues (e.g. Pope's council of cardinals); corporation of scholars (usually master, fellows, scholars and ordinary students) forming part or sometimes the whole of a university; school for boys with similar foundation (e.g. Eton); (name assumed by) other educational institutions."

City Officials Look Around

Mayor Swanston, Alderman Waddell, chairman of the special housing committee, and Alderman Braund took a jaunt to Owen Sound on Wednesday to look at the housing blocks which that corporation has put up recently. Officials of many Ontario municipalities are casting calculating eyes at the Owen Sound project. This new housing, designed for elderly couples, is reported to be pleasant, convenient and well-equipped; and the apartments have been built to rent at $22-$24 a month, with heavy Federal Government financial backing.

Peteroorough stands in need of two kinds of new housing—rental houses for families; and homelike, self-contained places for elderly couples. The Owen Sound housing blocks have therefore two features of interest to Peterborough: their low building cost (an example when new rental houses are built) and as designs for the future. Peterborough must face up to the problem, becoming more serious each year, of making available proper unit-housing for the elderly.

We approve of these official visits outside Peterborough's own bailiwick. It is well to learn and see how the rest of the world is getting along. To discover how another place solves its problems, improves itself and sets up buildings, can be of practical benefit to Peterborough.

We still regret that local persons connected with selecting designs for the new city hall did not accept our suggestion made a year before plans were hatched, and pay a visit to Hilversum in Holland, Stockholm in Sweden, and some American cities which have fine modern civic buildings. Such a sponsored visit might have cost the city two or three thousand dollars, but it would have been a tiny item in the three-quarters of a million-dollar bill for the new hall and its site. These official travellers might have come back with the inspiration to promote an even finer and perhaps more outstanding building than the conservatively admirable block to be proudly opened four weeks from today.

From The Curtain To Canada

Last month a Czechoslovakian train, heading west to the German boundary, failed on purpose to stop at the last Czech station and pounded its way right through the Iron Curtain into western Germany. On board were 32 Czechs, some of them trainmen, who had a desire to eat the bread and drink the wine that the West offers. All the others on the train, either fearing reprisals on relatives left at home or liking their own way of life and country well enough, were shipped back. The thirty-two went to a refugee camp. The next problem was to find a country which would put them up. Canada volunteered, and so the dashing thirty-two will, we presume, be shipped to this country soon.

People with enough drive to steam past the forbidden frontier and become hostages to Western fortune, deserve good fortune and should become good citizens. Canada's gesture in accepting them is praiseworthy. We hope that they will like our bread and wine—and earn it virtuously.

Hoarse Cry For Blood

It is only now and then that we permit ourselves to read the passion-drenched prose of Mr. Elmore Philpott, who writes a column for the Vancouver Sun; like eating too much rare meat, it is likely to bring on indigestion. It has come to our attention, however, that Mr. Philpott does not think much of the system by which blood is collected for use in emergencies in this country, and he wants a different one—one which makes the donation of blood compulsory. So far this contains no surprises: Mr. Philpott is always in a violent sweat about something, and he dearly loves anything which is compulsory.

He invites his readers to imagine a scene in which a car crashes and "a little, golden-haired girl is hurled," bleeding copiously, at the reader's feet. (We should be equally shocked if a middle-aged, bald-headed man were bleeding at our feet, but Mr. Philpott likes to pile on the agony with his gory tot, and we shall not gainsay him.) Would the reader save the child with his own blood, Mr. Philpott asks. But this is nonsense; the reader would be in no position to do it; his best plan would be to cover the child with something, shout for help, and dash to the nearest telephone to call a doctor and an ambulance.

Mr. Philpott, however, is afraid that blood for the child might not be available. So what does he suggest? Compulsory blood donations and this pretty scheme:

"I would like to see squads of the prettiest girls in town going down the main streets ganging up on healthy young men and taking the blood from them, right there on the spot, in parked cars, like the travelling X-ray clinics."

Heaven defend the country from Mr. Philpott's enfranchised vampires! Choosing suitable blood donors is not a job for pretty girls travelling in gangs; if they are interested in blood banks, they are at liberty to contribute blood of their own. The Red Cross will accommodate anyone who wishes to contribute to this very important service—provided that they are fit and suitable persons to give blood.

In the friendliest way possible, we recommend sedatives and rest for Mr. Philpott. His passions are preying upon his reason, and if this continues he will soon be past the power of blood-transfusions to cure.

Notes And Queries

By ALPHA

Questions are solicited for this column particularly those relating to local lore and tradition.

DEAR ALPHA: Many of our county roads are disfigured by unsightly masses of dead vegetation, the result of spraying the borders. I am told that this is done to discourage (in the Churchillian style) the insects. It seems that the damage to plant life is too severe and the abatement of insect pests too unnoticeable to warrant these measures. What do you think?

ANSWER: I think like you, that the damage to pleasant innocent verdure on the roadsides has been excessive. But you misinterpret the reason for spraying; it is to kill and control weeds, not insects. Actually, the damage done to trees and shrubs could have been avoided; the sprayers were inexperienced, made little or no allowance for wind, and often shot high and carelessly. As a result, for instance along the Chemong Road, branches and even limbs of fine spruce trees have been killed, inside the fence and off the verges.

Roadside spraying by township and county authority has gone on in other parts of the province with very great success for many years. Peterborough county is late starting, and therefore the weeds in pastures and crops—spreading from the roadsides — have increased in variety and numbers. They are becoming a real menace.

An instance of this spread of weeds, and introduction of new ones is to be seen all over Armour Hill. There a new weed to this district has raised its harmful head—Goat's Beard. Five years ago there was none in the county at all. Now it is spreading along roadsides and into fields and from Armour Hill to the four winds. If its progress is not checked drastically it will cut into crops and pastures seriously. Another new weed, particularly heavy around Springville, is Wild Carrot, which is taking possession of the pastures there.

Properly handled, the weed sprays need not disfigure rural roads and highways.

✧ ✧ ✧

DEAR ALPHA: Last Tuesday there was a magnificent display of Northern Lights—really beautiful. Can you tell me what is the latest scientific explanation of them?

ANSWER: I still prefer to believe that they are the reflection of the midnight sun (in hiding) on icebergs and the polar cap. However, I must think otherwise.

I read in an article on them that recent investigations have shown the aurora borealis to be produced by electrical disturbances in the upper air, at an average altitude of around 100 miles, though some have been observed as high as 400-500 miles. "The ultimate cause appears to lie in the sun-spots whose electrical radiations, in approaching the earth, are brought down in a curved path by the influence of the magnetic poles of the earth. A large sun-spot which causes a powerful magnetic storm on earth will nearly always produce a brilliant aurora."

The zone of greatest frequency seems to be a belt 25 degrees away from the magnetic north pole, at a latitude of about 70 degrees in Europe and of 60 degrees in America. Thus it is that Europeans seldom see Northern Lights, because they do not come as far south there as in North America. And presumably they do not come as far south in Europe because they are under the influence of the magnetic Pole, and the magnetic north pole is in Canada (Hudson Bay area), well south of the geographic (true) North Pole.

The Northern Lights of last Tuesday week were spectacularly variegated. The peculiar green hue of the auroral luminosity lies probably in the action of the electrical bombardment upon particles of oxygen and helium in the upper atmosphere where the air is extremely cold as well as in a highly rarefied condition.

By the way, there are Northern Lights at the South Pole too, called by natives, if there were any natives around to see them, Southern Lights, I presume. Their actual name is aurora australis (from Latin 'Auster'—south wind). It is less well-known, merely because the land of the southern hemisphere does not stretch far enough south to make it easily observable.

SIR: What are the complete titles and styles of Princess Elizabeth and the Duke of Edinburgh?

ANSWER: Her Royal Highness Princess Elizabeth Alexandra Mary, Duchess of Edinburgh, Lady of the Most Noble Order of the Garter, Member of the Imperial Order of the Crown of India and a Dame Grand Cross of the Venerable Order of St. John of Jerusalem. She is Colonel of the Grenadier Guards, and Colonel-in-Chief of the 16/5 Lancers, the Argyle and Sutherland Highlanders, the Royal Durban Light Infantry, the Railways and Harbours Brigade (of South Africa), the 48th Highlanders of Canada, le Regiment de la Chaudiere (Canada) and Chief Ranger of the Girl Guides. She is an honorary Senior Controller of the A.T.S., President of the Royal College of Music and of the Royal Society of Arts; she is a Bachelor of Music (University of London) and a Doctor of Civil Law, University of Oxford.

His Royal Highness Prince Philip, Duke of Edinburgh, Earl of Merioneth and Baron Greenwich, Knight of the Most Noble Order of the Garter, personal A.D.C. to the King; who holds the Order to the Redeemer, St. George and St. Constantine, George I and the Phoenix, of Greece; and of the Elephant of Denmark. He is Chancellor of the University of Wales, President of the Royal Society, and a Commander in the Royal Navy.

The Duke of Edinburgh had most of his titles bestowed on him the day before his marriage on November 20, 1947. He is the only son of H.R.H. the late Prince Andrew of Greece and Denmark, G.C.V.O., and of H.R.H. Princess (Victoria) Alice Elizabeth Julia Marie, elder daughter of the 1st Marquess of Milford Haven. He renounced his rights to the Thrones of Greece and Denmark, and was naturalized a British subject February 28, 1947, adopting the surname of Mountbatten.

✧ ✧ ✧

FOR THE RECORD: What really beautiful days the Princess and the Duke are missing! The last three, warm, moist and light, have had a delectable southern English quality. Usually English nature poetry does not truly reflect Canadian environment — and that may be the reason poetry is not prized generally in Canada as much as in England, since Canadian pupils are brought up largely on English verse which is not really applicable to the Canadian scene. But these days, Keats's exquisite Ode To Autumn has real meaning for us —

Season of mists and mellow fruitfulness,
Close bosom friend of the maturing sun....

The colours this autumn do not seem to be as gorgeous and vivid as last year; in fact, they are a bit of a disappointment locally. Perhaps the wet summer and the lack of frost have dulled the usual autumn flamboyancy.

"QUICK! MOSSADEGH'S FAINTED AGAIN!"

Green Light For Eastern Ontario

(OTTAWA CITIZEN)

EASTERN Ontario's industrial expansion is no longer a pipe-dream theme to be expounded by a parade of after-dinner speakers. The sixth annual meeting of the Eastern Ontario Associated Boards of Trade has provided the opportunity to show that in the past 18 months, development of this kind has been genuine and encouraging.

In that period, 19 new plants have been established in the Pembroke-Kingston-Cornwall triangle and 15 others have been engaged in expanding their facilities. All told, some $18,000,000 worth of new investment in plant expansion has been poured into the area. Examples of the trend are easy to find. A large Canadian chemical company has located in Maitland; a huge American electrical firm chose Prescott for a new plant; a British valve-making concern picked Perth. Another British company is reported to be surveying sites between Brockville and Belleville while a West German company has been focussing its attention on Arnprior.

There is sound ground for this expansion. Eastern Ontario is in the very centre of a region which possesses important marketing assets for prospective industries. The Ontario-Quebec region has 61.3 per cent. of Canada's population and 63.7 per cent. of its income. Figures for retail sales, manufacturing production and purchases by industry are just as impressive.

Ontario Department of Planning and Development officials have drawn attention to the disposition of top management to look to smaller towns and cities for location and for the worker to be more discriminating in the environment he wants for his wife and family. Modern industrial plants require large acreage, a prerequisite that many already heavily-industrialized areas cannot supply but which is readily available in Eastern Ontario.

A favourable climate for expansion is not enough, however. There must be someone to assess the labour, transportation and market potentialities of the area, document them and "sell" them to newcomers. In this connection, the Eastern Ontario Associated Boards of Trade has played an increasingly aggressive role. As well as preparing statistics and answering inquiries, the organization has hired a fulltime industrial counsellor to present the region's case to industry.

With the prospect of tapping the great power resources of the St. Lawrence River growing, Eastern Ontario is in a better position than ever to attract new plants. The record of the past 18 months may be a signpost to bigger things to come.

Israelis Long For Peace Settlement With Arabs

BY FLORA LEWIS

TEL AVIV (by cable)—Despite the Israeli Government's pessimistic outlook, popular reaction to the Paris efforts towards relaxing tension between Arabs and Jews has been encouraging.

Surprisingly, no Israeli paper has flatly condemned the Palestine Conciliation Commission's suggestion that some Arab refugees be repatriated to Israel as part of a general settlement.

There is deep anxiety here to put an end to the fragile but well-armed truce, less because of fear of further hostilities than because of the intense strain continued mobilization is putting on Israel's over-burdened economic resources.

If this weight could be at least partially lifted, and especially if trade could begin again with surrounding Arab States, the country's present bleak supply prospects would be very much brightened. Many peopl who would have been flatly against the idea some time ago have now begun to feel that a return of some Arabs would not be too high a price to pay for such relief.

Nevertheless, Israelis feel that Arabs who fled are not likely to harbour much love for Israel and the sentiment is surely mutual. From the Israeli point of view the Arabs who might come back cannot expect the Government to divert scarce housing materials allocated for the care of new immigrants to look after repatriates. And in a country so poor in resources that everyone needs help, the Arabs are not likely to find it easy to shift for themselves.

Territorial changes will be more difficult to swallow. They feel that they have a right of blood to whatever land they hold since, despite the United Nations partition decision they had to fight to have anything at all.

There are possibilities for exchanges which, however, would have to involve more than one Arab State and require agreement among the Arabs that gains by one of their members could be counted to offset loss by another. In the recent state of tension within the Arab League such a united front is unlikely. But the Israeli Government not only would not, but could not, give up any important slices of territory without being able to show its people it had achieved a clear and permanent exchange; that is to say, that Syrian border ambitions might conceivably be satisfied against Israeli gains at Egypt's expense in Gaza—of little value to Egypt but an obvious strategic menace to Israel.

But the Israeli public would almost certainly not back a Government which would consider granting territory to Syria simply in return for international authority pledged to assure equitable water rights on the Jordan and Yarmuk rivers.

A third key question in any settlement would be compensation to the Arabs who were not repatriated.

There have been vague declarations of willingness to pay, mention of counter-claims and statements of obligation, but these are diplomatic clouds, which scarcely veil the clear fact that Israel cannot afford to pay any significant sum. It would not be a matter of some deprivation while debts are being discharged. Israel has not quite enough to feed itself. So compensation could only be a formula whereby loans or grants were made with which Israel could pay, or an empty reckoning to be scaled off against counter-claims.

Thus without considerably more outside pressure and inducement than has yet been shown the Israeli Government's gloomy view of the current Paris talks seems more justified than popular hopes. However, the Israeli offer of non-aggression pacts with Arab States is meant to emphasize, for local opinion as well as for international observers, that Israel's attitude is not all intransigeance and that the Jews might be willing to do some bargaining if they are offered something to bargain for.

What Israel needs most is peace (even if it is only called non-aggression) but from the Israelis' point of view it must be permanent enough to permit demobilization if it is going to be worth buying.

If the Palestine Conciliation Commission can persuade the Arabs to sell that precious commodity and also persuade the Jews that the transaction is soundly guaranteed, there might be a reassessment here of what concessions can be made. The most encouraging fact thus far has been that the Israeli public appears prepared to support an attempt.

Bible Message

(From the Authorized Version)

Jesus went over the sea of Galilee, which is the sea of Tiberias. And a great multitude followed him, because they saw his miracles which he did on them that were diseased.

And Jesus went up into a mountain, and there he sat with his disciples....When Jesus then lifted up his eyes, and saw a great company come unto him, he saith unto Philip, Whence shall we buy bread, that these may eat? And this he said to prove him: for he himself knew what he would do.

Philip answered him, Two hundred pennyworth of bread is not sufficient for them, that every one of them may take a little. One of his disciples, Andrew, Simon Peter's brother, saith unto him, There is a lad here, which hath five barley loaves, and two small fishes: but what are they among so many?

And Jesus said, Make the men sit down. Now there was much grass in the place. So the men sat down, in number about five thousand. And Jesus took the loaves; and when he had given thanks, he distributed to the disciples, and the disciples to them that were set down; and likewise of the fishes as much as they would.

When they were filled, he said unto his disciples, Gather up the fragments that remain, that nothing be lost. Therefore they gathered them together, and filled twelve baskets with the fragments of the five barley loaves, which remained over and above unto them that had eaten. (John 6: 1-3, 5-13.)

Unconsidered Trifles

Each year for 10 years Mrs. Brown had made her visit to the local church for the christening of the latest addition to the family, and each year she gave the new baby five names.

On the eleventh occasion the vicar, laboriously entering all the names in the register, felt he must protest.

"Now, Mrs. Brown," he told the proud mother, "we can't go on like this, you know. It's the eleventh year in succession that you've come to me in this way. Next year you must bring your own ink."

"Cats, my d. -!" said the spinster. "I hate the very sight of them. I had a sweet little canary and some cat got that. I had a perfect parrot, and some cat got that. I had an adorable fiance once, and—oh, don't mention cats to me!"

"If the consumers take Dalton's advice and don't buy, and the retailers don't buy from the wholesalers, and they won't buy from the manufacturers, who then won't buy from the wool growers, we're going to spend the next 35 days looking like a lot of silly sheep."

Plan Princess Elizabeth Will Spend Two Weeks on Visit to Western Canada

By The Canadian Press

Mile upon mile of forest, rugged mining country, lake and stream separate Kapuskasing and Winnipeg.

Civilization seems remote in the 700 miles of wilderness between the raw pulp and paper town carved out of Northern Ontario's bush country and the Gateway to the Canadian West. The great stretch of frontier land is cut by thin ribbons of steel and dotted here and there with small towns.

The 700-odd miles from Kapuskasing to Winnipeg will be covered by Princess Elizabeth and her husband, the Duke of Edinburgh, in three hours Tuesday, Oct. 16, when they take off in an RCAF plane on the western phase of their month's tour of Canada. The King and Queen passed that way in 1939. But from their train windows, their view was limited. The Prince and Princess will see the country unfolded.

The Royal couple, a strenuous week behind them in Quebec and Ontario, take off at 10 a.m. EST. They land at noon CST.

Bigger City

The 25-year-old Princess and her husband will see a city fully recovered from the effects of the great flood of 1950. And they will see a city greatly expanded in the 12 years since the King and Queen were there. For while Winnipeg still is the West's wheat-trading centre— and its life revolves around the grain trade—much industry has moved there in the last decade.

Ever-present reminders of the flood as the Royal couple tour the city are the dikes, permanent embankments now and not the make-shift sandbags of last year, lining the sluggish Red river on its leisurely sweep from south to north. One of the hardest-hit areas to be visited is the Wildwood Park district in the south.

Greeted on arrival by Lieutenant-Governor R. F. McWilliams, the Princess and the Duke will spend 10½ hours in Winnipeg and in St. Boniface, the city across the Red river that once was largely French-speaking but now is giving way to an influx of English-speaking residents from Winnipeg, where most of them work.

Pay official calls at the city halls of Winnipeg, St. Boniface and St. James, a western suburb; perhaps stop at Deer Lodge Veterans hospital on West Portage Avenue; meet the mayors and reeves of Manitoba municipalities at a luncheon; be tendered a state buffet dinner at Government House and attend a command performance of the Winnipeg Ballet in the Civic Auditorium.

Leave For Regina

From Winnipeg, the Royal couple will travel west in the 10-car special train that they left in Windsor, the previous Sunday night. The Prairies, not unlike the veldt that the Princess saw on her South African trip, will be obscured by darkness and they will see little of the rolling wheatlands, lying fallow now that the crop is in, until morning.

At 10 a.m. MST they reach Regina, Saskatchewan's capital on the open Prairies, which has prepared a gala welcome for an eight-hour visit. From Regina to Moose Jaw, which they reach at 7.30 p.m. for a half-hour station appearance, is an hour's run, then it's on to Swift Current, through the rolling southwest, for a 20-minute stop at 10:05 p.m.

The Royal couple reach Calgary, where the beautiful foothills rise to the west, at 10 a.m. Thursday, Oct. 18. A five-hour program there calls for a downtown parade, a civic luncheon and a "chuck-wagon dinner"—with beef stew—at the Calgary Stampede corral—and a ride in an old-time coach. For an hour, they will see a miniature stampede.

Rocky Sights

Leaving Calgary at 3 p.m., they reach Cochrane, Alta., at 3:47 o'clock. From there, they take motor-cars to Banff, nestling amid the snow-capped mountains. Boarding their train once more, they leave Banff at 7:30 p.m. for a succession of stops in British Columbia.

Revelstoke at 11:50 a.m. PST Oct. 19 for 20 minutes; Sicamous at 1:45 p.m. for an observation-platform appearance; Salmon Arm at 2:25 p.m. for 10 minutes; Kamloops at 5 p.m. for an hour, travelling all the way through the impressive Rocky mountains and the coastal range. They reach Vancouver at 10 a.m. Saturday, Oct. 20.

The Prince and Princess will spend more than 26 hours in Canada's fourth largest city, situated on English bay and all but ringed by mountains. They will be met on arrival by British Columbia's Lieutenant-Governor Clarence Wallace and will go immediately to the city hall where they will be presented with a silver bowl and an illuminated address.

After a civic luncheon at 12:30 p.m., they drive into Stanley Park to meet Vancouver's North Shore residents—as in other centres, flag-waving children will be out in thousands—then go to Shaughnessy hospital and to nearby Queen Elizabeth park where the Princess will plant a tree and receive a golden spade. After touring the general area of the University of British Columbia, they will attend a private dinner and then see a lacrosse game at 8 p.m.

Church Service

On Sunday, the Royal visitors will attend services in Christ Church Cathedral, leaving immediately afterward for Vancouver Island on the Canadian destroyer Crusader. They are due at Victoria, BC's capital at 5 p.m. from Victoria, the Princess will broadcast a short message to the Commonwealth Oct. 22, as her father did when he visited there in 1939.

After a reception at Victoria's city hall Monday, the Royal couple go to the legislative buildings to meet members and their wives. This will be followed by a short Indian ceremony at Thunderbird Park. A luncheon will be given at 12:30 p.m., by the provincial government, followed by a drive through the streets and a visit to the dockyard.

Three-Day Holiday

Then begins for the Royal couple perhaps one of the most pleasurable periods of the tour—a three-day holiday. For Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday they will be "on their own"—free to do as any other holidayers to the picturesque island. A secluded lodge on Sproat lake, 90 miles northeast of Victoria, has been mentioned as the holiday site.

The Royal tour will resume Friday, Oct. 26, with their arrival at Nanaimo at 9:45 a.m. for a stay of 45 minutes. Then it's back to the Crusader and over to Vancouver by noon for a short motor trip to New Westminster, leaving by train at 1:15 p.m.

Other BC stops: Chilliwack at 2:35 p.m. for 10 minutes; Hope at 3:35 for observation-platform appearance; Boston Bar at 5:01 p.m. for 10 minutes and Lytton at 6:17 p.m. for another appearance from the observation-platform as their train moves slowly through the station.

Inspect RCMP

The Princess and the Duke enter Alberta again at Edson Saturday, Oct. 27, at 10:35 a.m. MST. They spend 10 minutes there, reaching Edmonton at 2 p.m. With the welcoming ceremonies at the city hall and the legislative building. Later a state dinner wil be given in their honor. A tour of an oil refinery also is scheduled.

The couple was to have left Edmonton by plane Sunday morning but instead will leave by train at midnight. This will bring them into Saskatoon Sunday morning in time for the service in St. John's Cathedral. A visit to the University of Saskatchewan also is on the program and drives about the north Saskatchewan city.

Tour RCAF Base

From Saskatoon, the Royal party fly to Rivers, Man., site of the RCAF's great training base, where they will spend a half-hour—from 3:05 p.m. to 3:35 p.m. Then they fly to the Lakehead cities of Fort William and Port Arthur, where towering terminal elevators line the waterfront. A tour of one elevator is scheduled.

Arriving at Fort William at 7:30 p.m. EST Sunday, the Royal couple will spend almost two hours there, motoring the short distance to Port Arthur for a 9:15 p.m. arrival. They spend the night in Port Arthur, touring that city at 9 a.m. Monday then motoring back to Fort William by 10:45 a.m. They leave at noon for North Bay, still travelling in their RCAF plane.

After a half-hour at North Bay, from 2:30 p.m. to 3 p.m., the Royal couple continue their flight to Montreal, where they land at 4:30 p.m. They spend a day and a half in Canada's largest city—from 4:30 p.m. Monday Oct. 29 to 1:30 p.m. Wednesday.

On the night of their arrival, the Prince and Princess will attend a National Hockey League game in Montreal Forumn and, on the following day, visit McGill University, Molson Stadium and DeLorimier Stadium. Luncheon will be served at the chalet atop Mount Royal following a visit to the University of Montreal. An official dinner will be held in the evening.

Then it's off to Washington at 1:30 p.m. Wednesday Oct. 31 to visit President Truman.

Ontario Election First In November

TORONTO, Oct. 5—(CP)—The Ontario general election next month will be the first ever held in November in Ontario's history as a province.

Since 1867, Ontario has had three October general elections. It also has had three in December.

Most Ontario elections have been held in June. There have been nine in that month.

The coming election also breaks tradition in the day of the week by being held on a Thursday. Monday is the most chosen day.

Will Have New Trial In Alienation Suit

TORONTO, Oct. 5 — (CP) — Josephat Neporany, Toronto carpenter, has successfully appealed a court verdict which ruled that there had been no evidence of alienation of Neporany's wife's affections by Dr. Peter Kir.

Six months ago, Dr. Kir was ordered to pay Neporany $1,000 for committing criminal conversation with Neporany's wife, Olga.

Neporany appealed, contending that the jury had been misdirected and that the verdict was "unreasonable" in finding no evidence of alienation. Success of the appeal was announced Thursday. A new trial will be held.

ONE-HANDED PLAYER—When delegates to the War Amputations Association of Canada convention in Montreal were entertained by Mayor Camillien Houde, one of the amps, Fred Patton of Calgary, did some entertaining on his own. Despite an artificial hand he coaxed western tunes from his guitar, sang songs of the plains and won the applause of the mayor and the delegates.

IT'S ON ICE—Fourth game of the Mann Cup lacrosse best-of-seven series for the Canadian championship was played in Vancouver on boards laid over the ice in the Forum rink. It proved a slippery surface when Peterborough's Russ Slater chased Combines Roy Cavallin who fell. Slater also slipped but managed to stay erect. Peterborough won 13-4, tieing the series at two games each. Wednesday night they dropped behind again, losing 15-10.

SPORTS SHOW WINDOW

By CEC. PERDUE, Sports Editor

VANCOUVER, Oct. 5.—Sixth and possibly final game of the Mann Cup series goes tonight in Kerrisdale area here. If the Petes drop this decision, they're through for 1951. If they win, the seventh and deciding joust is on at the same area Saturday. So, the long grind is almost over. Don Crowe's crew are grimly determined to square it up this evening, but they've got to show a little more than they did Wednesday against a fast-breaking squad on their own pitch. Every player has to give it all he has for the full 60 minutes, and no more fading out in the last half. And they must stay out of the penalty box. They can win if they do this.

* * * * * *

It wasn't entirely the poor refereeing that beat them in that important fifth fray. They drew some crude penalties, and their defensive work in the last two quarters was below par. They let the Combines run wild to go right in on goal for easy shots. Wipper, limping a little on a bruised heel, didn't do much in that game and he can make quite a difference. Peterson tried several times to bull through several checks alone without passing. Some of the others were lax at times, too. In other words, they didn't all play a full 60 minutes of their best lacrosse. You have to do that to win titles. We hope it'll be different tonight.

* * * * * *

Of course, we don't condone the home refereeing. It wasn't good, and it took the heart out of some of the Petes. Yesterday we asked Big Merv McKenzie—a quiet veteran of the gutted-stick wars—what he thought of it. After some deliberation, he said: "We had the same thing out here with Hamilton a couple of years back, and we weren't a dirty team. Drew 60 penalties to their 20 in the series. Every time it was tied or close, we were given a cheap penalty. It makes it pretty tough on a visiting team." We said that might be true of a BC club playing off in the East and he agreed. Now, why is that?

* * * * * *

Cool observers of sports note this all too frequently. We've seen it in Peterborough in hockey and lacrosse. Refs pay attention to the roars of a large home crowd and tend to lean a bit heavier on the visiting squad when it comes to dishing out penalties. A bit of "homer" in many arbiters, we fear. That puts one strike on a visiting team before it ever takes the floor or ice. But, as we said before, champs use their heads against biased officiating and draw as few penalties as possible. And champs should be able to win anywhere. Even before a hostile crowd and reading daily an unsympathetic press. Let's see if the Timbermen can surmount these difficulties and still grab that cup.

* * * * * *

Vancouver Sun commented on that last game: "Petes petered out badly in the late sprints, allowing Combines to swoop in on a harassed Wootton. You can't win games in the penalty box and several visitors acted like they wished to establish permanent residence in the box, particularly Nit O'Hearn, who spent many minutes in penance." The Province quoted Crowe as saying the CLA had scrapped the bottom of the barrel in referees, calling Folka and Dickinson about the most inconsistent pair I've ever seen. They call cheap penalties on our side but let our men get cut up plenty without giving Vancouver a penalty."

* * * * * *

Ted Lewis, veteran Mr. Show Business, is out here for a run and was guest of Mayor Fred Hume at the Wednesday game. He was quoted as going all out for lacrosse, saying "Why haven't we got this thing down in the States? Seems rough enough to me, and a natural for TV. I expect to see somebody get killed out there yet." When Mr. Hume called Wootton one of the finest goalies he'd ever seen, Ted retorted, "Well, I've seen some go by him. Combines' man is mighty good, too. And why don't they get that O'Hearn guy off the floor before he kills Stewart?" As a matter of fact Gogie Stewart is a speedy, shifty forward who wears a heavy helmet with a long peak, as well as a mask. He is always ducking and shifting, so he is bound to get a lot of cracks as he bores in. Hence, penalties for the opposition.

* * * * * *

Well, all has been said that can be said. Actions are needed now by the Petes. Action, not alibis. They face a tough, tough task and could be great heroes with the folks back home if they got up off the floor and went on to even the series Friday and take it Saturday. If they don't, they're just another beaten team and the Combines will be painting Vancouver and vicinity red over the week-end. It's strictly up to the players from the East themselves. They know the score and what they're up against, so they must act accordingly and give it all they have—or they're most definitely washed up on the shore. It's do or die tonight, with a possible crisis looming again on the morrow.

TOP ATHLETES in King George public school last term, Betty Barker and Alec Baptie, were presented Thursday with the Tinker and Bousfield medals. Mrs. George J. Bousfield, widow of the Rev. Bousfield, St. Luke's church, presented the medal to Baptie in memory of her son who was an outstanding pupil at King George school. Mrs. William Tinker presented the medal to Miss Barker.

CLA Officials Under Fire Most Unpopular Men In the Mann Cup Series

By C. J. PERDUE, Examiner Sports Editor

VANCOUVER, Oct.—Canadian Lacrosse Association officials here have been in continual hot water since the Mann Cup series started more than a week and a half ago. They're downright unpopular on all sides, with both clubs, with the various BC arenas and with the vociferous press out this way. Who are these officials? Tom O'Brien, Winnipeg, is president; Gene Dopp, Toronto, secretary; vice-presidents are E. H. Lancaster, Cornwall, Ont.; W. G. Easterbrook, Vancouver, and J. C. McLeod, Owen Sound.

There are, also, honorary president F. J. Burd, Vancouver, past president Lyle Barr, Vancouver, and honorary life members A. E. Coo and T. J. Lally, both of Winnipeg.

Since only a few of the eastern officials came out, the western contingent of officials have the most votes. The association holds it annual meeting right after this series to elect officers for next year.

Sports editor Swangard of the Vancouver Sun wrote the other day in his column: "Undoubtedly, CLA president Tom O'Brien spent several sleepless hours after that Mann Cup fiasco at the Forum. Personally, I can think of no more useful way for O'Brien to have passed those idle hours than to have written his resignation and a series of letters to his associates, advising them to do the same.

"Sport in some ways is no different than business. If the head of a business firm leads his organization into bankruptcy, the shareholders will insist that he quit and let someone take over who may salvage the pieces.

"This current Mann Cup series has been a bad show all the way and the responsibility rests primarily with the CLA. The display at the Forum put up by the unwilling Vancouver Combines against the more than willing Peterborough Timbermen on a floor more suitable to skating or sleighing than lacrosse was absolutely shameful."

He goes on to some length along this line, and other scribes out here are saying similar things. They have been lending an attentive ear to the crying Combines and have their alibis all wrapped up and ready for delivery in case of a Peterborough win.

That doesn't say that the Petes are happy about the wishy-washy work of the association officials out here—they definitely do not like the setup at all. Combines have been getting their way right along through the medium of loud squawks and threats to forfeit the series. If we don't get our way, we'll quit and go home," they as much as say.

Well, it'll soon be over one way or another, and echoes of the 1951 Mann Cup wrangling will dissipate gradually in the frosty fall air. Unfortunately, most of these CLA officials will go back in office for another year.

Ottawa Upsets Hamilton Deal

OTTAWA, Oct. 5 (CP).—Manager Jim McCaffrey of the Ottawa Rough Rider Football Club said Thursday night he has objected to the Canadian Rugby Union over the granting of a playing certificate to Tom Worthington, Hamilton Tiger-Cats newest United States import.

He said the Ottawa protest was based on the following points:

1. The former Northwestern and Detroit Lions halfback (Worthington) did not enter Canada until Oct. 2, although the deadline for registration of US imports had been fixed by the CRU as midnight Oct. 1.
2. A certificate must be registered when received by the CRU secretary not the date of mailing. (Hamilton's claim was that Worthington's certificate was put in the mail before midnight on Monday but did not reach the Toronto CRU office until Tuesday, Oct. 2.)
3. The Hamilton club failed to name their seven US imports by midnight of Oct. 1 although requested twice to do so.
4. Section six of the CRU constitution said all players—including US imports—must be signed by Aug. 26 unless special executive consent is given.

Footballs To Fly At Morrow Park Over Weekend

Morrow park will be buzzing with football activity this weekend as the St. Peter's High and the Orfuns take over for league games Saturday and Monday, Thanksgiving Day.

After two victories against strong junior grid squads, the St. Peter's juniors will begin Lake Ontario junior "B" play Saturday afternoon against Port Hope High School.

Johnny Lynch's experienced, light and fast team is expected to wipe out their opponents, Port Hope and Cobourg easily this year.

Their strength was shown in the two wins to date against Lindsay Collegiate junior "A" team and Grove of Lakefield. Both were considered tough opposition for the Saints but they waltzed through Lindsay and edged Grove.

Saturday's game is an expected gift for the Saints.

Exhibitions

The second game of the double-header will see the Senior Saints in their 1951 debut in the first of several exhibitions against Whitby High, a senior "B" team.

Johnny Lynch's seniors are much the same as last year's senior "B" finalists in the Ontario Catholic Conference. The Jones, Carl Brioux, Jack Richardson and Johnny Armstrong will spearhead the attack.

They have the spirit but have only a one-man reserve. He fills in at almost any position.

Frank Gnup's Orfuns have two crucial games with Orillia this weekend, the first, Saturday in Orillia and the return game at Morrow park on Monday.

Two Changes

For Saturday's game Gnup has made few changes, Lou Nickel, ace junior lacrosser, will make his first appearance at left half, while Murray Dewart, a Peterborough boy, will replace John Berry, originally of Cornwall, at quarter. Berry will be used on the defensive.

Gerry McGillis is an indefinite starter for Saturday's game. He sat out the Cobourg game last week after suffering a leg injury in the East York game. Lineman Wally Farr will be used sparingly due to two broken ribs.

Creighton Johnston, former starry PCVS junior, will sit out the games for the next week, and may not see service for another 10 days. His play at centre secondary will be missed by the Orfuns.

Out for the year will be Groves, backfielder, with torn ligaments around the ankle.

Gnup said today that he thought the Orfuns would have shown better against the Ghosts but they didn't keep their assignments. They have been working on these for the past week.

With another week under the former Hamilton Wildcat coach, the Orfuns should be a different club against Orillia in both games.

Brewers Win Little Series, Wallop Royals

MILWAUKEE, Oct. 5. (AP)—The Milwaukee Brewers jerked the rug from under Montreal on Thursday night with a wild scoring binge which turned an eight-run deficit into a 13-10 victory and gave them the 1951 Little World Series championship, four games to two.

The American Association champions went into the bottom of the third inning trailing 10-2 but had tied the score at 10-all by the end of the sixth and possessed its winning margin by the end of the seventh. In two innings the Brewers batted the lineup around.

Milwaukee's tying run in the sixth came when Al Unser, the Association's most valuable player, smashed a home run over the left field fence. The Brewers chased three more over in the seventh for the championship.

The smallest crowd of the series—6,020—watched the two triple-A teams batter the high wooden walls of Borchert Field for 29 base hits. Nine pitchers worked, the Brewers using five with Fireman Virgil Jester the winner. Loser was Bob Alexander, the third Royal hurler.

Score Early

Montreal scored all its runs in the first three innings on 12 of its 16 hits. Three of them came in the first, two in the second, and five in the third. The splurge finished starter Sid Schacht and relievers Charley Gorin and Murray Wall.

The Brewers counted a pair of runs each in the first and third, cutting the margin to 10-4. They batted around in the hilarious fifth which produced five runs on only two hits. With the bases full, big George Crowe hoisted a high fly to right centrefield. Jim Gilliam and George Shuba became confused on who was to catch it and neither did. The error went to Gilliam as three Brewers scored.

After Unser's run-tying homer, the Brewers batted around again in the seventh. Their last three runs scored on Louis Olmo's bases-loaded triple with two out.

The championship was Milwaukee's third in three appearances in the annual series between champs of the Association and the International League.

Report O'Neill Finished As Sox Manager

NEW YORK, Oct. 4 (AP). — Reports around world series headquarters today indicated that Steve O'Neill is through as manager of the Boston Red Sox.

From a reliable source it was learned that Tom Yawkey, president of the Red Sox, is contemplating a drastic shakeup of the front office involving general manager Joe Cronin, O'Neill and Lou Boudreau.

According to the informant Cronin is slated to move to Washington as general manager, Boudreau is to be elevated from the playing ranks to succeed Cronin and Frank (Pinky) Higgins is to be brought up from Louisville of the American Association to displace the popular O'Neill.

In Fourth Place

Higgins, a former star infielder with the Red Sox, Philadelphia Athletics and Detroit Tigers, piloted the Louisville club into a fourth place playoff berth this season.

An early report had Yawkey and Cronin set to dispose of O'Neill and replace him with Boudreau.

Boudreau, who managed Cleveland for nine years, was signed by the Red Sox last winter after the Indians had given him his unconditional release. Hobbled by injuries, Lou appeared in 89 games and batted .264.

Another rumor has the Indians offering outfielder Larry Doby to the Red Sox for Ted Williams. A person close to the Indians admitted that the Indians had made overtures for Williams, but said the Tribe had been turned down by Yawkey.

Layton To Meet Geohagen

Lord Athol Layton will headline the opening wrestling card at the Brock next Tuesday, starting at 8:30 p.m. He will be opposed by Timothy Geohagen.

Layton, a great favorite with local fans, is now drawing their ire for his vicious attack on Whipper Watson, which hospitalized the champ for several days. The attack was made after the bell. Layton will face a tough opponent in the Irish Strongman, Geohagen, who is steadily developing into one of the top matmen in the business.

The semi-final match will also hold great interest, featuring for the first time The Great Zorro, the French Tarzan, against Steve Stanlee. You have to see Zorro in action to realize how good he is. Stanlee needs no introduction here.

To round out this sparkling card Sonny Kurgis will tangle with Jack Wentworth.

Huntsville Captures Lacrosse Semi-Finals

FERGUS, Oct. 5 (CP).—Huntsville Hawks won the best-of-three Ontario Lacrosse Association intermediate A semi-finals here on Thursday night by defeating the Sarnia Beavers 14-7.

Hawks took an early lead, building up a six-goal margin in the first period and were never close to being overtaken.

High scorers for the winners were Jack Bionda with four; Ross Bayne with three; Harry Mallory and Eston Watt with two each.

For Sarnia, all scorers got singletons.

The Hawks enter the intermediate A finals against Alliston. Alliston put out Toronto Riverdale in the semi-finals.

Bantams, Midgets Resume Playoff Battle

Peterborough's bantam and midget lacrosse teams are still in Ontario playdowns and will both see action tonight at Miller Bowl.

The bantams have a slight one-goal lead on Brampton bantams in their two-game, goals-to-count series. The Petes won the first game in Brampton Wednesday 12-11. The game starts at 7:30.

The midgets will follow the bantam game and will be trying to overcome a four-goal deficit. Peterborough lost 16-12 to Brampton, also on Wednesday in Brampton. This series is home and home, goals to count.

The victors will advance in Ontario championship tournament in Burlington Saturday, October 13, to wind up the 1951 season.

Returning To Ring

TORONTO, Oct. 5 (CP). — Whipper Billy Watson, British Empire wrestling champion hurt five weeks ago in a bout at Kingston, is returning to the ring wars. He announced Thursday night that he will meet Wild Bill Longson of Salt Lake City, former world heavyweight champion, at Maple Leaf Gardens here Oct. 11 He said a doctor had declared him fit.

Thinks Giants Monte Irvin Greatest Ball Player In US

BY WILL GRIMSLEY.

NEW YORK, Oct. 5 (AP). — If you think the Giants' Monte Irvin is a prize baseball package, just get a load of this from Paul Richards, manager of Chicago White Sox.

"I think Irvin is the greatest ball player in America," the lean-lantern-jawed catcher said today.

"Ask Mel Ott what I offered for him when Monte was at Jersey City and I was at Buffalo. It was plenty, I'll tell you—plenty.

"This fellow has everything. He can run, hit and field. Right now there's only one man I'd compare with him. That's Stan Musial. They're a lot alike—the easy, faultless way they play."

Richards said he feels the New York leftfielder is just now reaching his stride. "He'll be even better next year," the White Sox manager said.

One-man Show

These lofty words of praise from a respected baseball man came in the wake of one of the greatest one-man shows in world series history.

In helping beat the Yankees in the opening game of the series, there's what the 30-year-old flychaser from Orange, NJ, did:

1. Stole home in the first inning, the first player to do that in a world series since two Yanks did it in 1921.
2. Banged out four hits, three singles and a booming triple, tying the world series record for number of hits in a single game.
3. Made two tremendous catches in the field, going back to the stands to haul down Hank Bauer's stadium-bound blow in the first inning.

The great Joe Dimaggio is the first to recognize the fact that opposing pitchers no longer hold him in the awe they once did.

"Did you know?" DiMag recalled in the dressing room after Thursday's game, "that Koslo didn't throw me a single ball?"

The Yankee Clipper flied out twice to left and twice to centre in four times at bat.

Changes Strategy

The reason Yankee manager Casey Stengel started lefty Ed Lopat instead of Vic Raschi in the second game is this: Lopat throws the kind of "cute" stuff that results in hump-backed fly balls. Easy outs in the spacious stadium, they might fall for home runs in the cramped Polo Grounds where the antagonists move in Saturday.

Seventeen world series, 13 of which they've won, have made the Yankees blase. They accepted their opening game defeat—the first opening day setback in 15 years—indifferently. They still act scornful of these brash Giants from across the Harlem river, give the impression they can collar and overtake their foes whenever they choose.

Prince Of Wales Srs. Score Easy 4-0 Win

Prince of Wales—Allen, Carl, Boyce, Robins, Bebee, Peirson, Chambo, Downer, Johnston, Oliver, Bowen, Ketcheson, Doug-Aulbrook.

Queen Alexandra — Macklin, McNamee, Ireland, Wannamaker, Ball, Jackson, McClennan, Reid, Johnston, Nelson, Downer, Kilborn, Magee, Olmstead, Crofts, Hamilton.

Fritzie Zivic outpointed Henry Armstrong in a thrilling 15-round fight for the world's welterweight boxing title at New York 11 years ago tonight. Armstrong, who had won the title from Barney Ross, found his "buzz-saw" syle countered by Zivic's flashy boxing and one of Armstrong's eyes was closed early by the Pittsburgher.

Syracuse Win Costly At Tottle Injured

LINDSAY, Oct. 5—Syracuse's fourth win in five exhibitions proved costly as Eddie Shore's new AHL entry lost star defenceman Gord Tottle in whipping Buffalo Bisons, 4-2, before 1,244 fans here.

Tottle sustained a right shoulder injury when he took out rugged Ken Nixon early in the first period when Syracuse jumped to a 1-0 lead.

The Sam Casante-Kelly Burnet-Armand Lemieux line stood out in the second period as Syracuse added three goals before Sid McNabney and Don Ashbee, who played lacrosse with the Peterborough Timbermen, clicked on a two-way passing play. Veteran Grant Warwick sparked the Bisons in a third-period comeback attempt, scoring one goal but Shore's club rallied to gain the first win here.

Expect Weekend To Shuffle Rugby Standings

By The Canadian Press.

The Thanksgiving weekend may really do things to the Canadian football picture.

Fourteen senior games are scheduled—eight Saturday and six Monday—and the results could produce drastic changes in at least two leagues—the Eastern Big Four and the Western Interprovincial Union.

Hamilton Tiger-Cats, who have slipped a little from their early-season invincibility, still lead the eastern league but the margin now is only two points over Ottawa Rough Riders. Two points back in third place are Montreal Alouettes and Toronto Argonauts, both of whom have played a game fewer than Hamilton and Ottawa

With Argonauts meeting Hamilton twice—in Toronto Saturday and Hamilton Monday—and with Alouettes and Rough Riders tangling in Ottawa Saturday and Montreal Monday—any one of the four teams could end up in first place.

In the west the possible changes are a little less dynamic, mainly because Calgary Stampeders are deep in last place — six points behind third-place Winnipeg Blue Bombers.

But with Edmonton Eskimos, in first place, holding only a two-point margin over Saskatchewan Roughriders, and Winnipeg only two points behind the Roughies, any one of the first three spots could be shuffled.

Need Victories

The league-leading Eskimos visit Regina Saturday and Winnipeg Monday, while Calgary plays at Winnipeg Saturday and Regina Monday. The Stampeders need victories in both of their games to retain much hope of catching one of the two playoff berths.

Remainder of senior football action is in the east where the colorful four-team intercollegiate league opens.

University of Toronto Blues play McGill Redmen in Montreal while Queen's Golden Gaels open at London against the defending champion University of Western Ontario Mustangs. Both games are Saturday.

The Ontario Rugby Football Union—a four-team circuit again this season—has four games.

McMaster University Marauders, whose games are worth four points because they play half as many games as other teams in the league, play host to Sarnia Saturday and meet Windsor Royals in Windsor Monday. Toronto Balmy Beach plays at Windsor Saturday and is at home against Sarnia on Monday. Sarnia and Toronto are tied for first place while Windsor has lost all four starts.

Significant Feature

A significant feature of play in the west and in the Big Four is that coaches will be using their season's quota of seven US imports. Last Monday was the deadline for naming the seven Americans to be used for the rest of the season. Previously the teams were permitted to juggle imports, using only seven but changing them each week.

Reports that Hamilton would be permitted to use only six imports this weekend were discounted when Charles C. Lawson, president of the Big Four, denied that the league had withheld the playing certificate of Tom Worthington, former Detroit Lions half back, who was signed an hour before the deadline.

Tips Ball With Head Helps K. Edward Win

King Edward School's intermediate soccer team chalked up its third win against no defeats Thursday when it brushed past King George School 3-1.

King George carried the play more than King Edward, but the southend school's half and full backs were too strong.

Probably the most colorful goal to date in the public school soccer was scored by King Edward's Rowe when he headed a free kick by Murduff into the King George goal, shortly before half time.

Stars were: for King Edward, Finney, Rowe, Riel; for King George, Dorrington.

Lineups:

King Edward—Detlor, Finney, Lumbard, Traynor, Cuff, Murduff, Rowe, Davies, Warner, Riel, Walling, Curtis, Heard.

King George—Lamers, Pollard, Beavis, Dixon, Chute, Starr, McDonald, Cullen, Dorrington, Innes, Smith.

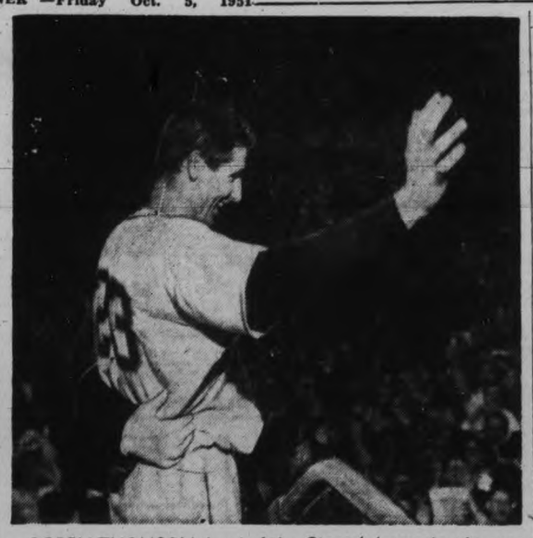
Boston Bruins Sign Five Young Canadians

BOSTON, Oct. 5—(AP)—Five young Canadians have been signed by Boston Bruins of the National Hockey League to play with the Bruin-owned Hershey club of the American League, it was announced today.

Four of the new pucksters hail from the Barrie Flyers of Barrie, Ont., junior champions of Canada and winers of the Memorial Cup.

They are:

Jerry Toppazzini, 20, Copper Cliff, Ont., a right-winger.



Real Chevrefils, 19, Timmins, left-winger.

Leo Labine, 20, Haileybury, centre and left-winger.

The fifth player under contract is Bob Armstrong of Toronto, a 20-year-old Stratford junior of the Ontario Hockey Association.

Armstrong played two games last year with the Bruins.

BOBBY THOMSON, hero of the Giants' dramatic win over the Dodgers, waves from clubhouse steps to fans mobbed below. Bobby's blow beat Dodgers 5-4 to give Giants the Pennant in one of the most sensational baseball finishes in history. They upset the experts again Thursday to whip the Yankees 5-1.

Here and There In Sport

By The Canadian Press

Clarence Campbell, president of the National Hockey League, has confirmed reports that the league is discarding the proposed 30-foot single face-off circle in front of each goal because it would handicap goal-keepers.

He said two face-off circles will be used at each end of the rink. Like last year's circles, they will be placed on either side of the goal, but they will be 30 instead of 20 feet in diameter.

The NHL president said that the one-circle system had been tried out this fall at exhibition games and had proved impractical. It tended to give too much advantage to the more adept face-off men.

Campbell, who has visited all the NHL training camps except the Hershey, Pa., base of the Boston Bruins, briefly reviewed the circuit's teams.

The tail-enders of last season's competition, Chicago Black Hawks, this year have "more spirit than I've seen in years." Their defence was the toughest he had seen in his training camp tour.

Toronto Maple Leafs and Detroit Red Wings had "ready-made" teams and were "solid, well-drilled clubs," while Montreal Canadiens, with a wealth of new material, would "have to prove themselves, but could go a long way."

The Long Branch Jockey Club paid tribute to veteran jockey Pat Remillard Thursday when they named the fourth race in his honor and presented gifts to the rider and his wife.

Pat was presented with a 17-inch television set and Mrs. Remillard received a silver tea service and a dozen roses. The crowd gave the couple a rousing cheer during the presentations.

The veteran jockey gave the crowd a good performance by turning in a winner, a second and a third during the afternoon.

In the race named in his honor he handled Freedom Girl and brought her in second. The favorite, Joey Bomber, finished first and Good Sir was third.

Which is the best quarterback—towering Glenn Dobbs of Saskatchewan Roughriders or Indian Jack Jacobs of Winnipeg Blue Bombers?

That question was asked by quarterback Frankie Filchock of Edmonton Eskimos at a Touchdown Club meeting

Flinging Frankie's reply: "Keith Spaith, Calgary Stampeder quarterback, tops both Dobbs and Jacobs in his book.

Kid Gavilan of Cuba, world welterweight champion, last night knocked out Bobby Rosado of Puerto Rico in the seventh round of a scheduled 10-round non-title bout in Havana. Both weighed 147½.

Rosado, who began to weaken under the flashy champ's punches in the third round, went down for the count after 30 seconds of the seventh.

Boston Bruins of the National Hockey League refuse to be disturbed over their failure to sign goalie Jack Gelineau and wingers Bill Ezinicki and Pete Horeck. A spokesman denied they are quitting hockey.

The spokesman said Gelineau had declined to sign a contract containing a minor league clause and had returned to his home in Montreal.

The Bruins recently purchased goalie Jim (Sugar) Henry from Detroit Red Wings, indicating they were planning to use Henry as their first string net minder and would send Gelineau to an American Hockey League team.

The Bruins described Ezinicki as a perennial holdout and predicted he would sign before the season starts.

Horeck does not fit into the Bruins' plans, the club spokesman said, but "presumably will play somewhere."

Makes Best Cocktails

TURIN, Italy, Oct. 5. (AP) —The 1951 European-cocktail making championship Thursday went to Italy's Orlando Luminari. He produced an exotic drink named "Black and White" and and called his victory "psychological." The drink looks better than it tastes. A "Black and White" is made with chocolate powder mixed with curacao and cognac, and is topped with whipped cream.

RALLY FOR HANSEN—Football fans in Edmonton rallied to the aid of Howie Hansen, Eskimos' right end who was injured in an Idaho automobile crash last week in which his three-year-old son, Craig, was killed. Saturday night a collection at Clarke Stadium brought $3,111 and the fund was boosted to $4,000 in 24 hours. The counting Monday took these six men seven hours. Edmontonians left to right: Bob Calix, Eskimo manager Al Anderson, Bob Bradburn, John Michaels, Ken Montgomery and Ron Clement.

Boucher Sure Rangers Make Playoffs

By JACK SULLIVAN

GUELPH, Oct. 5—(CP)—The National Hockey League's second division will be overcrowded if pre-season predictions count for much.

Managing director Conn Smythe of Toronto Maple Leafs has surprisingly picked his Stanley Cup champions to finish the six-month schedule in fourth position, something that hasn't happened to the Leafs in three years. And Smythe's call puts two clubs on the final play-off rung because that's where manager Frank Boucher figures his New York Rangers will finish.

The soft-spoken Boucher, who surprised everybody a couple of years ago by calling the NHL finish in order from top to bottom, had two observations to make at this Ranger training-camp site:

1. "Rangers will get in the playoffs for sure this time" and

2. "Toronto and Detroit are the strongest clubs in the league but it won't be a two-section race as last year with the Red Wings and Leafs far out in front and the remaining four clubs in the bottom section. They aren't going to run away with the league."

He figures that if anything happens to Ted Lindsay or Gordie Howe of the Wings or Ted Kennedy of the Leafs, the one-two finishers last season "will be in the same class as the rest of the league." He calls these players the backbone of the two clubs and injuries to any will cut them "down to our size."

Scuttling Job

Randgers did a scuttling job after the 1950-51 campaign with one idea in mind—to improve their scoring power. Rangers scored 169 coals last season, lowest in the league and two less than the bottom-place Chicago Black Hawks.

Four veterans were traded or farmed out—Tony Leswick went to Detroit for Gaye Stewart in a straight player deal and Buddy O'Connor, Pat Egan and Wally Stanowski were sent to Cincinnati, Rangers' farm club in the American Hockey League.

In other deals, Rangers obtained right-winger Wally Hergesheimer of Winnipeg and defenceman Hy Buller of Montreal from Cleveland Barons of the AHL and Steve Kraftcheck, 190-pound husky from Boston Bruins. They also got Jim Ross, 24-year-old defenceman with Quebec Aces of the Quebec Major League last season, who Boucher figures will "do well" with the Blueshirts.

"We've started a youth movement and we'll score a helluva lot more goals this season than last," Boucher promised. "We dropped a lot of heart-breakers simply because we couldn't buy a goal, but the scoring punch is there."

Boucher isn't certain of the 15 players, exclusive of goalkeeper Chuck Rayner, for their season's opening face-off at Chicago Oct. 14, but the front wall probably will go along these lines:

Crafty Edgar Laprade centre to Eddie Kullman and Reg Sinclair on the big line with Don Raleigh between Eddie Slowinski and Mick Mickoski on the second. The No.3 combination likely will find Paul Ronty centring Stewart and Hergesheimer. In addition, Rangers have Zellio Toppazini and Jackie Macleod for use in event of injuries.

Millers Sweep C And D Series

COBOURG, Oct. 5—Baltimore Millers swept the final game of the Cobourg and District softball series, 7-6, here Wednesday night to win the title from Port Hope Mathews, who were beaten only once prior to the five-game playoff series. Baltimore had split even in the best four battles.

Pud Jamieson, an outfielder rushed into short to replace West, after the regular shortstop had kicked in with costly bobbles, was the shining star of the night, ending the game with a great catch, over his shoulder, deep in left field along the foul line. Jamieson also sparked the eighth-inning uprising that gave the "B Boys" the lead for the night.

FULL EMPLOYMENT

EDMONTON (CP) — Edmonton is closer now to having "full employment" than at any time in the last 10 years, according to the local office of the unemployment insurance commission. Besides the urgent call for harvest labor, the office lists numerous vacancies for construction workers.

Remember When—

By The Canadian Press

Montreal Royals of the International Baseball League won their first Little World series title five years ago tonight, beating Louisville Colonels 2-0 to win by four games to two. Veteran Curt Davis pitched the shut-out and Jackie Robinson, now a Major League star, played a standout game at second base for Montreal.

PC Candidate

TORONTO, Oct. 5. (CP)—W. Elmer Brandon, 45-year-old lawyer, Thursday night was nominated as Progressive Conservative candidate for York West in the Nov. 22 Ontario general election. He is reeve of suburban Swansea and warden of York county. C. H. Millard, Toronto Labor leader, won the seat for the CCF in the last election.

Almost Forget Loot

MONTREAL, Oct. 5—(CP)—Two jittery bandits, following an exchange of shots with a passerby, almost forgot their $5,000 loot Thursday in their hurry to escape from a branch of La Banque Canadienne Nationale. Bank manager Conrad Lecompte suffered head injuries when clubbed with a revolver in the holdup which occurred in suburban Ville Lasalle.

Still Booming

EDMONTON—(CP). — Known as Canada's boom town, Edmonton is still growing fast. Business and land tax collections for the first eight months of the year were $1,334,902 greater than in the same period last year.

Elizabeth is Queen-To-Be But Philip Rules At Home

By ARTHUR J. MATHERS
NEA Special Correspondent.

LONDON (NEA).—Before they returned to England from Malta last month, the British government sent Princess Elizabeth and her husband, Philip, on a goodwill visit to Greece and Italy. They travelled aboard the destroyer Magpie, Philip's own command.

A news story from Rome revealed that the Royal pair were to have a private audience with the Pope and that Elizabeth "would conform to the dress regulations laid down by the Vatican."

From England there came howls of protest. "Remind the Princess she will one day be "Defender of the (Anglican) Faith," cried some. "Encouraging Popery," yelped others.

But Elizabeth, determined to pay normal courtesy to a head of state, ignored the protests and she and Philip talked with the Pope for more than an hour. Every reputable national and provincial newspaper in Britain supported her action and the critics were silenced.

✦ ✦ ✦

In making decisions for herself on matters which affect both her public and private life, Elizabeth showed that her preparations for Queenship do not include a fear of personal criticism.

She already knows from her ailing father that the job of a constitutional sovereign is no sinecure, nor just a matter of parades, processions and ceremonial.

Elizabeth will have a constant finger on the nation's political pulse when, with the support and undoubted guidance of Philip, she will act as Regent for the King during his visit to Australia next year.

As Consort to Elizabeth, the quickly maturing Philip also faces a difficult and delicate task. In each there has emerged an independence of personality which, fortunately, is complementary each to the other.

✦ ✦ ✦

He Heads The House

But while Elizabeth must always be in the forefront of affairs of state, there has never been any doubt who is the leader of their domestic life and master of the home.

Philip is directing the upbringing of their children and has firmly insisted that his son, Prince Charles (second in line of succession to the throne), shall not be spoiled by a predominantly feminine household. For instance, he has forbidden any further gifts of toys to Charles until Christmas.

These facts do not mean that there is or has been any clash of wills between Elizabeth and Philip. In his own right Philip has already assumed a real importance in the public life of Britain.

Most Britons have noticed an added confidence and decisiveness in Philip's demeanour since he and Elizabeth returned from Malta. Naval friends say it really dates back to the day he assumed command of his own ship.

It is hardly more than a month ago since Philip really assumed his full stature in the public affairs of Britain and set the standard by which he will always be gauged in the future—as both Consort to Elizabeth and an individual personality.

Invited to deliver the Presidential address to the august British Association (of Scientists), he startled several thousand top scientists with a self-written (on the back of Navy signal forms) 45-minute discourse of cogent scientific knowledge and research.

With a familiarity that suggested he had lived in a laboratory all his life, and with the easy delivery of a real orator, Philip caused domed heads to nod and impressive beards to wag approvingly.

But after warning his illustrious elders that they (the scientists) "could either set the world free from drudgery, fear, hunger and pestilence or obliterate life itself," he left them with a question that millions of men and women are asking. Queried Philip, "Of what use is science if man does not survive?"

Britain has always prospered when ruled by a Queen. The Elizabethan and Victorian eras are historic proof of that. And today Britons are confirmed in their belief that when Elizabeth II comes to the Throne she and Philip will usher in a great renaissance of British prestige and achievement.

Grape Truck Permits Ordered

WINDSOR, Oct. 5 (CP) — Inspectors of the Michigan Public Service Commission are demanding truck permits from Canadian exporters of grapes using Michigan roads. Up to now most of the truckers have not taken out permits.

Suggestion is that the Michigan Grape Growers' Association demanded the check as a back-door method of cutting down competition from Canada.

Canadian grapes have been going in quantity to the American market. With this year's US crop weak, Michigan growers complain they cannot compete with low Canadian prices.

The sudden state check has necessitated duty payment by Canadian growers, then selling their product to American produce firms.

American companies truck the fruit from the port of entry, first to Benton Harbor, Mich., then to customers all through the US.

Grapes have been trucked from St. Catharines to Detroit and purchased by a Kalamazoo, Mich., produce man.

Miss Gayle Bristow told of the nine mission boats that ply up and down the coastal waters of the Dominion and the life story of Rev. Peter Kelly, who was the captain and missionary of the Thomas Crosby Boat. To add to their funds the girls decided to sell packages of Christmas wrapping papers.

At the close of the meeting refreshments were served by the hostess.

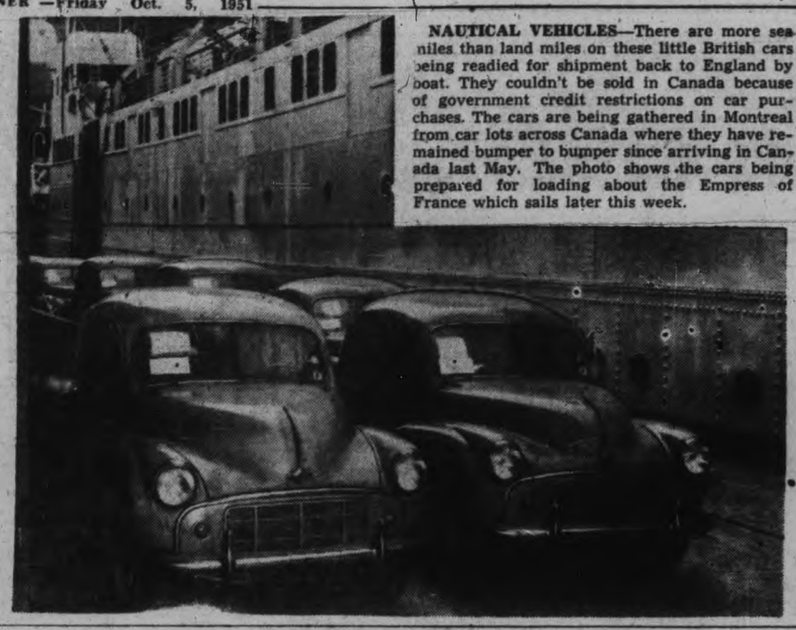
Hospital Grants Under Attack

WOODSTOCK, Oct. 5—(CP)—E. B. Jolliffe, Ontario CCF leader, said Thursday night that under the Progressive Conservative administration hospital expansion has barely kept up with the increase in population and "we still have a desperate shortage."



In his first public address after announcement of the Nov. 22 Ontario general election, he told a meeting sponsored by the Oxford County Political Action committee:

Mr. Frost has had surpluses totalling more than $100,000,000 in four years. Yet his grant for a new general hospital is only $1,000 a bed, when they cost from $10,000 to $12,000 a bed. The municipalities are forced to put up seven or eight times as much as Queen's Park.

"The Minister of Health admits that in 1945 we had 412 general hospital beds for every 100,000 people and in 1950 we had 428. That's an increase of only 16 beds per 100,000 people."

5-Mile Hike

LONDON—(CP)—A passenger who crossed the Atlantic by air said he passed the time by watching the stewardess going up and down on her regular duties. He estimated that she walked five miles during the 12-hour flight.

NAUTICAL VEHICLES—There are more sea miles than land miles on these little British cars being readied for shipment back to England by boat. They couldn't be sold in Canada because of government credit restrictions on car purchases. The cars are being gathered in Montreal from car lots across Canada where they have remained bumper to bumper since arriving in Canada last May. The photo shows the cars being prepared for loading about the Empress of France which sails later this week.

Send Back 3,500 UK Cars Can't Be Sold In Canada

MONTREAL, Oct. 5—(CP)—Some 3,500 British-built automobiles of all makes, representing a sale value of $6,000,000, are being shipped back to England because of the tight government credit controls on the purchase of new cars.

"Under existing federal government credit restrictions we cannot find a market for the British-built cars," a large dealer said. "There is a market for them in other parts of the world so we have decided to send them back," he said.

The new car slump is not confined strictly t oBritish cars and also applies to cars built in Canada and the United States, he said.

Under credit restrictions, a buyer must pay 5 per cent down and the balance in 12 months.

Another dealer said that "people who want to buy cars just haven't got that kind of money these days."

He said this winter would see the failure of several city dealers unless the restrictions were lifted. He added that the peak selling season would be over and that fewer people wanted to buy a car now because they were waiting for the new models, in the hope that the price controls would be changed by then.

Newsprint Needs Increasing In US

NEW YORK, Oct. 5 — (AP) — The American Newspaper Publishers' Association Thursday estimated that in 1960 United States newspaper publishers would need 7,000,000 tons of newsprint compared with consumption of 5,937,000 tons in 1950 and an estimated consumption of 5,925,000 tons this year.

Cranston Williams, general manager of ANAPA, said that to keep pace with demand newsprint production in North America would have to expand at the rate of three per cent a year.

He made the announcement at the close of a two-day session of ANPA directors and Canadian newsprint manufacturers. It was the first such meeting between newsprint users and makers, Williams said.

Drill Bruce Slopes In Search Of Gas

HEPWORTH, Oct. 5—(CP)—The Bruce Oil and Gas Company of Detroit has been drilling the rocky slopes of the Upper Bruce Peninsula since early summer.

The Company has been searching for natural gas and, perhaps, oil deposits near this village of 400 persons. Hepworth once had a natural gas supply sufficient to light and heat all the houses in the village.

But the flow of natural gas, estimated at 800,000 cubic feet a day around the turn of the century, dwindled because the wells were not taken care of. Electricity has replaced gas as a source of power in all but three homes.

Halifax Knew Wartime Secrets

NEW YORK, Oct. 5—(CP)—There were wartime secrets aplenty in the Port of Halifax, western anchor of the North Atlantic convoy line, but Winston Churchill's comings and goins managed to leak out among the townspeople.

The former British prime minister tells about one incident in the fifth volume of his war memoirs, being serialized in Life magazine, and The Montreal Standard and Weekend Picture Magazine in Canada.

He had just disembarked from the liner Queen Mary at Halifax on his way to his August, 1943, meeting with President Roosevelt at Quebec.

"In spite of all precautions about secrecy," he writes, "large crowds were assembled. As my wife and I sat in our saloon at the end of the train, the people gathered round and gave us welcome. Begore we started I made them sing the Maple Leaf and O Canada. I feared they did not know Rule, Britannia, though I am sure they would have enjoyed it if we had had a band. After about 20 minutes we left for Quebec."

Charge Seaway Used for Private Gain

WASHINGTON, Oct. 5—(CP)—Senator Herbert Lehman (Dem.-Lib.-NY) and Rep. Emanuel Celler (Dem. NY) Thursday accused the New York Power Authority of attempting to bring about development of the St. Lawrence power project "at public expense for private profit."

They made their accusation in a telegram to Chairman Charles Buckley (Dem. NY) of the House Representatives public works committee.

Buckley's committee will open hearing Monday on a bill to authorize the St. Lawrence Seaway and power project.

The bill, by Rep. John Blatnik (Dem. Minn.), would exclude New York from taking over the power project after it is constructed by the federal government.

Previous bills to authorize the project have contained a provision whereby New York would take over the power development after payment of construction costs. This was based on a federal-state agreement of long standing. Blatnik's bill leaves, dispostiion of the project up to Congress.

Favor Proposal

Lehman and Celler, however, still favor the proposal that New York get administration of the power—if certain safeguards to protect the interests of consumers are observed.

This, Lehman and Cellar said, has been the traditional stand of the power authority for 20 years. But now, they added, the authority "has turned turtle and conjured up an entirely new proposal."

Lehman and Cellar said they hoped Buckley could persuade his committee to amend the Blatnik bill to the extent that the St. Lawrence power plans would be transfered to New York subject to the federal-state agreements containing, they said, "safeguards to protect the interests of New York consumers, of the national defence, and of other states . . .

Vancouver VC Won't Be Able Meet Princess

VANCOUVER, Oct. 5—(CP)—Mickey O'Rourke, 73-year-old Victoria Cross winner in the First World War, says he will be unable to meet Princess Elizabeth and the Duke of Edinburgh during their visit to Vancouver.

Mickey's friends are trying to pesuade him to attend the city hall presentation of British Columbia VC's, to which he has been invited, but he says no.

"They wouldn't want to meet an old blatherskate like me. Besides, my legs aren't so good and I would not be able to stand up for the whole ceremony."

As a clincher he added: "The seabag with all my clothes in it is being held at my last rooming house and I can't get it."

Private Michael James O'Rourke won his VC as a stretcher-bearer in 1917 when he brought 40 wounded comrades out of no man's land under fire.

He returned to become a longshoreman and is said to have given away 60 cents out of every dollar he ever earned.

Sadler's Wells Ballet Limbers Up For Opening

By RICHARD DAIGNAULT

QUEBEC, Oct. 5 —(CP)—A workman banged away back stage, the orchestra toiled over some snappy music, slippered feet thumped in rhythm.

In the theatre's front row seats, men in bathrobes and bare-legged girls with heads wrapped in bandanas watched.

Something happened on the stage. There was a burst of laughter. The orchestra leader called out: "Stop!"

Peggy van Praagh, ballet mistress of the Sadler's Wells theatre ballet, conferred with orchestra leader Robert Zeller. Mr. Zeller instructed his musicians and rehearsal resumed.

Ironing Out Rough Spots

"They're trying to adjust the orchestra to the danger and are going over some rough spots," someone said in a low voice.

Elaine Fifield, petite, brown-haired leading ballerina, danced under the dull lights against a backdrop designed by an English photographer, for the Christmas Eve scene of Tchaikovsky's Nutcracker Suite.

She danced with cool grace in a yellow pullover and tights while the other dancers went through the motions of their routine.

Someone said: "The corps isn't really dancing this out. They're saving their juice for opening night."

Sadler's Wells theatre ballet makes its North American debut here tonight. They will tour Canada and 62 United States cities.

Dame Ninette de Valois founder of Sadler's Wells school and of the Sadler's Wells ballet corp, stepped up to the stage to give directions.

Some of the men in the audience moved to the stage, took off their robes, and limbered up. Others, sweating and panting after the workout, took their place and watched.

Sveltlana Beriosova, co-star of the tour, apepared in a plain blue jacket tied with a bow at the back.

She nonchalantly chewed gum. "It's a habit some of them picked up since they arrived Monday," volunteered one of the onlookers.

In the wings, unoccupied dancers read good luck messages from many parts of the world.

In the wings, workmen worked their electrically-powered drills, regardless of music and dance on stage.

After two hours of rehearsal, the troupe decided to call it a day.

PETERBOROUGH EXAMINER

VOL. CIII. No. 80 — FRIDAY, OCTOBER 5, 1951 — PRICE FIVE CENTS

City Heading For New High In Building

Permits Issued Represent $1 Million For Sept.

Peterborough appears to be on the way to a new year's building record.

Permits issued in September amounted to $1,069,260, bringing the total for the nine months to $3,692,939, as compared with $3,221,877 to the end of September last year.

And the 1950 total was an all-time record for Peterborough. If the city has not shot the building works for this year, and has still considerable ground to be broken for more foundations, '51 may surprise itself.

This year started falteringly and in the shadow of the more than five million amount in 1950, but it has been steadily taking on substance.

Last Quarter

Peterborough is going into the last quarter of the year with a margin of excess over a year ago that may be expanded into a "new all-time" building peak.

The classification of work in September was: 28 garages $7,950; 16 dwellings $169,000; and 122 miscellaneous permits for $892,310. Total permits for the month $1,069,260; and for the year $3,692,939.

The big item of construction cost that found its way into the permit column was the $554,753 for the Collegiate Institute on Monaghan Road.

Canadian General Electric Company's new factory on the Monaghan Road front of its property is estimated to cost $200,000.

School Enlargement

Enlargement of Grove School on Erskine Ave. is down for $57,982. And there is an item of $40,000 for the Borden Company building at the east end of Lansdowne St. It is to be an ice cream distribution station.

The figures for September last year were: 24 garages $6,160; 39 houses $367,500; 100 miscellaneous permits $141,119; total: 163 permits for $514,779; total for the year $3,221,877.

In the estimates of house values it may be noticed that the average cost of the 39 houses in September last year was $9,423; and the average for the 16 for which permits were taken out last month was $10,562.

Either building costs are increasing, or the 1951 type of house laid down in September is somewhat more expensive than its counterpart of a year ago.

How Hot Is It?

On Thursday everyone went about mopping their brows as the temperature walked up to an October high of 77 degrees. By noon today it was 77 again. "Hottest on record," they puffed, "Never saw anything like it." People's memories are short and the only way to be sure about the weather facts is to consult the man who faithfully records them year in and year out. Jim Harrison at the Filtration plant is your man. From his files today he found that Oct. 1st last year was just one degree cooler than Thursday's heat wave. However, today it was 17 degrees hotter than last Oct. 5. Today the barometer is falling slightly. Jim predicts a shower in the offing followed by cooler weather. But he expects it to be fine for the holiday weekend.

Dismiss Charge Wounding, Fined On Assault

A charge of wounding against John Clark, 189 Hunter St. E., was dismissed Thursday by Magistrate W. R. Philp. Clark was charged after a scuffle on Hawley St. September 29, which resulted in two men suffering slight cuts.

The magistrate was influenced in his decision by a case quoted by defence counsel J. C. N. Currelly, who cited a judgment of Chief Justice Robertson's given in the appeal of a similar charge.

The chief justice ruled that the wound given must be one which would be considered grievous bodily harm, or a wound of a permanent nature.

Clark and his wife had been at a party at the home of James Hawley, 679 Hawley St. After a brief argument there between Clark and his wife, the couple left, only to go a few minutes later to the home of Gerald Whatman, 668 Hawley St.

There an argument broke out between Clark and Frank Allen, 675 Hawley St. Allen was hit over the head with a bottle, Whatman testified, and Whatman struck Clark with his fist.

Asked To Leave

Whatman asked Clarke to leave the house, and Mr. and Mrs. Clark began to go. Mrs. Clark told court that as she was pushing her husband ahead of her out the front door, something struck her on the back of the head, and she fell or was pushed over a low railing on Whatman's porch.

Whatman testified that Clark went to his car, in front of Whatman's home, opened the trunk and removed a hunting knife from a fishing tackle box. Clark came toward the house, and when Whatman and Allen tried to stop him, a scuffle followed. Whatman's right arm was slightly cut and Allen's left thumb also was slightly cut.

Allen testified that as Clark came toward them, he said to Whatman, "Don't do it, Gerry, or I'll spill your guts on the road." However, both the injured men declared that they were only scratched in the scuffle, and that they didn't see Clarke strike at them.

Mr. Currelly argued that there was no evidence of intent, despite Clark's threat. Allen had testified that he thought it was just a bluff. He also cited the judgment of Chief Justice Robertson.

A charge of common assault against Clark resulted in a conviction. Magistrate Philp fined him $20 and $31.50 costs.

CGE Workers Get 5c Increase For Living Costs

Beginning Monday CGE workers will receive another five cents an hour, based on the cost-of-living figures released today, C. R. Sullivan, UE area representative, announced.

At the same time Mr. Sullivan denounced the present cost-of-living index and said that his union will try and have the Federal government draw up a new one.

The agreement signed between Local 524, UE, and the company provides for a cost-of-living adjustment based on a cent an hour for each 1.3 rise in the official figures.

Since April, 1951, the CGE workers have received eight cents and this additional five cents will bring their total increase, under this contract provision, to 13 cents. The base figure is 172.5 and the index now stands at 189.9. Adjustments are made quarterly.

These increases establish a minimum earning rate of $1.10 an hour for females and $1.30 an hour, minimum male rate, said Mr. Sullivan.

He attacked the present cost-of-living index saying that it does not represent the impact on the workers' weekly pay. The UE is now making an extensive study of the index figures and they will soon be released for public use.

"It is the intention of the UE to press for public hearings of all interested groups with a view to having the government compile a cost-of-living index that will give an accurate measurement of the increased cost of living," said Mr. Sullivan.

SHORT COURT

Only one drunk charge was on the list for police court today. The accused did not appear and the charge was adjourned one week.

Pentecostal Bible College Opened For 150 Students

"This college will be a great blessing not only to its students and faculty, but also a great boom to the city of Peterborough." This statement was made by the Rev. A. A. Wilson of Kansas City, Mo., at the official opening of the Eastern Pentecostal Bible College held at the Brock Arena Thursday night. In the afternoon the college was dedicated in an open air ceremony on the campus.

"The students will prove an enrichment to this city and following their graduation will make a profound impression everywhere they go in the world," Mr. Wilson continued.

Following his introductory remarks, the guest speaker chose the word, concern, as the theme and text of his address. He expained that this word is a lost word in the vocabulary of most Christian people.

"What we need is a world-wide campaign of old-fashioned concern—Holy Ghost concern and preaching of the gospel. Christian churches are fast becoming ecclesiastical frigidaires. Instead of a deep freeze, what we need to do is get the heat on in our religious life."

Mr. Wilson called for a real awakening and reaching out of spiritual hospitality for the sick and invalid souls.

Mr. Wilson was introduced by the Rev. J. H. Blair of Hamilton.

Mayor's Greeting

City greetings and welcome were extended by His Worship, Mayor M. J. Swanston. The mayor told the congregation of approximately 700 people that he was sure the college students and faculty would find Peterborough's citizens friendly and hospitable.

The chairman for the opening was the Rev. W. Found, president of the college. Other speakers on the program included: Mrs. M. B. Swanson, dean of women and wife of the late founder of the college; the Rev. C. A. Ratz, principal; Miss Norma McDowell, registrar; the Rev. F. Parlee of the Peterborough Full Gospel Pentecostal Church;

Students from Ireland, Scotland, Bermuda Kenya, South Africa, South America, United States, the Maritimes, Quebec and Saskatchewan were introduced and gave brief addresses.

Special music was provided by 115-voice student choir and orchestra from the Full Gospel Pentecostal Church, augmented by some student musicians.

Dedication

With a row of multi-colored maples forming a background, a crowd of over 500 assembled on the terrace of the old Nicholls Hospital Thursday afternoon to hear Rev. C. B. Smith, of Toronto, superintendent of Pentecostal Assemblies in Canada dedicate the building as The Eastern Pentecostal Bible College.

The verandah at the main entrance provided a ready made stage for the open air ceremony.

"We dedicate it to the cause of preparing young men and women to take their place in the Christian ministry," he said.

In dedicating the college, Mr. Smith expressed the hope that "those who occupy the buildings and the campus may ever realize that responsibility rests on them to conduct themselves as an example to all who associate with them."

President Found

The Rev. W. H. Found, president of the new theological college opened the dedication service. "We have looked forward to this opening day since coming here the fifteenth of July," said Mr. Found.

The Rev. A. A. Wilson of Kansas City, Missouri, was introduced by the Rev. J. H. Blair of Hamilton, chairman of the Board of Governors of the new college and Mr. Wilson also gave a short address.

In a word of advice to the students, Mr. Wilson said that after 30 years in the ministry he had "Never found time to loiter or go in for recreation and give time to frivolous ways."

Dr. C. M. Wortman of Toronto, General Secretary Treasurer of Pentecostal Associations in Canada read the scripture lesson and Rev. W. B. Greenwood of Belleville, vice-president of the Board of Directors of the college closed the service with a prayer.

Dummer School To Be Honored For Improvement

The Hon. Harold R. Scott, MPP, will be guest speaker at a ceremony Tuesday afternoon honoring SS No. 6, Dummer School Area No. 2. The school was first in the 1950-51 provincial Rural School Improvement Competition.

A short program has been arranged by school officials to mark the occasion. Mrs. Roberta Beamish is the teacher in charge.

SS No. 6 will receive the A. J. Jackman trophy, first prize for rural schools showing improvement of school properties. In a separate ceremony the school will be presented with the G. K. Fraser trophy, emblematic of first place in the county.

It is the first time that a school in the inspectorate of Peterborough east has placed first in this province-wide contest. K. O. Birkin is the present inspector.

Led by Mrs. Beamish, trustees, local residents and pupils all volunteered their work to fix up the building and grounds. Trustee John Danford sparked their efforts.

A new cement walk was laid to the front door of the one-room brick building, accommodating 25 pupils. And the children now have two good playgrounds. Grounds, suitable for a baseball diamond, were obtained from a church east of the school property. The old grounds were filled in and levelled and are primarily for the use of small children.

Two swings, and teeter-totters were also built.

Trim on the school was painted and there was re-seeding of grass. Shrubs were planted. The whole property is now neat and atttractive.

For the competition at least 80 per cent of the ratepayers in the school section must be farmers with farms of 25 acres or more.

Hit By Bicyclist Girl's Leg Broken

A two-year-old girl, hit by an unidentified cyclist, is in Civic Hospital with a broken leg. She is Mary Louise McElroy, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert McElroy, 551 Rose Ave.

The accident occurred Wednesday night, but was not reported at the police station until Thursday evening. Police are not too hopeful of finding the cyclist.

The little girl was playing on the sidewalk in front of her home when a bicycle struck her and knocked her down, breaking her right leg below the knee.

It is understood that the cyclist carried the girl into the McElroy home after the accident.

Cat Jumps, Driver Bumps Oncoming Car

A short jump made by his cat may cost D. B. Wright, 754 Stewart St., a few extra dollars.

Wright was driving north on the Chemong road Thursday afternoon, and turned east on Wolsley St. Just as he neared a second car, driven by A. J. Nesbitt, 31 Conger St., the cat jumped from the back seat onto Wright's back.

Wright lost control of his car momentarily and hit Nesbitt's auto. Damage was not extensive.

POLIO

One more case of polio has been reported by Department of Health officials. The latest case is a 19-year-old Peterborough man. There is also another suspect under observation at Civic Hospital.

Three Political Parties Plan Nominations For Provincial Election

Scott Likely Nominee For Conservatives
Liberals Considering Several
CCF Meets To Plan Campaign Strategy

Official announcement that the Ontario election will be Nov. 22 has started the political pot boiling in Peterborough. All three local associations are planning early nomination meetings so they can get their campaigns under way. Harold R. Scott, Minister of Lands and Forests in the Frost Government, is the present member for Peterborough. He is completing his third term in the legislature. In the last election, June 1948, he held his seat with a comfortable plurality. Here are the figures:

Harold R. Scott, (PC) 10,180.
Charles H. Elliott (Lib) 7,693.
John G. Morton (CCF) 5,869.

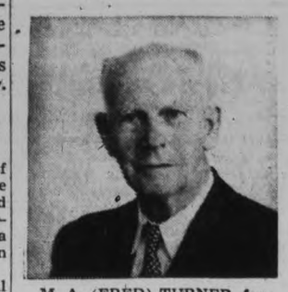
William G. Ovens, president of the Progressive Conservative Assoc., said his organization would meet in the "very near future"—probably next week—to elect a candidate and make campaign arrangements.

The guess is that Mr. Scott will be returned unanimously as the PC's choice.

Art Lewis, president of the Peterborough Liberal Assoc., said that several local Liberals were considering whether or not they would stand. The 1948 standard bearer was Charles Elliott who lost by less than 2,500 votes.

The opening gun in the campaign was fired Thursday night by the CCF party. The county executive and the political action committee of the Peterborough and District Labor Council (CIO-CCL) met to devise strategy for the coming election.

Fred Young, Toronto, the guest speaker, charged that the Frost administration was calling the election now because it is afraid of what will happen in the province by spring.



Unemployment

"Unemployment is growing and unrest is becoming daily more and more apparent," he said.

Mr. Young also charged that the calling of the election scuttled the crimes investigation committee "just when it was becoming extremely embarrassing to some highly placed people in the province."

He asked organized labor to rally behind a CCF candidate to protest against the recent decision of Mr. Justice Gale.

There will be a meeting early next week of the CCF election committee to decide on a date for a nomination convention.

M. A. (FRED) TURNER, former Peterborough man is celebrating his 91st birthday today. Mr. Turner was born in Roseneath and for some time operated a music business in the city About 30 years ago he retired and went to Los Angeles. He is now visiting his brother, Leslie Turner, 1395 Monaghan Road.

School To Use $15,000 Gift For Scholarship

A Toronto woman's bequest of $15,000 to Lakefield Preparatory School will be held in trust and the interest will be used to help set up a scholarship fund for needy boys, G. W. Smith, headmaster of the school told the Examiner today.

The bequest was included in the will of Miss Elizabeth E. Massie of Heath St. E., Toronto, filed for probate in Toronto Thursday.

Building Up Fund

Expressing his "gratitude" for the bequest, Mr. Smith said, "We are trying to build up a substantial fund to assist needy students."

This money will be a big help said Mr. Smith. "The fund was only started four or five years ago and has increased steadily until it now stands at about $25,000."

Miss Massie left the money to the school in honor of her father, the late James Massie. Some years ago, her nephew, Lorimer Massie, Mr. Massie's grandson, attended the school for a number of years.

Civil Case To Wait For Criminal Charge

TORONTO, Oct. 5 —(CP)— A Peterborough businessman Joseph Eldon Paquette, Crescent St., facing two charges of fraud, will not have to face preliminary examination in a civil action arising from the charges until the criminal action settled, Mr. Justice A. M. LeBel of the Ontario Supreme Court ruled Friday.

Paquette, a partner with Willard J. Elmsley in operation of Reliable Motor Sales, was charged with fraud involving $2,928 by Belleville Acceptance Corp., and now is on bail.

Mr. Justice LeBel agreed that if Paquette were required to oe examined in civil case before the criminal charges, his defense might be prejudiced.

County Farm Notes

By HARRY THEOBALD

East Peterborough Fair at Norwood, Monday . . . Program at South Dummer School, Tuesday, Oct. 9 . . . International Plowing Match at Woodstock, Oct. 9 to 12 . . . Farm Accidents Appear to be Increasing.

The agricultural event of next week is the Norwood Fair, on Thanksgiving Day.

If autumn comes through with a day of sunshine, it is possible that President G. A. Brethen's prediction of a 25,000 crowd may be realized. Just how he could pack them into the grounds is a challenge to conjecture.

Mr. Brethen has the backing of an energetic board of directors plus the citizens of Rork Ferguson's community, and farmers of the East Peterborough countryside. He has done a lot of travelling throughout the district on a publicity tour that has employed posters, newspapers, and radio.

They have a big program of varied attractions, as shown in the advertisements, and if the directors get favoring weather, the village will be overrun with visitors.

Norwood Fair Board have received departmental recognition for the projects they carry on during the year in the promotion of better farming practice. That story has been told, too. Their field crop competitions in oats and corn, and the demonstration of the benefits of mineral fertilizers in greater crop production stand highly to the credit of the Fair Board.

Mr. Brethen has devoted a great deal of his time and energy to these undertakings, and it is a shining fact that they have contributed a substantial amount of new wealth to the community.

That quality of initiative extends through to the Fair Day features, and altogether merits the support of the public for the broader scope of action directed by the board in the promotion of good farming in that eastern section of the county.

MILKERS AVERAGED $547

Bruce Beer of Brampton paid $540 for a milking Holstein cow at the dispersal sale of the Treylon herd of K. J. Brampton. Average for the 26 head was $493, amounting to $12,830. Fourteen milking females averaged $547. Top price was $875 for a three year old heifer.

✦ ✦ ✦

FARM ACCIDENTS

Accidents in the mechanics of farming are inherent not so much in the machines as in lack of awareness of development of casual or careless attitude and manner in their operation.

Experience of generations warned farmers against trusting the herd bull, but that source of danger has been largely diminished since artificial breeding has been adopted on thousands of farms in this province.

The tractor is a new and powerful servant of the agricultural community, but its multiple horsepower has to be handled with vigilant caution. Two accidents in the Belleville area last Saturday are typical of the possibilities of fatality and permanent disability hovering about the driver's seat.

Gordon Brennan, 15, of Desoronto, suffered the loss of his left hand, severed at the wrist. He drove his tractor up an incline approaching a CNR railway. It stalled on the track, was struck by a trafn and spun around, hurling the boy from his seat. His arm fell across a rail under the wheels of the engine.

Robert T. Cooke, 59, of Sidney township, nearly bled to death from an 18-inch gouge in his thigh when he fell from his tractor while plowing, and was pinned under it almost an hour. A neighbor happened to notice his plight and released him.

BLACK AND WHITE DAYS

Twenty-seven exhibitors of 132 Holsteins were reported from Huron county Black and White Day. The Halton show brought out 132 head from 33 herds . . . Haldimand county reported 16 exhibitors and 65 head . . . In cold and rainy weather, Simcoe had 10 exhibitors with 48 Holsteins . . . The figures for Peterborough were 107 head shown by 21 breeders.

HONOR DUMMER S.S. No. 6

A little celebration of the winning of the rural school improvement competition for the year 1950-51 is being arranged for Tuesday Oct. 9 at 2.30 p.m. at South Dummer School. This is School Section No. 6 of township area of Dummer No. 2.

This affair is also to pay some tribute to those who made the school's success possible in the provincial rural field.

✦ ✦ ✦

PLOWING DIRECTORS

Regret was expressed by directors of the Plowmen's Association Wednesday that Stewart Hall and Hanlon Payne were prevented by illness from attending the match. Active directors who were noticed included: Henry Batten, president; Frank C. Paterson, secretary; G. A. Gillespie, Alex Huston, C. E. Moore, William Thompson, Sam Killen, Cliff Curtis, Howard Quinn, Alex Carlow, Walter Burns, Clarence Laing.

✦ ✦ ✦

PROVINCIAL MATCH

Just as a reminder to farmers who may not be daunted by the motoring distance, the International Plowing Match is at the farms of John Hargreaves, near Woodstock, Oct. 9 to 12.

Another date next week is Roseneath Fair, Friday 12. It is likely that the usual large attendance may be affected by the presence at Trenton of Princess Elizabeth and her spouse the Duke of Edinburgh.

✦ ✦ ✦

SENATOR WITH PLOWMEN

Senator J. J. Duffus was warmly greeted by friends at the plowing match Wednesday on the farm of Robert Jackson, Otonabee. He is looking well again in recovery from effects of a fall at his home in which he severely strained his right shoulder, requiring hospital care and rest. The friendly spirit that animates this old association of Peterborough farmers with some citizens was indicated in the thoughtful action of G. A. Gillespie and Alex Huston who motored to the Senator's home early in the afternoon to convey him to the Jackson farm.

✦ ✦ ✦

MATCH AFTERTHOUGHTS

Both Frank Paterson and C. E. Moore see a new future of usefulness for the Plowmen's Association if more attention is diverted to demonstrations.

"I think we should make a real effort to include next year a demonstration of contour plowing," Mr. Moore said. "We know its importance in conserving topsoil, but there are still farmers who have not yet adopted it on their own farms. The match could provide an object lesson that should accomplish more than addresses and discussions."

More emphasis on tillage is Mr. Paterson's suggestion. "I think our plowing match has already turned a corner, and our members should be quick to realize it. I think they all have done so, but their conviction is not yet showing in the plowing match fields."

"Thousands go to the Interprovincial, but most of the people do not get very far from the exhibits and demonstrations. Our own association has done some good work in displaying the use of the tiller, for instance, but there is more to be done, and I think we have come to the time to take hold of it.

"Probably the match might be earlier. When several of us looked over the Jackson farm in August, Robert Jackson was plowing in a rank field of buckwheat in preparation for fall wheat. If we could arrange the match to include that kind of demonstration, I am sure we would get more general interest in the value of green manure, maintaining humus in the soil, and generally improving the quality of the land."

"I certainly would keep up competitions," Mr. Paterson said, "but we should be breaking new match ground in practical demonstrations, not only in machinery, but in soil management. We have a fine group of directors, men who are progressive and forward-looking, and who do not shirk their job. Still, we can always do more, and right now I think our match is at the crossroads."

✦ ✦ ✦

WARKWORTH CALF CLUB

Howard Evans of Percy township is leader of the boys' and girls' calf club whose final day of their year was held at Warkworth Fair.

Agricultural Representative Ralph Banbury says "there had never been a calf club at this fair until Mr. Evans took hold of it last spring. He deserves much credit for this first step in developing the young people of his community."

Standing of members on the season's work including judging, was: Denton Ward, Marie Campbell, Russell O'Dell, Eleanor Calder, Charles Calder, Irwin Greenly, Gary Newman, Wayne Pollock, Wayne Newman, David Ward, Claire Knight, Ted Ward, Don Sykes.

✦ ✦ ✦

FAIR CARRIES

Fred J. Slade and the directors of Roseneath Fair are wishing for a perfect Canadian autumn day on Friday Oct. 12 . . . for Princess Elizabeth's visit to nearby Trenton, just across the southeast corner of Northumberland county.

It is Roseneath Fair Day, last in the district, one of the latest in the province. Everything is all set with a bigger program than ever, and the opening of a new building for the display of electrical and other home appliances.

The itinerary of the Princess and Duke of Edinburgh, as originally drafted, passed along the southern front of the county a full week prior to Roseneath's Fair. Then came the serious illness of her father, His Majesty the King, bringing deep anxiety to the people of Canada, and finally an advance in his recovery enabling the heiress to the throne to resume preparations for her trip to Canada.

Spirit of Roseneath, like the rest of the country, has been so relieved by the improvement reported from the King's bedside, that the fair directors were willing to settle their Fair's prospects for just about anything. But, all the circumstances affecting it advised simply that the show must go on.

Postponement was considered, but after mid-October the weather becomes more uncertain. Anyway it was felt that many people could probably arrange to call in at Roseneath on their way back from Trenton.

The sense of loyalty in Alnwick township is as staunch as that of any other section of the province. It is a quality of the community that reaches into all their affections, and in its local affairs it explains the notable success of their agricultural association.

Their 80 directors, men and women, work the two days of the Fair without any remuneration, and in between times they maintain their exhibition property in tidiness and fresh paint that provide a continuous advertisement. They have a large investment in buildings, own and operate two merry-go-rounds, and they have been for years setting the pace in desirable attractions.

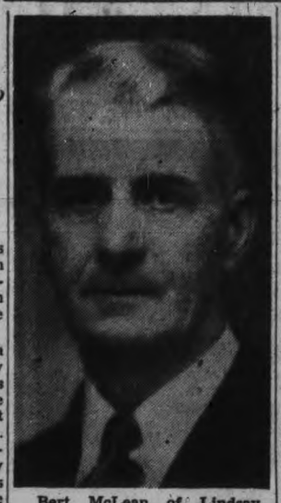
Roseneath board would not try to persuade anybody from joining in the Trenton greeting to Princess Elizabeth, but the directors will be happier than usual if their friends of other years call around some time during the day.

✦ ✦ ✦

AWARDS AT LINDSAY

Edmund Ruth of Omemee won junior, senior and grand championships in both sexes of the Dual Purpose Shorthorn section of the Lindsay Fair. He took home 19 first prizes. Herman Franks of Omemee was awarded six firsts.

In the beef Shorthon show, M. H. Pimmett & Sons of Indian River, drew twelve first prizes. Their CNE grand champion bull, Louada Barone, which also led at Peterborough, captured another grand following the award of the junior title.



Senior champion bull was in the herd of E. L. Crawford of Oro Station, who also won the grand championship in the female section.

John R. Walsh and Son of Otonabee showed the reserve junior champion bull and also reserve grand in the Hereford breed. George Rodanz of Stouffville counted 14 first prizes.

✦ ✦ ✦

BUS TRIP PROPOSED

Plans for a bus trip to Woodstock were being mentioned by some of the plowmen directors this week, but nothing definite had come out of them up to Friday morning. It was believed that at least one busload could be mustered for the Interprovincial match.

Bert McLean of Lindsay, hasn't much on G. A. Brethen of Norwood when it comes to effervescent optimism for their respective fairs. Mr. McLean conjured 100,000 for the Lindsay show, before the event, and Mr. Brethen talks of 25,000 at Norwood Monday, contingent on the weather. According to their sanguine expectations they are boosters both, convinced or operating on the policy that enthusiasm is infectious.

Maryland Dean Judge Of Holstein Show

Prof. Walter Cairns, Dean of the University of Maryland, Syracuse, will be judge of the Central Ontario Holstein championships at Morrow Park Wednesday, Oct. 17. This information comes from N. W. McConkey, who is a director of the Canadian Holstein-Friesian Association. The area comprises the counties from Simcoe to Lennox-Addington.

News relayed from Gerry Nelson, fieldman for the Association, reports that the Ontario county breeders are likely to bring 40 head. They carried off the county championship last year, and evidently intend making another strong bid for its retention.

Mr. McConkey's estimate is 200 head for this year's finals. The public is invited to this exhibition. There is no charge, and the accommodation at Morrow Park is an attractive feature. Lunch is available at noon.

Catalogues listing all the entries will be distributed, and for the guidance of spectators results and other progress comments will be announced by sound amplification.

A FLEET OF TRACTORS geared to the spirit of youth made quick work of a five-acre field on the farm of Robert Jackson, Otonabee, pastoral scene of Peterborough plowing match Wednesday. In this special utility class time was of the essence of performance. Two-furrow plows were required to turn over a half acre in 1 hr. 15 mins. Then the judge scrutinized the quality of the work. The hired man and his team have disappeared from most farms today, and the young farmers who are staying on the land are forced into the mechanics of agriculture. The absence of that usually elderly helper from every day farming, is duplicated in the plowing matches. He is gone, but youth and his machine has taken his place with surprisingly effectual accomplishment.

Ivan Begg Wins Norwood Corn Contest

Weather that was "too wet and too cold" in the early growing season was a handicap to the 1951 corn crop of Ontario, including the standing field crop competition in that grain sponsored by the Norwood Fair.

Ivan Begg finished the agricultural society's project with the top score, as decided by the judge, James T. Brown of Newcastle.

Following him in order were Clifford Sedgwick, Arnold Poole, Frank Crowley, Raymond Begg, Max Scott, Milford Parker, Robert Elliott.

They were the first eight of the 21 club members. First prize was $13, extending downward in arithmetical progression to $5, for 8th place.

Policy of Norwood Fair directors is to encourage the improvement of agricultural methods and production in their area. President G. A. Brethen writes: "Mr. Brown's chief criticism of the fields in general was that the corn was sown too thickly, with more leaves but less cobs, resulting in less tonnage and poorer quality of ensilage.

To offset broken down corn stalks, through effect of the "borer" and storms, Mr. Brown recommended a more general use in this area of hybrid corn sown one bushel to five acres.

Corn was under par this year, contrary to the general experience of big yields in wheat, spring grains and hay.

"Rag Apples" Average $971 $3,225 Top, Woodstock Vt.

J. J. E. McCague, Alliston, Ont., received the top figure of $3,225 and David R. Stevens, St. Mary's, the top price for a bull of $3,150 at the Rag Apple Roundup Sale at Woodstock, Vermont. McCague's top price was received from Sylvester Farman, Hinsdale, NH, for Glenafton Princess Louise E., a double grand-daughter of the noted seven times All-Canadian, Montvic Rag Apple Marksman.

The Stevens bull was named Stonetown Cornerstone, and was just four months old. He is sired by the $8,000 bull Cornerstone Sovereign Souvenir and his dam Rag Apple Carnation Ida was the former World Champion for fat production in the junior two-year-old class of the yearly division on three times a day milking with 985 lbs. fat from 20,628 lbs. milk. The buyer was Clayton Farms, Canaan, Conn.

The 42 animals sold realized a total of $40,800 for a general average of $971.

McCague also sold a double grandson of Marksman to S. Allen Soule and Upway Farms, Woodstock, Vt., at $1,750. C. J. Cerswell, Beeton, Ont., received $1,500 for a yearling heifer out of a Marksman daughter that went to Mallary Farm, Bradford, Vt. Mr. Creswell also sold a bull calf for $1,025 to George B. and Benjamin W. Flint, East Mansfield, Mass.

T. R. Dent, Woodstock, Ont., received $850 for a heifer that went to Upway Farms, while Albert Seiling, Elmira, Ont., received $800 for a heifer purchased by Dick Mallary, Fairlee, Vt. and Fred M. Snyder, Waterloo, Ont. received $600 for a heifer purchased by Mallary Farms.

One of the big buyers of the sale was Mrs. B. M. Hallward, North Hatley, Que. Amongst her purchases was a two-year-old daughter of Montvic Commander from Bert Thornton & Son, Thamesford, Ont, at $1,200; a heifer from Forsgate Farms, Jamesburg, NJ, at $1,050; a heifer from The Hedge, Pine Plains, NY at $1,000; and two heifers from Sunnyvale Farms, Lafayette, NJ at $700 and $600.

This sale was unique in that it brought together only animals of the Holstein breed that were exclusively of the Rag Apple bloodlines. The modern Rag Apple family was developed by T. B. Macaulay, at Mt. Victoria Farms, Hudson Heights, Que., and has spread to all parts of the world.

Surplus Red Clover Seed And Heavy Crop In Sight

A big crop of red clover seed is being harvested in Ontario, according to reports from the seed trade and from information collated from production services of Canadian and U.S. Departments of Agriculture.

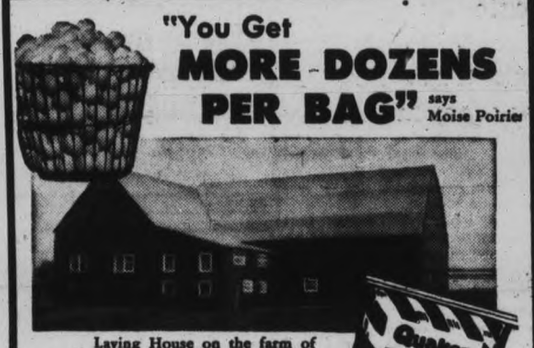
Prospects and field returns indicate the best yield in at least the last three years, with quality generally high. The present crop compares well with the excellent production of 1948 when Ontario had a substantial surplus over local requirements.

On the other hand, according to reports, the market outlook is not so favorable as it was three years ago. Then, there was a brisk demand especially for export. There was no difficulty in selling at high prices in the United States and Europe, every pound of red clover seed that Ontario could spare.

This season a large crop is reported in France and a good yield in the United States.

"Great Britain, which normally imports substantial quantities of Canadian seed, has had adverse weather causing some loss, but there still could be a fair-to-large crop, and in addition there is a heavy carryover from the record yield of red clover seed in 1949. In Canada there is a normal carryover of twenty-two million pounds as against six and one-half million pounds a year ago."

In spite of this volume of seed looming in sight, the Canadian trade is confident that the 1951 Ontario surplus can find outlets but in conditions which have changed from a seller's to a buyer's market so far as red clover is concerned. Canadian seed has a high reputation in the U.S.A., Great Britain and elsewhere because its hardiness is appreciated.



Market observers say that owing to the abundant supply, US and European buyers will be inclined to take Canadain seed only at prices competitive with their own.

The following figures from production services show the seed stocks in dealers' hands carried over as at June 30, this year (all figures in pounds):—

	CANADA		UNITED STATES
	1950	1951	1950	1951

LIES, SAYS JESSUP—Ambassador-at-large Philip C. Jessup, testifying before the Senate Foreign Relations sub-committee, brands Sen. Joseph McCarthy's charges against him as "bare-faced falsehoods, distortions and misrepresentations." At right is Jessup's legal adviser, Robert Low.

Positive Princess Bringing Crinolines Among Clothes For Canadian Tour

By MARY BURNETT

LONDON, Oct. 5—(Reuters)—Buckingham Palace dressmakers have put the last stitch and given the final touches to the clothes Princess Elizzabeth will take with her to Canada Monday.

But they will remain a closely guarded secret till the Princess and her husband, the Duke of Edinburgh, step down from the strato-cruiser which will take them across the Atlantic to begin their tour Oct. 9.

Only glimpse of the new wardrobe—specially made for the tour—that Britons will have will be the going-away outfit the Princess wears early Monday morning when her plane takes off.

Already London Airport is busy with preparations for the flight of the stratocruiser Canopus. The plane has been brushed up and partitioned to give the Royal couple privacy.

Princess Elizabeth and the Duke will take with them four servants, a maid, valet, under-butler and stenographer. Also travelling will be four attendants, including an equerry and a lady-in-waiting.

Has Big Wardrobe

The Princess will take a big wardrobe, designed for every occasion and all weather. It is expected all the boxes will be taken in the stratocruiser with her.

Fashion experts here believe the Princess' clothes are more likely to set trends for British women than Canadians, though Canadians will jump at every opportunity to see each dress, suit, coat and hat she will wear.

But the colors, worn by the Princess are likely to catch on, especially as they have been planned to suit Canadian backgrounds. The Princess will wear shades of green, including a silver spruce shade called Edinburgh green. Another of her new colors is named Elizabeth pink, with a warm glowing undertone suitable for frosty days.

Norman Hartnell and Hardy Amies, two of the top 10 British designers, have made Elizabeth's wardrobe. Hartnell has made something of everything.

Crinoline Gowns

The Princess is almost certain to wear one of his crinolines, splendid full-skirted dresses worn with jewels and the bright sashes of chivalric orders, for formal occasions.

Hartnell's crinolines are likely to be worn over collapsible hoops.

If the Princess also wears a crinoline by Amies, she will probably have an underskirt with graded horsehair hooping. Amies believs that his underskirts give a softer line.

The horsehair skirts can be laid out flat in boxes like a dress and can be ironed if they get crushed.

The Royal tour, postponed a week because of the King's illness is not likely to run into severe weather. But in case the cold should set in early, Elizabeth will have warm winter top coats and suits.

These will probably come from the workrooms of Amies, a specialist in tailored clothes.

Aage Thaarup, a Danish-born milliner, has made the Princess' tour hats.

Changes Shoe Styles

Elizabeth has often been criticized for her shoes, which in the past have sometimes been fussy, with trimmings and ankle straps, or too severe with heavy high lacing.

She will probably take with her a number of simple pumps in addition to walking shoes. They will be made by the Royal shoemaker, Edward Rayne.

The Duke will take with him business suits and evening clothes in addition to his naval uniforms. He has sometimes broken away from British convention by wearing suede shoes with evening dress and showing no handkerchief in his top jacket pocket.

The Princess will take with her on the tour many beautiful jewels, some of them set in platinum from Canadian mines. She will have a pair of matching diamond dress clips in the form of maple leaves. She will also take a diamond necklace and tiara.

Recently Princess Elizabeth had her ears pierced. The man who pierced them, Dr. Wilkinson, said today this had revived the fashion.

One item in the Princess' wardrobe which Canadians will watch out for will be the wild mink coat given to her by the Canadian Government for her marriage.

She may wear it for the flight across the Atlantic and be seen in it when she first arrives in Canada.

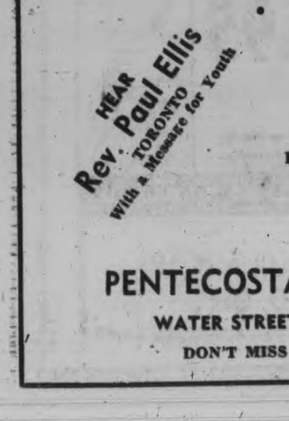
Granted GE Workers 3-Cent Wage Boost

NEW YORK, Oct. 5 (AP)—The General Electric Company granted a guaranteed 3½ cents an hour minimum wage boost and other benefits to 70,000 members of the Electrical Workers' Union (CIO) Thursday.

Agreement on a contract, ending six weeks of negotiation, erased the threat of a country-wide strike against the company. Union officials said the rank and file had voted "2 to 1" authorizing a walkout to enforce their wage demands.

The settlement, however, failed to quiet talk of an immediate work stoppage at GE's top secret Knolls Automatic Laboratory near Schenectady, NY.

Requests Asylum



MONTREAL, Oct. 5—(CP)—Dr. Mitoslav Marek, commercial attache to the Czechoslovakia consulate general here, said Thursday night he has resigned his post and will request the Canadian government to grant him asylum. Dr. Marek decided to break with Communist-dominated Czechoslovakia, it was learned, when the government asked him to return to Prague for "consultation" a few days ago.

WINNIPEG, Oct. 5—(CP)—Winnipeg ballet's command performance Oct. 16 for Princess Elizabeth and Prince Philp will be filmed in color by the National Film Board, ballet officials here announced Thursday. Theatre audiences across Canada will see the scenes in a film to be released by the board which will record the entire tour on color film.

Need Happiness In Labor Relations

KITCHENER, Oct. 5 (CP)—Dr G. E. Hall, president of the University of Western Ontario, said Thursday night that happiness should be a goal in labor relations.

Addressing the 65th annual banquet of the Kitchenr Chamber of Commerce, he said:

"Every person in this world deserves a happy life. The keynote of labor-management relations should be happiness for the individual and the community. If this were accomplished, the self-respect of the individual would be assured and so would the future of free enterprise."

Alarming Losses In Canada Call For Greater Fire Prevention

Written for The Canadian Press
By CMDR. C. A. THOMSON
Dominion Fire Commissioner

OTTAWA, Oct. 5—(CP)—Fire loss in Canada last year, rising to the highest in history, exacted a grim toll in human life. Much of the suffering, destruction and death could have been prevented. It is up to all Canadians to see that this story is not repeated.

That is the purpose of Fire Prevention Week, Oct. 7-13—to teach Canadians to be more careful, to make thorough inspections of basements and attics, to watch for uncleaned stovepipes and chimneys, faulty electrical wiring, piles of rubbish and oily rags.

Any of these and other hazards may bring the terror of fire to your home. Last year, Canada's loss through fire amounted to more than $90,000,000 in property alone; 420 men, women and children were burned to death and about 1,500 others were injured.

Fire has scarred our history and economy. Year by year, losses are increasing. Whole communities have been laid waste. Many years ago it was Chicago when a cow kicked over a kerosene lamp and set the city on fire. Last year it was Rimouski and Cabano, Que.

Great Fire Losses

During the last 10 years, when the country was attempting to conserve and maintain its national wealth and prosperity fire struck more than 500,000 times, destroying $490,000,000 in property, bringing death to 3,897 persons and injuries to another 15,000.

The Governor-General, Viscount Alexander, has emphasized this in a proclamation on Fire Prevention Week. He has pointed out that humanitarian and economic considerations demand that human life and resources be conserved and prosperity be maintained.

To Inspect Homes

You can help prevent fire. During Fire Prevention Week, fire chiefs and firemen in every community, with the assistance of 110,000 Boy Scouts and Cubs, have undertaken to inspect every dwelling. They will ask you a few simple questions on fire hazards in your home. Answer the questions carefully. Protect your home by making quick changes if hazards are found.

Each year, top cities in Canada and the United States compete against each other for top spots on fire prevention and clean-up reports. Last year 127 Canadian municipalities gained merit awards.

Five of them — Sherbrooke, Hull, Ottawa, Port Alfred and Arvida—were graded 90 per cent and over. Another 42 cities and towns were given a special merit grade of 80 to 90 per cent. The Canadian Chambers of Commerce, Boards of Trade and Canadian Legion and service clubs are assisting in the organization and operation of fire prevention committees in your community. Help them and help your community get top marks in this critically-important contest.

Certain Weaknesses

An analysis of 1950 fires shows that there are certain weaknesses in some Canadian structures which help fire spread. These include ineffective fire walls, weak outer walls, air conditioning ducts which help transport fire; insufficient water supplies, partial and shut-off sprinkler and poorly-designed and maintained automatic systems; insufficient equipment and manpower in public fire departments and poor fire protection training.

Any Canadian citizen can get pamphlets and other literature to show him the proper handling of approved materials to fight fires. He can get wth little or no cost a standard fire code covering the manufacture storage and operation and handling of materials; a dwelling construction code or a Canadian electrical code merely by going to his fire chief, or the provincial or dominion fire authority, or his fire insurance company.

If you have any problems, discuss them with your fire chief. He'll give you the kind of advice you need—advice that may prevent suffering and destruction to your doorstep.

Brokers' Inquiry Hearing AdjournedWeek

TORONTO, Oct. 5—(CP)—The Ontario Legislature Crime Committee adjourned Thursday after hearing charges by E. B. Joliffe, Ontario CCF leader, that the United States Securities Exchange Commission was discriminating in favor of certain Canadian broker dealers.

The committee, apopinted last spring to investigate the administration of justice in Ontario, adjourned its hearing until Oct. 15. But dissolution of the Legislature because of the Nov. 22 provincial election automatically disbands the committee.

O. B. Lennox, chairman of the Ontario Securities Commission, testified before the committee Thursday.

Mr. Joliffe, questioning him, said that 10 or more Canadian broker-dealers engaged in large-scale mailings to persons in the United States never had a US cease-and-desist order issued against them.

Mr. Lennox agreed that this might be so but denied that the SEC was showing favoritism in its treatment of Canadian broker-dealers. He said that SEC orders to Canadian dealers to stop soliciting in the US were issued on the basis of information gathered in Toronto.

"This information is frequently biased or misleading," said Mr. Lennox. "I wouldn't say there is as much discrimination in the present orders as there was in March, 1950."

The securities chairman told the committee that members of the public had benefitted from the Crime Committee hearings. They had become better informed on the "securities picture" and showed more care in buying.

Wins $1,025 Damages For False News Story

VANCOUVER, Oct. 5—(CP)—In British Columbia Supreme Court Thursday, Mr. Justice H. S. Wood awarded Mrs. Yvonne Guay, of Vancouver, $1,025 damages against The Sun Publishing Company Limited.

The award is for anguish and injury to health Mrs. Guay claimed she suffered as a result of an erroneous report published in The Sun three years ago that her husband and three children had been killed in a crossing accident in Ontario.

This is believed to be the first case in which a newspaper has been held liable for publishing a falsehood without malice.

Mrs. Guay was separated from her husband and claimed she was unable to ascertain for three weeks that the report, stated to have been sent by her husband's brother in Ontario to another brother in Vancouver, was false.

Every Institute should keep their Tweedsmuir Histories up to date—they are the records for future generations. Make use of the government bulletins which are free on request. Be interested in the work of the local school and strive for better school facilities. Make use of travelling libraries; sponsor junior homemaking clubs; welcome new Canadians; establish playgrounds for children take care of neglected cemeteries; sponsor entertainments of a cultural type and above all try to develop a more abundant life in rural communities; always striving for a better understanding between urban and suburban residents." Other items on the program were a reading by Mrs. Finney, Thanksgiving; a solo by Mrs. T. THE EXPERTS SAY:

Suggest Tasty Apple Dishes To Tickle Family's Palate

By KAY REX
Canadian Press Staff Writer

The apple parade has begun.

Gravensteins and Wealthies are just a few of the varieties mother can buy for cooking these days. McIntosh and Snows—the eating favorites—also are plentiful. More kinds will appear as the season advances.

Canada's Department of Agriculture has wrapped up some 20 apple recipes in a small gay booklet shaped suitably enough as a big red apple.

First of all there's apple crumble—a tasty dish with crisp biscuit top.

Ingredients: Four cups sliced apples (six medium); three to four tablespoons sugar; cinnamon; one-quarter cup shortening (part butter); three quarters cup brown sugar; one-half cup flour or one-quarter cup flour and one-half cup fine rolled oats; one-quarter teaspoon salt.

Place sliced apples in greased baking-dish and sprinkle with sugar and cinnamon. Cream shortening and brown sugar together. Blend in flour, salt and rolled oats (if used). Sprinkle mixture on top of fruit. Bake in a moderately hot oven (375 degrees Fahrenheit) until fruit is soft and top is golden brown. (About 40 minutes). Yield six servings.

Interesting Relish

Apple chutney is a relish that home economists of the department's consumer section have found to their liking.

Ingredients: 12 apples (12 cups chopped); two cups cidar vinegar; one cup raisins; one tablespoon salt; one teaspoon ground ginger; one teaspoon cinnamon; one large onion; four stalks celery (three cups chopped); two cups sugar; one-half teaspoon pepper; one-eighth teaspoon ground cloves.

Wash, quarter and core, but do not peel, apples. Chop apples, onion, celery and raisins. Add vinegar and pepper. Cook slowly one hour, stirring often. Add other ingredients. Cook until very thick. Seal in sterilized jars. Yield: about 2½ pints.

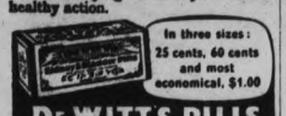
Salad Days

Apple salad is another dish recommended in the department booklet.

Core six apples. Scoop out the pulp to make apple cups. Fill a bowl with cold water and as each apple cup is made, put the cup in the water.

Dice enough celery to equal one-half apple pulp. Mix celery and apple pulp with one cup cottage or cream cheese. Blend with salad dressing.

Dry apple cups and fill with mix. Serve on crisp beds of lettuce.



Apple butterscotch sauce is recommended for steamed fruit puddings or hot gingerbread.

Ingredients: One-quarter cup butter; three-quarters cup brown sugar; three tablespoons cornstarch; pinch of salt; one cup apple juice; one cup water.

Melt butter. Blend in sugar, cornstarch and salt. Cook until mixture is slightly browned. Add apple juice and water and cook, stirring constantly until sauce thickens. Cook five minutes.

Shearer Does Not Plan Comeback

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD, Oct. 5—(AP)—Norma Shearer says she isn't planning a comeback, "because I never have retired."

Miss Shearer, one of the top names in Hollywood during the '20s and '30s, hasn't made a picture in almost a decade.

Rumors of her return to acting started last week when she played a dramatic role on a radio show.

No Desire

"The radio performance was merely a lark," she told me. "It was a very pleasant one, indeed, and I enjoyed myself immensely. But I have no desire to return to acting on a full-time basis.

"I have never had any notion about a comeback. I hate the word.

"I never retired. I merely decided I wanted to devote my time to other interests. I have read a lot of scripts since then, and I still do. But so far I haven't found anything that excited me enough to want to return."

Miss Shearer, who is as glamorous today as she was on the screen, added that she doesn't know how she could have found time for film work. Her life has been full. She has done a great deal of travelling with her husband, ski-minded Marty Arouge.

Among Miss Shearer's prime interests are her two children Katie, 16, has been taking her schooling abroad. Her son, Irving Thalberg, Jr., is studying at the Sorbonne in Paris.

MARMORA CHAPTER

The Marmora IODE met in their club room with a small attendance.

The meeting opened with the Regent, Mrs. Wm. Regan presiding.

The Regent extended thanks to all who had helped in the various enterprises of the Chapter since its last meeting.

Mrs. Helen Jones reported on the library work in which the Chapter has united with the Marmora Women's Institute in the procuring of blinds and curtains.

Mrs. R. G. Walsh mentioned that Mrs. Dorothy Walton had been secured as speaker for the November meeting.

Three projects the Chapter would like to undertake, were introduced: the purchase of a new flag for the High School, 500 tulip bulbs and venetian blinds. It was decided that the flag and bulbs should be purchased and that quotations on prices of blinds be secured.

Post-War convenor Mrs. H. Brady moved that $5.00 be sent to England for food parcels.

Much thought was given to the matter of the change of the name "Royal Mail" to "Canada Mail" in the new postal regulations. It was decided to send a letter to the local Member of Parliament on the matter.

Miss Cecelia Towns read a very interesting account of all the different visits of royalty to Canada. The meeting closed with the National Anthem after which lunch was served.

Summers, assisted by Mrs. Lewis, Mrs. Laing and Mrs. C Weldon presented program two of the study book, "The Church of the Far-flung Frontiers." It was presented in a report and story illustration showing how the student missionaries man the outposts, how the Sunday school goes into isolated homes by mail and air, and how little ships carry the Gospel message to lonely folk on shores and inlets of our widely scattered coastal areas.

IODE Instructs On Proposing Toast to the King

TORONTO, Oct. 5—(CP)—For those who will be proposing a toast to the King during the coming Royal tour, the Imperial Order Daughters of the Empire has some timely instruction.

The chairman rises, the IODE says, brings his audience to attention, asks them to rise and drink a toast to His Majesty. At this, the audience should rise.

The chairman then says: "Ladies and gentlemen, the King."

Then, and only then, the instructions add, is the glass lifted from the table, held at eye level for a moment, then one sip of the liquid is taken and the words, "The King" repeated before the glass is returned to the table.

Glasses are never clinked. Guests must not smoke before the toast has been proposed. It is not correct to sing or play the National Anthem.

The instructions add that the toast may be proposed with water.

Charming Blonde Guards Bank Vault

TORONTO (CP) — Custodian of a bank's safety deposit vaults is a job you'd think for a hefty fellow with a gun in his belt. But in the newly-opened Bank of Nova Scotia building it belongs to Grace Olafson, a charming blonde from Western Canada.

Grace—she's 30—took over the job in 1948, after a year in the bank's clearing and remitting department. Now she sits in a room whose walls are of two-inch bullet-proof glass. Near her is a 55-ton door which opens at the press of a button and is the entrance to what is believed the first atomic blast proof vault on the continent. Forty feet above her mill the crowds which daily move through Toronto's downtown business section.

This slight, good-natured girl, whose outdoor activities include golf and skating, confesses she was "very nervous" at first about the importance of her job. But she soon got over that. And you "meet a lot of nice people" in a job like this, she said.

As vault custodian it's her duty to see that contracts for leases of safety deposit boxes are signed. In addition she admits customers to the vaults and makes certain that no one gets the wrong safety-box key.

One Worry

"I've always had a horror of something like that happening," she said. "I've read about it in newspapers—but is has never happened to me—it could certainly cause a lot of trouble."

"In case of a customer's death," she explained, "succession duties officials come in to list the contents of the safety deposit box. It's my duty to check the list with them and make sure everything is properly replaced."

She recalled that one day the officials came in to list the contents of a box which was discovered to be crammed with torn bits of newspapers, rags and other refuse.

"Why anyone would rent a safety deposit to keep waste paper is still a mystery," she said.

Born in Riverton, Man., Grace spoke her grandparents' native Icelandic before she could speak English. But she says she has forgotten most of it now.

Her first job was taking orders for the Hudson's Bay Company coal office in Winnipeg. Then she decided to come to Toronto.

Thanksgiving Dinner On Train

MONTREAL, Oct. 5—A Canadian Thanksgiving dinner, the first in their experience, will be available for their Royal Highnesses aboard the Royal train next Monday if they desire it.

J. E. Lemieux, the veteran Canadian National Railways chef who is catering to the Royal visitors through their rail tour, is prepared to serve a typical holiday dinner featuring roast turkey with dressing, cranberry sauce and pumpkin pie.

However, as menus for the Prince and Princess will be prepared daily for their approval throughout the tour, the Thanksgiving dinner on Monday is but one of a number of suggestions that will be submitted to them. Other suggestions will include fish, pork and lamb for main courses while English plum pudding, hot mince pie, fruit sunday and cheese will be available in addition to the traditional pumpkin pie.

NEW HOP CROP

LILLOOET, BC—(CP)—First commercial hop crop here is being harvested, with a yield of about 14,000 pounds from fields planted by a commercial company. This figures out to 1½ bales of 200 pounds each to the acre, but next year the company expects to get from 10 to 15 bales an acre.

Then $17.00 an ounce!

Ninety-three years ago, Queen's University, Kingston, gave a medal to its first graduate in chemistry. The medal was made of aluminum—which then cost $17.00 an ounce.

Today aluminum costs only slightly over one cent an ounce.

The price has been brought down by mass production in huge plants using the electrolytic process discovered twenty-eight years after the Queen's medal was presented.

By developing some of Canada's waterpower, previously running to waste, Alcan has succeeded in making this country the world's most efficient producer of aluminum, giving employment to many thousands of Canadians and through exports of "packaged power" aiding Canadians in acquiring the imports needed here. Working Hours Can Cause Cramp In One's Social Life

DEAR MISS DIX: I am 32 years old, single, and going with a girl 31. This is my problem. As I am one of the unfortunate fellows who has to work for a living, I am compelled to work shifts on a rotating schedule. I only have one week end off a month. The week ends I'm working, she absolutely refuses to stay home Saturday nights. I spend all my evenings off with her, but as I don't have too many free evenings, she still goes out with other friends. This bothers me a lot because I really love her. I want to get married, but she insists on waiting until I have some money saved. She goes out with girl friends, and claims I am just plain jealous as there's no one else who means anything to her but me.

H. S.

Dorothy Dix

ANSWER: What is so "unfortunate," pray, about having to work for a living? Work is the greatest blessing we have. It should not be regarded merely as a means to an end—a way to earn money for continued existence. Rather, it is an end in itself. One of the things that lifts man to the stature he enjoys in the animal kingdom is the ability to feel pride in the accomplishment of a job, no matter how lowly.

Job Comes First

Even though your working hours do cut into your opportunities for dating, don't deprecate your work. It is only natural for you to feel resentment over the fact that you can't spend as much time with your girl friend as you would like. It is also natural for her to want to go out some evenings, especially Saturday, rather than spend them all alone. Since her companions are female, you have no cause for jealousy. Until you are (1) in a position favorable, in her opinion, for matrimony, or (2) able to secure more stable working hours, you can do little except coast along with conditions as they are.

✧ ✧ ✧

DEAR DOROTHY DIX: We are three office girls who would appreciate your advice on the following:

First. When on a date is it necessary and proper to be home at 12 o'clock? Second. What about dating your employer or others you work with? Third. What about going to young men's apartments?

SALLY, MARY, FLOSSIE

ANSWER: First. As you are a business girl and your advancement depends upon your efficiency and keeping your good health and being always wide awake, you should be at home by 12 o'clock on most nights in order that you may get your proper amount of sleep.

Second. If your employer is a single man, or the men you work with are single men, it is all right to date them, but if they are married men, hands off. They bode you no good, as they used to say in the old melodramas.

Third. Going to young men's apartments is something a decent girl does not do. A girl not only has to be good, but she has to look good. You might spend your time in the young man's apartment holding a prayer meeting, but you would never be able to convince the world of it. It would always believe the worst of you. So stay away, and keep your skirts clean.

✧ ✧ ✧

DEAR MISS DIX: My boy friend recently joined the Marines and people are telling me I'm crazy to be true to him because he won't be faithful to me. He promised me he would always be true, no matter what happened. I have never had cause to distrust him, and we really love each other. Should I listen to these people?

JOAN

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: If you trust your boy friend at home, there's no reason why you shouldn't show equal faith when he's away. It's true, boys away from home, whether in the service or not, are exposed to more temptations than when they are safe beneath the family roof, but such things are part of life' experience, and resisting them serves only to strengthen character. You, too, may be tempted to go with other boys while your friend is away. Will you remain true in all circumstances? Of course you will, and so will he. Tell your meddling friends to mind their own business.

What's Right?

You want your child to have good manners.

WRONG: Let him say "Yeah" to grown-ups.

RIGHT: Teach him to say "Yes, Mrs. Smith" and "Yes, Sir" and "No, Sir."

Trust To Knowledge, Not To Luck When Buying Diamond, Says Expert

By GAILE DOUGLAS
NEA Woman's Editor

NEW YORK—Are you, at this moment, wearing a diamond? Or, do you own one that's tucked away in a safe place? Chances are good that the answer to one or both questions is yes.

When you bought that diamond, how much did you know about it? And how much do you really know about it now? Are you absolutely sure of its color, perfection, brilliancy, cut and weight?

Probably not. Most people stagger through the purchase of a diamond blindly, trusting to luck and what they think is their own good judgment. Some never buy diamonds at all because they're afraid to take the risk involved in such an important purchase.

Five Factors

All of this, according to diamond expert Louis S. Weber, is unnecessary. Anyone can familiarize himself with diamonds to the extent that he'll know exactly what he's getting. Born in Vienna, Louis Weber is a member of a family of diamond merchants. Now in New York, he often is called on to settle the matter when dealers cannot agree on the price of a stone.

In his recently published book, "Buying a Diamond? Know How!" Louis Weber rates the five factors that determine the value of a diamond in this order: first, color; second, perfection; third, brilliancy; fourth, cut; fifth, weight.

In judging color; you'll find the term "blue-white" misleading as applied to the average stone. The blue-white and the colorless white diamonds are very rare and therefore, extremely costly. Best protection here is to learn the color classifications thoroughly. You'll learn, too, that as the color of the average diamond increases, its value decreases. The exception here is the very rare, very fine colored diamond.

Perfection is one of the most important factors affecting the price of a diamond. But it applies only to the flaws within a stone and cannot be used in connection with cut, color or brilliancy. Yet, a diamond does not have to be perfect to be a fine stone. If an imperfection is out of sight when the stone is set and thus doesn't interfere with its beauty, it is considered unimportant.

Brilliance Gives Sparkle

The brilliance of the diamond give it its sparkle. Seen from the top, the stone should appear to be packed with dense, overlapping rays of colored scintillation that appear to be welling up from the bottom of the stone. Any break in these rays affects the brilliancy and decreases the stone's worth.

The cut of diamond that you pick is largely a matter of personal taste. But a round diamond can be cut to greater beauty and brilliance than any other. In judging cut, look for pleasing proportion, so that the diamond looks well-balanced when compared to other stones and so that the pattern of brilliancy within the stone is not broken.

Diamonds smaller than a carat are measured in points one hundred to the cart. The metric carat itself is equal to exactly one-fifth of a gram. The price per carat of a diamond goes up, of course, as the overall weight of the stone increases.

Once you have learned all that you can about the five factors controlling the value of a diamond, pick the concern from which you buy with care. And beware of high-pressure sales methods or installment buying. For there are, as Mr. Weber explains, no "bargains" in diamonds.

MARY MOORE SAYS:

Making Waffles For Two And Canning Of Rhubarb

QUESTION: I wonder if you would please send me the recipe for canning rhubarb the way the lady speaks of in the clipping. I have been trying to get this recipe for a long time and can't imagine how I missed it as your column is a "must" with me. Thanking you for all the wonderful advice you give us. I really enjoy your articles. P.S.—Have you a recipe for waffles, one with small measurements suitable for a family of two?—Mrs. A. H. B.

ANSWER:

Canned Rhubarb

Pare or do not pare rhubarb, just as you wish, but have it perfectly clean, and cut into 1-inch pieces. Pack into clean jars, put under cold water faucet and let cold water run through it for 20 minutes. That is, 20 minutes for each jar canned. Screw on tops, having rubbers on too. Rhubarb canned in this way has kept for me until spring, but we have a rather cold section in our basement. The reader you refer to says hers keeps in her attic closet, so you could try some stored cold and at room temperature and see how they work out.

Waffles (recipe for two people)

One cup flour, 1½ teaspoons baking powder, ¼ teaspoon salt, tablespoon sugar, 7-8 cup milk, 1 egg, 2 or 3 tablespoons melted butter or margarine. Sift dry ingredients; gradually add beaten egg yolk, milk and butter. Fold in stiffly beaten white. Have waffle iron heated to "bake" temperature and pour 1 tablespoon of butter near centre of each section. Bake until golden brown and crisp.

QUESTION: I don't know how I missed your whole wheat bread recipe, for I have been on the lookout for one as we like that type of bread. I have just recently been making our bread as we cannot digest the baker's bread. I usually take wheat germ with my cereal in the morning . . . I have tried to get whole wheat in the big stores, also one of the food stores, but they don't stock it, so they say. I would like recipe for white bread, also wholemeal. Wish to add wheat germ to the bread.—Kate R.

ANSWER:

Emem's Whole Wheat Bread

Fluff the whole wheat flour with your hand before measuring 18 cups into a very large mixing bowl. Scald 4½ cups skim milk, then cool to lukewarm. To this add 3 tablespoons peanut butter or salad oil or 4½ tablespoons melted margarine, ½ cup powdered skim milk, 2 tablespoons salt, ¾ cup Barbados molasses (do not use strong dark molasses), 3 eggs. (On farms where there are ducks, you may use 2 duck eggs instead of 3 hens' eggs.) Beat the milk mixture well. Dissolve 3 packages quick-acting granular yeast in 1½ cups lukewarm water and 1 tablespoon molasses for 10 minutes, add to milk mixture, then mix this liquid into the flour. This is sticky and messy to handle, but it is better nevertheless to knead it the first time in the bowl. Cover and stand in warm place to rise, till, when it is pressed very lightly with a finger, a dent is left in the dough. This takes about 2 hours and rises 2½ to 3 times its original size. Now punch down the dough, loosen it from sides of bowl onto whole-wheat floured board and knead until dough is satiny—about 25 to 30 turns of the dough. Divide into equal parts, fold each under until you have even-looking loaves. Put into greased loaf pans, cover, and let rise again, till another dent is left in the loaf—about ¾ to 1 hour. It must rise sufficiently this time. Bake at 365 deg. Fahr. until bread is free from sides of pan, on centre rack of oven. Remove and cool at once on rack.

(Answer to request for white bread will be in on Saturday.)

Train Cooks For Restaurants

CALGARY—(CP)—The secret of good restaurant cooking is small-lot cooking done often, says Mrs. R. A. Denny, director of the restaurant management classes at the Provincial Institute of Technology and Art in Calgary.

Officially termed "rotation cooking" the method guarantees that the eggs you eat at 8:30 in the morning were not cooked at 6 a.m. and left to harden until you were ready for breakfast.

The problem that is bothering Mrs. Denny is that she has not enough students to fill positions offered to her graduates. "People want qualified and trained personnel," she said.

The classes, begun in 1949 teach all sides of the restaurant busines. They include bookkeeping, staff handling and public relations, efficient equipment arrangements, and legal aspects (leases, payments, labor and so on.)

Cost control in all its forms is stressed.

Students spend six hours a day from Oct. 1 to May 24 in the course. During this time they work 600 hours in the "shop"—the school cafeteria and snack bar. All the preparation, ordering, bookkeeping and storekeeping is handled by the students.

Two hours a day are spent in theory work or in field trips to city restaurants.
